Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awakes, although I have read many of the letters. Of all my pets, I like my dog best. His name is Prince. He is a collie. Prince has light brown hair with a little white spot on his head and a white chest. Prince loves to play with my sister and I.

A Feast for the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: One cold day last month as my mother and I were sitting by the window, we saw a great many birds flying by to the garbage cans to look for food. We watched them while they hopped on the top of the cans pecking here and there at bits of crumbs which had been thrown there. Then my mother went into the pantry and soon came with a pan of bread crumbs and went and threw them out in the back yard.

By and by two birds fluttered to the ground right where the bread crumbs had been thrown and they pecked away as fast as they could for fear someone might see them and frighten them away. All of a sudden a whole mass of birds fluttered to the ground and they, too, joined in with the two birds who had been eating for some time.

The crumbs began to decrease gradually and so did the birds, but once in a while a bird would fly down to the spot and hop about looking for more, but would soon fly away again. That day my mother and I had a fine treat watching those birds and ever since then we threw more crumbs out and more birds come down to get them.

Squaw Rocks.

Dear Uncle Jed: Located about two and a half miles south of Danielson is a ledge of rocks called Squaw Rocks. These rocks attract many visitors from various places in New England.

The Nipmuck Indians at one time occupied this territory. These rocks are said to have been a favorite resort of these Indians in winter time. The caves afforded warm and comfortable shelter from the fierce storms and biting northern winds.

Squaw Rocks extend north and south some 30 rods. The ridge at the highest point on the left is nearly 100 feet in height. Near the highest point is a formation of rocks known as the Devil's Coins, which is about 10 feet long, 7 feet wide and 20 feet long. A few feet below this, and reached by climbing through a covered passageway, is a large cave, wholly in the rocks, called the Old Lady's Armchair. The tallest man can here stand upright, while the Old Lady's Armchair invites the visitor to a comfortable seat. Not far from the Old Lady's Kitchen is a flat rock known as the Dancing Floor and from this we get a view of the cliff with its wild jagged boulders. Near the Dancing Floor is the Fiddler's Stand, sometimes called Pulpit Rock. This is a very large boulder which is balanced in a very delicate manner.

At a point farther to the north, reached by the Sheep Path and passing the Toboggan Slide, is the entrance to a cave which has a special fascination. It has two openings from without which lead into a good sized room. Several parties have explored until the lights which they were obliged to carry went out.

Good Old Martha.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Martha who was a very old lady, but she was the kindest old woman in Greenerville. Everyone loved her, and old Martha loved everyone, too.

When the children of the village went to school early in the morning, Martha was always up long before them and had begun getting their lunch read for them. Good old Martha, she worked so hard to help others and make them happy. The mothers of all the children did not have to see their children's lunches because Martha always did.

You may be sure that Martha gave the children good things to eat, too. She never received a single dollar, and each child had a different thing in his or her basket.

Every night, too, when the children came home from school, Martha would have some nice fresh butter and some newly baked bread to send to their mother. But don't think that that was all that good old Martha did, because every Saturday she had a party for all the children in the village, and the mothers came to most of the parties too.

When Martha finally died she had her grave in the little churchyard of Greenerville where she had started it, and the people of the village planted flowers on her grave.

Oh, what a lovely story it would be if we could all be like Martha.

Alice's Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes: This is the second time I have written to you. So some [illegible] will enjoy reading it. I [illegible] Alice's cat. It was all white and she called it her pet. One day Alice lost her cat so she asked her brothers to help her find it, but they couldn't find it anywhere. At last they gave up all hope of finding the cat. Alice was very sad because it was a present from Uncle George.

One day after Alice's brother, Fred, was working in the barn when he heard the cat meow! He lifted up one of the planks. There was Snowball. He took the cat back to Alice. She was very glad to see her pet again.

Feeding the Birds.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you how I fed the birds. I put corn and oats out for them. The other day I put a pan of about twenty pounds in the field close by my house. I put a bag of grass seed and mixed it with other grain for them to eat.

I love to see the dear birds back again. I shall be well paid for feeding them by hearing their merry songs when it comes [illegible] time.

TROLLEY TRAFFIC HELD UP AT STATE STREET TERMINAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1.—There was a vexatious mix-up of trolley cars at the terminus on State street Saturday evening when nearly a dozen cars were stalled for a period of nearly an hour. The Norwich trolley car reaching this city at 6.45 left the tracks just after it turned into State street. The rails sag there and the heavy steel car went off on the pavement. Work was begun to put the car back on the irons, but before the labor could be accomplished the 7.15 car from Norwich rolled in and that too went off the irons. Then there was a mix-up that was vexatious, for it tied up traffic for an hour or thereabouts. The cars on the main line of the city trolley as well as those of the Jefferson avenue and Groton lines were stopped from making progress. They were forced to delay operation till the derailed cars were put back on the rails. Main line cars and the Groton and Jefferson avenue cars were stopped either side of the interrupted cars and passengers were transferred.

The Easter parade in which fashions were displayed in this city was the equal to any that has been in evidence when the weather was much milder than it is today. The day was bright and clear though the temperature hung around 25 degrees. At all the churches the attendance was very large. Indeed it has rarely been larger. In the lines of worshippers were displayed the latest fashions, new hats, new gowns, shoes and furs being much in evidence. Even a few straw sailor hats of elaborate design were seen, but most of the hats were the peculiar shaped things that will be worn during the early spring and into the summer. They disclosed a variety of colors in straw and ribbon, but blue and gray or mauve were the predominating shades, the colors contrasting strongly with dark furs. The promenade was along State street and Broad and Huntington streets, through Bank street and Montauk avenue were not neglected. At some of the churches there was a demand for seats at the morning services that was barely met.

At the Easter services of Palestine Commandery in the Masonic temple the attendance was limited to the capacity of the lodge room. The address was delivered by Rev. J. Ronayn Danforth and the Tempo quartette of Hartford rendered vocal selections. The pledging of the faith by the members of the commandery was an impressive feature of the ceremonies.

Behind a close board fence on Bank street, it was learned this morning that tenants in the house adjoining were in the habit of dumping the ashes from the stoves in the building. In the ashes were some ten per cent of unburned coal and which sifted would be as good as ever for fuel. When it is remembered that coal costs more than $17 a ton the extravagance of the people who placed the ashes was apparent.

John Rehn, who was for a long time employed by The Brainard & Armstrong company at their mill in this city, and who then resided on Grand street, is dead at East Stroudsburg, Pa., where he was employed by a silk mill. His body will be brought to this city Monday and interred in Jordan cemetery. He is survived by his wife and two brothers, Henry and John. Mr. Rehn died at the home of Henry Rehn.

As a suggestion for the relief of traffic congestion on Bank street it is proposed that when North Bank street is extended through to Main street that the trolley cars be sent from Bank street to Main by way of North Bank street. That would relieve traffic on Bank street on the south side of State street and it would end much of the congestion on State street between Bank and Main streets. Cars could come south over the same route that they would go to the north and there would be freedom for the manipulation of cars going west from Bank street. The phase of business on North Bank street has entirely changed since the advent of prohibition, for there is no saloon upon that street now, clothing and drygoods stores and restaurants displacing them.

Mumps, measles and whooping cough are still prevalent in New London, but the number of cases is very few.

The steamer Canadian Ranger is at the state pier loading with automobiles that are to be taken to Australia and there put into use. The autos are crated and there is something like a thousand of them in the cargo the Ranger will take away. The gang of men at work on the transfer of the autos from flat cars to the ship say the pier is the coldest place they ever labored in, for the wind has a sweep of the pier without anything to shut it off. The autos are of every make and of all sizes.

A considerable part of the cargo of the steamer Texan is said to have been stolen while the ship was in distress over on the north side of Block Island when she went on the rocks there. The police of this city was busy a couple of days hunting for the plunder removed from the ship. The officers found cases of corsets, rubber boots and shoes hidden on the lighters and on shore, but no arrests were made as the purpose was to recover the stolen property rather than to prosecute those who stole it. The task of finding the thieves would have been no easy one either for there were scores of men at work around the ship and they all had the opportunity of taking the goods had they been so disposed. The Texan is now at New York where a survey of the ship will be made to ascertain her damage and to take inventory of the cargo for the insurance company.

Lawrence O'Connell of No. 142 Winthrop street, complained to the police late Saturday that his little daughter had been attacked and bitten by a dog owned by Matthew Keenan of No. 143 Winthrop street. Besides being bitten the child's clothing was torn. The complaint was turned over to Dog Warden Sweezy for investigation.

Owners of cottages at Ocean beach continue to be neglectful in securing the entrances to the places, making it an easy matter for thieves and vandals to enter them, a practice that has been employed at the shore resort to a large extent the past few weeks. The latest cottage to be found open is that of Joseph Schwartz, whose place was found open at No. 51 Park street Saturday night by Patrolman John P. Sullivan.

The condition of Captain of Police Charles A. Putney, who underwent an operation several weeks ago at the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital for hernia, has so far improved that he will probably resume his duties some time next week.

Daniel Casey of No. 74 Garfield avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that a battery had been stolen from his automobile. Casey placed has car in the garage late last night and this afternoon when he went to the place to take the machine for a short trip, he discovered the place had been entered and the battery taken. There was no evidence of the place having been forced and it is believed that the thief entered the stall where Casey's car was stored from another still in the same building.

Edward Sevine of No. 65 Colman street, complained to the police Saturday night that he left his bicycle on Bank street for a brief time and while he absented himself a thief made away with the cycle.

The marital troubles of two New London couples are scheduled to be aired in the police court tomorrow morning, for today the wives secured the arrest of their husbands, alleging that the latter failed to properly support the households. One of the accused husbands is Philip C. Chamberlain, a towerman in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. The other is Frank E. Coombs of No. 23 Pearl street.

The condition of Mrs. L. Tracy Sheffield of Ocean avenue, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, several days ago, is gradually improving an it is believed that she will be able to return to her home some time next week.

The weekly session of the city council will take place tomorrow evening and it is believed that only matters of a routine nature will be handled. Mayor Murray will probably be unable to preside because of his weakened condition following his illness of pleurisy.

Tug Elmer Keeler, which went on the rocks off Bartlett's Reef several nights ago during a gale and at which time one of her barges went to the bottom of the sound, is still fast although a wrecking fleet of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Company worked all day in an effort to float the craft. Pontoons have been placed under the tug and an attempt will be made to float her tomorrow at high tide. With anything like favorable weather conditions tomorrow the wreckers anticipate that the tug will be floated. If she is hauled free of the rocks she will be brought to New London and arrangements started for her repair. The extent of the damage to the tug is not known, but it is believed is extensive.

Nathanial Avery and family will remove this week from Williams street to Bellevue place.

The price of coal is to drop 50 cents a ton retail Monday, and dealers account for this on the ground that their overhead is less than it has been and that they can deliver in lots of one to five tons now where they were forced to make deliveries heretofore in half ton quantities. The demand for coal has been cut down appreciably in a few weeks and there has been an increase in the quantity received at the yards. The price at the mines remains unchanged for dealers and there has been no cut in freight rates. Loadings have improved, but the supply of fuel has not been increased to any great extent. The cut of 50 cents a ton will be appreciated by consumers.

A reduction in the price of trolley fares went into effect today on all New London lines. Today tokens were sold at the rate of four for 30 cents as against three for 25 cents as heretofore. In the past the rate of fare has been eight and one-third cents while now it is seven and one-half cents, provided that tokens are used.

The lease of the Goldsmith building at State and Main streets becomes effective today, April 1st, and the lessees will alter the structure for several stores as soon as possession can be had. The Gager-Crawford company occupying the entire ground floor, ar evacating going to their own building just north of the Goldsmith structure on Main street, but they will not have vacated the old stand for several days. The ground floor of the property is to be arranged for several stores, three or four, and all but one of these are declared to have been rented now. The location is one of the best in the city for business purposes, for it is at the terminus of all the trolley lines in the city and will face the new Munsey building when that is erected on the site of the present Garfield building.

The remodeling of the latter building will not take place this year as the management of the Woolworth estate is said to be of the opinion that the tearing down of that building and replacing it with a very much larger structure would be such an expensive undertaking at the present cost of labor and material that it would not pay a fair return on the investment. The Woolworth interests contemplate putting in a Five ad Ten Cent store in New London that will be the most pretentious in the state. The building they own was sold by Senator Brandegee to Frank A. Munsey, but the latter soon after he bought transferred the property to the Woolworth interests and realized about $40,000 by the deal.

The Goldsmith property is the remodeled Peter Irish place. At his death his widow, a woman very much his junior, inherited it and she transferred it to Grace White Rockwell, who was the companion of Mr. Irish's widow. She sold it at a time when it brought one-half less than what it would bring in the market today.

It is understood that Frank A. Munsey has a plan for erecting a garage in the rear of the Hotel Mohican, on Church street, some day and operate it in connection with the big hotel, but he says the plan cannot be carried out successfully as an investment wth the cost of material and labor as great as it is now. He believes that in a few years there will be a drop in the cost of everything though he does not expect to see prices where they were before the World war.

MEMBER OF CANADIAN RANGER'S CREW MISSING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1.—John Comerford, aged 40 years, a member of the crew of the steamer Canadian Ranger that is at the state pier loading with automobiles consigned to southern ports, is missing and Captain Purvis, master of the steamer, this morning requested the New London police to assist him in locating Comerford.

Comerford was aboard the steamer attending to his duties early Saturday, but during the forenoon, he went ashore and has not returned since. Following receiving the report of Comerford being missing the police instituted a search for the missing man, but no trace of him was found. It is not believed that harm has befallen Comerford, but that he has absented himself from motives of his own.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY'S MARKET

New York, March 31.—Handwished in between two holiday periods, yesterday's short session in the stock market was extremely dull. Commission house business was almost at a standstill and professional operations supplied the relatively small total of transactions. Bonds were equally dull. But for a sharp upturn in the more active stocks in the last half hour of business the general list would have closed substantially below Thursday's final quotations, for all through the early trading prices had showed an unmistakable sagging tendency. Unexpected strength in such stocks as Maxland Oil, United States Steel, U. S. Rubber, Producers and Refiners and a few others rallied the whole list and the tone at the close was one of distinct strength.

Foreign exchange rates as a whole were very firm. The persistent strength of Italian lire, which held yesterday above 5 per cent. level with little difficulty, has created a great deal of interest. Rumors are current that important developments are pending which will be of far reaching importance on the economic future of Italy, but so far there has been nothing in the cables to indicate that there is any foundation for these reports. Much importance has been attached to the meetings of Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, with Italian government officials. Interest also has been manifested in the presence in Italy of big steel men of some of the other continental nations at the same time Judge Gary was there.

Daughters of Founders' Convention

The National Society, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, will hold its twenty-fifth General Court on April twelfth, 1922, at the Hotel Raleigh, Washington, D. C., convening at ten thirty a. m., with a luncheon following at one o'clock. Connecticut members must order tickets for the luncheon before April fifth from Mrs. Sara J. Myers, 402 Stoneleigh court, Washington, D. C.

On the evening of April eleventh, an informal reception will be held at the Raleigh.

Mrs. Frank A. Corbin, of New Haven, President of the Connecticut Chapter, hopes that as many members as possible will avail themselves of this invitation. The delegates from Connecticut besides Mrs. Corbin will be the Vice President, Mrs. Noyes D. Baldwin, of Derby; Mrs. Arthur H. Jackson and Mrs. Frank H. Mitchell of Newtown. Miss Harriet P. Mankwill attend, being a member of the National Board.

PRESTON PARENT TEACHERS DISCUSSED SCHOOL QUESTION

An interesting and instructive meeting of the Preston Paren. Teachers Association was held at the Poquetanuck school house last week. After the usual business meeting at which Mrs. Appleton Main, the president, presided, Miss Gertrude Main told of the work that has been accomplished and is being done by the Parent Teachers' Association at Niantic.

There was then a discussion of the question "Is the consolidated school more efficient or detrimental to the child than the one room rural school?" Good arguments on this subject were given by the speakers Mrs. Henry Beckwith and Miss Corcoran on the affirmative, Mrs. Henry A. Gallup and Rev. G. F. Goodenough on the negative.

The next meeting of the association will be held at the Poquetanuck school house April 10.

MADE EARLY CATCH OF TEN INCH TROUT

George E. Lee, of 49 Chestnut St. brought three ten inch trout home Sunday, getting home at 12.30, which gave him the record for bringing in one of the earliest trout catches.

The brooks are not extra high for this time of year but ice is to be found except on the very rapid sections. Most of it is only an inch or so thick. He was kept busy cleaning ice off of the line and pole all the time. A couple of warm days are needed to bring about fair conditions for April fishing.

Derby—The Rev. John Wendel Hots, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, is reported to be very ill at the rectory and under the care of a physician and a trained nurse.

He is unmarried and is employed by the J. B. Martin Co. He is survived by one brother, three sisters and his mother.

NORWICH TOWN

The pleasant weather on Easter morning attracted large congregations to all of Norwich Town churches. Impressive sermons in commemoration of the day, special music and beautiful floral decorations, prevailed in all three churches.

At the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey preached a fine sermon on The Power of Christ's Resurrection. The text referred to was Phil. 3:10, That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection and the fellowship of His sufferings, being comfortable until His death.

Organist Herbert L. Yerrington arranged the musical programme which included two anthems by the choir—King of Kings by Simper and Lift Up Your Heads by Hopkins. In the first anthem, rederic H. Wyatt, tenor, sustained the solo parts. As an offertory, Miss Beraice Underwood soprano, gave As It Began to Dawn, by Coombs.

Under direction of Miss Louise P. Bailey and Miss Ida Beebe the pulpit and across the platform was effectively trimmed with showering palms, hyacinths, lilies and daffodils, also a large center piece of green with cut flowers.

These choice flowers were the gift of Mrs. Maurice Wallen (Ruth Lathrop Potter) of Hartford, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Julia Lathrop Potter, a loved member of this parish. Elderly people and those of the parish who are ill were presented the Easter flowers after the morning service. During the service, the minister announced a gift to the church of a strip of land adjoining the church property around the bend of the Meeting House Rocks. The gift was made by Miss H. Mabel Burk in memory of her Sunday school teacher and life long friend, the late Miss Harriet Sterry Park. This strip of land is bounded on the west by the property of Mrs. Wagner, on the southwest by the highway, on the north by the Norwich Rural association, and on the east by the church property. This land was purchased by Miss Burke from the Sterry Park estate for the express purpose of giving to the church, as a memorial to Miss Park.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor meeting which was held at 7 o'clock, was presided over by Miss Marion L. Bailey. There was special music which included an Easter carol by the young people. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, was the speaker, having brought an Easter message.

The Sacred Heart church had a very large number of communicants at the 8.30 o'clock mass, when the children's choir sang very sweetly. The altar and sanctuary were very beautiful with a grand display of Easter lillies, cala lillies, roses, carnations and potted palms, arranged among the lighted candles.

At the ten o'clock mass, which was a high mass, J. Kormans mass., was sung in honor of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The soloists were Mrs. Richard Quinn, Miss Mary Buckley, Henry Jarvis and Le Roy Hubbard. The church organist Miss Elizabeth A. Malone directed the music, having arranged a choice selection suited to the day.

The rector, Rev. Charles W. Brenman, read the Gospel of the day from Mark 16, from the first to the seventh verse. The Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament took place immediately after the last mass. The terrible fatality that befell this church so soon after the last mass was dismissed; cast a gloom over the community in which many of the parishioners reside. Several hundred having attended the masses at this church on Easter day, it seemed a miracle that the doomed edifice had not burst forth in flames while filled with people, in which no doubt there would have been a panic.

In his Easter sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from Matthew 28:6-7. He is not here for He is risen, and he said, Come, see the place where the Lord lay. Go quickly to tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and behold, He goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see Him, lo, I have told you. The music by the choir included an Easter anthem. The church was prettily decorated with potted Easter lillies, daffodils and hyacinths.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service and the regular Sunday evening service at this church were omitted, because of the children's concert that evening.

Miss Gertrude S. Hyde, a member of the faculty at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadlye, Mass., spent the week end remaining over Easter Sunday at her home on Washington street.

Easter Sunday marked the first anniversary of Mrs. May Rollins, as the efficient matron at the Johnson Home.

NORWICH TOWN CATHOLIC CHURCH BURNED WITH LOSS ABOUT $60,000

Fire that was discovered in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church just before 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon made practically a total loss of the building. It swept from end to end of the brick, slate roof edifice burning out the interior completely, and leaving only the sidewalls and the tower at the front entrance standing.

Rev. Charles W. Brennan, the pastor, said Sunday night it was impossible for him to give any estimate of the loss and although the insurance was carried on the church he preferred not to state what the amount was. A builder's estimate of the loss was from $50,000 to $60,000.

Probably From Grass Fire

In the opinion of Chief Howard L. Stanton the probable cause was a grass fire that communicated to the small frame chapel at the rear end on the northerly side of the church, spreading from there to the sacristy in the main church where it got a fine start before it was discovered. One of the reports that came to Chief Stanton was that three or four boys were seen running away from the rear of the chapel a short time before the first smoke was seen.

Smoke coming from the chapel was seen by two boys, who ran to the rectory next door and told Father Brennan that the church was on fire. About the same time the smoke was seen by a resident in the neighborhood, who telephoned to the rectory and Father Brennan at once telephoned for help to the city fire department and the Yantic Fire Engine Co. Both responded at once, Chief Stanton not waiting to get the usual permission from the fire commissioners in the case of fire outside the city limits. He arrived at the fire with the Engine Co., No. 3, from the Central Station and also summoned the West Side company.

Before the firemen arrived Father Brennan rushed back to the church to attempt to save what he could from the altar and a number of the parishioners braved the flames and the stifling smoke, succeeding in saving the vestments, the communion service and a number of the most valuable of the altar furnishings.

Four Streams of Water

The Yantic motor pumper was stationed at a hydrant to the north of the church and the city apparatus at another hydrant to the south, each pumping one stream. Siamese connections on each line furnished four streams of water to be turned on the blaze, but as the pipe line here is not a large one the water supply was limited. However they did effective work and stubbornly combatted the advance of the flames from the rear to the front of the church.

The small wooden chapel was quickly burned to the ground. One stream of water was played in through a window at the altar end of the church and others were turned onto the slate roof where the flames were breaking through. Then flames raged fiercely along the ceiling of the church and as one after another of the rafters was burned through sections of the slate roof began to cave in with loud crashes and the slate came hurtling down towards the firemen where there was danger of serious injury to the men from the sharp edged pieces of slate.

Chief Stanton then ordered two lines of hose carried in through the front entrance in the tower and these played water on the fire in the interior but were unable to prevent its spread along the rafters towards the front. One after another the roof rafters were burned off and more sections of the slate roof came down until there was none of it left.

Bucket Brigade Saves Rectory

Flying sparks endangered the frame rectory to the south of the church and about 20 feet away, but this was saved by a hard working bucket brigade formed by the parishioners. Pails, coal hods, wash basins and baby bath tubs, were brought into service, filled with water and passed from hand to hand from the ground to the roof which was kept wet down. Several times the shingles were afire but the alert volunteers rallied and dashed water on in copious volume. However, several holes were burned through the roof. The fire fighters ingeniously provided a supply of water by damming up the gutter where the waste water from the hose lines was flowing. This formed a pond from which they dipped up their supply to be passed up to the roof.

Fortunately the wind was blowing towards the west which carried the sparks over the lowland behind the church where there were no houses near enough to be in serious peril.

It was nearly four o'clock before the firemen finally left the church.

One of the rumors Sunday as to the cause of the fire as that it had been caused by incense or candles left burning, but Father Brennan said Sunday night he considered there was no possibility of this as all the candles had been extinguished at the close of the morning service at 11:30.

The falling sparks started grass fires in several places in the vicinity, but these were quickly extinguished.

One of the families in the neighborhood made and distributed hot coffee for the firemen, which was a kindness greatly appreciated as many of the men were chilled through by the wetting they received and the winter weather made them all grateful for the warm drink.

Hundreds of automobiles visited the scene during the afternoon and a great crowd of people gathered in the street and occupied good view points on the high land across the street from the church during the fire.

Father Brennah said Sunday night that the church would certainly be rebuilt and that arrangements had now been made for the parish to use the basement of St. Patrick's church for services. This is a large room that will provide abundant seating capacity for the Sacred Heart parish services.

The cornerstone of the burned church was laid by Bishop Michael Tierney on Sunday, Aug. 23, 1897, and the sermon at the exercises was by Rev. John Synnott of Taftville. At that time Rev. M. J. Tennell was rector of St. Patrick's church and the chapel at Norwich Town was attended by priests from St. Patrick's. In the large procession of societies that marched from the city to Norwich Town to attend the exercises at the laying of the cornerstone, Col. John F. Murphy, who is now postmaster of this city, was grand marshal of the parade.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS FILL CHURCHES FOR EASTER

it springs from a heart that lives. Life is deeper than love, though God Himself is love, for without life love would be impossible. Yes... Christ talked about other subjects than life, but underneath all is "The words I speak unto you they are the Spirit and they are the life." "I am the Way, the Truth, the Life." "I am the Resurrection and the life."

The reward of man is a resurrection to a new life. To a great degree we make our lives beyond the divide, called death, in this life. All we have striven to be here we shall be in the resurrection home. All we have striven to do here shall attain there. This life on earth is a prelude to the song of eternal life. Here we see only the introduction of the book of eternity. Christ has promised eternal life to His children. Then instead of death for believers, there is eternal life, life the strongest human passion, waits for a man in the great beyond.

First Congregational

The theme of the Easter sermon by Rev. G. F. Bailey at the First Congregational church was the power of the resurrection fact in the life of men, and the text chosen was from Paul's letter to the Philippians, 3rd chapter and 10th verse. "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection."

The establishment of the fact of Christ's resurrection was considered by the first apostles as a matter of supreme importance. St. Paul, the earliest of the New Testament writers has but little to say concerning the birth and boyhood life of Jesus but lays redoubled emphasis upon the fact of His death and resurrection. The burden of his message is "Christ crucified and risen again." Two of the Evangelists in their record of the Master omitted to give any details of the birth and infancy of the Nazarene but all four of the Gospels have elaborate accounts of the death and resurrection. The disciples who were active in the days immediately succeeding the death of Christ seemed to take the resurrection as an established fact.

After reviewing some of the later objections to the resurrection theory as related in the Gospels, the speaker turned to his theme the power of the resurrection fact in the life of men. This power was sufficient to change the day of worship for the Christians from the seventh to the first day of the week. This power was further manifested in the wonderful change which was wrought in the disciples themselves. Vacillating Peter became the man of rock with a courage equal to every occasion and to any undertaking. The Kingdom of Heaven was no longer a material kingdom in the minds of Christ's men but spiritual kingdom to be set up in the earth.

The power of the resurrection is further seen in the ability it gives men to conquer fear. Here the preacher reviewed briefly King's book on the Conquest of Fear, dwelling especially upon the points made in the book viz. that the evolutionary process of growth upward and Godward should teach us that God's plans are not to be easily set aside or disturbed by such small matters as occasion our fears; and secondly that as we are necessary to God in carrying out His plans in human affairs the consciousness of this fact should save us from the fear of loss, people, sickness or death. If the shepard of Israel who lived a thousand years before Christ could say with calm assurance, "I will fear no evil," how much more should we in this Christian era be able to confidently exclude all fear, even of death itself, from our minds and hearts.

Greeneville Congregational

At Greeneville Congregational church Rev. Charles H. Ricketts chose for his Easter theme The Continuance of Life Through the Resurrection, taking his text from John 14: 19, "Because I live, ye shall live also." He spoke in part as follows:

The continuity of our lives depends on the continuity of those forces outside of ourselves that support life. When they fail us we die. The life of the body depends on air and if air is denied us we suffocate; lack of food long continued means starvation. Mental life depends on mental food which is an outside product. We have the capacity to receive and use it.

Of ourselves we cannot originate spiritual food which is a gift of God. We can receive it and submit ourselves to its redemptive processes. We get this food not by contact with dogma but with personality; by coming into contact with Christ; had death and the tomb been triumphant, we, too, would have been spiritually dead. But as Christ conquered both so shall we because of the impartation of his spirit. "Because I live, we shall live also," says Christ. As Christ is our pattern in all things, we, too, must die, and like him rise from the dead.

It is impossible to over-emphasize the fact of the Resurrection. If Calvary had been the closing chapter in His life, the grave would close ours, and Jewish hatred would have come out ahead. Because He rose from the dead and ascended into heaven, so shall we, the certainty of which is founded in three principles; 1, the union subsisting between Him and us; 2, the claim He has upon our immortality, having suffered and died for it; 3, the all-sufficiency He has to evermore give us the bread of life.

Universalist Church

At the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) Rev. A. N. Foster spoke upon The Reassurance of Easter, using the text John 14, 19; Because I live, ye shall live also. In brief he said:

The thought of Jesus is at the center of our observance of the Easter festival. We cherish the picture of the face of Him whose lips gave the words of eternal life. We have been drawn by the words of the Beatitude but our feeling is a little more tense at the words which come from the later experiences of bitter suffering and of spiritual triumph. The sadness of Good Friday and the exaltation of Easter are blessed, in the assurance that because He lives, the disciple shall also live. To many, this is the promise and the reward of discipleship; it is a guarantee of the immortal life as confided to the faithful follower. However, many men who would honor Jesus, believe that his words here assert not the personal prerogative of a Master but rather a universal law of life.

The ancient religions of Mexico and Greece and Egypt and India postulate an undying god; one who revives after the bitterness of tragedy. The Easter assurance is given by many of the great world religions. The most primitive expression of the Easter festival is seen in honor to the ancient goddess of the spring; that is implied in the ancient meaning of the word. It signalizes the triumph of light over darkness and insists that right is stronger than wrong. Death constitutes one of the great facts of human history and a great signal mark of experience. Every city and village and every religious shrine is marked by the testimonials of Death.

And yet, humanity ever insists on believing and religion ever fervently declares that the dead yet live; even though precious ties be severed and the outward substance gone, yet we never cease to say that our dear ones still live although perchance concealed from flesh and sense. The universal belief transcends any sectarian dogma or any ecclesiastical barrier.

Supplementary evidence is given even by materialism. Science all but demonstrates that no substance is ever lost however radical and varied may be the transformations through which its atoms may be made to pass. How illogical to assume that mind which directs and controls matter, can ever be lost or ever fail to continue to live. Science has placed before us so many wonderful lessons from the treasures of mountain and earth and sea and air, we almost expect continuing revelations from mysterious nature. It is not given to man to create but he does use with increasing skill the elements which have continued dormant, awaiting his discovery; electricity, the wireless, air navigation, etc. imply the skill of adaptation of things long existent and waiting to be made useful.

It has been said that Abraham Lincoln, in the 56 years of life allowed him lived longer than Methuselah of the Old Testament because his vast experience opened, to him so many points of contact with the life of society.

It may be added that Thomas Edison, the modern magician, has a greater number of contacts with the world than were known in the days of Lincoln.

With the increase of knowledge and amid the growing complexities of society we must live more intensely and more abundantly. Easter opens the vision of spiritual truth and ethical purpose. Our confidence is the great laws of nature's life is strengthened and vitalized by the reassuring words of Jesus.

Trinity Methodist

The Easter sermon by Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church took as the text John 16.33, Be of Good Cheer, I have overcome the world. In part he spoke as follows:

These words worthy of the lips of angels have been a prophecy of 20 centuries. They are the Easter message that brings the world the story of the rising and the rending of a tomb, and of Christ stepping out on the arena of history to begin the greatest revolution known among men. In the first centuries the armies of His spirit march from Jerusalem to Corinth, that Paris of the ancient world and its filth succedes before the triumphant tides of His gospel of purity. They go to Achens whose philosophers held aloft the torches of truth that for centuries had gilded the mountain peaks or human thought and Athens primacy is doomed. They go to Rome, to Spain, to Alexandria and finally in the fourth century when Constantine saw His blazing cross in the sky all the known world had fallen in formal surrender before the name of one character of history who possesses the power of perpetual charm. Yea down across the centuries He has come from victory to victory, marching with slow but stately tread over or amid the wars and tears and tyrannies of the times., the overcoming Christ, the Christ of the first Easter morning and of modern Christianity.

Does then Christianity hold sway today? Does Christ rule in the economic realm where capital and labor are sometimes engaged in a death struggle each with a hand upon the other's throat? Or in the social realm with so many homes broken by infidelity and divorce? No it is still true that wrong rules at many points. But Christ is winning. The future is His and the trend of the present is Christward. Defeated now and then at this point or that, the total movement is forward and the world belongs increasingly to God.

Mr. Graham dealt with the march of Christian forces under three heads, the conquests of sorrow, of sin and of death.

Under the latter he said in part. There is a philosophy which says that death is an enemy before which every city goes down in surrender. The white horse and his rider batters down defenses of every hearthstone and takes captive every people. We may bar the doors and shutter tight our windows, but silently deaths comes in; the doors of our defenses crumble into dust; and leaving us despoiled and empty handed he goes on to other conquests. Such is one view of death. But Easter gives us another. The Easter view shows death an incident of progress, affecting the house but not its inhabitant. As Socrates said to Crito, You cannot bury me, unless you catch me first. Christianity stands by the open grave and sings, because the grave is empty and all but grave clothes. So death becomes not an enemy at all but only a power a Divine Father uses to draw His Own closer to Himself.

Trinity Episcopal.

Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown spoke from the text John 20: 24-29, in his Easter sermon at Trinity Episcopal church referring to the proof that Thomas required to believe that the Lord had risen, in part he spoke as follows:

When the disciples told Thomas they had seen the Lord after His resurrection, and he replied he would not believe till he could feel the prints of the nails and thrust his hand into the side, there was apparently no surprise or remonstrance on their part. They did not chide Thomas for not believing. But why? Because they remembered their own unbelief and looked upon the doubt of Thomas as no more than a repetition of their own experience. Certainly, there was no predisposition on their part to believe that Jesus was risen. Yet they did come to believe it; yes, to proclaim it as the pivotal fact of all their preaching. Moreover, they preached "Jesus and the resurrection" with a passionate intensity of conviction which has never been surpassed, a conviction which transformed their whole characters and lives. Nothing could restrain their ardor of conviction, nothing daunt their zeal and activity in the cause of this truth. Not stripes, nor imprisonment, nor most cruel form of torture or death [illegible] Thomas himself finally was convinced by the proofs he himself demanded, he could only express himself in the inward exclamation, "My Lord and my God". The apostles immediately discerned the whole force of this great truth and fact. For Jesus risen meant Jesus' teaching forever authenticated, Jesus' love eternally perpetuated, Jesus' power and promises guaranteed beyond peradventure for time and eternity. On the basis of this truth the apostles began a career of untiring, self-sacrificing activity which shrank from no hardship, persecution, not martyrdom. On this truth as fundamental they reared the Christian church. On this truth they founded the institution of Sunday. On this truth they rested the salvation of mankind. What plain and powerful evidence they must have had to overcome their doubts to reverse the whole current of their thoughts and feelings! The preacher then went on to examine this evidence, as summarized by St. Paul in the First Epistle to the Corinthians and proceeded to discuss the matter of its credibility, stressing the point that even from the viewpoint of evolution, the resurrection is more credible than the fact that from a tadpole or a headless mollusc there should have been evolved the brain of a Shakespeare and that, from the viewpoint of human reason, the greatest of all incredulities would have been for God to have accepted the great sacrificial life and death of Christ and then simply to have snuffed out His life like a candle. The character, the good faith of God demanded the resurrection of Christ.

POETRY

THE FLOWER IMMORTAL.

The beauty and delight of life's mid hours
Begin to fall, their tender glory past,—
No flower can perfect ever was formed to last;
Though slow or fast, the unfolding, swiftly closing the close,
Yet all, no more moist dews or noontide glows,
Nor patient toil, nor culture, fondly cast
About the bush, will shield it from the blast
That drops each petal to its long repose.
Yet see! More buds beneath, though life rose die!
Seek endless power like Life, as held by store
By Him who "liveth in me, yet not I"
That flower succeeds to flower forever more!
In Christ's best Paradise plant Thou my Tree
That it may bloom to Immortality.
—Rev. George G. Phipps in Boston Transcript.

COURAGE AND CULTURE.

That which we feel that we can do
Is our measure by our eyes
Whatever we have well "put through"
All others judge us by.
The latent power that in us lies
To meet the tests of life,
Is courage bred by each emprise
We enter in the strife.

That "He who hesitates is lost"
Is sad, yet always true.
The tender plant succumbs to frost—
The immortels are few.
Thy storehouse fill with what is best,
Against the day of need,
Thyself, and others, will be blest—
'Tis wisdom's way, indeed.

Then when the years shall take their toll—
And feeble burns thy light—
The gems that gleam within thy soul
Dismal the gath'ring night.
On God and self we must depend
Forever and a day.
The road is narrow at the end—
But one can pass that way.
—Warren E. Comstock, in Acuthor

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Pa," said Clarence, "why do they call them running expenses?"

"Because they are so hard to keep up with, I guess," growled his dad.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Lawyer Snatch M. Snatchem—"We have fought a good fight. You have won your suit, and I congratulate you. After deducting my fees and ex—certain other sundry charges I find you have left one dollar."

Successful Litigant—"What's the matter with it. Is it bad?"—Exchange.

"The governor seems to be getting a good deal of profitable publicity," we remarked. "Yes," replied old Gaunton Grimm. "He is an oily person who thinks he was elected to the Chautauqua platform. He delivers lectures and writes patent medicine testimonials, thus obtaining his pay from both the rostrum and the nostrum."—Kansas City Star.

"A Memphis lawyer entered his condemned client's cell. "Well," he said, "good news at last."

"A reprieve?" exclaimed the prisoner, eagerly.

"No, but your uncle has died leaving you $5,000, and you can go to your fate with the satisfying feeling that the noble efforts of your lawyer in your behalf will not go unrewarded."—Lawyer and Banker.

Bluebelle was telling some friends that she was going to marry a certain young man to reform him. They considered that risky and frankly told her so.

"Why marry him to reform him?" asked one.

"Because," explained Bluebelle, "if I reform him first some other girl may get him."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Charles—But I asked you, dearest, to keep our engagement a secret for the present.

Clara—I couldn't help it. That hateful Ella said the reason I wasn't married was because no fool had proposed to me, so I told her you had.—Answers, London.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Thousands of years before the invention of cotton machinery in Europe, Hindoos had cotton gins, spinning wheels and looms.

Mangoes were first introduced into Jamaica in 1782 from a French shipload of economic plants bound to Haiti, which was captured by the English.

In spite of the tremendous strides of the electrical industry, the gas industry today employs five times as many men and 20 times as much capital as in 1890.

A new variety of barley now being distributed to American farmers originated from a single plant raised from a stock of seed imported from the southern border of the Black sea.

Traces of teeth are found in the embryos of some of the birds of today and are believed to be a heritage from early primitive reptile-like ancestors which had a full set of teeth.

The first electric fire alarm system for cities was patented in England by Alexander Bain in 1843. It was very imperfect, and more elaborate systems were patented by Dumont and Hunter in 1851 and 1852. Hunter's seems to have been somewhat similar to that introduced into Boston by Farmer and Channing between 1853 and 1857, which was patented in the latter year and put in operation in several American cities. Since then it has been greatly improved and is now almost universally used in cities and towns of considerable size.

LORD CECIL'S ARGUMENT FOR THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Declares That if Nations Are to be Asked to Disarm, They Must be Guaranteed Against Aggression From Without, Which Could be Done Only Through Some Form of an Association of Nations—Would Favor Any Plan That America Might Devise to Better the Present League.

New York, April 2.—Fear and suspicion, twin demons which have possessed the world, and which can be exorcised only by some form of an association of nations, are the forces that stand between France and Germany in the settlement of the reparations question, they stand in the way of settlement of every other international question, Lord Robert Cecil noted British exponent of the League of Nations, declared in an address before the Foreign Policy Association tonight.

Addressing his first American audience, Lord Robert, who has come to the United States for a series of speeches on behalf of the league declared it was essential for world safety to turn the minds of nations from force as the only remedy."

"Take the question of reparations," he said. "What is it that makes that question so intractible? It is that though the French are anxious for the Germans to pay, they are also anxious lest if they are allowed to get on their feet sufficiently to pay, they will become again a danger to the security of France.

"Do not think I am attacking the French on that account. No one who has read the history of these countries will say the fears of France are unreasonable—or, for the matter of that the fears of Germany either.

"There is a long history behind the reperations question of the present day. And if we are to bring some remedy to this state of things, the first thing we have to do is to allay international fear and suspicion. We have to get to turn their minds from force as the only remedy. We have got to teach them that persuasion, public opinion, are of far greater potency than mere physical compulsion."

Warning that the next war, if one came, would be far more terrible, because of new scientific discoveries, than the World war, and that it was not inconceivable that American cities might be laid waste and their populations destroyed by airmen flying from over the sea, Lord Robert declared that a crisis in world history had been reached that nations must "learn or perish."

The recent Washington agreement for the limitation of naval armament was but a "first step" in the only direction that can save the present civilization from going the way of the civilizations of Egypt, Greece and Rome, he said, adding that the three most terrible arms of warfare—aircraft, submarines and land forces—had not been at all affected by the Washington treaties.

It was true, he conceded, that the Washington conference had laid down certain rules for submarine use, but there was little likelihood, he held, of their being respected if nations ever again found themselves fighting for their lives.

Certainly the experience of the last war is against any such hope, he said.

"Scarcely one rule for the humanising of warfare was observed, and though we may think that our enemies were the worst, yet in all candor and frankness, I doubt if there is any single nation which has a clean sheet in the matter."

But if nations are to be asked to disarm, he continued, they must be guaranteed against aggression from without, and this could be done only byt some form of an association of nations. Lord Robert Cecil declared he believed the covenant of the league now operating was adequate to the purpose, but that if America would devise a better plan, or suggest, alterations in the organization of the present league, he would favor them.

Citing the achievements of the league of nations, he concluded:

"I do not come as a suppliant for American help. I come to tell you what, as it seems to me, the league really is and what it has done, and to hear from you any criticisms or advice as to its action. In the meantime, I will venture, if I may, to put to you one or two questions

"I do not doubt or undervalue for a moment the immense services American has rendered in recent years to Europe. But has America done enough for herself?

"She desires and rightly desires, to be free from the entanglements of Europe and its concerns. But can she be free from them? What is her own experience quite recently?

"In 1917 America felt compelled to enter the World war. It was not that she desired war—far from it. Will anyone say that if another great European war took place involving, as wars always do, great interests of right and wrong, that it would be possible in the future any more than in the past for America to stand outside and take no part? Any such anticipation would surely be gambling with the future of your country.

"And if that be so, if it really be true that even on this side of the Atlantic there is no certainty that this nation can avoid the worst of all entanglements—participation in war—is it really so unreasonable to suggest that it is an American interest to erect safeguards against the outbreak of war in any part of the world, for when war breaks out, no one can tell how far it will spread.

"That is all I have to ask. It is for you here to say what answer should be given to this question. In any case, we in Europe must go on. We cannot draw back from this great experiment, we are bound by every obligation of prudence and honour to pursue it to the end. Prudence, because it seems to us that there is on other practical proposal by which we can avert the threatened destruction of our civilization and honor, because we who remain solemnly pledged ourselves to those who died for us that if victory should be ours we should use it before all other objects to prevent a repetition of the catastrophe that overwhelmed them."

PLAN TO CHECK CRIMINAL ELEMENT IN NEW YORK

New York, April 2.—Speeding of machinery in criminal courts in order to clear the road for grand jury hearings and trials in cases where acts of violence are involved, was ordered today by District Attorney Banton as a measure to check the latest outbreak of the city's criminal element.

He made public this order soon after police reported that two thugs had entered an Eighth avenue restaurant, stabbed one man to death and seriously wounded another. Numerous holdups and robberies also were reported.

Mr. Banton instructed his staff to get cases to trial "within 48 hours after the act is committed, if possible," and directed that witnesses in all cases be taken before the grand jury immediately.

Three grand juries, the regular, the additional and a third, were sworn in today in general sessions. The first two will handle the unusual run of criminal cases and the third will devote its time mostly to violations of the prohibition enforcement law. It was said that about 1,600 liquor cases were waiting for the jury.

DOROTHY KEENAN HAD BACKED STOCK BROKERS

New York, April 2.—A "Broadway butterfly" and an artist's model, Dorothy King Keenan, slain friend of the wealthy John Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia had another role—that as senior member of the stock brokerage firm of "King & Scott"—it was learned tonight. The revelation was made by Assistant District Attorney Thomas Geraty, who investigated the firm last summer, to Assistant District Attorney Pecora.

Albert E. Guimares, "the man in the fur coat," admirer of the model, and upon whom she was said to have showered many gifts, also was interested in the brokerage house, Geraty said.

Miss Keenan, who was known on Broadway as Dorothy "King," backed the company with large sums of money, Geraty said he was told by Guimares. "King & Scott," he said, was affiliated with another brokerage house, "Stoddard & Sanborn," in which Guimares also held an interest, and from which he was reported to have made from $75,000 to $100,000 a year.

FATE OF VICAR GENERAL BUTCHKAVITCH UNKNOWN

Moscow, April 2 (By the A. P.)—The Russian government tonight sent a sharp note for transmission to the Polish government, characterizing Poland's attempted "interference with Russian justice" an unfriendly act.

So far as could be ascertained tonight Vicar General Butchkavitch had not been exected up to this afternoon.

SCHOOLBOY FAILED TO PASS ELLIS ISLAND MENTAL TEST

New York, April 2.—Sammy Goldman, 16-year-old Syracuse schoolboy, today failed to pass his third mental test at Ellis Island and his deportation to Rumania will be recommended to Secretary of Labor Davis.

For two years the boy's family has been fighting attempts to bar him on the ground of feeble-mindedness. He was admitted to this country under bond after he had failed to pass his first examination, and tonight he was permitted to return to Syracuse until Washington officially acted on his case. Relatives hinted that, if deportation orders were issued, an attempt would be made to send him to Canada rather than Rumania.

GIRL'S CLOTHING IGNITED WHILE SHAKING FURNACE

Hartford, April 2.—While she was shaking the furnace in the cellar of 64 Fairfield avenue this morning, sparks ignited the clothing of Miss Josephine Daley and she was almost instantly enveloped in flames. She made a desperate effort to extinguish the fire herself, but without avail. Her screams brought her sister, Mrs. Thomas Egan, to her aid. A still alarm was trned in anud a fire engine company nearby responded. Others however, had wrapped the suffering woman in blankets before the arrival of firemen. She was removed to St. Francis hospital. It was said this afternon that she was in a critical condition.

BRITISH STEAMER IS AFIRE IN MID-OCEAN

Boston, April 2.—The British steamer City of Victoria is on fire in mid-Atlantic, according to messages from the vessel intercepted here tonight. The position of the steamer was given as 18.50 west longitude and latitude 50.10.

The City of Victoria was said to be steaming at full speed towards Azores. She is a vessel of 3530 tons.

Thousands of raido fans who were listening in on an opera broadcast by a station in Boston when the concert was abruptly discontinued while distress messages from the burning vessel were copied. The opera was resumed, however, after an interruption of 15 minutes.

FOUR KRUPP DIRECTORS ARE TO BE COURTMARTIALED

Essen, April 2 (By the A. P.)—The four directors of the Krupp plant, whom the French hold responsible for Saturday's clash between German workmen and the troops, probably will be courtmartialed next week at Bredeney.

Two more workmen who were wounded Saturday have since died in the hospital, bringing the total dead to eleven. The Krupp hospital surgeons announce that two others are in such condition that they are not likely to survive through the night.

Mexico Not to Default Interest Payments

Actual Payment Deferred Until the Call for Bonds Has Been Issued and the Debt Plan Declared Operative.

New York, April 2.—Setting at rest rumors that April 1 interest payments on the Mexican debt would be defaulted, Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the international committee of bankers on the Mexican debt, issued a statement late today, declaring that sufficient funds already have been made available in New York to cover cash payments to Mexican bondholders during a considerable part of the present year. Actual payments cannot be made, Mr. Lamont pointed out, until after the call for bonds has been issued and the debt plan declared operative.

"Because of numerous inquiries made as to April 1st interest payments upon Mexican government bonds" the statement says "The international committee states that favorable progress ha sbeen made by the commission recently appointed by Finance Minister De La Huerta to pass upon the details of the plan of readjustment, but the exact date upon which bondholders will be united to deposit their bonds under the plan has not yet been fixed, and until the call has been issued and sufficient bonds have been deposited to enable the committee to declare the plan effective, actual interest payments can not begin.

"It should, however, be noted that if and when the plan of adjustment becomes effective, the bonds, when returned to the holders, will have attached thereto warrants calling for the immediate collection of the cash payments which may have accrued subsequent to January 3rd, 1923; this being in accordance with the provisions of the plan with respect to such interest.

"Sufficient funds have already been made available in New York by the Mexican government to cover cash payments to the bondholders, as provided for in the plan and agreement, during a considerable part of the present year. Deposits will be accepted in England, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, and Germany, as well as in the United States."

FALL RIVER MILLS OFFER 12 1-2 PER CENT. WAGE RAISE

Fall River, Mass., April 2.—An offer of a wage increase of 12 1-2 per cent. effective April 30, was made by the Cotton Manufacturers' association of Fall River today tothe 36,000 cotton operatives of this city. The offer was embodied in a statement presented by the manufacturers at the conference with the Textile council, which represents six of the largest textile unions —carders, weavers, loom fixers, mule spinners, slasher tenders and yarn finishers.

The Textile council had demanded an increase of 15 per cent. The doffers and other workers affiliated with a rival union, the United Textile Workers of America, have asked for an ihcrease of 29 1-2 per cent. and authorized their president, Thomas F. McMahon, to call a strike to enforce their demands. The Textile council later issued this statement:

"At a meeting of the council held immediately after the conference with the manufacturers today, it was voted that special meetings of the various unions will be held Thursday evening, April 5. A further motion that it will require a majority vote by four of the six unions to accept the amount of increase stated was adopted."

The attitude of the United Textile Workers on the manufacturers' offer was set forth today by John J. Campos, secretary-treasurer of the Doffers' union and principal representative of the U. T. W. here.

"The offer of 12 1-2 per cent. by the manufacturers will have no bearing on the demand of our organization for an increase of 29 1-2 per cent.," Campos said. "In fact, it will serve only to increase our determination to get the balance."

The manufacturers' statement embodying the 12 1-2 per cent. increase offer said in part:

"In making this advance, however, we wish it to be thoroughly understood that we in no way recede from or modify statements made to you at our last conference on March 24. On the contrary, we would reiterate them as being more forceful than ever when the advance goes into effect.

"We make this advance with the sincere hope that our action will prove to be the best for the future welfare of our city."

NEW MASK THAT PROTECTS AGAINST ALL POISON GASES

New Haven, April 2.—Perfection of a mask that will give protection against all poison gases, including carbon monoxide, was announced by Brigadier General Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service of the United States army, at the dinner given to the council of the American Chemical society by the New Haven Cmabber of Commerce tonight. The new mask, or what General Fries described as an "all purpose cannister," has particular value for fire fighters and men engaged in fumigating ships or buildings. Coast Rum Smuggling Has Become Alarming Prohibition Enforcement Officers to Meet Friday to Discuss Measures to Cope With the Evil.

New York, April 2. — Plans for curbing activities of rum-runners along the Atlantic coast will be discussed here Friday by federal prohibition enforcement commissioner, Roy Haynes and Palmer Canfield, New York state director and his aides, it was announced today.

While some enforcement officials recently denied existence of rum-running of considerable proportions on the coast, Director Canfield admitted that marine rum smuggling had been worrying the department and that certain marine equipment would be needed to carry on an effective fight against it.

He suggested that in addition to enlarging the land forces, the enforcement department would recommend the development of a fleet of fast motor craft armed with machine guns and fitted with powerful searchlights.

"RUM" INTERESTS CENTER ABOUT BLOCK ISLAND

Block Island, R. I., April 2.—(By The A. P.)—While fishermen returning from the waters west of this island today told of the continued presence 9 miles off shore of the big British steamer Avontown, said to carry a cargo of whiskey worth half a million dollars, islanders were surprised by the appearance of a mysterious vessel of submarine-chaser type in old harbor here. The 110 foot craft, with nam erased from stern and bow, slipped into old harbor and sent a boat crew ashore.

Three strangers, as mysterious as the vessel, met the men from the boat, talked with them about a cargo to be taken aboard tonight it was said, and then disappeared. The men from the boat, having received what they said were instructions, returned aboard the converted submarine chaser.

These comings and goings caused Captain Elijah Sprague, of the coast guard station to gather his crew about him and board the stranger. He found a swarthy crew of seven men, he said, apparently foreigners and green to the work of seamen. When he asked why the vessel's name had been obscured, the captain turned to the vessel's life buoys and pointed out the name "Mardelene," adding that the vessel was from New Haven, Conn. He was "on business" he said.

Search of the vessel by the coast guardsmen, as customs agents, developed no signs of liquor or other contraband, Captain Sprague reported.

Fishermen said the converted subchaser has been lying off the island for several days, without any special activities.

With reports that a large cargo of whiskey had been landed here under a full moon last night, federal agents sought to run down the cache or the boats that took part, but without announced success.

In the vicinity of the Avontown today were a small fleet of lesser vessels, believed to be trans-shipping some of her cargo.

Washington, April 2.—Charged with selling half a case of rum to a policewoman, Maris Fragrals, aged 23, was arrested tonight by police, who reported a search of his rooms in a fashionable Sixteenth street apartment house netted another half case.

The policewoman who reported she had bought liquor from Fragrals said she had been assured the quality was excellent because he had obtained it from a legation.

SOURCE OF BENTON STORY UNDISCLOSED

Cincinnati, April 2.—The source of a report published in the Cincinnati Times Star today, to the effect that six National League baseball clubs had voted to keep Pitcher J. C. ("Rube") Benton from returning to the National league remained undisclosed tonight. President August Herrmann was in the south with the Reds and no other baseball official could be located here.

According to the story, as published, objection, based on the contention that Benton is "undesirable" would be registered by the six club presidents as soon as President John Heydler, of the league, "officially promulgates" Benton's contract.

These objections, it was said, would take the form of a protest of each and every game in which Benton pitched against their players.

RED CROSS JUNE 30 TO CEASE RELIEF WORK IN NEAR EAST

Secretary Hughes Has So Informed the British, French, Italian and Greek Governments—America Willing to Cooperate With the British, French and Italian Governments to Absorb Greek Refugees Into the Normal Economic Life of the Country Where They Find Themselves—Feeding of Great Camps of Refugees Indefinitely No Solution of the Problem—Invites "an Early Exchange of Views".

Washington, April 2. — Secretary Hughes has informed the British, French, Italian and Greek governments, in identic notes handed their representatives in Washington, that the American Red Cross will terminate emergency relief work in Greece on June 30, next. The note declared that solution of the relief problem in the Near East "can hardly lie in measures of temporary relief alone," and suggested a co-operative agreement between the nations interested which would make it possible for the thousands of refugees "to be absorbed as promptly as possible into the normal economic life of the country where they find themselves."

In the event the British, French and Italian governments are disposed to concur in a co-operative endeavor, Mr. Hughes said, the Washington government will welcome "an early exchang of views." He said that "if a constructive plan" could be agreed upon and the relief task apportioned, "American relief agencies will be ready to co-operate even after the termination of the emergency relief work of the American Red Cross" in June.

In a summary of the note, made public today, Secretary Hughes said the problem presented by the evacuation to Greek territory of almost a million refugees has appealed to the humanitarian sentiment of all countries and has severely taxed the resources of the relief organizations, supported in their work by the generosity, and initiative of the governments and peoples of many countries.

"Deeply affected by the sufferings of regugees in the Near East," the statement said, "the American people through the agencies of the American Red Cross and the Near East relief, have been participating in relief work organized to meet the emergencies which have arisen in the Near East during the past ten years and particularly to help to alleviate the acute suffering which followed the recent mass evacuation.

"It is clear," the statement continued, "that the feeding of great camps of refugees cannot and should not continue indefinitely. The solution of the problem can hardly lie in measures of temporary relief alone though they are essential to meet an emergency such as recently arisen in the Near East, but, rather, in such a disposition of the refugees as will enable them to be absorbed as promptly as possible into the economic life of the country where they find themselves."

"The problems of finding permanent homes for the refugees is one which is not within the scope of private relief agencies" the statement said. "It will require the cordial co-operation of the local authorities where the refugees may be situated, and of the powers whose territorial and other iterests in the Mediterranean area may make it possible for them to assist.

"One phase of the question which is of particular concern relates to the future of the Armenians in the Near East, since it is a grave question whether Greece, in addition to the refugees of the Greek race and religion, will be in a position to care for many thousands of Armenians. In the latter case it will be necessary to consider what disposition may be made of the Armenians who have temporarily found refuge in Greece."

"The American Red Cross" a statement issued at headquarters of the Red Cross said, "in materials already shipped and in other expenses incurred to date has expended $2,594,448.21 from its disaster emergency relief funds, in succor to 1,000,000 refugees who were trans-shipped to Greece with little warning as an incident of the Greco-Turkish war."

CAUSE OF DISRUPTION OF TRAIN SCHEDULES

Boston, April 2.—Disruption of passenger train schedules in New England during the past winter were attributed to the shopmen's strike, the coal strike and the unusual number of snow storms, in a report to the legislature by the department of public utilities today. The report pointed out that the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine railroads are in a weakened financial condition which made it difficult for the companies to obtain adequate rolling stock and other equipment.

"It is regrettable," the report said, "that tribunals do not exist which, in the interest of the general public and for the public welfare, could finally determine differences between employers and employes in such vital industries as railroads and coal, and thus prevent a repetition of such strikes as the coal miners and shopmen's of last year. This unfortunately lies beyond the remedial powers of the legislature of this commonwealth."

The report said that problems of the New Haven and the Boston and Maine railroads cannot be solved by the legislature, but only by cooperation of all governmental agencies concerned, of stockholders and of the community as a whole.

Touching on replacement of shopmen who went on strike the report continued:

"The real difficulty of the railroads was to train men to take the places of those who had formerly been in the roundhouses."

The report was based on a lengthy investigation by the department into passenger service on the lines of railroads entering Massachusetts and was directed by the legislature.

New York, April 2.—Mrs. Rose Martelli of the Bronx today cut the throats of her 3 and 4 year old son and daughter and then slashed her own. The children died. The mother is under arrest at Fordham hospital.

Neighbors discovered the tragedy when, attracted by the odor of escaping gas, they forced the door of the Martelli apartment.

The woman, police believe, called the children into the kitchen separately and killed them. She later took the bodies into the bedroom and, after turning on the gas, laid down beside them and cut her own throat.

TRAILING THE SLAYER OF DOROTHY KEENAN

New York, April 2.—Four trails leading to the slayer of Dorothy King Keenan, artist model friend of John Kearsley Mitchell, wealthy Philadelphia clubman, were being followed tonight by detectives assigned by Police Inspector Coughlin, in whose hands rests the full responsibility for solution of the murder since the withdrawal Saturday of Assistant District Attorney Pecora.

One trail, leading to the discovery of the conspirator who planned a $100,000 blackmail plot against Mitchell, and who is believed to have obtained the model's missing Palm Beach letter written by the Philadelphian a few days before her death, was admittedly nearing its end. Detectives, it was learned, had ascertained the dwelling place of the man and momentarily were expecting to apprehend him.

Another trail led to drug stores, and every patrolman in the city was ordered to canvass drug stores in his precinct tonight in an effort to trace the purchaser of the chloroform used to stifle the model. The empty bottle, with the serial number ripped off, is guarded closely as the most valuable clue in the murder mystery.

A third trail, which has brought no results, led to pawnshops and "fences" where the slayer of Miss Keenan is believed to have disposed of her jewels, valued at $10,000. Detectives were working on the fourth angle in a roundup of close friends of the model in the hope that one of them knew her secrets and could shed additional light in the so-far baffling case.

MAN KILLED AT MEETING OF IRON WORKERS UNION

Cleveland, O., April 2.—One man was shot and instantly killed and another probably fatally wounded in a fight which broke out during an election of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Local Union No. 17 here tonight. Riot calls brought all available police to the meeting hall. The wounded man was taken to a hospital where his condition was said to be critical.

A third man was less seriously hurt.

The dead man is believed to be Bert Bowen of Lakewood. He was shot three times throghu the head and once through the breast.

John O'Brien, secretary of the union, was wounded three times.

Approximately 150 men were in the hall when the fight started, according to information gathered by the police. When the shooting began they began a rush for the stairs and dashed into the street disappearing in the darkness.

That there was a fierce struggle was evidenced by the appearance of the hall. A number of chairs had been broken and furniture overturned and scattered about. Bullet holes marked the walls of the assembly room in several places. Two holes also were found in the wall of the stairway leading from the street.

Addison J. Greenslit was appointed trustee for the estate of Irving Greenbert under $2,000 bonds at a hearing held before United States Referee in Bankruptcy Thomas J. Kelley Monday morning. A total of thirty-one claims have been presented against the estate. At the hearing, Attorney J. L. Kopelman of Hartford, representing Wise, Smith and Company, and Herman Galley, nominated himself as trustee, but withdrew his nomination in favor of Mr. Greenslit.

The creditors waived the right, for the present at least, to examine Mr. Greenberg, who was present at the session. Three attorneys were present to represent various creditors. The following creditors or representatives were present: Russell A. Andrews, Roy W. Downer, Mrs. Katherine Clark, Rev. William S. Gane, A. W. Morrill, Mrs. Peterson, Frank M. Lincoln, Mrs. A. A. Burton, Attorneys Kopelman, Foss and Harvey and Referee Kelley.

About fifty voters were present at the annual meeting of the Windham Center district which was held in the assembly hall of the new school building. Dr. F. E. Guild was selected as moderator and Mrs. John M. Potter as clerk. Mrs. Potter, the treasurer, read her report which showed a balance in the district treasury on March 27, of $213.88 which amount is the largest in years. The following committee was elected; Charles Larrabee, Miss Josephine Bingham, Guy S. Richmond; auditors, F. E. Guild and H. Clinton Lathrop.

Paul E. Hopkins was re-elected collector and Mrs. John M. Potter, clerk and treasurer. A two-mill tax on the grand list amount of $223,878 was voted upon and it will net a total of $447.75. Collector Hopkins reported that of the two-mill tax levied on the district property he had collected $371.07 with a remainder of $76.68 uncollected.

Mr. Hopkins was authorized by the committee to place liens on property of those who had not paid or refused to pay the district tax.

The committee on expenditure reported a total expenditure of $573.66.

A discussion then ensued in regard to securing improved fire fighting facilities. At the present time the district has a small hand-drawn pump and it was pointed out that South Windham had made a contract for a chemical hand-drawn engine having a capacity of forty gallons that could be handled by two men. The price, it was stated, was within the means of the district if one of similar make would be secured. The matter was left in the hands of the committee with power to act.

Two employes, Frank Morrison and Arthur Haggerty were effected by the recent announcement made by the post office department officials to postmasters of first and second class offices that the appropriation for the hire of auxiliary clerks and carriers ran out March 31st. The postmasters were notified Monday to inform their auxiliary clerks and carriers that the office would dispense with their services for the quarter commencing Sunday and ending June 30.

Postmaster John O'Rourke, however, assured the two employes in question that the appropriation for auxiliary clerks would be restored on July 1, as the postoffice business in general throughout the country had increased to such an extent that another appropriation would have to be made.

The postmaster and assistant postmaster, Daniel A. Sullivan, have worked hard for the auxiliary service at the local post office and they regret that it has to be suspended for three months. In their opinion the service should be increased at least in the number of working hours.

As a result of this curtailment of service, it has been found necessary to shorten the hours of business at the local post office and sub-station. Until fruther notice the stamp and general delivery windows and registry and money order departments will open at 8 a. m. and close at 8 p. m. At the sub-station the time for the issuing of money orders and registry matter will close at 5.30 p. m. as compared with 6 p. m. in the past. The last collection from street letter boxes will be made at 5.30 p. m. instead of 6.20 p. m.

Monday morning Postmaster O'Rourke and Assistant Postmaster Sullivan were forced to help in the work of sorting out the large amount which came in during the forenoon and in many other ways there was evidence of the great loss of the auxiliary help. The Sunday mail will also add to the work.

The Willimantic post office was included in the list of first class offices in the country on July 1, 1922, and has a corps of attaches of nine regular carriers and six regular clerks besides other employes. The local office now conducts a business of close to $46,000 a year and ranks as one of the leaders of first class offices for cities under a population of 15,000.

An interesting wedding occurred Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church when Thomas Robarge, son of Mrs. William Robarge of Whiting street, and Charlotte Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Conway of Windham Road were united in marriage by Rev. Charles M. Kelley. Rev. Kelley also sang the nuptial mass. The couple were attended by Arthur Rivy of Hartford and Miss Loretta Robarge of this city, a sister of the groom. Due to the recent death of Mr. Robarge's father the affair was of a quiet nature.

The bride wore a beautiful blue traveling suit with a gray choker and hat and she carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was attired in a black suit with a squirrel choker and gray hat and she carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents on Windham road and was attended by relatives and friends from this city and Hartford. The bridal couple received a large number of beautiful and useful gifts. They left in the forenoon by automobile for New York. Mr. and Mrs. Robarge will be at home to their friends at the junction of Summit and Oak streets after April 5. The newlyweds are both well known in this city and have been employed at the American Thread Company plant here.

Some thirty years ago he got in the business in its present location on North Street.

CHAMPION ADVANCES TO FOURTH ROUND PLAY

New York, April 2—Although closely pressed in every game, most of them forced to deuce, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., defending champion, today defeated George C. Whitlock of New York, 6-1, 6-3, and advanced to the fourth round of the men's national indoor tennis tournament. Hunter's superiority was principally in his brilliant service.

The last of the five entrants, Kei Okuno, of Japan, lost to Henry H. Passford of New York, 8-6, 6-2.

The second round match of Frank T. Anderson of Columbia, who lost the title last year to Hunter, with Jack J. Linderman of Montvale, N. The others are Hunter, Vincent Richards of Yonkers, S. Howard Voshall of Brooklyn, title holder in 1917 and 1918, Herbert L. Bowman, New York state champion, and Percy L. HARVARD BASEBALL TEAM IN OUTDOOR PRACTICE

Cambridge, Mass., April 2.—Candidates for the Harvard varsity baseball team reported for the first outdoor practice of 1923 today. The field practice was deferred, however, until tomorrow. Among those on hand was Captain George Owen, Jr. With the exception of Louis Gordon, captain of the basketball team, all the letter men from last year's team at present attending the university were present.

The initial football practice of the spring delayed for weeks because of unfavorable weather, and scheduled to begin today, was put off until Wednesday.

One hundred candidates for the varsity track team turned out today for the first practice of the year outdoors. Eagerness to participate in the international meet in July between Harvard and Yale and Oxford and Cambridge, it was expected, will bring out fully 100 additional candidates. Candidates for the freshman track team numbered 65.

KID MILLER ALL SET FOR BOUT WITH O'DOWD

HARRY MILLS MAY PLAY WITH MIDDLETOWN TEAM

Unless some local team signs Harry Mills, local all around athlete, pretty soon, Harry will probably sign up with the Middletown state hospital team for the coming season. Harry is out at Middletown, but would like to hook up with a local team for the season, but if there is no opportunity will stay with the Middletown team. Harry played a whale of a game for the local state hospital team last year, covering every position on the team with a great deal of credit. He led the team in hitting, finishing the season with a mark of .417.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hot Springs, Ark., April 2.—John Joseph McGraw, as he was peeling off the civies and donning the baseball garments to open his spring school in San Antonio last month, remarked that "It's not going to be a picnic for my Giants in the National League race this year with that Pirate crew all pepped up and rarin' to go." And J. J. uttered what in our set we usually refer to as a "mouthful."

Pittsburgh has a ball club that would develop Harry Lauder into a daily cash customer if once the Scotchman saw them perform on their Hot Springs drill field. The full company at practice presents forty-five athletes, counting manager and coaches—and not counting Barney Dreyfus, who, as an onlooker chuckles his great joy into the ear of Umpire Hank O'Day each afternoon. And the owner of a ball club, especially when he realizes that forty-five healthy young men are eating and sleeping in a first-class hotel at his expense, must have a real reason for the hilarity.

Players Strong For McKechnie.

Bill McKechnie has the entire company in Hot Springs—and with him to a man. The statement includes Walter Schmidt, the temperamental catcher. Bill is the boss—they all know that and act accordingly. But Bill also is their pal and the spring training is a joy and a pleasure with McKechnie as the generalissimo.

Infield Smooth-Working Machine.

Let's have a look at that Pirate infield. Except for Rabbit Maranville, who was showered with publicity when a member of "Miracle Man" Stallings' Braves, you haven't read feature stories about McKechnie's kiddies who, form his first line of defense. Only one hits in the .300 class. None established fielding records. But when that quartet gets down to business, friends, it's the smoothest-working defensive infield we have ever seen in our training camp one-night stands.

Grimm on first base is what we shall call effervescent. His babbling spirits keep the boys on the jump. Letty batted .293 last year and his defensive figures placed him near the top among first-sackers. He's a southpaw through and through—you know, a bug—but a young man who would look good on any ball club.

Tierney at second is the better of the quartet. His average in '22 was .345. Jimmy may not field so well, but, like Grimm, he is a pepperpot and the type of player one likes to have on a team with prospects. It is unnecessary to say much about Rabbit Maranville, the shortstop. He's the same old jumping jack—and he batted .294 last campaign and hit lots of 'em when they were needed, though he was charged with more times at bat than any other N. L. player. Rabbit is fielding his position as of yore.

Pie Traynor benefited greatly by his experience last season, and with the urge to do his darndest, now that he is a regular, and a pair of hands that are a great help to a man who must snare shots at the hot corner, he'll have Pittsburgh fans howling their approval. He looks to be the best defensive third-sacker in the league. And we think his batting will improve—he hit .281 in 1922.

Spencer Adams May Stay.

Spencer Adams, a twenty-year-old hopeful who toiled last year with Seattle, of the Pacific Coast League, has created such a favorable impression at the spring camp that he probably will be assigned a locker in Forbes Field. Michaels, a Pittsburgh boy who was with Cedar Rapids in '22, and Schwab, a lanky first-baseman who played in Michigan last year, are likely to go back for more experience.

Barnhart, who was a third-baseman before Traynor arrived, and who plays well in the outfield, probably will be the all-around utility man. His spring training was interfered with by illness in his family, but he will be ready when the gong sounds.

It would be an insult to the intelligence of our readers to dwell upon Pittsburgh's outfield. Bigbee, who batted .350 and stole twenty-four bases, and Max Carey, who hit .329 and led the league in pilfers with fifty-one to his credit, are two sweet pa-tutes. Reb Russell, who hit .368 in sixty games after he joined the Pirates last season and who knocked out twelve homers, is the third gardener.

Perhaps Russell is plate shy when southpaw pitchers are shooting at him—that's what they tell us in gossip circles. He didn't look that way in Hot Springs. But with Barnhart, who bats right-handed and who hit .320 last season; Mueller, another right-way batsman who was a utility gardener in '23, and Cuyler, a speedster who stole thirty-five bases and hit .309 in the South Atlantic League last campaign, it will be possible to rest Russell when the lefties are throwing and not weaken the club.

Six Regular Hurlers.

And now we come to the inevitable question—one which never can be successfully answered in the spring—what about the pitchers? Any manager should be satisfied to have Johnny Morrison, Whitey Glazer, Babe Adams and Sergeant Jim Bagby, last season with Cleveland, right-handers, and Wilbur Cooper and Earl Hamilton, southpaws, as the foundation for a hurling corps. All have the experience and ability to aid a pennant contender.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Mickey Blaine of Indian Orchard draws a bout in Hartford against Young Dempsey on the 10th.

Connie Mack has a team better fitted for championship play than any he has produced since 1914.

Georges Carpentier has challenged Marcel Nilles, the French heavyweight champion, to a bout for the championship of France.

Zack Wheat, veteran outfielder captain of the Brooklyn Robins, has signed his contract for 1923 and rejoined his men in New Orleans.

Syracuse's 1923 football campaign begins in earnest one week from Monday, April 9, when Coach John F. Meehan plans to give his squad its first outdoor practice of the year.

Jim Waters, former Bridgeport City League and Industrial League star, is to get a tryout with the Bridgeport club this spring. He is an outfielder and pitcher.

Tommy Noble, the Englishman who replaces Red Chapman on the Holyoke fight card should prove a big drawing card among the British-American sports of this section.

Dick Curley is back in the East again and is making his headquarters in New York. He is managing Sailor Friedman, one of the lightweight possibilities.

The Colar City A. C. of Troy, N. Y. has moved its headquarters from Bolton hall to the Lyric Theatre for the bout between Young Laurette and Italian Joe Gans.

President Lane of the Bridgeport club says that he doubts whether McCann will accept Rafael Quintana, who has been released by the Yanks to the minors, with Bridgeport having first chance.

Eddie Hart, former Worcester first baseman and Lou Dewey of Bridgeport are candidates for umpire berths in the Eastern League this season. Hart may also coach baseball at Roxbury school this spring.

The American Legion will demand that Chapman's eye be examined by Holyoke doctors to verify the claim that it is infected. The club thinks that Chapman did not care for Cooney's punching power.

Billy Dundee evidently thinks he will have a snap in Hartford Thursday night for he is scheduled to box in Holyoke Friday. Thursday he meets Joe Flynn in a preliminary bout.

Clarence Werum, who handled the deal for the recent purchase of the Columbus American Association Baseball club from Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago, was made president of the controlling company. Charles H. Thomas will remain as secretary.

Peter Manning, 1.56 3-4, world champion trotter, will appear for the first time in a race since 1920 in the free-for-all trot, feature of the Blue Ribbon Driving Club's Grand Circuit meeting at Devonshire track in Windsor, Ont., August 2 to 8.

Two rookie pitchers given a trial with the Pittsburgh Nationals at the Hot Springs training camp, were released to the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League. John Jearson of Homestead, Pa., and W. E. Feigert of Mercer county, Pa., were the men selected to go.

Capt. Mike Eddy of the Yale nine has been sent back to New Haven. He was seriously injured Wednesday when he slipped and wrenched his left leg. It is believed that he will be able to play again before the season is over. O'Hearn is now acting captain.

Bill Duryea, who had a tryout with Hartford last season, will be back with his old boss this season, having joined Jack Coffey's Charleston, N. C., club of the South Atlantic League. Duryea showed promise in the Eastern League but was woefully lacking in experience.

All Pierotti Pittsfield's big right hander, who is taking a post graduate course at Washington and Lee College, Lexington, Va., is to pay a visit to Pittsfield this week, at which time it may be decided whether or not he will play baseball this season. Pierotti for a time entertained thoughts of opening a boys summer camp in the Berkshires with "Bo" McMillan, former Centre star, as his partner but it may be that the plan has fallen through and big Al will be back on the mound for the Hilltes.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Call On the Barnyard Folk

As soon as Little Jack Rabbit heard Uncle Lucky toot his horn in the last story, he called out:

"I'm polishing the front door knob. Come around to the front piazza."

So, the old gentleman rabbit hopped out of the Luckymobile, and around to the front porch where he sat on a wooden bench.

"Goodness gracious meebus, but I was lonely at home! Little Miss Mousie has gone out for the day," and taking out his gold watch and chain, he looked at a picture of a pretty lady bunny on the back case.

"What's the matter, Uncle Lucky?" asked the little rabbit, putting the polishing rag and the powder dust back into the box, "are you blue this lovely spring morning?"

"Let's go for a drive!" said the old gentleman rabbit and, after he had blown down his nose with his blue silk polkadot handkerchief, he went into the house to say good morning to Lady Love. She was in the kitchen making carrot flour bread with raisins in it and let me tell you, she made the best bread for miles around.

"Well, pretty soon, the little rabbit was ready to go, for it didn't take him long to feed the canary and bring in the wood.

By and by, after a while they came to the Old Farmyard where Cocky Doodles every morning woke up the cow with the crumpled horn and I guess the time was half past two when he sang his merry cock-a-doo.

Goodness me, if I had known my typewriter was going to write poetry, I would have put it into regular verse, but never mind, for just then, all of a sudden(Mr. Sharptooth Rat looked out of the barn and said:

"Here comes Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit!" out of their little wooden houses and flapped their wings. Pretty soon, Henny Jenny said:

"It's almost time to lay an egg,
But I guess I'll wait a minute
And take a look at my nest of hay
To see if the china egg's in it."

Well, it was, for the kind hearted farmer always left it there, so that this dear little hen wouldnt feel disappointed after he had filled his backet with fresh laid eggs to take to town to sell to Mrs. Jimmy Brown.

By and by, the weathercock on the old red barn turned around on his toe, to show that Billy Breeze was blowing from the south, across the sunny meadow and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

(Copyright, 1923, by David Cory.)

What's the matter, Uncle Lucky?" asked the little rabbit.

for maybe about a minute and thirty-nine seconds. After that, not so very long he snapped down the cover and said:

"Heigh ho! dear long ago
When I was young and snappy,
And a bunny girl with a yellow curl
Made every minute happy."

SCOTTISH SOCCER TEAM FORFEITS TITLE AND CUP TO PATERSON TEAM

New York, April 2.—Unable to put forward a capable team for a play-off game next Sunday with the Paterson, N. J., football club, the Scullin Steel football club of St. Louis, today forfeited its claim to the national soccer championship and gave up the trophy that had been in its possession for a year. The two teams played to a draw at Harrison, N. J., last Sunday.

Four of the Scullin team are baseball players and have left to join clubs with which they were under contract, it was explained. Goalkeeper Oeffermann is with the Hutchinson, Kans., Southwestern league club; Inside Right Rooney is with St. Paul in the American Association; Inside Left Brannigan is with Terre Haute in the Three "I" league, and Outside Left Mulvey is with the Mobile club in the Southern association.

It was pointed out that some of the baseball playing members might have been able to go to St Louis to settle the tie, but the national cup emergency committee decided the play-off would have to be in the east and Manager Tate Brady of Scullins forfeited rather than attempt it with a crippled team. The action is said to be without precedent in American soccer history.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Movies of Hunting Scenes

Moving pictures of fishing and hunting are to entertain the members of the Norwich Fish and Game association when they hold their annual meeting on Wednesday evening, last year at the annual meeting a similar line of hunting and fishing scenes were shown, providing a very entertaining feature for the members alongside of the routine business of the annual meeting.

Breed Theatre.

Usually stories laden with statistics are boresome rather than entertaining or instructive. However, in the case of Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, a United Artists release now showing at the Breed theatre, an exception can be noted, due to the unbelievable speed with which this gigantic production was "shot" was due to the remarkable organization with which Mr. Fairbanks surrounded himself.

He put at the head of each department the most thoroughly competent man obtainable, regardless of price. And at the head of the whole directorial force he placed Allan Dwan, reputed to be the most thorough and swiftest director of productions of the Robin Hood magnitude in the picture industry. With Mr. Fairbanks' own dynamic energy behind this organization to give it impetus, there was never a dull moment from the time the first camera started to the final fadeout.

Here are the cold figures which tell the story of the making of this feature:

Thirty thousand calls issued through casting department to players.

One thousand and eight hundred players used in biggest scene.

Three hundred horses used in a single scene.

Total scenes shot, 1168.

Maximum number of scenes in a day, thirty (in Sherwood Forest).

Minimum number of scenes in a day, two (Banquet Hall).

No time was lost on account of rain. The company worked on one holiday—Decoration Day—and four Sundays. Only four locations were used despite the magnitude of the picture. While the sets were under construction, a crew of 800 was employed, part of the number working at night to speed the work.

Two shows daily at 2.30 and 7.30.

PROMINENT CORSET SPECIALIST HERE ALL THIS WEEK

A marvelous mind for figures makes most people think of a bookkeeper who can juggle enormous columns of numbers and never make a mistake, but, in the case of Mme. Milne who is spending this week in Norwich, a marvelous mind for figures means an almost uncanny knowledge of women's forms and how to bring it out to the best advantage. This marvelous mind for figures has given Mme. Milne a real profession which is a story in itself, and best left to Mme. Milne's own words as given to the reporter, who interviewed her at the Caron Specialty Shop where she is meeting the women of Norwich.

"Years ago," Mme. Milne explained, "my profession was unheard of because of corsets of those days were mere mechanical means of forcing the human figure into the smallest possible space. Today, thank goodness, corsets have a different use.

"My mission is that of a consulting expert on corsets. I see to it that women are made familiar with the corset best adapted to their individual figure. You can wear any one of different corset models but there is only one particular model which will fit you the best and give you the greatest satisfaction. I help you find the corset best adapted to the demands of your figure.

"Then there is the wide field of special corsets. Today a woman may be stout and yet the wizardry of just the right corset will give the sought for effect of slenderness. Truly, the modern corset, properly fitted, can do astonishing things in transforming the figure, bring it out at its best and minimizing its defects.

"The work I do is great fun. Always a new problem. Always someone to help towards a better, trimmer figure, real corset comfort and, in many cases, improved health. I meet the nicest people in the finest cities. This week I'm in Norwich and many women will come to talk with me here at the Caron Specialty Shop. I like to think of them as friends and, as I return to the same cities year after year, it is a genuine pleasure to meet the women I have helped upon former visits."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

An announcement of unusual interest is that of E. V. Ross, appearing on another page.

Mr. Ross is a native of Maine, was educated in the Portland High school, and graduated from Brown University in the class of 1907. Mr. Ross has been engaged in educational work but for the past eight years has been a field executive for the Travelers Insurance Company. Mr. Ross began his insurance training in Chicago and travelled the state of Illinois for three years, was transferred to the Newark, N. J., office in 1917 where he was made production assistant manager. For a short time he travelled in Virginia from the company's Richmond branch office. Just after the signing of the armistice in 1918 Mr. Ross was again promoted to the Pittsburgh, Pa., branch, in the heart of the nation's basic industries. Mr. Ross has been active in church and social work and civic movements. He is well thought of in insurance circles and reputed to be one of the best informed casualty men in the business. He is a member of the insurance federations of New Jersey, Illinois and Pennsylvania, and has hosts of friends among the executives of America's large insurance companies. Undoubtedly Mr. Ross will be well received by the people of Norwich in whose behalf we extend him a hearty welcome.

At the Broadway.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville presented at the Broadway theatre last night was a success in every respect.

Howard & Earl offered a song and dance act that was pleasing.

The Man Off the Ice Wagon followed with a singing novelty. It was a treat to hear the rich tenor voice that this artist has.

Swan & Farrell offered a comedy The Perfect Songs which had plenty of laughs.

Reilly, Feeney and Reilly appeared in comedy and melody. This is a very capable trio and pleased greatly.

Lates Bros. closed the bill with a real novelty. Clare A. Luies is called the "wizard of the feet." A surprise is in store for all who see him.

With an immortal story, a star of dynamic personality and a cast of players whose names might be played up separately as stars, Under Two Flags at the Broadway theatre today as a Universal-Jewel offering of the highest standard.

Priscilla Dean stars as the pathetic Cigarette, James Kirkwood is opposite her, and John Davidson, Ethel Grey Terry, Stuart Holmes, W. H. Bainbridge, Fred Craven, Burton Law and Bobby Mack have other important parts.

Ouida did not dream of the success to which her story would come. She died in poverty in France, and very few knew that the passing of Louise de la Ramee, as she was in private life, was the eclipse of a brilliant career. As is the case with many a great genius, she died without the reward that was justly hers. If she had lived but a few years longer fame immeasurable would have come to her.

Choosing such a mighty vehicle for Priscilla Dean, Universal executives knew that a director of unquestioned superiority would have to guide the filming. Tod Browning, who shared credit with Miss Dean for the phenomenal run of Outside the Law and The Virgin of Stamboul, was assigned to repeat these successes.

At the Strand.

A motion picture actress must often reverse, in practice, the theory of reincarnation, says Gloria Swanson, famous Paramount star.

And to prove that it can be done, she dons a bejewelled costume and headdress, steps into a setting representative of the architecture of the ancient race of the Incas in South America and becomes to all appearances an Inca princess of hundreds of years ago.

The sequence is a cut-back vision in her latest Paramount picture, My American Wife, which is showing at the Strand theatre now and in which she plays the role of an American girl in a romance with a young Argentine sportsman and aristocrat. In a love scene between the girl and the man, played by Antonio Moreno, the hero points out an old portrait hanging on the walls of his estancia or country mansion and tells her the story of the subject of the portrait one of his forebears; how he came over with the early Spanish conquistadores and after his conquests won for himself a beautiful Inca princess as a bride. In the scenes depicting this story, Miss Swanson plays the role of an Inca princess, while Moreno portrays the Spanish warrior.

The setting was prepared and the costumes selected after careful research of the architecture of the Incas and the people of that period and several days were required to construct the set in the studio tank and make the scenes. The ball room of the president's mansion in Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, is reproduced. The dramatic climax of this picture takes place in this setting on the occasion of a reception given by the president-elect of the republic to statesmen, diplomats and political leaders of the South American nation. Some two hundred players were used in the scenes as guests of the reception.

A comedy and news complete the bill.

REDUCED TROLLEY FARES.

The fact that a decrease in the trolley fares has been put into operation this week throughout the state means more than the cutting of a trolley fare five-sixths of a cent.

It means in the first place that the company receipts under the previous rate had reached such a point that it is being a profitable business, and that the revenue is such that it can safely offer a reduction and expect through increased business to maintain and possibly increase that revenue.

It means also, in all probability, that the company has gotten to the point where it can pay up its back taxes and meet those that are accruing, a fact that will be gratifying to those who handle the state financial problems, and likewise equally pleasing to those who some few years ago recognized the justice of the trolley company's plea and extended the time in which its obligations could be met.

It means also that the company is being conducted on a better basis through the establishment of economies and that henceforth a continuation of such improvement is bound to be reflected in the service, the equipment and possibly needed extensions.

It also means that the company is sticking to its promise to the effect that it would reduce rates just as soon as conditions warranted it.

And the business on the electric lines is showing improvement, is therefore a cause for satisfaction to many more than those directly involved. It doesn't, of course, mean that they are out of the woods. It does mean that the policies that have been followed are bringing results and there are reasons for believing that they will continue.

A reduction in fares is always welcomed. How soon it will be before it will be possible to get back to the five-cent fare no one can predict. Every move in that direction brings it nearer and with increased patronage on the lines the date may not be as far off as imagined.

PUT RESPONSIBILITY WHERE IT BELONGS.

Certainly an investigation into the sugar situation can do no harm. And it should include, as it is, an inquiry into the effect of the tariff upon the present price of the sweet stuff.

The boosting of the price of sugar has been used by some to make a drive against the tariff. Had the increase in the price been only such as the tariff might have added there might be some ground for placing the responsibility there. But there was no stop at that point. Sugar has gone far beyond anything that the tariff might have caused.

It is within the power of the president to cut the tariff rate on sugar or other commodities if it is established that the rates are unjustified by such investigations as the tariff commission makes. The president has intimated that he stands ready to do whatever the investigation warrants. But on the other hand it is difficult to see how the cutting in two of the tariff on sugar is going to get the price of sugar back to normal. Cut the entire tariff off and such would not be possible. It would simply mean that the revenue would be lopped off but those who have driven up the price through manipulations would still be getting just as great a profit as they are getting today just as long as they are able to maintain the price control.

The drive against the tariff is not the way of getting the relief that is sought. Inasmuch as there is no shortage sugar prices should be much nearer normal. Those who have manipulated the market, made the consumer the goat through an error made in reporting the sugar production figures and are trying to hide behind the tariff need to be smoked out, the real facts disclosed and steps taken in accord with what the situation shows. The idea of putting the responsibility for what was done by profiteers upon the tariff is frankly unjust.

PROTECTING WILL MAKERS.

Just how the New York will fact with a piece of legislation that is sought to protect those who make a will and to put an end to much time that is now occupied by the courts is uncertain; but there is no question but what it will be followed with keen interest by other states.

Every now and then there are those who take exception to the manner in which a person disposes of his property. The fact that he may stipulate in a will how he wants it to go, and how it would in all probability go if he was able to guide it, doesn't always mean that it is distributed that way. Many are the suits that are brought for the breaking of wills. Some succeed and some do not. It is often not an unprofitable means of effecting a compromise, while the attacks are of course profitable to those who are called upon to support the prosecution of the claims or defense of the document. The inevitableness to

THE REFUGEE SITUATION.

It is time to take stock for an adjustment of the refugee situation in the near east Secretary Hughes tells the British, French, Italian and Greek governments. Bad as the conditions are it is folly to continue to pour funds into a situation that is only temporary at the best. What is needed is to reach a settlement and devote such efforts as are certain to be continued in behalf of the refugees to the end that it may be of permanent benefit. Just as long as the present situation is permitted to continue as it is, it will get no better. It is a sore that needs to be healed up and Secretary Hughes is doing the right thing in calling the attention of the European governments to that fact.

Much of the trouble in the near east has developed from the failure to get down to business and deal with the problems. The policy of delay has caused Europe much worry. In just the same degree that procrastination has governed the actions concerning the general near east situation will it also do the same thing relative to the refugees unless a start is made to correct it.

Inasmuch as he has put forth the proposition it seems not improbable that the department of state is in touch with the sentiment of the governments to which it has appealed. The time for concerted action having arrived this government is making a move to bring it to a head. Secretary Hughes well says that it is time to devote the efforts to real constructive work instead of permitting the situation to drag along as it is and steadily call for temporary relief.

WILL TURKEY YIELD.

From the note which has been sent to the Kemalists of Turkey it is evident that the allied nations realize that the attainment of their objects will come easier through a discussion of the merits of the proposition as urged by each side rather than by the display of a belligerent spirit.

Turkey takes the position it has because of the success it had with the Greeks. It is unable to look at the situation in any other light. There are features of the treaty that both sides are ready to accept. There are others which are strenuously opposed by Turkey, and in the counter proposition the allies find it next to impossible to comply with the Turkish ideas.

But when the note is sent to Turkey calling a parley and there are intimations that a common basis may be reached it becomes apparent that an effort along the lines of a compromise holds out the best promise for a satisfactory adjustment. Whether Turkey will meet it in a similar spirit remains to be seen. How far those around the table will be willing to go in behalf of peace is decidedly uncertain. Concessions may be required and they may be made but it is highly probable that there will be limits beyond which either side will not go.

When the allies indicate that there are clauses that may be much modified, it remains to be seen whether Turkey responds in the same vein. The allies have insisted on keeping open the doors to an early peace and if Turkey is at all imbued with the same idea something may come out of the Lausanne conference. Turkey in its present attitude, however, doesn't offer any too much encouragement.

SETTING HER RIGHT

"Good evening, Mr. Dunning! I'm so sorry I will not walk home with you, but mother gave me your message about coming up tonight," welcomed the frill who wore her skirt longer than the new fashion demanded, and would have passed as decidedly pretty if she had not combed her hair straight up and back, thereby exposing both ears and a forehead slightly too high. Also she was absolutely without her customary facial beauty aids, a state of affairs which somewhat puzzled the good-looking young school principal whom she cordially waved to a chair.

"Thanks," he replied vaguely, eyeing her curiously as he sat down. "I want to congratulate you upon your speech to the girls of your school," began the young lady enthusiastically. "I certainly agree with you in your stand on how girls should dress. You see," she smiled archly, "I heard that speech."

He looked mystified. "I don't understand," he stammered. "I delivered it in the school hall and—"

"I know it," she laughed. "Mabelle Hoyt, one of your seniors, told me you were going to talk to them that afternoon on how to dress, or not to dress, or something like that, so while the classes were marching up to the top floor I slipped in and sat down in the rear of the hall."

"But, Miss Simington," he protested, eagerly, "you understand that my little talk was meant for the girls of the school."

"However, it applied very aptly to all of us. I have already begun my dresses much longer, as you see," putting out one daintily slippered foot to demonstrate her assertion. "You also recommended quiet, neutral colors on all occasions, so—"

The good looking young principal was vainly agitated. "Really—!"

"Not only that, but you said girls spent too much time on their hair and that you liked to see them with hair dressed plainly and neatly." She passed a speculative hand over her slicked-black tresses.

He stared at her sleek head, and squirmed, "My advice was meant only for those school girls," he said. "Now in your case—"

"But I can profit from your talk as well as the girls in your school," purred the potentially pretty girl, "and I think your ideas are exactly right. I have been of your opinion for a long time, but I never had the courage to discard my short, fluffy little frocks, and my curls, and so on, until I heard your speech. And ever since Tuesday I've tried to live up to your ideas. I really do believe as you do," gazing

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Religion and Christianity

Mr. Editor: Religion and Christianity are as opposite as night and day. Many use them if they were synonymous and parallel. Man is religious by birth but he can become a Christian only by choice. I believe the fullness of time has come when Christians and the Christian church must stand out for a distinction in the meaning of the two words as applied to the Christian faith.

Religion is natural. Christianity is spiritual. Man is instinctively religious, but he becomes a Christian only by complying with Christ's teachings as set for by Him and His disciples.

Wherever man has been found he had some form of worship—a religion. This outstanding fact proves that it devolved upon God to reveal to man a true religion which is Christianity. This also is proof of the divinity of Christianity. That is to say Christianity may conveniently be called the Christian religion but religion as the word is common used is not Christianity.

Religion intensifies man's prejudice, but Christianity has just the opposite effect and modifies man's prejudice, to just the extent to which he becomes imbued with its power. This fact is evinced by the changed attitude of the jailor who washed the stries of Paul and Silas, of Stephen when being stoned, of Paul after his Damascus trip and the spirit of Christ Himself when crucified and prayed "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

The fact that religion intensifies man's prejudice is the only clear reason or explanation that can be given for the awful persecutions done in the name of religion as described in history. So in reality it was religion that did it.

Religion does not and cannot transform human nature because religion is a natural propensity transmitted from parents to children. It has no other force than to arouse a desire for better of a future life and can take man only so far as to make good resolutions Under its influence man can evolve a code of rules of life and conduct and reduce it to a system of living which he can conceive to be better than any other. And then, by force, he can compel other men to adopt his code or system. That is religion but not Christianity.

Christianity cannot be transmitted by parents to children. And it is not a natural propensity. But it is in direct opposition to human nature. Christianity not only proposes to transform human nature—"To make a man a new creature in Christ Jesus" —but offers to supply the power needed to accomplish that result. It is very explicit to stipulate both negative and positive steps necessary in the process. But since this article is only to deal with such facts as prove the distinction between religion and Christianity, I cannot elaborate on that point as otherwise it might be well to do.

St. Paul, Jerry McCaully and Billy Sunday are outstanding examples of transformed men and doubtless the reader is familiar with examples within his own experience.

As proof that the power is furnished from outside of the individual so transformed and at the same time being a divine power, I cite the reader to the following texts.

"Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." "Without Me ye can do nothing." "I can do all things through Christ Who strengtheneth me." And "Tarry ye at Jerusalem until ye be endowed with power from on high." These are proof enough that the power of a Christian is a supplied force and which is necessary and which when applied will transform the natural man into "a new creature in Christ Jesus."

That in itself is something religion has never accomplished in the past and never can accomplish in the future. Reader bear in mind that religion admits of serving self but Christianity's first principle is self-sacrifice and service to others. So that if you want to serve self you may have religion but until you are willing to sacrifice self to service you are not a Christian.

The Last Straw

Mickey is a collie pup that was given to Mary last Christmas by her sister. He has done a number of things that a dog should not do, but his wagging tail, roguish expression and roly-poly antics have always won forgiveness. But now Mickey is in disgrace.

Mary's mother didn't get angry when Mickey pulled the cover off the table and broke one of the best china cups, and her father forgave Mickey when he chewed a sole off one of his house slippers. And of course Mary couldn't do anything when he tore one of her best silk stockings.

But last week when the landlord came Mickey met him at the front porch.

Mary's papa has heard from it and he says "It's too much."

Wives of Famous Men

The wife of John Sebastian Bach

What Shakespeare is to literature, Rembrandt to portrait painting, and Michael Angelo to sculpture, John Sebastian Bach is to organ music. So says the biographer of the famous German composer. Nor was he the first Bach with musical abilities. The Bach family is one of the finest examples that a believer in heredity could find to prove his theory. For over 20 years the Bachs "sounded the A for nearly all Germany," as it is aptly put. To this great family of musicians did John Sebastian add his illustrious name.

The girl he married was also a Bach, cousin to her husband. The children of these two inherited the musical talent of their ancestors, but with them it ceased for some reason or other. Who knows when the next great Bach may add his name to the line?

The first we hear of Bach's wife is a rather astounding incident. In a list of charges brought against the boy at one time we find:

"We further charge him with bringing into the choir loft a strange maiden who made music." He made no reply to this accusation except that a few weeks later he married this maiden who was his cousin. It was not the custom in those days to educate the daughters of the house and there is some doubt as to whether Bach's wife could read or write. But her tastes in music were well defined and she was an ideal wife for this famous musician. They were very happy together and his wife's understanding of his work proved a great help to Bach. In the evenings he would sit and sing or play his newest composition to his wife, who was one of his most sympathetic hearers. In this way her understanding of his art made them companions which is more than can be said of many another couple famous in the world's music history.

Bach's was not a very romantic nature, but he suffered a severe shock when he heard that his wife had died while he was on tour with the Cöthen Orchestra. He was heartbroken for a time but the wound healed quickly, for not long after he married again.

NEW BOOKS

Hoyt's New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations. Revised by Kate Louise Roberts. Buckram 1343 pages including index. Published by Funk & Wagnalls Co., New York. Price $8.50.

In these days of the strenuous life no one has the time to dig for the diamonds in the literary mind. Here is a work by an expert who has done it in a thoroughly comprehensive manner. Every quotation has been carefully selected and placed with fine discrimination and good judgment under its most appropriate head that it may be immediately available to anyone who consults the book.

This unique work contains 21,000 quotations from 3,000 authors; 1,038 topical headings and 115,620 entries in the concordance index. In its pages the author presents the most complete collection of practical and usable literary and linguistic gems that has ever been gathered within the covers of a book. There is also an alphabetical list of the authors quoted with date of birth and death and brief characterization.

Untiring patience and perseverance has provided this treasure house of golden thought and the value of a book to all who love the glories of our literature is immeasurable. The comprehensive concordance would make a portly volume of itself. Under the world soul alone, with its plural, the location of more than 400 citations is given. The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages have been been garnered within the covers of this book.

It is a delight to find a volume which contains such phrases and quotations popularized during the days of the Word War as "I have a rendezvous with Death," "To keep faith," "The world must be made safe for democracy," "a scrap of paper," "spurlos versenkt," "splendid isolation," "To you from failing hands we throw the torch, "We shall not sleep though poppies grow in Flanders Fields," for to our knowledge, some of these appear in any other book of quotations.

The River Road. By Hamilton Thompson. Frontispiece by George W. Gage. Cloth, 316 pages. Published by W. J. Watt & Co., New York. Price $1.90.

Particular interest will be felt in this vicinity in this book which was written by a former New London man, Charles H. Thompson, who was prominently identified with newspaper work for a number of years in that city, and who has written his story about certain localities in that end of the county.

It is the first effort of Mr. Thompson in this line and he has produced such a fascinating story that there is no question but what he will be urged to further effort in this direction. For its delightfully quaint humor, its philosophy, its freshness, and withal its dramatic tale of love, tears and laughter, The River Road easily takes its place beside the best stories that have been written about the interesting and the fascinating region of the New England fishing coasts. The author is familiar with what he writes about. He tells his story in that attractive manner which grips the attention and makes it difficult to lay the book aside until finished.

The River Road is a thrilling colorful yarn filled with good natured satire but with scathing rebuke for small-town tolerance. It is drama, too, as its best where love, faith and honor rise triumphant, unconquerable. The characters are most interestingly pictured and fitted into a story that well reflects Mr. Thompson's ability as a writer.

The Middle of The Rhine. By Victor Lefebure, Cloth, illustrated, 282 pages with index. Published by E. P. Dutton & Company, New York.

The author of this book was on the firing line with the British from the time the Germans threw over the first poison gas until the end of the World war. As the result of his service and study he has written the last word on chemical warfare. His word is considered authoritative by Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Wilson and other chemical authorities.

Major Lefebure claims that, owing to the almost complete obscurity that has surrounded chemical warfare, extremely important issues are being neglected. He regards chemical disarmament as the most vital factor for a comprehensive world peace in the future. The existence of the German chemical monopoly exists as a threat to that peace. Can the allied nations obtinter that danger? Will Germany co-operate? These are the important questions today and the author claims that by disarming on purely 1914 lines we are living in a fool's paradise.

Though the author's conclusions are sensational the book gives a sane and convincing description of the possibilities of future chemical warfare. It is a powerful appeal for that comprehensive disarmament without which a stable peace can never be secured.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package and mix fresh as wanted.

CROWDED AGENDA FOR COMMON COUNCIL

ORDINANCE AND FIRE APPARATUS

The court of common council had one of the busiest sessions in many a month Monday evening when practically all business before the boiled wash brought up and disposed of.

In view of the fact that Norwich, the same as other cities, has had complaints of cold amusement houses an ordinance dealing with this was read to be passed upon at some future meeting. The ordinance reads as follows: No person shall give or take any public display of any amusement, sport performance, concert, opera or public exhibition of any kind in any building in the city of Norwich between October 1st and April 1st when the temperature is paid building is below 65 degrees Fahrenheit at any time during such public display.

Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars.

A hearing on the proposed ordinance is to be given May 7th at the regular meeting of the council, notice being first given legally to the public.

Petitions Presented

The meeting was opened at 8:45 o'clock by Mayor Mile R. Waters and minutes of the last meeting were accepted without reading. The following petitions were presented and acted upon: that the public works committee do as much as is possible with the south side of North Main street between Brin and 6th streets, signed by over 100 voters, referred to the public works committee; that grades for the south side of Dunham street be established, petition by Clarence A. Amburn, referred to the public works committee.

Petition from over 100 boys of Greeneville for a playground in that section of the city either off Central avenue, or off North Main street referred to the finance committee and recreation commission.

Traffic Congestion

Petition from the Norwich chamber of commerce that traffic congestion at the corner of Broadway and Main street and Shetucket and Main streets be lessened by prohibiting the taking on or letting off of passengers of trolley cars at the stops now at the corners mentioned. Mayor Waters explained that this had been discussed for some time and that Superintendent Samuel Anderson of the Connecticut company had been spoken to about the matter could be adjusted on order from the council or police. It was suggested that the stop be changed to further west on Main street and further south on Shetucket street, cars to stop at the corner only on signal of the traffic officer. The petition was referred to the police committee.

Petition from Hourigan Bros. and others that a building line be established on the north side of Main street between the Roman steps and Bread alley referred to finance committee and corporation counsel.

Water Street Petition

Petition from A Davison and others that the section of Water street not made permanent be completed as the street now is a disgrace to the city and hinders growth of business on the street. The petitioners also felt that Water street should be benefitted as it is means of lessening traffic through Main street. Referred to the public works committee. Mayor Waters stated that the work would be done as soon as the gas and electric department fixed their pipes in the street as the city would not lay permanent work until all repairs had been made.

Claims for damages from Rosanna Marjas and Mary E. Bundy for broken bones resulting from falls on city street, were referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

Sidewalk Grades Reported

The following reports were made and resolutions proposed by the public works committee, on which hearings were set for May 7th at 7:30 p. m., that grades be established on Lafayette street to the south side of Williams street, sidewalk width to be five feet.

Grades for sidewalks on Carroll avenue on the south side.

Grades and lines for Goldberg avenue to be established from Maple Grove avenue to Sturtevant avenue, sidewalk width to be 4½ feet.

To establish grades and lines on Geer avenue, sidewalk width to be 6 feet.

That sidewalks be laid on the west side of Lafayette street at expense of owners to meet requirements of city and street commissioners, if not then to be laid by city and bill collected from owners. Work must be done by July 1, 1923.

Councilman Crooks asked about the fence on Central avenue and Mayor Waters replied that the work would be done and the fence carried to the top of Scofield hill as soon as possible, thus doing away with existing danger.

The monthly reports of the street commissioner and city treasurer, and the quarterly reports of the chief of police and fire marshall were accepted without reading and voted to be printed in the council journal.

For Fire Apparatus

The board of fire commissioners recommended that petitions by residents of Greeneville and the Falls for fire apparatus and fire station from proceeds of the sale of the Main street station be granted, and that their petition be included in the warning for the special city meeting to be called by Mayor Waters, when action is to be taken by the voters on the sale and money derived from the sale of the Main street property. The report was accepted.

Turn Down Hospital Bills

The finance committee recommended that no action be taken on the five bills presented against the city by the W. W. Backus hospital, that they be not approved or paid. The report was accepted.

Laurel Hill Avenue Improvement

The public works committee reported that as permanent street improvements on Laurel Hill avenue are to be made the tracks of the Connecticut company are to be replaced in the center of the street. The company has waived the right for a hearing and the tracks will be re-located as called for by plans for the cementing of Laurel Hill avenue. The report recommended that the Connecticut company be ordered to re-locate its tracks and notice be given them by April 6th. The report was accepted and resolutions adopted.

The following reports and resolutions of the public works committee were also adopted; that the Connecticut company be permitted to re-locate poles on the West Side trolley line from Thames street to the city line, and on the Yantic line from Franklin square to Lafayette street at the city line.

GIVEN $200 FINES ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGES

Fines of $200 and costs for Joseph Duchette and Tony Desario on the charge of violation of the liquor law were imposed in the police court Monday morning by Judge Arthur F. Libby. Duchette paid but Desario appealed.

Duchette was behind the bar at 47 Franklin street when the police raided the place Saturday night and a bottle which he threw down the cellar stairs was part of the evidence against him.

Desario was arrested when he came to police headquarters to offer bail for Duchette. In court Desario was convicted on the evidence of Duchette who testified that Desario had hired and paid him for working at the place and that Desario had furnished the liquor that was sold there.

Four men who were arrested on charges of intoxication when the police raided the place were each fined $5 and costs and each paid $14.56.

R. T. Brown, a young man from Westerly, who was arrested on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, escaped the usual $200 fine for this offense. He won leniency from the court when he told the judge that he was getting wages of $18 a week, was the only support of his widowed mother and at the same time was trying to run a Ford.

Two other men were fined for intoxication.

Thence the voyage was resumed by transport Thomas, stopping at Guam, and arriving at Manila Saturday, March 10. It was a pleasant and wonderful voyage all the way through.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Goodyear Cotton Mills, Inc., and the Connecticut Mills are the two latest concerns to announce wage advances for their employes. At the Goodyear plant the notices were posted Monday. The amount of the advance is not stated, but it will be approximately the same as the advances allowed within the past week in textile plants in this territory. Both concerns hereinmentioned manufacture automobile tire duck and give employment to upwards of 1,000 people. At the present time the tire fabric business Goodyear concern is making more is showing improvement and the tires than ever before in its history—an output of about $3,000 a day.

Now is the time to consider your monthly deposit in the savings department of the Windham County National bank, where it will be surrounded by all of the protection afforded by the very strict laws, rigidly enforced, by the United States government. Deposits made on or before the fifth day of the month. The Windham County National Bank, Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Reports from East Killingly late Monday afternoon relative to the Larkin family were that Cromwell, one of the two remaining members, was so seriously ill with pneumonia that grave doubt was felt as to his recovery. He was so desperately sick at times during Sunday night and the early hours of Monday that his passing away at any time was feared. Byron, the other brother, also remains in critical condition, but the hope for his recovery was somewhat stronger during Monday.

East Killingly as a community is depressed over the tragic outcome of the pneumonia cases in the Larkin family, who have lived in that territory for many years.

At his home in East Killingly Monday afternoon Judge James N. Tucker said that rarely in his life time was he known the lakes about that place to be covered with ice so late in the season, though he recalled one year when the ice did not go out until April 4. Rarer still, Judge Tucker says, is the record made for cold on April 1, when at sunrise the temperature on the high ground where he lives was at 8 degrees above zero, the lowest record for the date in well over half a century.

There is cause for good cheer here in southern New England, however, in spite of the backward season. Consider the comment of a visitor who arrived here Monday from Prince Edward Island. When he left there last week snow was so deep in places as to cover the tops of telegraph poles bordering the railroad line and drifts were piled up so one could not see out a car window. Danielson has much to complain of as to weather, but it has experienced nothing in the early days of spring to match that.

How about farm labor for the spring and summer season? This is a problem now commanding the attention of owners and operators of farms. During the war high scales of wages effective in many lines of industry had a tendency to draw farm labor into other occupations. Wartime conditions are being approximated again this spring, when wages in various lines are advancing to new levels, though not reaching quite in some cases to the high records made in the war. The advance is sufficient, however, to be disturbing to the farmer who needs help to produce food stuffs in sufficient quantity to make his venture profitable.

Boxing fans have another evening of entertainment coming to them this week. Promoter Frank Barber has his card of matches practically complete and promises another fine show for the fans. Boxing has become so popular in this territory that upwards of 500 people saw the last series of matches in the town hall.

Easter Monday was allowed to slip by this year without an important concert and ball. This is unusual in Danielson, but the date did not seem to appeal to those who usually arrange such affair for the period immediately after Lent. Many from here were at Putnam Monday evening to attend the K. of C. ball and others attended dances in other towns and cities.

The more than four score Danielson members of Putnam lodge of Elks are interested in the fact that a lodge of the order is to be instituted in Webster on April 25, and that as members of Putnam lodge they are invited to attend. It also so happens that the nucleus of the Webster lodge is made up of former members of Putnam lodge, so the institution will be very much of a family affair for all the Elks in this section of the county.

Roads that broke down in this territory a little more than a week ago are now in fairly good condition and in no way hamper getting from place to place in motor cars. Crushed stone was used to fill in holes and ruts cut in the surface of the state highways by heavy trucks and gravel is now being spread over these repaired places to further improve their condition. It is believed that such frost as remains in the ground will not be the means of having the roads break down in any degree when it does come out. In fact, the assumption is that the worst is over for this spring.

Some trout fishermen who have been out the first two days of the open season have had fairly good luck. It has been mighty cold and uncomfortable along the brooks, some of which are bordered with ice, but big pools have given up some fine fish and the reports encourage those who have not yet been out that the season will be a good one.

At the convent of Mary Immaculate, Park Street, Hartford today, two Danielson young women will be received into the Sisterhood of St. Joseph. They are Miss Blanche Mailhot and Miss Ellen Varieur. They have been in Hartford the past six months in preparation for today's entrance into the order and the reception of their habits. The Sisters of St. Joseph have a convent in Danielson and for more than a quarter of a century have been in charge of St. James' school. A number of Danielson young women have become members of this sisterhood, the Mother house of which is in France.

The death of Albert Gay of Attawaugan takes away another of Killingly's old residents. Mr. Gay was 76 years of age and had lived in this town for a great many years. He was a veteran of the civil war and a member of the G. A. R. Burial was in Putnam Heights cemetery.

The Danielson Rod and Gun club has an area of land on the Davis property on Ellisville road and it will afford the club a location for trap shooting and other diversions. The location is particularly desirable because it is right off a state highway and practically on the trolley line. The club has traps and plans to stage a number fo trap shooting events during the spring and summer season.

Now comes the man who charges the unusually cold weather to the Aurora Borealis. To date his prediction that it would be followed by three weeks of very unseasonable weather seems in line to be realized, for ten days of the time already have passed.

It is pleasing in prospect at least to think that Danielson as a borough is going to have a lower tax rate this year.

Delegates from the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church will be at New London Wednesday for the opening sessions of the Southern New England conference.

The annual election and business meeting of the borough is scheduled for Monday of next week.

Robert Bruce, sub-master at Killingly High school, has been spending the Easter recess period at his home in Behlin, this state.

Harold A. Bettison of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

The sucker spearing season has opened. These fish have been seen in numbers in brooks as well as in the rivers hereabouts.

George A. Holden of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

Cards have been received here, postmarked Jerusalem, from Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard, who with Mrs. Hibbard has been abroad for a number of weeks.

Much replacing of ties will be done through this territory this spring by the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. company. Creosoted ties are now stacked up along the right fo way so as to be available for use when the replacement season opens.

Connecticut Forest Guides

Following the example of Pennsylvania, the State Forester of Connecticut has introduced a plan by which the Scout Masters will nominate several of their troop to serve as Forest Guides. Norwich is entitled to 20. Each troop being entitled to 2. These scouts will be instructed along lines of fire prevention and conservation of forests, flowers and wild life. Each Guide will subscribe to carry out this plan and will be awarded a badge.

In the above work of fighting fires, the Boy Scouts will cooperate wherever possible, and do a good turn to the state.

PUTNAM

Fair warning is given by Dog Warden William Jarvis that a campaign against roaming and unlicensed dogs is to be opened in Putnam. Mr. Jarvis said Monday that this town needs attention and that it is to receive it in the immediate future. However, those who have unlicensed dogs or who allow their dogs to roam are to be given a chance to register the animals to keep the roamers confined. Having given warning Mr. Jarvis feels that there will be little excuse for those who complain against being prosecuted once he starts to operate. It is likely the cleanup will start in Putnam this week, so those who would benefit by the warning need to be prompt.

Mr. Jarvis said Monday that a dog recently brought here from Attleboro died on Pomfret street Sunday. This dog may have been ill with rabies or possibly died in a fit. The first heard about the case was a notification to Captain Remi Delage. He turned the matter over to Mr. Jarvis for investigation.

Up to Monday afternoon the dog had not been buried and Mr. Jarvis had not decided up to that time whether the head would be removed and sent to New Haven for examination.

Following services conducted by Rev. J. W. Carter of the Methodist church at Attawaugan, the body of Albert E. Gay was taken to Putnam Heights Sunday for burial. Mr. Gay died Friday night. He was 76 years of age and a native of Gloucester, R. I. Mr. Gay was a veteran of the Civil war and long had been a member of the G. A. R. He had lived in the town of Killingly for many years.

The body of Mrs. Julia Moffitt, 81, is at the rooms of a local undertaking firm and on Monday arrangements were being perfected for the funeral. Mrs. Moffitt, formerly a resident of this section died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. F. Jewett in Chelsea, Mass., where she had been making her home.

When curious persons asked Jacob Alpert, who seems to know a great deal that he won't tell about the matter, why the big sign that has provoked so much interest was not changed on the First National bank building Sunday, Mr. Alpert pointed that Sunday was April 1, and there is a tradition of long standing about this particular date being April Fool day. Mr. Alpert remained uncommunicative as to the significance of the sign, but did divulge that it is to be taken down, probably today, to be replaced with another equally mysterious. So here again will be something for the public to ponder over and wonder what it's all about.

Battered much after the style of one who has figured on the losing end of a fist fight, Herbert Aucoin was before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court Monday morning to answer to a charge of having been intoxicated. Aucoin was represented by Attorney Arthur S. Macdonald. The accused, it appeared, appeared in court because of some transactions that occurred in his own home, where there happens to be a boarder. The complaint was that Aucoin had become drunk at home, and a legal point was raised by his attorney over being intoxicated in such a case and such a place. Judge Geissler found Aucoin technically guilty, the penalty imposed being a mild one.

George William White, 16, before the court charged with having committed perjury to obtain a motor vehicle operators' license. The perjury consisted of taking oath that he was 18 years of age, the minimum age at which such licenses are issued in Connecticut, when he is but 16 years old.

On this charge the court imposed a sentence of two months in jail, suspending execution of the sentence and placing White on probation for six months. For operating a motor vehicle without having a legal right to do so, the court imposed a fine of $1 and costs of $2.

White's case furnishes still another warning against the practice of youths in misrepresenting their age to state police officers in order to obtain an operators' license. Perjury is a very serious offense and may be very severely dealt with by the courts.

An event that, recurring each spring, opens the post-Easter season of social activities brought several hundred people to Union hall Monday evening for the 30th annual concert and ball of Cargill council, Knights of Columbus.

This year the decorations were particularly beautiful and included emblems of the order and other special things, including an illuminated fountain of water in front of the stage and attractive electrical devices.

Mr. and Frank Sherlock led the march that preceded the dancing. The gowns worn at the ball were unusually pretty and suggestive of the spring season. The attendance at the ball was representative of all the communities hereabouts and of more distant cities and towns.

Music was by Yaffe's orchestra and the concert numbers included Love Nest, Saw Mill Road, Porcelain Maid, Love and the Moon, Just Like a Doll, I Still Can Dream, Sweetheart Lane, Amushka (from Chauve Souris), Month of May, and Journey's End.

Edward W. Mullan was floor director and his aids were Rossrio Beausoliel and L. H. Lucier. J. Montville was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The ball was very much of a social and financial success.

All receiver in bankruptcy matters pending in the superior court in Windham county are to receive notice from the clerk of the superior court in this city that they are now expected to make their semi-annual reports, in compliance with new rules now in effect. Requsts that such repors be filed have been made by Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court.

In a decision just handed down by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court Mary Alice Anderson White has been allowed a decree of divorce from Claude White. The divorce, tried here some time ago, was granted on the ground of habitual intemperance. The couple formerly were resident in the town of Brooklyn.

Chasing chimney and brush fires has been the recent duty of members of the fire department. None of these fires have caused damage of any material amount, but they have been regarded as more than usually dangerous on account of the high winds that have prevailed recently.

This week Putnam's recently organized Rotarians have something extra planned in the way of diversion. On Wednesday evening they will have a theatre party and afterwards a period of dancing. Wives and women friends of the members will be guests at the party planned for tomorrow evening.

The cold weather notwithstanding, trout fishermen who had sufficient courage and enthusiasm have been out the past two days and caught some very strings of trout. Some brooks were particularly productive of fine catches—better than the fishermen had hoped for, the conditions considered. Scores of trout fishermen have yet to wet a line this season, and attest they will not go out until one can fish without lines and bait freezing and when one can fish without gloves and still be comfortable.

More cotton mills in this territory posted notices on Monday of a wage advance effective at the end of the present month. In numbers of cases the advance will apply to the outside help of the mills as well as those actually engaged in manufacturing operations.

Rev. John L. Roney, recently pastor of St. Philip's church of this city, has taken up his duties as canon of All Saints cathedral at Albany, N. Y., where the family is now resident.

Trolley patrons are now riding on the Connecticut company's line in this city for 7 1-2 cents per ride, a reduction from the 8 1-2 cent rate that has prevailed for such a long time.

It is not often that water pipes freeze and burst in homes in Putnam on Easter Sunday morning, but that was what happened in a number of cases this year, when the temperature went down to 4 degrees above zero.

Great preparations are being made by members of Putnam lodge of Elks for the institution of the new lodge at Webster on the night of April 25. A heavy percentage of the membership of Putnam lodge will be present.

Fishermen find satisfaction in the favorable report on the bill that will allow of fishing in Alexander's lake on certain days of each week. If the bill is not blocked in its way through the legislature fishing privileges will be available in the near future. It so happens at this late date that the lake remains practically covered with ice.

It was stated Monday that there likely will be a few court days with Judge M. A. Shumway presiding in this city during the month of April, that several matter awaiting attention may be taken up.

Deven.—L. C. Hamlin, of West Haven, an electrician employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, miraculously escaped death when he came in contact with a high tension wire and as the result is now at his home suffering with severe burns.

At the Congregational church Mrs. Ralph M. Hill of Packer sang the solo, Hosanna, by Grenier, accompanied by Mr. Hill.

Sunday evening at the Congregational church the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss was assisted by Cecil L. Butler, Ray W. Greene, Clarence W. Windsor and Edward Hall, who spoke briefly on "The Great Adventure."

NEW LONDON COUNCIL VOTES TO ERECT NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 2.—The city council held its weekly meeting this evening and voted to give the Italian Society of Italy permission to produce La Tosca in a Sunday evening, as the society may decide. The funds the society raised by its interprise are to be applied to benevolent purposes.

The council voted to erect the proposed Stanton school at a cost of some $66,000 and instructed the city manager to proceed to make the various contracts necessary for the building's construction.

A statement of the earnings and expenses of the ferry since the city government gave up the management of it was made to the council. The receipts were shown to be $3,364.13 and the expenditures $3,721.50. This bill of expenses did not include $5 a day for rental of the floats and piers, etc., to the city. If that bill had been paid it would have reduced the profits considerably.

A change was proposed in the parking ordinance on Golden street and it is probable that the existing ordinance will be modified.

An automobile owned and operated by Alfred Cole of No. 405 Jefferson avenue and a machine owned and driven by Oscar Wilson of No. 906 Bank street, were in collision this evening at the corner of State and Union streets. Both cars were damaged. Cole accepted responsibility for the collision by agreeing to pay whatever the damage to the Wilson machine.

A still alarm this evening summoned several of the companies of the New London fire department to Winthrop street, where a dwelling occupied by eight or ten families was threatened. The blaze was confined to a soot filled chimney and was extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence.

The New London fire department had 29 calls during the month of March. There were nine summonses by bell alarms, 18 by phone and twice the department sent apparatus out of town.

The police were called to a house at No. 212 Main street this evening where it was reported a terrific fight was in progress. When officers arrived at the place it was revealed that all the fighting that had taken place was by mouth, a couple of negresses having stormed the neighborhood by their verbal attack on each other. No arrests were made.

J. F. Bent, one of those to lose their lives in the collapse of a huge tank at the plant of the Fuller Brush company at Hartford, Saturday, was a brother of Edward Bent, a local contractor.

The police responded in a hurry this morning when the burglar alarm at the Savings Bank of New London on Main street, sounded. Several officers were dispatched to the institution on the run and to their surprise when they reached the bank they ascertained that there was no evidence of burglars, but that the alarm had been sounded when one of the employes of the institution unconsciously stepped on one of the secreted signals near the door of one of the vaults, causing the alarm to be set in motion. Excitement prevailed about the bank a few minutes because of the collection of throng of men and women, but they soon dispersed upon ascertaining that the sounding of the alarm was the result of an accident.

The tug Elmer E. Kesler is still ashore on Bartlett's Reef, despite the efforts throughout today of wreckers of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Company to float the craft. The work of the wreckers was greatly interfered with today because of a heavy fog which prevented the working at floating the tug to proceed as favorably as was planned. Another attempt will be made to float the Kesler tomorrow and with an abatement of the wind the wreckers believe that they will be successful in getting the tug into the harbor.

The condition of Chief Benjamin Beebe of the New London police force, who was transferred from Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital to his home on School street several days ago, following treatment at the institution a fortnight for ptomaine is improving, but very slowly. Beebe is still in a weakened condition and it will be some time before he regains anything like his former strength.

Philip Chamberlain, a townsman in the employ of the New Haven railroad, was summoned into court this forenoon to answer to a complaint lodged against him by his wife and which alleged that he neglected and refused to support her. Chamberlain was there accompanied by his lawyer and was ready to put up a contest, but Prosecutor Corbini asked for a continuance that he might prepare to get the judgment of the court and make no mistake about that.

Chamberlain had been called to the office of the prosecutor where the matter of support for his wife was gone over pretty thoroughly and Chamberlain then and there agreed that his wife should receive $8 a week. Philip, it seem forgot the agreement he made or he decided that he wouldn't pay after he had handed over one $8 bill and Mrs. Chamberlain objected. She is said to have told the prosecutor that Chamberlain was spending money on other women and thus he did not have the cash to hand over to her. She thought she had just reason for her troubled condition of mind.

Mr. Chamberlain's attorney intimated that the wife was not entitled to one cent morally, but said that sooner than undergo the notoriety of a court hearing he had agreed to pay. But a time came when his earnings were cut down and he proposed to make his wife stand some of the hardship he was forced to undergo by a cut in earning. The case went over till Thursday when fireworks may be looked for if there is a really contested case put on.

Not all the wealth but much of the beauty among New London's fair sex in evidence at the Easter Monday ball at the Mohican hotel this evening. The main ball room was in use and there was an elaborate display of fashions in gowns. The uniforms of the navy, the coast guard school, the army and the submarine base in contrast with the ball room gowns of the ladies and the brilliant electric lights made a picture that was indeed handsome.

The music was by an augmented orchestra chiefly of stringed instruments and was all that could have been wished for. Dancing begun at 9 o'clock and continued an hour after midnight. State street about the hotel and the narrow Meridian street on the side of the big building were thronged with autos that brought the dancers and which took them away at the goodnight number on the card. The dance was the most successful the house has ever managed, thanks to the perfect arrangements by Frank R Walker, the representative of Mr Munsey in the hotel.

Philip Hendel, who has won the honor of being the leading real estate owner among the Hebrews of New London, today bought the State street building at No. 43 and will eventually establish his business there. The longest-headed merchants in the city desire that Hendel has acquired a valuable property and one that will double in value on his hands as he improves it.

The building was for many years the store of R. F. Beckwith & Co., the leading wholesale grocery and liquor store in eastern Connecticut doing a larger business in its line than did Mawson & Whipple in Norwich. The Misses Beckwith, R. F. and Jesse, each made a comfortable fortune in the business and at their death the property went to Miss Anna Beckwith, the daughter of R. F. Beckwith. She disposed of it to the Cedar Grove Cemetery association, in which company she was deeply interested, but that association had no use to make of it and now has sold it for about $85,000 to Mr. Hendel.

The store was used for many years by Barker & May, clothiers, but they have now given up and will retire from trade. The front will undergo a radical change for there are now granite steps leading to the entrance. Some time ago a Providence dealer in women's clothing was in this city and offered to lease or buy any property that was to be had on the south side of State street. He couldn't make a deal for a single parcel of real estate. The building that Mr. Hendel has purchased is of three stories in height and adjoins the United Stores at State and Bank streets. The upper portion has been used as offices, but the rooms have not been of the most attractive sort. They, too, will be changed, as will the entrance, when Mr. Hendel enters upon his property to improve it.

Manager Charles Willard has got the notion into his head that music will attract patronage to the ferry boat that operates between this city and its neighbor, Groton. So on Easter Sunday Mr. Willard secured a sextette of Hawaiians from the service of Uncle Sam and the submarine base and for two hours or more they picked away at the mandolins, producing jazz instead of sacred music. But it was all the same to the patrons and to Mr. Willard who believes there is charm enough in the music of the mandolin and the ukeiele to offset any attraction the trolley line which runs cars over the bridge can offer. The result of this innovation financially is not known as Manager Willard has not made the announcement. According to Manager Barlow, the city's head, the ferry has not been paying the agreed upon rental of late so any surplus that comes from the music innovation may be used for other purposes than the payment of dividends.

Bank street is to have three gasoline stations during the summer. Elaborately lighted and appointed gasoline stations are something new for this city, but they are appearing now like the crocuses that adorn the dooryards as the first flowers of the spring. Several thousand dollars will be invested in the three stations so that some business must come to them to make good the investment made.

Frank Rose has sold a house and lot at the corner of Harrison and Tenth streets to Abraham Katz.

Mrs. Estelle Gresham, widow of Benjamin Gresham, died this morning at her home, No. 89 Howard street. Mrs. Gresham was of advanced years and had been ill a long time.

The body of John Rehn, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at East Stroudsberg, Pa., several days ago, arrived in New London this afternoon at 1.01 o'clock and was interred in Jordan cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge.

Miss Grace M. Chapman, daughter of the late Daniel and Harriet E. Chapman, died Saturday night at the State Hospital for the Insane at Preston, in which institution she had been under treatment a long time. Miss Chapman is survived by several brothers, all of whom reside in New London.

Funeral services for Miss Sarah De Stauch were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Smith Memorial Home, Rev. Joseph Elder officiating. The ritual of the Women's Relief Corps was also read by members of that order. Interment was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

A still alarm to the central fire station this afternoon caused Chief Stanners and the Nameaug Engine company to respond to a reported blaze in Gregory's confectionery store, No. 16 State street, but when the firemen arrived at the scene of the supposed blaze there was no signs of fire and neither could anyone be found that knew of the sending in of the alarm.

JEWETT CITY

The funeral of Margaret Cooney, beloved wife of John Murthar, was held from her late home at 8:30 a. m. Monday. Rev. Father Tyler sang requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. "Pie Jesu" was sweetly rendered by Mrs. Julia Garand and "Face to Face" as a waiting hymn. There were many beautiful flowers including a wreath marked wife from the husband, a large pillow marked mother from the daughters, a cross marked mother from son and daughter in law, a star marked grandma from grand daughter, a crescent marked grandma from two grandsons; a cross marked aunt from Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Godfrey a wreath marked friend from the Ninigret mill; a wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Murphy of the Murphy Shows; a spray of daffodils from Mr. and Mrs. Amos Phillips; a wreath from Irene and Clarence Roberts; a spray of calla vilies from the daughter, Mrs. Nellie Davis; a spray of roses from the daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Risley.

Mrs. John Murtha was born in Baltic, Nov. 21, 1871, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooney. She was educated at the convent of the Holy Family. November 27, 1899 she was united in marriage with John Murtha of Jewett City. The family has always resided here. Of this union three children were born and survive: John Edward Murtha of Norwich, Mrs. Nellie Davis and Mrs. Harry P. Risley of Jewett City. There are three grand children, Helen Davis and James and Daniel Murtha. Always in times of sickness and misfortune, Mrs. Murtha was called upon and under her skilled care and kind thoughts relief was received. A good wife and a loving mother, she will be missed by her family and also by her many friends and neighbors. The family have the deep sympathy fo all their friends in their sorrow.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mrs. Joshua Godfrey of Appanaug, R. I. Mrs. John Murtha of Newark, N. J., Mrs. Katherine Dudley and Edward Oakes of Norwich. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon. The bearers were John E. Murtha, Harry Risley, James Foley, Patrick Wallace, Dennis Griffin and Dennis Barnett.

Hourigan Bros., were in charge of the arrangements.

At the meeting of the Jewett City Rifle club Friday night there was a large attendance and much important business was transacted. It was voted to start work on the indoor range at once. This range is located in the basement under the old bowling alley now used by Hyde garage and through the courtesy of Mr. Hyde permission was given the club to use this. There will be 4 fifty foot ranges and two 75 foot ranges. Much work will have to be done to make this suitable for the club's purpases but they hope to have the range in working shape in a few weeks.

Mrs. Brewster has generously given the club permission to use the old ball park grounds for outdoor shooting and a one hundred yard range will be constructed as soon as the indoor range is completed. The club is to take up trap shooting and this will make a fine location for this sport. Rifles are to be secured from the government at once also targets, spotters, flags, and all other paraphenalia that goes with outdoor shooting. An innovation that very few clubs have will be the turkey and running deer targets.

These targets appear for so many seconds and then disappear. As the shooter never knows when they will flash into view and disappear it affords plenty of sport for everyone and requires a quick eye and hand.

The club will also put a bowling team into the field and a baseball team. William Marshall has charge of the bowling team and W. Benjamin will have charge of the baseball team. These sports are good training for the shooter, and it is no idle boast that the Jewett City Rifle club plans to annex the offhand championship of the United States in the N. R. A. next year.

The club already has several men that can shoot an average fo 93 or 94 offhand, and as the champion team won the offhand champion in the National Rifle Assocgiation with an average of 90 and a fraction per man, there is no doubt that the local boys will make a strong bid for the championship in that position. Doc Wallace has charge of the trap-shooting department of the club. Dona Ballou and Earl Hiscox are on a committee to form an indoor rifle league with the neighboring rifle clubs.

Mrs. Ida B. Ladd, Mrs. R. R. Church Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. A. D. Tripp and son Herman were in Moosup on Monday and attended the reception given Miss Caroline Kenyon, the occision being her one hundredth birthday. Miss Kenyon is in very good health and presented her guests her picture and a piece of the birthday cake.

Victor M. Graves of New York City was in town on Monday to visit the grave of his grandfather, Rev. Benajah Cook and make arrangements for its care. The Rev. Mr. Cook was the founder of the Baptist church here and is buried in the cemetery in the rear of the church.

John McDermott, who has been the night policeman for two years, has tendered his resignation to take effect at once. Mr. McDermott says that he prefers day work and that there is work enough nights for twenty policemen.

Parlors Filled at Y. M. C. A. Meeting

A fine company of men attended the Sunday afternoon meeting at the local Young Men's Christian Association at 4 o'clock.

The men were much interested in the impressive picture "A Man Without a Country" which is the story of one Philip Nolan who became a hater of his America, and his life thereafter was one of extreme loneliness. Between the reels, Secretary Hill delivered a brief address taking for his topic "Loneliness" and the scripture used was the passage relating to Judas, "and when he had received the sop, he went out, and it was night."

FIVE YEAR OLD WESTERLY CHILD KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., April 2.—William Sisson, five years old son of Mrs. Bernard Sisson of West Broad street was fatally injured this morning when he was struck by a Jeffrey truck owned and driven by Winton Barber of Mechanic street. The accident happened in front of the Doughty Ice Cream Co. plant on Mechanic street, at 11.25 and the boy died about an hour later. It is thought that the boy ran in front of the machine. He was hurried to the office of Dr. Ruisi and attended by Drs. Ruisi and Scanlon. The examinations by the doctors disclosed that the skull was fractured.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capalbo of Bradford annouice the engagement of their daughter Antonetta to Natale Corind. The wedding will take place at Bradford, April 7th.

The annual meeting and election of the S. D. B. society of the Seventh Day Baptist church was held Sunday evening at the church vestry and the following officers were elected: Miss Louise Ayers, president; Miss Ruth Burdick, vice president; Miss Mabel Saunders, secretary and treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Hiscox, auditor; Mrs. Lewis R. Greene and Mrs. Edgar P. Maxson, directresses; Miss Elizabeth Hiscox, Miss Rachel Barber and Mrs. Edward Peabody, membership committee; Mrs. Herbert P. Clark and Mrs. Lewis R. Greene, flower committee.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westerly Town council was held Monday morning at the council chambers on Broad street. Frank Krebbs appeared before the council and complained of the condition of the road from Wells street down Beach street to the River Bend cemetery. He referred to the side of the road near the trolley tracks and said that there was a rise of from six to eight inches from the tracks to the macadam, saying that it was very dangerous and would subject the town to lawsuits sooner or later if the condition was not remedied. Chairman Butler of the highway commission also described the road at this point and said that the council ought to compel the trolley company to raise the tracks to the street. It was voted to take the matter up with the company.

Chairman Clifford W. Campbell of the council said that a committee should be appointed by them to confer with representatives of the New Haven road relative to getting a large shipment of brick which is to be used in the construction of the new schbol house on High and Pleasant streets. Mr. Campbell told the other members of the council that the work was being hindered at the present time because of the inability to get enough material for construction. He was appointed a committee of one to look up the matter.

A letter from the Bradford Women's Temperance society was read by the town clerk, Everett E. Whipple. The letter complained of open violations of the 18th amendment in the village and asked the council to take steps to enforce the law. It was voted to acknowledge receipt of the letter.

The committee which was formed at the last meeting to confer with the selectmen of the town of Stonington relative to the sale of fire works reported that the Stonington men are to adhere to the state laws of Connecticut which provides for such sales. June 25th was the date set when the vendors of fire works might start their sales and continue them up to July 4th. Town Solicitor Ferguson said that he did not think that a new ordinance was necessary in regard to the sale of fireworks but suggested that the license given to the vendors should state the size and volume of the explosives which should be offered for sale.

At this point the council went into executive session and the matter of reimbursing John McCall, an employe of the town, was taken up. He was given $30 in addition to forty dollars which he received shortly after he had been injured on the town truck.

Charles H. Nichols, Albert H. Langworthy and Joseph H. Champlin were appointed a board to appraise damages done by dogs in the town. Their duties require them to investigate all complaints done by dogs to persons or property and to return their findings to the council and also to appraise the measure of damage.

YANTIC PUMPER WAS FIRST AT THE FIRE

Norwich Town residents dispute the statement that the city fire apparatus arrived at the fire at the Sacred Heart church Sunday before the Yantic pumper arrived and that the Yantic machine was delayed by burning out a bearing on the way to the fire.

They declare that the Yantic pumper and its men, with Edward Smith in charge, arrived at the fire four minutes after the call had been received at the station. The crew tried chemical on the fire and then hitched to the hydrant to the south of the church. Finding the water pressure there poor, they switched to the hydrant on the north side and were hooked on there when the Norwich apparatus arrived.

The Yantic pumped continued steadily at work for over two hours, supplying a good stream of water until it burned out a bearing after 3 o'clock and had to stop pumping. The crew remained at work on the fire and was the last to leave.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Day's total sales, 1,363,900 shares.
20 industrials averaged 101.51, net loss 1.31. High 1923 108.25; low, 94.96.
20 railroads averaged 85.84, net loss 1.51. High 1923 89.80; low 84.53.

SHARP REACTION IN MARKET

New York, April 2—A sudden "bear" drive on railroad shares, with Union Pacific as the principal target, brought about a sharp reaction in today's stock market after an initial period of strength. One of the most significant developments of the day was the raising of the bankers' asking price for time money from 5 1-2 to 5 3-4 per cent, the highest rate since October 1921, indicating the increased demand for commercial credit.

All sorts of rumors, none of them confirmed, were current in the financial district as to the reason for the selling of Union Pacific. These included a possible cut in the dividend below 10 per cent, which expert observers do not believe is justified by current earnings; speculative disappointment over the failure to increase the dividend on New York Central stock, a large block of which is owned by the Union Pacific; prospect of reduced earnings by the increasing diversion of traffic through the Panama Canal because of lower rates by the water route; and the testimony of Chairman Lovatt before the interstate commerce commission to the effect that the railroad consolidation proposed by Hale Holden would, in effect, benefit the so-called Hill roads to the detriment of the Harriman group.

Union Pacific dropped to 135 1-4 and then rallied to 136 3-4, where it was off 3 1-4 on the day. Net losses of 1 to nearly 5 points also were registered by New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Lackawanna, St. Paul Preferred, Northern Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern and several others. New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and Delaware & Hudson each closed 8 1-2 points lower. Some of the selling in this group came from traders who bought stocks weeks ago in the belief that a boom in this group was imminent and then became discouraged by the disappointing February earnings statements.

Industrials also were hard hit, heavy selling for both accounts being noted in such recent favorites as Baldwin, American and Lima Locomotives, Studebaker, American Woolen, American Can, Corn Products, American International Corporation, Pacific Mail, the Pan-American issues, General Asphalt, Producers & Refiners, United Retail Stores, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Union Bag & Paper and Kelly-Springfield Tire, all off 1 1-4 to 3 1-4 points. Pacific Oil established a new low price for the year below 40 on rumors of a possible cut or passing of the next dividend.

In the early trading new high records were established by Mariand, Shell-Union and Skelly Oils, Century Ribbon and Owens Bottle on the gains which ranged from 1 to 3 1-2 points were materially reduced or converted into losses before the close. Maxwell Motors was one of the few conspicuous strong spots, one sale of 32,000 shares representing the last block of stock held by local banks which took charge when the company was reorganized two years ago. Current earnings of the company are reported to be at the rate of $35 a share.

Call money opened at 5 1-2 per cent and advanced to 6 before the close. The time money market was quiet. A large volume of new commercial paper made its way into the market with prime names reported as about evenly divided between 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Due to the Easter Monday holiday abroad, trading in the foreign exchanges was quiet with no important changes in rates. Demand sterling held steady around $4.67 5-8 and French francs hovered between 6.61 and 6.65 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 2.—With the exception of U. S. government bonds which showed slight improvement, bond prices generally were reactionary in today's market. Some of the steel issues were in fair demand and the tractions advanced slightly.

Foreign government bonds were irregular, Brazil 8s losing 1 1-2 points, while French issues improved fractionally. Gains in the U. S. government issues ranged from 1-32 to 5-32 of a point.

Fluctuations in the railroad group were for the most part confined to fractions, a loss of two points by New York, Westchester & Boston 4 1-2s being the only change of importance. Industrial bonds were in good supply, losses of 1 1-4 to 1 1-2 points being registered by Wilson & Co., 7 1-2s, Punta Alegre Sugar 7s, and Cerro De Pasco 8s. Briar Hill 5 1-2s, and Bethlehem Steel 8s, each gained a point. Interborough Rapid Transit Refunding 5s, stamped, advanced 1 5-8 and the 6s were up fractionally.

Total sales (par value) were $9,177,000.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $7,875,000 Chesapeake & Ohio 1 to 15-year 5 per cent equipment Trust gold certificates series "T" at a price to yield 5.30 per cent. Announcement was made that entire outstanding issue of $55,032,000 5 per cent federal farm loan bonds, due May 1, 1938, have been called for redemption at their face value May 1, 1923.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 2.—Influenced altogether by changes in weather conditions, the wheat market today scored new high price records for the season, and then underwent a sudden decline. The close was weak, 1 3-8 to 2 1-4c net lower, with May $1.30 1-2 to 1.30 5-8 and July 1.17 to 1.17 1-8. Corn finished 1-2 to 1c down; oats off 3-8 to 1 3-8c and provisions at 15 to 32c advance.

With general buying due chiefly to reports of high winds and dust storms and of alternate freezing and thawing, the wheat market had an upward tendency the greater part of the time until the last hour of trading. Both the new crop months, July and September, reached the highest prices yet attained this season. Then, however, profit taking sales became the rule, especially as rain was falling in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma, and there were predictions of rain or snow over the greater portion of the whole of the winter crop belt.

The late bearish reaction in the wheat market took place in the face of an estimate from a leading authority that the domestic winter wheat yield for 1923 would total only 560,000,000 bushels as against 589,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

A decrease of 759,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total failed also to sustain prices, after the weather outlook had altered, and was evidently in favor of the bear side of the market.

Threatened heavy deliveries here on May contracts weakened prices of corn and oats. Cash demand in the west was good, but was slow here.

Provisions rose in line with hog values and as a result of big exports.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the first quarter of the year just closed there were 35 building permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for construction work of which the estimated cost will be approximately $102,225. The permits issued are as follows: Four for new frame houses; 7 for new frame garages; 1 for new brick block; 1 for new brick garage; 14 for alterations to frame buildings and 7 for alterations to brick buildings. Among the recent permits granted are the following:

To A. T. Letandre to alter the building at 65 West Main street for Joseph Bedard. A new store front of red pressed brick with granite trim, plate glass and copper is to be put in. The plans are by W. T. Mraz.

To WWilliam T. Barry to erect a frame garage, 12x14 for Miss Nellie Shea at 105 Rosth street.

To Joseph Tarnowski to erect a frame honuse on Golden street, 24x34 and one and one-half stories in height. The interior walls will be of composition boarding and the exterior finish will be in clapboards.

To Joseph J. Chingo to add to and alter present building on Thames street for Joseph Cooper. The front of the building is to be changed into two stores.

To Thomas R. Craney to erect a piazza on the house at 223 West Main street for Max Sternlieb. The piazza will be 28x6 feet.

Work on local building projects has been rushed along although the severe weather of last week stopped the cement work on several buildings. The Disco block is practically complete and the lower floor is already occupied.

The walls of the new theatre on Rose place are being erected and good progress has been made on this work during the past few days. At the Pasnik building on West Main street the brick walls have been built up to the level of the street. The work of remodeling the old Chelsea Boat club building for Mr. Pasnik is practically completed with the exception of a few minor details.

The new gas station on Central Wharf is practically complete and will be ready for occupation within the next week or so.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 9 sales of real estate as compared to 11 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $18,700 and $37,450.

There were three sales of real estate in New London during the past week, exactly the same number as for the same week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $17,760 and $104,770.

THE STATE SITUATION.

The large volume of building business which was confidently anticipated is not yet in evidence, according to The Commercial Record. The time when these expectations should be realized is at hand, but so far the building movement does not seem to take on momentum. Many reasons are given for this, and a great variety of opinions is offered. It is pretty generally recognized, however, that between advancing prices and the uncertainty as to labor conditions, there is a noticeable slowing down just at the time when there should be a general swing toward building activity. The material market is not in a wholly satisfactory condition and a man who is estimating plans has got to "watch his step." The attitude of some manufacturers is hard to understand. Financial reports and statements of stock dividends would show that many concerns have been wonderfully prosperous, yet at the same time there are some who insist on advancing prices and killing the goose that lays the golden egg not only for themselves but for the trade in general. In the week past, 177 permits were issued in the larger cities of the state, for buildings costing $517,450, against 320 permits in the same week of last year, when the cost of building was $731,555, and 193 permits in 1921, for buildings costing $373,880.

NEW LONDON.

The following low bids were received for the erection of the Stanton school: General contract, Joseph A. St. Germain, $56,415; heating, Hopson & Chapin, $8,020; plumbing, Chas. Smith, $5,663; and electric wiring, Modern Electric Co. $795. The contracts will be awarded at the meeting of the common council.

H. B. Griswold and E. J. Alexander, general contractors, are building a new house on South Ledyard street for themselves. The house will be of frame construction, 24x34 feet, bungalow style, with a shingle roof. There will be five rooms, and all conveniences will be provided.

The contract to build a new house on Vauxhall street for Theodore Bodenwein has been awarded to F. N. Lamphear, and work has been started. The house will be of frame construction, 26x26 feet, containing six rooms and bath, provided with heat and all conveniences. Cost $4,000.

Building Permits.

Griswold & Alexander frame bungalow, South Ledyard street, $3,000.
R. Sederquist, frame garage, Gorton street, $200.
W. L. Boiles, frame garage, Gorton street, $300.
Theo. Bodenwein, frame house, Vauxhall street, $4,000.
Frank L. McGuire, frame house, Neptune park, $4,000.
Josephine Greene, frame garage, Morgan street, $150.
A. A. Buchi, addition, Ocean avenue, $500.
L. Q. Raymond, residence, Montauk avenue, $4,000.
Number of permits for the week, 9; estimated cost $16,550.

WESTERLY.

Estimates are being made on plans drawn by Louis H. Goddard for a residence in Westerly for Henry Stahle of that place. The house will be 29x38 feet, two stories and basement, of frame construction, with an asphalt shingle roof. There will be nine rooms and two baths the rooms on the lower floor being finished in oak, with oak floors. There will be a brick fireplace in the living room and provision will be made for hot water, heat and all conveniences.

FOREST FIRE CAUTIONS FROM WARDEN BENTON

F. A. Benton, who is Norwich forest fire warden, with Lucius Davis and Lawrence Browning as deputies, issues the following cautions on forest, brush and grass fires:

This is the dangerous season of the year for forest, brush and grass fires, and when the winds are high and the leaves are dry, utmost caution should be taken to prevent dangerous conflagrations.

Hunters, campers and hikers sometimes carelessly drop matches not extinguished and this is a frequent source of forest fires. State Laws require permits for all persons burning brush, or other rubbish. These permits can be obtained from the District Forest Fire Warden by personal application or telephone.

If fires are to be started in a ploughed field, the public highway, or a ploughed garden not near a forest, permits are not necessary, but in all other cases must be obtained, even though the fire is to be on the owners premises. The reason for this is apparent, for it enables the Warden to keep in touch with the locality in case the fire gets beyond control, and absolves the person starting the fire from a heavy fine, imposed by the state.

All persons should study the condition of the weather, and select a still day, or a cloudy rainy one, if considerable rubbish is to be burnt. Much damage occurs by the failure of people to thoroughly extinguish the fire when the brush is burned. It sometimes starts up after the watch has gone home and before he is aware, the whole field is ablaze.

Water, savins, wire brooms and wet bagging are good instruments for fire fighting. There were in 1923 1068 fires in 265 districts with an average area per fire of 79 acres. The actual loss in lumber, wood, and other property mounted up into the thousands of dollars.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" MADE FROM FRUIT

Intensified Juices of Oranges, Apples, Figs and Prunes

Combined With Tonics

In overcoming disease and making the sick well, "Fruit-a-tives" or "Fruit Laxo Tablets" get their rare and unusual powers from the method of combining the fruit juices.

This process was discovered by a physician and perfected by him after hundreds of tests.

By this discovery, the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes are concentrated and combined with tonics in such a manner that the medicinal action of the fruit juices are made much more active and valuable.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SPRING FOREST FIRES

The approach of the spring's season for forest fires is the reason for the conference which the state forester is holding with the fire wardens in various parts of the state. Such meetings have been held in Hartford, New Haven, Willimantic, and Torrington, and one more will be held in New London at an early date. The state forester through the wardens is urging people to burn their brush immediately before the land gets so dry as to be dangerous. In this connection, however, attention is called to the law requiring permits from the wardens for burning brush between March 1 and June 1. Over forty convictions were secured last year for infringement of the fire laws, and they will be vigorously enforced this year.

A new agency for the prevention of fires is the "forest guide". Following the precedent established in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maine and New Hampshire, State Forester Hawes has asked each of the fourteen boy scout executives in the state to nominate as guides twenty scouts, particularly well adapted to assist in the work of preventing fires. These boys will be supplied with badges and pledge cards on which the state forester asks the public to cooperate with the guides in preventing fires. Several of the scout executives have already responded to this call and it is expected that the guides will be increasingly helpful in preventing fires.

Plans are being developed by the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. Co. to clean up the most dangerous spots on the right of way in order to prevent fires set by locomotives. This work will be done in cooperation with the state forester's office and is under the immediate supervision of Mr. James Stocking, assistant state fire warden. For some years Mr. Stocking has been fire warden in Simsbury and has an enviable record for preventing fires.

The state forester hopes to build several new lookout stations and supply wardens with fire fighting equipment but all plans for development depend upon the appropriation which the legislature provides for this purpose.

EASTER RECESS WORK FOR COLLEGE GIRLS

The four hundred Connecticut College girls who have left for their homes for the Easter vacation are busily engaged in trying to raise their share of the college's 10 weeks' effort to raise $80,000 in $10 gifts is beginning. Each student has been given 10 weeks to get 10 donors of $10. With the 400 alumnae and faculty members, there will be 800 persons engaged in the effort. Many of them, it is expected, will have no trouble in raising more than their quota of $100 each.

Sixteen district chairmen are directing the work, which is the preliminary effort of an attempt to raise $250,000 by January 1, 1924, in order to qualify for a gift of $150,000 from the General Education Board.

MILLS POST NOTICES OF INCREASE IN WAGES

Local mills following the policy of other New England mills have posted notices of wage increases to be effective April 30th. The companies here that have notified their employes to this effect are the United States Finishing Company, to affect 1,100 operatives, the Ponemah Mills to affect 1,500 operatives. Other nearby mills following the lead are the Wauregan Co., of Wauregan and the Quinebaug Co., of Danielson. Other mills are expected to follow. The American Woolen Company mills in the city, three in number notified their employes of the advance in wages over a week ago.

Settled Taxi Bill Through Court.

In the police court Saturday morning a man who became intoxicated and refused to pay a taxi bill, settled his case by paying the bill and agreeing to keep sober in the future. A man charged with breach of the peace was given a chance to make good, his case being continued. Failure to obey the meter laws cost a motorcycle driver a $5 fine and a badly bruised face.

The case of a wayward boy, aged 15 years, was heard in chambers and the boy given a chance to go straight in the future and thus keep out of the Meriden school.

STONINGTON

Monday morning at 8.30 Miss Muriel Latham of Stonington and Alvah B. Lewis of Brooklyn, N. Y., were united in marriage at the First Baptist parsonage by the pastor, Dr. Harry Thompson, D. D. The double ring service was used and they were unattended. The bride is a graduate of the schools here and later attended the Campbell and Beechwood seminaries. She is also a member of the First Baptist church and was a prominent worker in the Sunday school. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. Gertrude Latham of Stonington. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lewis of Boston and has spent many summers here. The bride wore a traveling suit of light tan with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left on the noon train for Brooklyn, N. Y., where the groom is employed in the contracting business. They will reside in Brooklyn. Hosts of friends wish them success in their newly married life.

At 6.30 Easter Sunday morning the fire alarm was sounded from Box 14 in the Bay View district for a fire in a house owned by Mrs. William Fiorop at the corner of South and Elihu street. It was a chimney fire which soon set fire to the roof of the house. The crew put out the flames before the firemen reached the scene. The damage to the property is slight. The house is occupied by two families. Mrs. Fannie Keane and Clarebce Burdick.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McClurg who are on a lecture tour in New York have received word of their beautiful residence in Colorado Springs having been destroyed by fire. Only a few relics and pieces of valuable furniture were saved. Mr. and Mrs. McClurg will now make their permanent home address Stonington, where they have spent many summer in their bungalow.

Just before the morning service on Easter Sunday, a portion of the ceiling fell at the Second Congregational church. The new ceiling has been put in place only a short while, it having fell in the same place over the choir loft about six months ago. It was lucky no one was in the church at the time the plastering dropped.

The Easter programs in the several churches here were most delightfully sung by the several choirs.

The new uniforms for the members of the Stonington Steam Fire Engine company have arrived from New York.

Wednesday at 8.30, the Children's Divisional Regional Institute will be held in the chapel of the Second Congregational church.

Mrs. Fred Buck and daughter, Miss Florence Buck, have gone to Boston, where Miss Buck will be a patient at the eye and ear infirmary for eight days.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Clay of Hartford, spent Easter with relatives here.

Karl A. Raiche and son Charles of Bristol, Conn., are at Judge and Mrs. L. D. Fairbrother's.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Morton Clarke of Spencer, Mass., spent Sunday with their parents here.

Miss Elsie Duran of St. Louis, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kuehn of Oak street.

The Misses Frances and Virginia Joseph are to spend this week in New York.

Miss Elsie Morrison left Monday to spend the week in New London as the guest of friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mildred of Stratford, N. Y., are guests of Mrs. Mildred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Mueller.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fritz and family moved to Willimantic Saturday.

Manuel Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Fritard and Miss Fretard and Mrs. Fritz motored to Willimantic Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Robinson who has been visiting in Westerly returned home Friday.

William D. McDermott spent Sunday at his home here. He is employed in Bridgeport.

John M. McDowell of Hartford, spent Easter Sunday at her home here.

Mrs. L. A. Eccleston and Miss Dorothy Eccleston of Norwich are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Conrad at their home on Summit street.

The hospital was beautifully decorated for the day. One of the most notable pieces was an unusually large cone-shaped pink and white azalea, which was sent by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Saxton. BROAD STREET SCHOOL IS SAVED FROM BAD FIRE IN UPPER STORY

A fire in the attic of the Broad Street school just after noon was the most serious of four calls that the Norwich department answered Monday and it was the fortunate discovery of the fire by Miss Mollie Callahan, the principal, and her prompt call for the department that saved what would probably have been a severe loss at the building if the fire had gained any further headway.

Monday was the first day of school after the Easter recess. Miss Callahan, who had remained a few minutes after the noon recess, saw a piece of burning wood drop through a register into her room. She looked for the janitor but he had gone home and when she came back upstairs the flames were shooting on the top floor. Telephoning to the fire department that there was a chimney fire in the school, she shut off the ventilating system, thereby cutting off the draft from the fire, which was just the right precaution to take.

Deputy Chief Taft who responded to the call had an alarm rung in from Box 35 as soon as he got to the school and the department responded, running in a 1 1-2 inch line for water, but using only chemical to extinguish the blaze.

The fire came from the overheated chimney and had set fire to timbers and a header that was up against the chimney. Several 2x10 timbers were burnt off over a space of about 3 feet square.

The chimney is constructed of a single course of brick and is not flue-lined, making it comparatively easy for the heat to come through when the chimney became overheated. This school building was erected before city ordinances were passed requiring chimneys to be either two courses of brick or else flue-lined. It was evident that charring of the timbers had been going on for some time.

Ceiling in the hallway had to be knocked down by the firemen, but none of the class rooms were affected. The damage was estimated at from $800 to $1,000.

There was no school Monday afternoon, but sessions will be held as usual today (Tuesday). Temporary repairs were made Monday afternoon.

Earlier in the day there had been a call for a grass fire at the home of John A. Moran, 104 Boswell avenue.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon there was a telephone call for a small fire on the roof of C. O. Marshall's woodworking establishment in the rear of 408 Main street. This was extinguished with chemical.

About 7 o'clock a roof fire was started by sparks from the chimney falsing on the chimney of 29 Elm street called out the firemen once more. Chemical was used. The families in the house had been burning wood, accounting for more sparks than usual coming from the chimney. The house is owned by William F. Hill and is occupied by several families.

BILLS FOR $3,000,000 IN HIGHWAYS PASSED

Bills for the construction of 34 special highways involving a state expenditure of over five million dollars have been rejected in the general assembly to date according to a compilation prepared this week. Thirteen special highway bills requiring an aggregate expenditure of approximately three million dollars have been passed.

Practically all of the bills which received favorable action were passed in the form of legislation including certain stretches of road in the trunk line highway system. No time limit was put on the highway department, however, and the department is at liberty to proceed with its own program, undertaking the special projects at its convenience.

At the same time, a special highway bill adopted in the 1919 session of the legislature, adding to the trunk line system the stretch between Willimantic and Brooklyn, by way of Howard Valley, was in effect repealed by the present session. The construction of this road as a trunk line was never started.

Approximately 100 miles of roads have been included in the trunk line system by legislative enactment, while nearly 150 miles of roads have been rejected.

TUBERCULOSIS PHYSICIANS CONFER AT SANATORIUM

Are they dead and gone or have they simply discarded their poison gas and their waxy uniforms and adopted a new manner of living?

This question does not concern Mexican or Chinese bandits. It is the question that was discussed at the Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium Monday by the medical officers of all the state sanatoria and it referred to the disappearance of tubercle bacilli from curing and cured cases of consumption.

Dr. Hugh B. Cassidy, superintendent, and his assistants, Dr. M. H. Collier and Jean Keiffer opened the discussion by demonstrating, in the discharges from the lungs of cured and apparently cured patients, microscopic organisms that seemed to be transition forms between tubercle bacilli and the comparatively harmless bacteria that inhabit the air passages of healthy men and women.

The question seemed to be of great interest to the assembled specialists, most of whom had done some research along this line, and they seemed to agree that it was of great importance as pointing the way to curing tuberculosis, not by trying to kill the tubercle bacillus, but by forcing or perhaps scaring the tubercle bacillus to surrender his weapons and to become a good Indian.

Among other subjects discussed was The Bacteriophage, the mysterious something that seems to have power to kill certain disease germs.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presence of Mrs. Nathan Raw and Miss Winifred Raw of London, the wife and daughter of Dr. Nathan Raw, member of parliament, and world famous tuberculosis authority. They came to Connecticut on their way home from China where they have been visiting their son and brother, a captain of the British army. They are the guests of Dr. Stephen J. Maher, chairman of the state tuberculosis commission, and of Dr. Edward J. Lynch, superintendent of the Shelton state sanatorium. Doctors Maher and Lynch were guests of Dr. Raw at the recent British and International Tuberculosis meetings.

GAVE EASTER SURPRISES FOR REV. AND MRS. COLLINS

Rev. P. S. Collins, pastor of the Bozrah Baptist church, preached his farewell sermon on March 25th. On the evening of March 31st Rev. and Mrs. Collins were given a surprise by a number of parishioners and friends in the shape of an Easter remembrance. The gift was a generous purse of crisp five dollar bills. Rev. and Mrs. Collins expressed their appreciation for the generous gift given as a token of friendship and love by their friends, and are grateful all who contributed in any way toward their Easter surprise.

JOSEPH TORDO SLOWLY MAKING TOWARDS RECOVERY

Joseph Tordo of Springfield, the bakery automobile driver, who had his skull fractured on Feb. 28 when his machine hit a pole on Washington street near the corner of Fanning avenue, is still a patient at the Backus hospital.

He is making progress towards recovery, but his progress is slow, it is stated, and he still has alternating periods of normal conditions and of delirium. He is attended by two nurses.

ART STUDENT GIVES FACTS ABOUT CASE

Bowering Tells of Long-Suffering From Stomach Trouble and Quick Restoration by Taniac.

Victor E. Bowering, 133 Austin St., Cambridge, Mass., gifted student of the Boston Art School, is still another popular young citizen to publicly express his gratitude for the benefits he has derived from Taniac.

"The Taniac treatment overcame my stomach trouble and rundown condition in quick time," he declared. "I came down with the Flu about three months ago, and it left my stomach all upset and my whole system worn-out. My appetite was so poor I don't believe I ate half what I would under normal conditions. My food fermented in my stomach and gas bloated me until I was in misery. My head was giddy with headaches and dizzy spells. I was nervous, irritable and suffered with constipation.

"I can paint a different picture since taking Taniac. I eat hearty and regular, never have indigestion, nerves steady as a rock, and in nearly every way I feel better than ever. I certainly am a Taniac enthusiast."

Taniac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 27 million bottles sold.

If any of our patrons have anything in the way of apparel of the styles in vogue about 1873, or articles of furniture, of about that period, that is out of the ordinary, we would be pleased to have a loan of such articles for a short time for display purposes. If you have anything of that kind that you are willing to loan, drop us a post card and if it is something we can use, we will send for it.

POETRY

THE TULIP TREE.

Behold the [illegible] nestless
To the tones of boyhood's blithest tune,
When I climb a tree in pruning
Processional
From the study of the breezy June.
For above, in waving [illegible] plumes
Green leaves are twinkling on their tips;
And the tiny's snows around me whirl
[illegible]

On the hills he standeth like a tower,
Shining in the morn—the tulip-tree
On his [illegible] turrets beats the shower
While his [illegible]
But when Summer in the fields is standing,
And his blood is stirred with light like wine,
O'er his branches, all at once expanding,
How the starry blossoms shine!

Through the glossy leaves they burst, unfolded,
Like the breast of some [illegible]
Filled with fragrance, as joy [illegible] moulded
Into being by a poet's soul!
Violet hills, against the sunrise lying,
She [illegible] when the stars grow dim,
And the breeze that drinks their odorous sighing
Woos the lark's rejoicing hymn.

Then all day, in every opening chalice
Drains their honey-drops the revelling bee, Till the dove-winged [illegible] makes her palace,
Filled with song-like murmurs, Tulip Tree!
In thine arms repose the dreams enchanted
Which in childhood's heart were nestled long,
And, beneath thee, still my brain is haunted
With their tones of vanished song.

Oh, while Earth's full heart is throbbing over
With its wealth of light and life and joy,
Who can dream the seasons that shall cover
With their [illegible] the visions of the boy!
Who can paint [illegible] years that downward darken,
While the splendid morning bids aspire
Of the turf upon his coffin hearken
When his pulses leap with fire?

Wind of June, that sweepest the rolling meadow,
Thou shalt wail in branches rough and bare,
While the tree, o'erhung with storm and shadow,
Writhes and creaks amid the gusty air
All his leaves, like shields of fairies scattered,
Then shall drop before the Northwind's spears,
And his limbs, by hail and tempest battered,
Feel the weight of wintry years.

Yet, why cloud the rapture and the glory
Of the Beautiful, that still remains?
Life, alas! will soon reverse the story,
And its sunshine gild forsaken plains
Let the blossoms in the morning brighten
Happy hear, as does the Tulip-Tree
While he daisy's snows around us whiten
Drifted down the slowing lea!
—Bayard Taylor.

THE TRUTH OF DREAM.

Our mortal selves o'er misery brood and pain,
No sad thoughts surge within the Self Divine;
Its transports not the Heavens may confine
Nor the broad earth its opulence contain.
It raises o'er the ancient scriptural strain
Of rapturous bliss—the forest beasts are mine.
And on a thousand hills the myriad kine
Through all the Cosmos I triumphant reign.
Though seaward winds full fast the curving stream,
Or Dr. thread more swiftly veils itself in matter thought
To grant true substance to its erstwhile dream.
Through ages long herd of joy and ecstasy
The travailing worlds redemption shall be wrought
And the salvation of Humanity.

CHICAGO DEMOCRATS ELEC[illegible] MAYOR, CLERK, TREA[illegible]RER

Judge William E. Dever, Democrat, Was Elected Mayor by a Plurality of 103,748—One of the Quietest Elections in the City's History—Republican Leaders Charge That Mayor Thompson's Organization Had Swung Almost Solidly to the Support of Judge Dever—Socialist Candidate is Credited With 40,000 Votes.

Chicago, April 3.—Judge William E. Dever, running on the democratic ticket, was elected mayor of Chicago over Arthur C. Lueder, republican, by a plurality of 103,748, according to complete unofficial returns tonight.

The vote was: Dever, 387,961; Lueder 284,213; William A. Cunnean, socialist, 40,841. A democratic city clerk and city treasurer also were elected.

While the election was quiet, it set a record in one respect. Less than 30 minutes after the polls closed the trend was to be seen with the first return and an hour after the polls closed it was definitely known that Dever had won.

The withdrawal of Mayor Thompson from the race prior to the February primary robbed the campaign of what was expected to be one of its main issues, the merits of the Thompson administration. Mayor Thompson withdrew from the race for a third term after anti-Thompson republican factions had formed a coalition and selected Lueder as a standard bearer. Mayor Thompson and his organization took no active part in the campaign and the man to which the support of the organization would go had been problematical.

Today at republican headquarters leaders charged that Mayor Thompson's organization had swung solidly to the support of Judge Dever.

Judge Dever was born in Massachusetts in 1862 and came to Chicago in 1887, being later admitted to the bar.

While there were few reports of disorder, including fights, slugging and kidnappings of election watchers, and each side preferred charges of illegal voting in certain precincts, the election was usually free from the many acts of lawlessness that have characterized elections in other years.

While the democrats took the honors in the city election, the republicans were winners in the election in the second congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative James R. Mann. Morton D. Hull, republican, had a lead of over 8,500 with 175 precincts out of 355 reporting.

One of the surprises of the mayoralty campaign was the vote given to William A. Cunes, socialist candidate, who it was estimated would get close to 40,000 votes, the largest vote the socialists having mustered before being in the neighborhood of 25,000.

While the democrats swept the city ticket from one end to the other, the republicans were not without consolation, for complete unofficial returns on the election in the second congressional distrcit to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative James R. Mann showed Morton D. Hull, republican, elected over Barratt O'Hara, democrat, by nearly 14,000 votes.

The vote was: Hull, republican, 56,800; O'Hara, democrat, 42,495; Seymour Stedman, socialist, 5,955.

VICAR BUTCHKAVITCH WAS EXECUTED SATURDAY

Moscow, April 3.—(By the A. P.)—Vicar General Constantine Butchkavitch, condemned to death for wilfully opposing the soviet government, has been executed by a firing squad.

The fate of the Catholic prelate, in doubt since last Thursday, when his appeal for clemency was denied, became known today when it was announced that the death sentence had been carried out last Saturday.

The secrecy that surrounds soviet executions make uncertain the circumstances under which the execution sentence had been carried out. Appeals from the outside world, which had poured in upon the soviet authorities, had no effect in staying the hand of the executioners.

Vicar General Butchkavitch was found guilty and executed as a violator of article 62, of the criminal code, which provides the death penalty or imprisonment in any organization which is acting with the purpose of exciting the population to mass agitation, non-payment of taxes, unfulfillment of its duties or by any other means clearly detrimental to the dictatorship of the working class and the proletariana revolution, although an armed rising or an armed invasion is not the chief aim of that organization."

Only two papers, the official Isvestia and Pravda, carried the laconic announcement of the execution, that printed in the, Pravda reading: "On March 31 was brought into effect the death sentence on the Priest Butchkavitch, condemned in the case of the Catholic counter-revolutionists.

The paragraph in Isvestia reads: "The sentence of the supreme court of the republic with regard to Butchkavitch who was condemned to be shot and whose reprieve, which had been requested, was disregarded by the central executive committee, has been carried out."

CIVILIZED WORLD SHOCKED BISHOP MANNING AVERS

New York, April 3.—The civilized world should withhold communication from Russia until the bolshevik rule is overthrown, Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, declared today in a statement in which he condemned the execution in Moscow of Vicar General Butchkavitch of the Russian church as "a brutal crime against religion and humanity."

The deed, he said, comes as a shock to the civilized world and brings into clear light the "unspeakable wickedness of the present Russian regime." He declared the civilized world should serve notice on Russia that it will be regarded as an outcast nation until the present authorities are driven out.

BRIDE RECEIVED GUESTS WHILE GROOM FOUGHT FIRE

Lancaster, Mass., April 3.—With the roof of her home in flames, Mrs. William Dexter, who half an hour before had gone up the aisle of the Unitarian church as Miss Costance Van Rensselaer Thayer, and still wearing her bridal white, received the guests as they returned from the church while her husband fought the blaze.

Two truckmen discovered the fire just as the bride and groom arrived from church. Mr. Dexter leaped from the motor and ran to the roof, followed by the men servants. He was joined later by the ushers of the wedding party. Through their efforts the blaze was held in check until the firemen arrived.

The servants' quarters were damaged but the loss was not extensive. Mrs. Dexter's self-control and calmness while the fire was raging kept many of the guests from learning of it.

TWO MURDER TRIALS TO BE HEARD IN MIDDLETOWN

Middletown, April 3—Judge C. L. Avery in the superior criminal court today ordered a grand jury to be summoned tomorrow morning to hear presentment against Julius Land, negro, accused of the murder of two men, and Joseph Sjogren charged with killing his brother.

Land became involved in an altercation with two men on a trolley car in Cromwell several weeks ago and shot them to death. He later maintained that he had acted in self-defense, Sjogren is charged with killing his younger brother in Portland 10 years ago. He surrendered to the police in Ohio some time ago after wandering around the country since his brother's death.

HARTFORD DEMOCRATS HOLD COMMON COUNCIL

Hartford, April 3.—In city and town elections today five republicans and five democratic aldermen were elected, giving the democrats a thirteen to seven majority, in the common council as eight of the ten hold over aldermen this year were democrats. The question of abolishing the present district school system and placing all public schools under a consolidation system was defeated 11,000 to 7,000. Republicans sent a majority to the high school committee which will have three republicans and two democrats. Of the three places on the board of education filled at today's election, two went republican. Ofo the seven constables four are republicans.

MAY PUT HOUSE OF DAVID OUT OF EXISTENCE

Lansing, Mich., April 3.—State action that may result in putting the Israelite House of David out of existence was begun in the Ingham county (Lansing) circuit court today at the instance of Governor Alex. J. Groesbeck and State Attorney General A. B. Dougherty.

The action, in the form of quo warranto proceedings, will compel leaders of the Benton Harbor cult to appear in court and prove to the satisfaction of the judge that the religious organization should continue to function.

BREAK IN OFFICIALS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN

Atlanta, Ga., April 3.—Ku Klux Klansmen from all sections of the country were reported en route here tonight as William J. Simmons, founder of the order, exerted the temporary control over the organization given him by the Fulton superior court today in appointing Dr. Fred B. Johnson, of San Antonio, Texas, as chief of staff, and placing him in actual charge of the imperial palace.

The Atlanta Constitution will publish tomorrow that within the last 48 hours it has been reliably informed that approximately 6,000 Klansmen have gathered here to lend their confidence and support to Simmons in his move against Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, and other imperial officers of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

The break between Simmons, who holds the rank of imperial emperor of the klan, and the imperial wizard, occurred last week when Simmons announced he would found and sponsor an organization for women whose policies and purposes would be along the same line as those of the klan. The imperial wizard issued a proclamation forbidding klansmen to espouse such an organization.

The coup d'etat of Simmons, the Constitution will publish, seemed complete today as Chief of Staff Johnson, his appointee, took charge of the imperial palace. Dr. Evans has been imperial wizard since the klonvocation here last year. At that time it was announced that Simmons, who held that office, would become emperor and would be in charge of the ritualistic and philosophical affairs of the order.

GARDNER RESIGNS FROM INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION

Washington, April 3.—Announcement of the resignation from the international joint commission of Former Senator Obadiah Gardner of Maine, its chairman, was made today after the semi-annual session.

The announcement was made by Mr. Gardner. His resignation is effective April 15 and it is understood that the vacancy on the American section of the commission, which has jurisdiction over American-Canadian boundary waters, will be filled by the appointment of Former Senator Charles E. Townsend, of Michigan.

There have been frequent reports that Mr. Gardner would retire but until late today no confirmation that the resignation had been submitted and had been accepted by President Harding was obtainable.

Mr. Gardner has served nearly 10 years on the commission, most of the time as chairman and during its important investigations of the St. Lawrence and other boundary water questions. He was appointed by President Wilson, but after several years' service his resignation was requested. President Harding later had a vacancy on the commission to fill and called upon Mr. Gardner for further service.

No important decisions were made at today's meeting of the commission and it was said that most pending matters would go over until the fall meeting at Ottawa. A final, formal session will be held tomorrow.

DR. COOK SURRENDERED TO FEDERAL AUTHORITIES

Fort Worth, Texas, April 3.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, former Arctic explorer and now extensive oil promoter, surrendered to federal authorities at 1.30 p. m. today, on a charge of using the mails to defraud in his oil promotions. He was accused of misrepresenting his properties and possibilities to investors. This charge is similar to the one upon which twenty-five other promoters are being accused. Seventeen of them have been arrested now. Cook was in Smackover when he heard of the charge and hurried here.

Dr. Cook is at the head of the Petroleum Producers' association.

RAILROADS PREPARE FOR RECORD-BREAKING YEAR

New York, April 3. — Confronted with the prospect of a record-breaking year which will vastly increase the traffic load on all railroads, executives of American lines, big and little, began today a series of conferences aimed at meeting the emergency.

The problem, as the railmen see it, is one of increasing the capacity of existing lines and equipment to meet the anticipated burden, with the minimum of investment in new or surplus tracks and rolling stock.

Twenty directors of the American Railway Association with E. H. Aishton as president and Daniel Willard as chairman, opened the conference. Representing every road in the country—first, second and third class trunk lines, terminals and terminal roads—they voted to recommend that their members embark on "a programme of intensive co-operation," similar to the emergency measure adopted in 1920 which enabled them to carry the staggering load of the post-war boom.

All efforts of the proposed co-operative programme would be exerted toward raising the national ton-mile-per-car average, at the same time lowing the ton-mile cost. In 1920 the combined roads nearly reached a "30-30" ton-mile-per-car average and the handling cost was reduced to 7-10 of a cent per ton per mile.

SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION OF FLIGHT OF AIRPLANES

Washington, April 3.—The six army airplanes which left San Antonio, Texas, a month ago on a 6,000 mile flight to Porto Rico and thence to Washington, landed at Bolling Field today, bringing to a successful conclusion one of the most remarkable pioneer flights ever attempted by the army air service. Secretary Weeks extended the official welcome to the 12 pilots who made the trip and directed that a citation be placed in their records crediting them properly with their achievement.

Air service officials said the flight negotiated by land planes over wide stretches of water and strange land areas without accident and on schedule, splendidly illustrated the role aircraft could take in the scheme of national defense. Capt. Thomas G. Lanphier, in command of the squadron, also pointed to this possibility. He declared Porto Rico formed the logical base of action for an air force against enemy fleet approaching the Panama Canal from the Atlantic side, adding that it had been proved possible, as a result of the flight just made, to concentrate an air force at Porto Rico within 24 hours and attack an enemy fleet or bombard bases within a radius of 800 miles.

HELD IN $1,500 BOND FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Washington, April 3.—Coincident with the release today on $1,500 bond of Maris Fragrais, held overnight on a charge of selling liquor, the Cuban legation and Spanish embassy denied that he was known to them or had any connection with them. After his arrest last night, Fragrais attempted to communicate with both the legation and embassy in an effort to obtain his release, and at the same time claimed diplomatic immunity from arrest.

Police and prohibition agents today said they had no positive proof that the liquor they charge Fragrais sold to a police woman had been diverted from diplomatic channels. However, an investigation is under way of Fragrais' statement when arrested that he had "legation liquor."

Fragrais was released on bail furnished by a professional boondsman. His case was set for April 12.

PROHIBITION NOW IN EFFECT IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, April 3—(By the A. P.)—Prohibition has gone into effect in Constantinople under instructions issued by the National government from Angora.

After tomorrow any person found drinking alcoholic beverages will receive thirty strokes with the bastinado, a long pliable stick.

Foreigners and traders selling liquor are liable to a fine of fifty Turkish pounds.

Lou Tellegen is Named As Co-Respondent

Emphatically Denies That Any of the Young Women Mentioned in the Case Had Been Guilty of Wrongdoing.

New Orleans, April 3—Lou Tellegen, defendant in the divorce suit for Geraldine Farrar, declared here today he was "dumbfounded" when he learned co-respondents had been named by his wife.

"I am sorry my wife named anyone," he said. "It was not necessary. My wife could have had the divorce in one moment as far as I was concerned. The divorce would have been hers for the asking. I agreed not to make any fight on condition that the whole matter was to be handled quickly and quietly. I was dumfounded when I learned several co-respondents had been named.

Tellegen said he wanted it understood that while he agreed not to offer any defense to any charges Farrar might make against him, he emphatically denied any of the young women mentioned in the case had been guilty of wrongdoing.

"I spoke to one of them or called at her home to see her parents and, pressto veto, she was one of the 'other women,'" he added.

"Miss Larrimore, for instance," he continued, "I know her very charming family and she is a lovely girl. But she's as pure as the angels above. I am sorry that she or any should be dragged into my case."

Tellegen added that as soon as he had completed his present theatrical contract he would gladly return to New York and "offer testimony in behalf of any of the girls named as co-respondents."

In the absence of Miss Farrar, who is on a concert tour in Cuba, her attorney, Samuel Untermyer, today denied an assertion by Tellegen in New Orleans that he had agreed to enter no defense only if the divorce was put through quickly and quietly without naming of co-respondents.

"No agreement was ever made," Mr. Untermyer said, "and I would refuse to make one anyway if it ever had been broached. I never have met the man, so consequently I couldn't have entered into any agreement with him."

MISS STELLA LARRIMORE SOUGHT TRIAL BY JURY

New York, April 3.—The divorce suit instituted against Lou Tellegen by Geraldine Farrar was halted today while Miss Stella Larrimore, 19-year-old actress named as one of the co-respondents, made a fruitless effort to obtain a jury trial of charges involving her name. Counsel for Miss Larrimore, however obtained a postponement until next Monday of further referee hearing, pending an appeal.

The actor, who has entered no defense in the divorce suit, was represented today by counsel, who announced that he had been instructed by Tellegen to do everything possible to clear Miss Larrimore of the diva's charges.

ONLY ONE BREAK IN THE SPANISH CABINET

Madrid, April 3 (By the A. P.)—The king today expressed confidence in the ministry of the Marquis of Alhucemas, when the resignation of the cabinet was tendered him. In consequence of this the ministry remains in power, with the exception of the minister of finance, Jose Manuel Pedregal.

The premier, Marquis de Alhucemas, conferred with the king for two hours today, presumably concerning the cabinet crisis. After the conference the premier informed the correspondents that complete harmony prevailed in the cabinet relative to the Moroccan policy, and that any reasons there might have been for the resignation of the war minister had been removed.

The premier added that the Spanish episcopate's manifesto opposing any constitutional change with regard to religious matters would be discussed later.

DECISION RESERVED IN STILLMAN ALIMONY CASE

New York, April 3.—The appellate division of the supreme court today reserved decision on the appeal of James A. Stillman from an order of Supreme Court Justice Morschauser, granting Mrs Anne U. Stillman, his wife, alimony of $7,500 a month and $15,000 additional counsel fees. The order had been made pending appeal from Justice Morschauser's previous decision dismissing Stillman's divorce action against his wife.

Counsel for Stillman declared the divorce litigation had cost his client more than $813,000. He said alimony should be based upon Mrs Stillman's needs and not upon Mr Stillman's wealth.

Mrs. Stillman's counsel said his client believed her husband's income to be about $1,000,000 a year. He maintained that before the divorce proceeding were begun, Mrs. Stillman's expenditures had been greater than $7,500 a month.

INDIAN SURVIVOR OF THE CUSTER MASSACRE

Washington, April 3—A controversy of almost half a century as to whether there was a survivor of the Custer massacre at Little Big Horn, Montana, June 25, 1876, has been settled officially.

The Interior department has approved the issuance of a pension certificate to Shuh-Shee-Ahah, alias Curly, a Crow Indian, for his services in the Indian campaigns of 1876 and 1877, which included participation in the famous battle which resulted in the obliteration of Custer's cavalry.

Curly, who was one of Custer's scouts, now lives on the Crow Indian reservation in Montana. According to war department records, he escaped death by mingling with the attacking Indians and rejoined government forces nearby, five days later.

FIVE PERSONS PERISHED IN SMALL HOTEL FIRE

Van Buren, Me., April 3.—Five persons lost their lives as a result of fire which destroyed the Kineo house, a small hotel here, early today. Four guests, a man, a woman and two children, were suffocated, and the proprietor, Joe Madore, succumbed to burns later in the day.

Business Conditions Reflect Prosperity

Production and Sales of Automobiles Far in Excess of Those of the Corresponding Period Last Year—Other Industries Thriving.

New York, April 3.—Striking evidence of prosperous business conditions was furnished today in earnings figures also the first quarter made public by a number of industrial corporations.

Three automobile companies disclosed production and sales for the first quarter far in excess of those of the corresponding period last year, a sugar company increased its dividend and the Baldwin Locomotive Works reported its plants were running at 92 per cent of capacity.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation increased its board of directors from 13 to 15, with the election of Percy A. Rockefeller and William B. Dick, representing the Midvale Steel Company, recently acquired by the Bethlehem Company, and H. Lewis, vice president of Bethlehem. President Grace confirmed reports that the Bethlehem Company had purchased between 14,000 and 15,000 shares of the minority stock of the Cambria Steel Company at $181 a share.

All directors were re-elected at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Studebaker Corporation. The company's report for the first quarter disclosed production and sale of 87,500 cars with earnings in excess of $5,000,000 after taxes, this amount being equivalent to between $7 and $8 a share on the 700,000 shares outstanding. The corporation's 1923 building plans call for the expenditure of $5,250,000 on its South Bend plants.

The Willys' Overland Company reported production during the first quarter of 44,478 cars or 3 1-2 times as many as were turned out during the corresponding period last year.

The Hupp Motor Company reported the sale in March of 6,054 cars, which is 32 per cent. more than were sold during March last year. Sales for the first quarter were 88 per cent. greater than for the corresponding period a year ago.

Officials of the Baldwin Locomotive Works announced the company now has orders for 80 miles of engines and expects orders for the year to reach 150 miles of locomotives. The corporation expects to increase production to 100 per cent. capacity by July 1. The shortage of engines on all roads in the country is estimated at 12,500. Another announcement by the company stated $4,000,000 would be spent this year in developing and improving the Baldwin plant at Eddystone.

Unofficial reports estimate the earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the first quarter at about $88,000,000 which would be an increase of more than $16,000,000 over the corresponding period in 1922.

The American Can company reported its earnings for the first quarters were substantially larger than for this period a year ago.

Arnold L. Scheuer was elected as chairman of the board and president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company at an organization meeting of directors. Regular dividends were declared.

BROOKLYN LONGSHOREMEN VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK

New York, April 3.— Fifteen hundred Brooklyn longshoremen, who walked out today in a "vacation protest" against wage increase figures announced Saturday by General George W. Goethals, arbitrator, tonight voted to return to work tomorrow.

The short strike affected twenty-three piers on the Brooklyn waterfront and a number of freight steams were delayed in sailing as their full cargoes were not aboard.

Members of the International Longshoremen's union, Local 808, while expressing dissatisfaction in the wage increases, decided to return to their jobs until a compromise might be reached. The New York district council of the International Longshoremen's union refused to sanction the strike, it was said.

General Goethals' award increased the wages from 65 to 70 cents an hour for day work and from $1 to $1.07 an hour for overtime. The men had asked for 80 cents and $1.20.

WARD'S COUNSEL DECLINED TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—Senator Ellwood M. Rabenold, of counsel for Walter S. Ward of New Rochelle, who is alleged to have shot and killed Clarence Peters near the Kensico reservoir last May, refused point blank today to co-operate with state officials investigating the case to the extent of disclosing to them what he contended was confidential information.

Mr. Rabenold's refusal to aid in the investigation came when Attorney General Carl Sherman and Deputy Attorney General Wilber Chambers were plying him with questions as to the source of information given to the authorities of Westchester county. To all questions Mr. Rabenold declined to answer.

FURTHER POSTPONEMENT IN CASE OF CHAS. W. MORSE

Washington, April 3.—Further postponement of trial until April 10, was granted by the distdict supreme court today in the case of Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, his three sons, Ervin, Benjamin and Harry, and four others on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States and the shipping board through war contracts with the emergency fleet corporation. The delay was permitted because of the continued illness of Harry Morse, which caused a previous postponement.

PREPONDERANCE OF MA[illegible] WOMEN PROFESS HAPP[illegible]

Fact Disclosed in First Exhaustive Scientific Investigation Made of the Sex Life of the Normal, Educated Wo[illegible] —Of 1,000 Married Women 872 Proclaimed Themselves Happy—According to Questionnaire Spooning Consisted of Kissing, Hugging and Kissing; Hugging, Kissing and Fondling.

New York, April 3.—The prevalence of spooning is shown in replies received by the bureau of social hygiene, founded by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to frank questionnaire circulated in what is termed the first exhaustive scientific investigation that has been made of the sex life of the normal educated woman.

A report prepared by Dr. Katherine Bement Davis, general secretary of the bureau, on replies received from 1,000 married women in various parts of the country, shows that 275 admitted having spooned prior to marriage with other than fiances; 20 spooned with fiances only and 321 never spooned prior to marriage. The question was left unanswered by 28.

Eleven of the 275 failed to specify the extent of their spooning; 21 wrote "not far"; 50 "kissing only," 304 "hugging and kissing;" 45 "hugging, kissing and fondling;" and 144 admitted more unrestrained spooning. One did not answer.

Of the 1,000 married women, 872 proclaimed themselves happy. Of the happy group 41 per cent did not spoon, 57 per cent. did and 22 per cent. spooned only with their fiances. Of the middle group, 25 per cent, admitted the extreme.

Included in the 100 married women with which Dr. Davis' report deals, 691 were college graduates, 47 were college undergraduates, 41 high and normal school graduates and 12 private school graduates.

Of the 691 college graduates 74 per cent. admitted practising birth control. Health and economic grounds were the reasons chiefly given.

A committee of 11 women well known for their work in the field of psychology cooperated with Dr. Davis. Care was taken to prevent the identity of those answering the eight page questionnaire from becoming known.

"In no part of the field of education is there greater difference of opinion than in that which deals with sex," said Dr. Davis. "This is largely because, except on the pathological side, sex is scientifically an unexplored country."

It was explained that heretofore such studies have been made only among women prisoners or pathological cases.

The preliminary letter asking cooperation was sent to 5,000 women in various parts of the country. Questionnaire eventually were received from only 42[illegible]. The balance of 1,000 were obtained after letters had been sent 8,000 alumnae of Vassar, Smith, Wellesley and other women's colleges.

Another set of questions were addressed to unmarried women. These answers gradually are being compiled. Dr. Davis makes few deductions in her report on married women.

"We must emphasize," she says, "the fact that it is not safe to draw general deductions from this study. The numbers considered are too small and the group is selective. The study does, however, raise important questions and points out the necessity for further study in many directions."

Dr. Davis said that it would take several months to tabulate the answers received to the questionnaire sent to unmarried women.

"We have received more than 1,000 answers, comprising more than 12,000 pages of manuscript, to the questionnaire sent to unmarried women," she declared. "I do not believe the tabulation of these answers will be completed before summer."

SHIPPING BOARD WILL HOLD TO MARKET PRICES

Washington, April 3.—Formal announcement was made by the shipping board today that no plan now under consideration for disposal of the government fleet contemplated the sale of ships for "unrestricted service," at less than world market prices. Suggestions that a sale-at-any-price policy might be adopted was said to have received such a setback in the national hesitancy on the part of operators to venture at this time upon operations designed to build new lines or to take over some of those now maintained by the board.

"It is true," the board's statement said, "that studies are being made for offering government-owned ships on lines at a considerable reduction from world market prices in those cases where the purchaser will guarantee to maintain the service in foreign trade for a term of years, but there is no intention of making reductions where there is no guarantee of the maintenance of service to foreign ports, and no reason at all why reductions should be made for the sale of vessels to be used in the protected coastwise trade where foreign flag ships may not compete.

"There is therefore no reason why ships owners should hesitate to buy ships at the present time for unrestricted or coastwise or intercoastal operation because of any expectation that ships for such services would be sold at greatly reduced prices later on."

SEIZURE OF LIQUOR IN A BRONX WAREHOUSE

New York, April 3.—Whiskey and alcohol valued at $125,000 were seized today by prohibition agents in a Bronx warehouse, where they said it had been stored by Thomas C. Craven, of Boston and New York, arrested several days ago, with James Dorian, chauffur, and a woman employe on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

The arrests were made upon the complaint of special agents who declared Craven had negotiated with them for the sale of liquor imported from a Cuban distillery. The arrests were made during the removal of ten drums supposed to contain alcohol, for which the agents said they had paid an initial sum of $500.

Opened the next day the drums were found to be filled with water. The conspiracy charge, however, held, United States Attorney Clark ruling that a pint of alcohol, used as a "sample," was sufficient evidence.

Mr. Craven is president of the Cumberland Chemical company.

ARRANGING PAYMENT FOR RHINELAND ARMY

Paris, April 3.—(By The A. P.)—Arrival at an accord on the arrangements for reimbursement of the costs of the United States army in the Rhineland is forecast for tomorrow morning, when the allied delegates again meet, with Ellis Woodward, assistant secretary of the United States treasury.

While there may be details requiring a further reference, it is expected that tomorrow's meeting will settle the right of the United States to begin receiving reimbursements as soon as the German reparation payments are resumed.

The allied members of the conference assert that the amount owed by the United States can easily be absorbed in a few years. It is pointed out that Germany up to the present has paid approximately 3,000,000,000 gold marks and that in the last year she turned over to the allies 720,000,000 gold marks together with very large amounts of materials, much of which was converted by the receivers into currency.

Thus far no one in well-informed circles seems willing to hazard a guess as to when Germany will yield to the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, except that it will be before autumn, but when the event does take place, it is asserted, the United States, with her limited priority on payments, will certainly begin receiving money.

It is further stated that, whether the German payments are in money or in kind, the United States will be paid in currency, as she has requested.

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE BY LORD ROBERT CECIL

New York, April 3.—Lord Robert Cecil in an interview with newspapermen denied today that his trip to America was purposed to instruct the people of the United States what they should do about joining or not joining the league of nations.

"I am not an impertinent intervener in other people's affairs," he asserted. "I thought I made it clear in my public statements that my object in coming here was to give information about the league of nations as a first hand observer of a great international experiment. I would be guilty of the grossest impertinence if I attempted to instruct the American people in their own affairs.

"I am presenting the league of nations as a practical business proposition and as an organized international effort for peace. I can see no hope for the survival of European civilization unless there is an end of war and some hope of peace in the future."

At the same time there were indications that an answering broadside in defense of General Fries was preparing at the war department.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN

Much criticism has been heard in the past by local people in regard to the speed of the various motor trucks of the local fire department, when returning from a fire. Tuesday forenoon the Reo combination chemical and hose truck, driven by William L. Smith, smashed a silent policeman and sustained a broken back wheel. The truck was returning from a brush fire on West Main street to the Bank street engine house about 11.30 o'clock and in turning into Bank street from Main street, the speed of the vehicle was so great that the driver was forced to crash into the "silent cop" which was smashed into pieces, some of which struck against the walls of surrounding buildings. The machine skurred down Bank street for a distance of twenty feet when the rear right wheel collapsed and after another ten feet of sliding the truck came to a stop.

About a dozen people witnessed the scene and in their opinion, if the truck had not struck the signal policeman and the driver had attempted to make the turn there is little doubt but that it would have plowed into the side of the Willimantic Savings Institute building which stands on the right of the turn. Several men who happened to be standing on the corner of Main and Bank streets lost no time in running to safety when they saw the danger.

Garagemen were called and after a thorough examination they found that the only damage to the truck was the broken wheel. Another wheel was secured and the machine driven into the engine house.

Three still alarms were sent in on Tuesday morning and were responded to by the three trucks at the engine Company No. 1 house. The first alarm came from Pleasant street for a grass fire on the property of Russell Rogers in the rear of the Elks park. The chemical truck answered the alarm and the fire was extinguished with brooms.

As the chemical wagon was returning to the engine house the pumper was just leaving for a brush fire in the vicinity of the new Willimantic cemetery on West Main street, caused apparently by a spark from a passing locomotive. The fire jumped the road and spread into the property of Charles Holbrook and that owned by Mrs. Grace E. Potter and before it could be put out it had burned over an area of five acres and destroyed a henhouse belonging to Mrs. Potter. Much credit is due the fire lads for their stubborn fight against the blaze which was being fanned along by a good breeze. Hose connections were made and water was played on the flames which were endangering a number of nearby themes.

A company alarm was rung in at 11.40 o'clock and was responded to by the call members, for another brush fire which burned over a small section of land owned by William E. Dickson on Mansfield avenue. A number of men were burning the brush on the property when the fire got away from them and they sent in a call to the department. The flames succeeded in extinguishing the flames after a hard battle of over an hour's duration. This third fire placed over available places of fire apparatus into operation. Mrs. Grace E. Potter highly commended the firemen on their speed work at the fire on West Main street. Witnesses of the fire were surprised that but for the hard and successful fight which the fire lads displayed the flames would have overspread several nearby houses. The Mansfield fire force was called out to fight the same fire which spread to the Pleasant Valley limits of Mansfield.

Much damage was done Tuesday in Scotland by a severe forest fire which raged over one hundred acres of wood and pasture land owned by the Baltic Mills Corporation and situated between the Scotland dam power station and the New Haven railroad. Several piles of cord wood were consumed by the flames which burned from about 9.50 o'clock Tuesday morning until quite late in the afternoon. Volunteers, under the supervision of District Fire Warden Alfred Abbe of South Windham and Deputy Fire Wardens Charles F. Brown of Scotland and John Hiddelo, fought the blaze. It is thought that the fire was caused from a spark coming from the locomotive of a freight train which passed over the Providence division during the early morning hours.

A Natural Supply of Vitamin

The word "Vitamin" is new, but the thing itself is as old as the human race. It is the nourishing, vitalizing, growth - producing element in the right food. Grape-Nuts, the famous nearly flavored cereal, provides the natural Vitamin from the wheat, and a further supply is included in the cream or milk with which Grape-Nuts is eaten.

SOUTH WINDHAM

Thursday evening the congregation of the local church united with the members of the Congregational church at Windham in an observance of Holy Thursday. The pastor, Rev. Arthur W. Clifford, conducted the devotional exercises and preached an appropriate sermon. There was special music by a choice choir. At the communion service the scripture lesson was read by Rev. Joseph F. Cobb, and Rev. William M. Brown offered prayer. Mr. Brown and Mr. Cobb also acted as deacons, assisting Deacons Cook and Lathrop in passing the emblems.

There was a good attendance at the Easter service at the church Sunday morning. A chorus choir sang as an offertory Reade's anthem, Christ is Risen. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Clifford, took for the subject of his sermon The End of a Perfect Day. The church was tastefully decorated with Easter lilies, while hyacinths and daffodils, some of which were furnished by the Christian Endeavor society and the Good Will circle, and later distributed among the sick.

Miss Avis Cobb led the monthly consecration meeting of the C. E. society Sunday evening.

The April social of the Christian Endeavor society will be held in the social rooms of the church Wednesday evening, at which time the Willimantic Endeavorers will be the guests of the local society.

The Good Will circle met in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. Following devotional exercises conducted by the president, Mrs. Joseph F. Cobb, and business, several members read missionary current events from many lands. The hostesses, Mrs. Alfred Card, Mrs. Charles Chamberlain and Mrs. Willis Slate, served delicious refreshments of hot chocolate, saltines, angel cake and sugared popcorn.

Plans are being made for the entertainment of the Windham County Sunday School association, District No. 1. The program will be as follows:

Afternoon Session: 2.30, devotional service, Rev. J. H. Knott; 3, business, appointment of nominating committee, report of president, Harold Nichols, report of secretary, Mrs. Carrie Porter, any other business; 3.30, special presentation, Wallace L. Woodin; the Crockett library; the summer school of religious education; the county convention; the state convention; 3.45, address, The Co-operation of Parents in the Work of the Children's Department, Mrs. Helen Beem Cummings; 4, address, Jesus and the Young People, Rev. F. F. Foshay; 4.30, offering service; Rev. A. Avery Gates; 4.30, musical selection, Rev. Arthur Clifford, director; 4.35, address, The Religious Education of Men and Women, Rev. A. Avery Gates; 5.05, adjournment.

The institute will be held in the South Windham church Sunday afternoon and evening, April 15. Harold Nichols, president of this district, will preside at the meetings.

A large number of sorrowing relatives and friends attended the funeral services for Miss Mary Hatch held Friday afternoon and conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Goetz of Philadelphia. A quartet composed of Messrs. Caswell, Clark, Lincoln and Staudish of Willimantic sang three selections—Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me, Silent Night, Holy Night, and Saviour, Comfort Me. Mrs. Goetz, who was a personal friend, paid a most touching tribute to the character and personality of Miss Hatch and of appreciation of her friendship.

Friends of Miss Lillie Hatch will be glad to know that while she still remains quite ill, her condition shows some improvement.

John Engstrom, who has been in East Hampton for the winter, has returned to his home for a few weeks.

Miss Sarah Abbe is at home for the Easter vacation.

Mrs. Clarence Avery and daughter Florence have been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Avery of Montville.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Norwich Community Lecture Course

Sir Paul Dukes, the famous English journalist, author, traveler and foremost member of the British secret service, has secured a veritable triumph in the American lecture field, by reason of his ability as a speaker, his great charm of manner and the fact that he is one of the foremost authorities on Russia and the Russians.

This talented young Englishman will deliver his remarkable lecture, Secret Service in Red Russia, in Slater Hall, Tuesday evening, April 16th, in the Norwich Community lecture course, under the auspices of the Norwich churches.

This lecture constitutes one of the most thrilling stories of modern times, while also giving a thorough insight into Russian social and economic conditions.

An unusual amount of interest was aroused in social circles when Sir Paul Dukes and his wife, the daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and formerly Mrs. Ogden Mills, returned to New York in January. Lady Dukes is deeply interested in the literary work of her brilliant husband and will possibly accompany on some of his lecture tours.

Tickets for this lecture are on sale at The Cranston Co., on Broadway. Tickets $1.00. Mail or 'phone orders will be given prompt attention.

Bread Theatre.

While Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, which is the weighty title of Douglas Fairbanks' new film-play, a United Artists release now showing at the Bread theatre was in the making, this master of celluloid thrills carried nearly half a million dollars in life insurance, all of which was in addition to the usual amount of protection of this kind that has been written for him.

The exact amount of the insurance carried during the filming of the Robin Hood picture was $450,000, written in two policies by Lloyds. The first policy of $250,000 was for death from any cause, accident and all sickness from the first day of April to the thirty-first of July. The second policy of $150,000 was for accidental death and covered the same period of time.

The reason for this large amount of insurance, said to be one of the biggest sums ever placed against an individual, was due to the danger and risk attendant to the filming of this extravagant picture. That no portion of it was collected is a tribute to the skill of the magnetic and agile Douglas.

Robin Hood is shown twice [illegible] at 2.30 and 7.30.

Broadway Theatre Thursday, [illegible] and Saturday.

For the last half of this week [illegible] tional Vaudeville Artists' Week the management has arranged [illegible] fine program of R. F. Keith vaudeville and pictures.

The original Irish Phillips Co. will present a head balancing addition which are sure to bring admiration from any audience.

Ruth & Clifford are a colored couple who know how to sing and dance to perfection.

Haig & Quick are two exceptional comedians who know how to produce comedy.

Meredith & Snooper appear in The Intellectual Bull Dog with a rare display of canine intelligence.

Last but not least comes Princess Nai Tai Tai, "The Oriental Lark." The Orient had music and song even before there was an Occident, nevertheless in the east a Chinese vocalist is a novelty and one should be because very few singers from China or Japan are in America. One of the few is Princess Nai Tai Tai and although she is Chinese her voice is decidedly American. It is a fine soprano well cultivated and her English enunciation is perfect. However, she doesn't sing entirely in English. Some of her songs are in Chinese, and she sings one American popular song translated into her language.

The photoplay feature is a Paramount picture, featuring Alice Brady in her latest, The Leopardess.

Exceptional Program at Strand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

If there ever was a perfect program in a local theatre it is at the Strand Thursday with two features —Harold Lloyd in Grandma's Boy, and Mae Marsh in Till We Meet Again.

Grandma's Boy, Harold Lloyd's newest comedy in five parts, and his most ambitious attempt for Associated Exhibitors, comes to the Strand theatre Thursday. It is the comedy that Rod Sherwood in Life, said should win for Lloyd a "room and bath in the Hall of Fame."

Mae Marsh, heading an all star cast in the William Christy Cabanne production, Till We Meet Again, plays the role of a girl who is loved by a crook and an aristocrat. Her heart goes out to each of them—she is stirred with sympathy for the crook who befriended her and stood ready to share his last cent with her at a time when she was friendless, homeless and frightened. And the aristocrat had risked his honor and reputation in carving her. This new Associated Exhibitors feature is the main attraction at the Strand theatre Thursday. In addition to Miss Marsh, the cast includes Norman Kerry as the aristocrat, Walter Miller as the crook, Martha Mansfield, J. Barney Sherry, Julia Swayne Gordon, Tammany Young, Dick Lee and others. William Christy Cabanne directed Till We Meet Again which is his own story adapted for the screen by Edmund Goulding.

A News will also be included in this exceptional program.

HAUGHTON GIVES COLUMBIA GRID MEN TASTE OF "HARVARD SYSTEM"

New York, April 3 (By the A. P.).—Columbia today had its initial taste of the famous "Harvard system" when a squad of 50 football candidates reported to Head Coach Percy D. Haughton, former Crimson gridiron mentor, for the first spring practice session the Blue and White has had in 20 years.

The two-hour workout at Baker field, site of Columbia's proposed athletic stadium, marked the beginning of Haughton's reign as dictator of gridiron destinies at Morningside Heights, and its enthusiasm demonstrated today at both a student mass meeting and on the playing field is any criterion, Columbia already is well on the way toward regaining its football prestige after a long series of disappointments.

Proof of the completeness with which the "Harvard system" will be "jammed down Columbia's throat"—as Haughton metaphorically phrased it—is the fact that five of the nine assistant coaches who will aid the spring practice sessions are former Harvard stars.

These five, all of whom took charge of various squads today, are: Douglas Lawson, Harvard '13, and former assistant at Williams, line coach; Billy Murray, captain of Harvard's '13 eleven, quarterback coach; Charles Crowley, Harvard '11, and coach; Roscoe Fitts, Harvard '12, and a member of last year's Crimson eleven, backfield coach; Philip Philbin, Harvard '22, and now at Columbia Law school, coach of centers.

Only two of last year's assistants to Frank J. (Buck) O'Neill, former head coach, have been retained.

Strict discipline and thorough instruction of each individual candidate in fundamentals of the game are prime requisites of the "Harvard system" as it was unfolded to Columbia men by Haughton. He declared he wanted a squad of from 100 to 150 men in uniform before the spring workouts close, probably in three weeks.

"You've heard a lot about this so-called 'Harvard system'," Haughton told the players, "but I know you're going to excuse us if we jam it down your throats,' because that's what we know, and we believe it's right.

"That system is built upon teaching each individual all that's possible about his particular job. A football eleven may be all polished up into a nice looking machine but it won't stand the test unless each unit knows his own job thoroughly. These Harvard men here are going to impart their particular knowledge to you individually and when we've gotten along pretty well, then we'll have some scrimmages and a little fun."

Because of their activity in other college sports, several of the veterans of last year's Columbia eleven will not take part regularly in the spring workouts. These men include Walter Koppisch, captain and backfield star, who is on the track team; Frank V. Brodil, center, who is an oarsman; and Lou Gehrig, star lineman, who is playing baseball.

Haughton and his corps of assistants will augment the field practice sessions with blackboard lectures and informal discussions in the evening for several weeks.

CHAMPIONS WIN SECOND ROUND DOUBLES MATCHES

New York, April 3.—Defending the national title they won last year, Frank T. Anderson, Columbia, and S. Howard Voshell, Brooklyn, today defeated Frank Ward, New York, and John V. Carney, Princeton, 6-3, 6-1, in the second round of the doubles in the indoor tennis tournament. The champions tomorrow will meet H. C. Penfield, New York, and R. W. Garbutt, South Africa, who were advanced to the third round today through the default of J. C. Hart, Canada, and partner.

Francis T. Hunter, New York, national singles champion, and Vincent Richards, Yonkers former" titleholder, playing as partners in the doubles, advanced to the third round by defeating Charles A. Anderson, Brooklyn, and W. M. Fischer, New York, 6-2, 8-6, in the first round, and J. F. Allen and Frank Whitcomb, New York, 6-0, 6-0, in the second.

Hunter and Richards are matched tomorrow against Kenneth Appel and John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., who today defeated Frederick Damrau and R. E. Roberts, Brooklyn, 6-3, 6-0.

Only two first round matches were scheduled, in the other George C. Whitlock and Ingo F. Hartmann, New York, won from Colgate Baker and Arthur Hammerstein, New York, 6-3, 6-4. In the second round, A. S. Dabney, New York, and partner defaulted to Whitlock and Hartmann.

In two other second round matches, Reginald Talmadge and A. L. Bruneau, Brooklyn, defeated G. A. L. Dionne and V. E. Havens, New York, 6-4, 6-3, and H. L. Bowman and Henry H. Bamford, New York, defeated R. M. Demott, Hoboken, N. J., and Wood Ivins, New York, 6-1, 8-1.

Frank T. Anderson, one of the six seeded players, advanced through the first and second rounds of the singles, after his matches had been postponed two days. He defeated Jack J. Linderman, Montvale, N. J., in the first, 6-0, 6-4, and Frederick Damrau in the second, 6-0, 6-0.

Play in the third round of the singles also will be resumed tomorrow.

Training Camp Talks
by
STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hot Springs, Ark., April 4.—It is one of those queer pranks of fate that places in ball parks on opposite sides of a street in this American watering place what appears to this b. b. correspondent to be the best and the worst companies of athletes to be found at southern training headquarters. The best?—Pittsburgh, of course. The worst?—do doubt you have guessed correctly—the Boston Red Sox.

In making the statement that the wearers of the red hose are the worst company of diamond pastimers in the Southland this spring we desire to set forth an accompanying explanation. Individually, there are some good ball players. Taking 'em man for man, one might select several as possible stars. But—yes a dozen or so buts.

Frank LeRoy Chance, new pilot of Boston's A. L. entry, arrived in Hot Springs several weeks ago, absolutely unacquainted with the age, weight, height, skill and table manners of each and every athlete on his roster. Equally unacquainted with their new boss were the b. b. bullies. That's a whale of a handicap for all concerned.

Furthermore, as the Red Sox are lining up in their preliminary workout, no two athletes previously played alongside one another as regulars in Boston or any other place. Talk about building a ball club from the ground up—merciful mackerel! there is not even a tiny tinge of envy in our heart for the Chance who is taking a long chance in critical Boston town.

If you were the leader of the college glee club, and the tenors, baritones and bassos all walked out on you, and you were compelled to call for volunteers and then, after a couple of rehearsals, put on the big concert of the year—you get the idea, don't you? That is precisely the fix, only worse, that Frank L. Chance finds himself in as this piece is being typed for the paper.

And yet, to his credit be it said, the once "Peerless Leader" of the famous Cubs faces his terrifying task with courage and confidence that is inspiring.

How Team Shapes Up

Again let it be heralded from the housetops, however, that Frank LeRoy Chance is a brave man; a builder of baseball machines who enjoys rough work. Therefore, we shall proceed to give a general outline of what the Peerless Leader has accomplished to date. (It may be well to remark at this point that cold and wet weather have seriously retarded the building operations in Hot Springs.)

George Burns, a first sacker who was with the Tigers, Athletics and Indians before he joined the Red Sox at the start of the '22 season, is the one veteran in the line-up as we saw it. He hit .296 last year and he fields the position reasonably well. With F. LeRoy behind him to prod him, Burns may play better ball than ever before.

Shanks, the handy Andy who at various times played all the infield and outfield positions in Washington, and was quite ready to pitch or catch when that became necessary, may draw a regular assignment at last. The new Boston pilot likes the spirit of the lad and has been using him regularly at second base, where his defensive work has been superb. Shanks hit .283 last year, but may be capable of better stick swinging if he steps up to the plate daily.

Fewster, one of the many players who moved his b. b. belongings from New York to Boston, is a candidate for an infield job, though he also does a good job defensively in the outfield. His skull stopped a pitched ball when he was a Yankee and he hasn't hit so well since, his average last season being 260. But he may play second or short; he may be in the outfield. More likely he will be first in line for utility duty.

Johnny Mitchell, another youth who covered the well-traversed route between the New York and Boston clubhouses, appears to have the shortstop job clinched. He will need to improve his batting, but his fielding has been stamped O. K. by Chance. And still another former Yank—McMillan—completes the infield. He will be found on third base.

Of this quartet, McMillan appears to be the best prospect. He is only 23 years old, ambitious and all pepped up because he now has the chance to be a big league regular.

Chance Favors Youth

While there are no Ruths or Cobbs among the Red Sox outfield candidates, it should be somewhat easier to pick three fairly good gardeners than it will be to develop an infield machine. Chance seems to favor youth, all things being equal. His favorite combination in Hot Springs was Menosky, 27 years old, left handed batsman, Skinner, 26 years old, right-handed, and Goebel, 23 years old, also right-handed. Menosky was with the club last year; Skinner came from the Yanks, where he had no chance to show, and Goebel from the Senators.

Chance admits he is impressed by the actions of Al Devormer, a six-foot giant, who was a sub catcher in New York last season. Big Al didn't scuff many baseballs by driving them against concrete walls in games last year, but the Red Sox pilot figures Al to hit .280 or better and likes his back-stopping manners. Val Picinich, who came from Washington, a rather small chap for big league catching, but a hard worker, will share the labors behind the plate with Devormer. Walters and Chaplin, both with the club last season are rivals for the third place.

Next we have the pitchers—there are only twelve of 'em at the Springs h. q., and it may be assumed that all who display the slightest trace of big league talen will be carried until June 15—probably ten of the hurlers will hang around all season.

The veterans, Quinn and Ehmke, are likely to make some trouble for opponents. Quinn, a spitballist who starts his 23rd season as a pro, takes great delight in hurling the apple past the bats of New Yorkers since they let him go. Ehmke, who is in great shape, will be pointing toward Detroit, the club that shifted him to Boston.

Then there are Murray, a right-hander, and O'Doul, a southpaw, both likely-looking buckoes, who were sacrificed by the Yanks in order that they might obtain the experienced left-handed curving of Herb Pennock.

ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN IN A. B. C. TOURNEY

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3 (By the A. P.).—Another world's record score was established today in the American bowling congress tournament when W. Knox of Philadelphia took the lead in the all-events with a grand total of 2019, topping the former mark held by C. Daw of Milwaukee by five points.

Shooting with the Quakers' team of Philadelphia last night, Knox scored 613 pins in the doubles. Today, paired with C. Trucks, he rolled 686, which coupled with his partner's total of 616 put them in fourth place in that event. Knox then came back strong in his singles and turned in games of 192, 244 and 279 for a total of 715 and third place in the individual event. In the last game the Philadelphian started off with eight strikes and the ninth ball hit the pocket perfect, but the No. 8 pin stood. He then struck out for the highest single game score of the meet.

H. Horton of New York turned in games of 213, 225 and 242 for a total of 681, the best mark today in the singles event. Horton registered a miss and a split in his first game, which prevented him from scoring a 700 total and securing a position in the first five.

The Spinella brothers, Barney and Chris, who won the doubles title last year, were scheduled to defend their crown today, but failed to take the drives on account of a death in the family last week.

SCHOELL AND WELLS ARE SUSPENDED AT TORONTO

The match was halted by the referee, who declared the men were "hippodroming." The purses are to be given to charity.

BROWN STILL LEADS IN NORTH AND SOUTH GOLF; TITLE HOLDER OUT

Pinehurst, N. C., April 3.—Although falling four strokes behind Frank C. Newton of Brookline, Mass., in today's round, T. Russell Brown of Burlington, Vt., maintained his place in the lead of the 250 contestants in the annual north and south amateur golf tournament and topped the list of 16 who will participate in the championship round. His card at the conclusion of the qualifying round showed 76-78—154.

Newton came second, with a score for the two days of 84-74—158. Henry J. Toping of Greenwich, Conn., 1922 champion, failed to qualify for the championship group.

Totals of the 16, with their scores for yesterday and today, were:

GOOD CARD SLATED AT DANIELSON FRIDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 3.—If previous matches may be accepted as a measure of the prospective entertainment, there'll be plenty of action at the town hall here Friday evening of this week, when the first of the post-Lenten series of bouts is staged by the Casino Amusement company.

Promoter Frank Barber says that this week's card will be superior even to that of three weeks ago, when 600 fans were shouting in a frenzy of enthusiasm and interest from the first bell to the last. If the coming bouts are equally as good, the fans will more than get their money's worth, and the card that has been arranged promises well.

In the feature event, a 10 round affair at 155 pounds, Sailor Michaels, the fighting chief petty officer from the submarine base at New London, will go against Steve Ketchell of Providence. Here are a pair of ring artists that may be expected to give the fans a sensationally fast go.

Although it is billed as the semi-final, and will go six rounds, there will be a world of interest in the bout between Willie O'Dowd of Central Village and Kid Miller of Norwich, at 115 pounds. O'Dowd is a fast boy and appears to be in line to contend for the flyweight championship of the state. He has been going great all winter, but Kid Miller, who challenged him at the bouts three weeks ago, is confident that he can take his measure, and there is a division of opinion among the fans as to just what the outcome of this go may be. Miller isn't worried a bit over O'Dowd's record and is sure of giving him all that's coming to him, and then some. The Kid is short but well put up and solid and it will take something to put him away. His footwork is good and he is a two-handed little scrapper.

For prelims, there are two good events scheduled. Young Bernier of Danielson and Tommy Woods of Plainfield are scheduled to meet for six rounds. Those who have seen these boys in action need not be told that there will be action—and plenty of it—when they face each other in the ring.

Then there is Young Choquette of Danielson to meet Oscar Supernault of Wauregan. They are going to weigh in at 135 pounds and are matched to battle for four rounds. This should be good, as the boys are in condition and anxious for the fray.

Promoter Barber said Tuesday that he is anxious to hear from any of the fast boys in eastern Connecticut who would like to go on in future preliminary events. There is a chance for all the good ones, and they will be given that chance if they can demonstrate their ability as entertainers with the gloves and within the squared circle.

PIRATES AND RED SOX END SPRING TRAINING

Hot Springs, Ark., April 3.—Departure tonight of Manager Bill McKechnie and 14 of his regulars of the Pittsburgh Pirates for Tulsa, Okla., terminated the spring baseball training season at Hot Springs, where two complete big league squads and detachments of other major teams have held the center of interest for nearly two months. Manager Chance left early today with his Boston Red Sox.

No announcement of releases was made by McKechnie before leaving, nor by President Dreyfuss, who with two team coaches remained here in charge of the reserves until the latter join the regulars at Memphis Monday.

OXFORD RELAY TEAM NAMED FOR PENN RACES

Philadelphia, April 3.—The Oxford university two mile relay team which will compete at the Pennsylvania relay carnival April 27 and 28 will be composed of Captain Milligan, Stevenson, Ewetson and L. R. Miller, with C. B. E. Morgan as substitute. Manager George W. Orton was notified of the makeup of the team today in a cablegram from Captain Milligan. The message also said that Morgan probably would run in the two mile international race.

RUSSIAN ATHLETES TO COMPETE AT PARIS GAMES

Paris, April 3 (By the A. P.).—Athletes representing Russia as a country will be allowed to compete in the 1924 Olympic games to be held in Paris. This decision has been reached by a majority of the international Olympic committee and will be ratified at Rome by the Olympic congress which begins its sessions next Saturday.

There has been much discussion among the French committee which is preparing for the games as to the advisability of permitting Russians to participate. Those opposed argued that the present Russian government is not composed of Russians but "usurpers." The Olympic committee, however, ruled that it was not dealing with the soviet but with the Russian Olympic committee, which has been represented on the international committee since its creation.

Prince Olouzoff, Russia's delegate prior to the war, who has been residing in Paris since the bolshevik revolution, will continue in the same capacity and will endeavor to get a Russian team together for the 1924 games.

It has been definitely decided that the participation of women in the Olympic games will be confined to tennis and swimming, as heretofore. There will be no athletic competition between women.

MAY GET SOME ACTION ON ROUSH'S DEMANDS

Cincinnai, April 3.—Some action may be taken in the case of Ed Roush, holdout outfielder of the Cincinnati Nationals, when the directors of the club meet tomorrow, it was intimated here tonight. A director of the club stated, however, that Rush's demand for a salary of $25,000 a year would not be met under any circumstances.

A report that Roush would attend the directors' meeting could not be verified.

HUMOR

THE WORLD WAS NEW THAT YEAR.

The spring was late that year, and April chill
Yet beautiful, and perhaps dreamlit as Mayer, we waited for the earliest glow
Of crocuses beneath the window sill
Mayer, we watched the budding daffodil
And in rough upland pastures, saw the snow
Glitter in deep hollows, while a stream below
Swelled to a foaming torrent, which at will Rushed where it would; the spring was late and fleet.
Swift on its passing came the summer heat.
With it you went; ah, fleeter than the spring!
Lovelier, far, of all life's fairest flower;
Since then there comes no single day or hour
But goes by fraught with my remembering.
—Elizabeth Scollard, in New York Herald.

FAIRY SONG.

Have ye left the greenwood lone?
Are your steps forever gone?
Fairy King and Elfin Queen,
Come ye to the sylvan scene,
From your dim and distant shore,
Never more?

Shall the pilgrim never hear
With a thrill of joy and fear,
In the hush of moonlight hours,
Voices from the folded flowers,
Faint sweet flatter-notes as of yore,
Never more?

"Mortal! ne'er shall bowers of earth
Hear again our midnight mirth;
By our brooks and dingles green
Since unhallowed steps have been,
Ours shall thread the forests hoar
Never more!

"Ne'er on earth-born lily's stem
Will we hang the dewdrop's gem;
Ne'er shall reed or cowslip's head
Quiver to our dancing tread,
By sweet fount or murmuring shore,
Never more!"
—Felicia Dorothea Hemans, in Indianapolis News.

PERILOUS PLAYGROUNDS.

The dangers of coasting on hills which carry the coasters across much traveled, intersecting highways and trolley tracks have been repeatedly illustrated by distressing accidents and numerous fatalities. That they are no greater than those cases where children coast down hill in wagons is brought to attention by a case in Waterbury this week where two brothers upon receiving a warning from an automobile turned directly into the path of the machine and one received such injuries that it is not believed he can recover.

Sliding down hill or coasting down in a wagon are equally dangerous. It is a sport in either case that fails to take into consideration the expected highway traffic, which is growing greater each year. When a sled or a cart with one or two children aboard darts across a street or shoots across a crosswalk it leaves the drivers of vehicles powerless to prevent an accident especially when there are blind corners, and the children are devoting their minds attention to pleasure rather than guarding against the danger.

The Waterbury accident well illustrates how difficult it is to tell what direction children coasting down a street in a cart are going to take. They are as likely to head into danger, as in this case, as they are to avoid it. Conditions very readily develop under such circumstances which make it impossible for the careful driver to escape.

There was a time when there was not as much danger from playing in the street as there is today. That was when the vehicles possessed less speed and more time was allowed to get out of the way. Greater safety therefore calls for keeping the children out of the streets as much as possible and restricting their play to the yards or the playgrounds. Street dangers are no longer imaginary. The streets are perilous playgrounds.

PREVENTING GOVERNMENT COMPETITION.

In a protest which has been made to the president against the recommendation by Secretary Hoover of curtailing government construction work the basis for it seems to be the idea that this action would be taken because prices are too high.

From what Secretary Hoover had to say in regard to the plan it is not because of high prices but because there is such a large demand for labor in all lines. Should the government enter into competition with private construction it would only serve to increase the demand for workmen in many lines. That would in itself create an uneasiness among the building trades and it would not be surprising if it resulted in higher prices following the keen competition to get help to carry on the projects.

Instead of building activities bothered by such conditions it is readily seen how much better it would be for the government to hold back its work until there is something of a lull in such activities. That would mean providing employment against the possibilities of unemployment and keeping the building trades active at all times instead of being rushed beyond the limit for a certain period and with nothing to do later on.

The government has experienced the effects of unemployment. The aim being to prevent the return of anything of the kind, it must be regarded as a wise suggestion put forth at the right time and for the most part it has been given hearty endorsement from different sections of the country.

Government projects that cannot wait need not be included in the plan, but for much government work it makes little difference whether it is done this year or next. Because the government should hold up construction work to keep employment conditions more nearly normal doesn't mean that it would have any detrimental influence upon private construction. It would in fact give it greater chances than if the government undertook to compete for those engaged in the building trades. The protest is not well grounded.

CLEARING THE CHINA SITUATION.

Another step for the better understanding of the situation in China has been taken by the cancellation of the Lansing-Ishii agreement, since it removes a pact that ran counter to other treaty provisions.

Up to the time of the Washington conference this agreement was to the effect that the United States recognized that Japan had special interests in China, particularly in the part to which her possessions are contiguous. That meant that we approved the position taken by Japan concerning this matter. It didn't please China for the very reason that it seemed to side with the Japanese, but the protest against it never resulted in any action.

When the Washington conference drew up an agreement concerning China which this country and Japan both signed, it was provided that the present would not bind the signatories in their respective relations to pending or contemplated treaties which might purport to establish in favor of their interests any general superiority of rights. That left the Lansing-Ishii agreement and the new pact in question, except that the latter should be regarded as repealing the former.

For the purpose of eliminating any question regarding it the advisability of cancelling the Lansing-Ishii agreement was recognized. With the suggestion presented by this country meeting with the approval of Japan an important move for the clarification of the far eastern situation and the open door in China has been taken. China may well be pleased. There is cause for real satisfaction in the willingness of Japan to remove any cloud concerning its attitude.

WALKING.

We are getting to the season, if it hasn't already arrived, when more thought and attention should be devoted to the matter of walking. Because walking was indulged in more freely in years gone by does not necessarily make its appeal. That it is advocated does not overcome the temptation to use the trolleys or get out the machine. Occasionally there will be found those devotees of walking who turn down the offer of a ride or forego the pleasure of driving a machine for the beneficial effects which they know that they get from the exercise of walking.

We are living in a period of such hustle and bustle that walking is not considered speedy enough. The speed of it is invariably lowered. Those whose employment makes it highly important to their well being are disposed to shun it at every opportunity. It is quicker and easier to ride, and the necessary amount of exercise for good physical conditions is disregarded until there are conditions which cause one to be suddenly confronted with the effects of such abstinence. Perhaps if there were restrictions which prohibited individuals from walking there might be a greater independence.

Kansas City has a sufficient number who are considerate of the benefits of walking to form a walking club. Its motto is "Walking is good—walk more, ride less." This is not to be interpreted as meaning an organized opposition to transportation lines or railroads, but it does mean an effort for the stimulation of interest in walking that there may be obtained the benefits of getting, as one doctor says, a certain number of miles of fresh air on the road each day.

There isn't anything that will take the place of a delightful walk into the country or the fields. There isn't anything that can accomplish as much for an individual, and after the result of such exercise is demonstrated the wonder is that such a simple, fascinating and healthful method was not resorted to before.

A TEST OF SOVIET RUSSIA.

Much has been claimed for soviet Russia for a number of months. It has been insisted that it was moving from darkness to light, that conditions there are not what they were, that it has seen the folly of the system it was pursuing and made a change for the better and that experience has taught it valuable lessons which it insisted upon having. It has also been pointed out that the highly objectionable features of the bolshevik government have been removed.

Those things have all been presented in connection with the urging of the recognition of that government and its acceptance into the circle of approved governments.

Within the past week there has been an opportunity to note just how much of a change soviet Russia has actually undergone. For a time it seemed that it might respond to the appeals which have been made by other governments, some of which have recognized it and others which have not. There can be no mistaking on its part as to how other governments felt regarding its attitude toward the two priests who had been condemned to death. Had it heeded the appeals there would have been an opportunity to point to that government and show that there had been a real reformation. For a time it looked as if that might be the case for the death sentence of one condemned priest was commuted. Whenever in the face of all outside pressure it carries out the execution it makes just that much more difficult the spreading of a mantle of charity over policies and conduct of the soviet Russian government. It hasn't helped to hasten the day of recognition by other governments.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When Germany blames the allies for the failure of its loan, it shows what habit will do.

The man on the corner says: Life, liberty and the pursuit of the trout seems to satisfy some people.

Those who manipulate the sugar market figure the consumer much the same as do the gold brick swindlers.

Increased activity is welcomed in most lines but it doesn't hold good when it is applied to the fire department.

Every now and then there are crossing accidents which show that the "Danger" signs actually mean what they say.

The report that there were 2000 boy and girl suicides in five years shows there was something the matter with the homes.

Possibly some little satisfaction will come from the reflection that it is but six weeks to the opening of the strawhat season.

The use of "white mule" in some places to prevent autos from freezing may explain some of the peculiar antics by automobiles.

No very great amount of elation is being displayed over the fact that new temperature records are being established this spring.

When the government declines a thrifty man as one who saves 20 cents in every dollar earned, it doesn't include the chap who invests savings with a Ponzi.

It is cheerful news for the baseball magnates to be told by one weatherman that we may have no summer this year. But think also of the pink lemonade and peanut man at the circus.

"Somehow or other," observed Bobby, "I never have thought very much of history."

"As for me, I judged as much from recent reports you have brought me from school," said his father smilingly.

"I mean," Bobby explained hastily "I haven't thought there was any use at all in it, but now I can see it's a pretty good thing because it helps you understand what people are talking about."

"That is not exactly the reason for the teaching of it," his father said. "But I am glad to see that you are waking up to the realization of the need for study."

"I bet I know as much history as Mamie Kelly," Bobby declared, "She's such a shark in arithmetic she don't think about other things a lot and I've even known her to ask Billy what was Napoleon. I'd be a-whole lot ashamed if I didn't know Napoleon and Washington and George the Fourth and—and things like that. They're easy but then somebody up and talks about a feller you don't even know the name of and then where are you?"

"Oh, yes, of course," father told him cheerfully. "Even some of your friends may do things that you have to know about. Take Sam, for instance. He may be a great doctor some day and discover a cure for mumps. You'd have liked to have such a doctor help you last winter."

"Aw, mumps!" scoffed Bobby. "That's easy—they cure themselves. All you got to do is not take cold, that's all. I guess Sam'll have a snap if he never gets anything worse'n mumps to fix up. No, sir, if any of my friends gets into a history I ain't going to study about 'em, no sir. I know too much already—that is, I mean, about them. They don't any of 'em know much history unless it's Polly Foster and she gets hers out of books, not history books but stories. Her uncle he's got about a million books and she reads 'em. I wish somebody'd turn me loose in a lot of books like that."

"What has caused this sudden thirst for learning, my son?" Bobby's father asked in some alarm. "I think you have not tried to look in any of the books in our library, often as I have invited you to."

"Well, you see, I didn't care so much about it then, but now I've got to know it. Teacher—she's awful nice, I tell you—she's going to ask me to think up a story about the month you were born, father, and—"

"If you're only going to ask me to think up a story about the month you were born, father, and—" began his father, "I can help you."

"It's about those old colonies," Bobby said hurriedly. "But I know the good parts now, and I have looked in English history and they ain't there."

"The way I thought about it was like this," he explained. "You see Susie Herrick's cousin's going from Dallas, or maybe it's Denver, anyway it's somewhere in Minneapolis, and she's coming to visit, a lot, I don't know, maybe two years. Anyhow, she's awful old, and she's read everything there is. Well anyhow, she had a party given for her and I was there."

"I remember," said his father, thoughtfully. "Seems to me there was some question whether you should wear that collar that goes with a certain shirt."

"I don't care," Bobby said warmly. "That collar looks punk, and how did I know the other fellers was going to wear that kind, anyhow? I didn't say anything when I saw they had 'em like that, too. All the same, they're the punkest collars I ever seen—aw, and Stubby says to, too, only he didn't have one on. Anyway, that girl was at the party Susie gave for her, and she told all us fellers that all the other fellers and girls made her think of folks she'd read of in history. She made us all stay we wouldn't tell, hope to die and cross my heart, but they all told, all right, all right!"

"What a pity!" exclaimed Bobby's father. "Of course she'd be sorry to know that."

"I don't know yet," Bobby said dubiously. "You see, I ain't been over to Susie's, and I don't know whether I'm solat or not."

"I suppose you ought to don't you?" his father suggested mildly. "After Susie was kind enough to ask you to the party?"

"Susie wasn't kind," Bobby said scornfully. "Her mother told her who she could have. It was Billy told me what Susie's cousin said I was like and he had it straight, because she told Sam and Sam told Stubby and Stubby told Billy and Billy up and told me. The thing is, I don't know what kind of a king this feller was, so I don't know whether to get sore or not. If I'm supposed to get sore I don't want to go over to Susie's, see?"

"Tell me, maybe I can enlighten you."

"I don't believe you can," sighed Bobby, "because I've looked in three histories and can't find him. She said I was a young Apollo, that's what she did, and I bet I'm going to be awful mad at her!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is years since the British house of commons listened to such a brilliant maiden speech as that delivered the other day by James Welsh, one of the new Labor members. It capture ed the house from the start, and it was generally admitted that the member for Coastbridge is one of the greatest "finds" of the present parliament. Mr. Welsh was born in a little Scotch mining village, and was one of a family of twelve. At the age of eleven he went to work at the pithead, and was paid at the rate of a shilling a day. A year later he went down the pit, where he worked twelve hours for one shilling and threepence. From the beginning he took an active interest in the organized labor movement and soon rose to leadership in the miners' organization. Before his debut in politics Mr. Welsh had already won considerable fame as a novelist and poet. His book, "The Underworld," caused something like a sensation several years ago.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Questions Asked.

Mr. Editor: There was a slight mistake in the first paragraph of the letter I sent in in answer to Mr. Robinson. Rev. 21-1 should have been Rev. 21-4.

I would like to have Mr. Robinson answer some questions. I would like more light on the subject of the 144,000 being the children put to death at the edict of Herod soon after our Saviour's death. He says these are the ones mentioned as the bride class, the redeemed. Will he kindly tell a Russellite, as he calls us, how these were redeemed when the redemption price had not yet been paid, and they were not sealed in their foreheads, and the true church was not founded until Pentecost? Does he know that the 12 apostles are mentioned in the Bible as the 12 foundations of the church? Does he know what a foundation is? Does he know that Satan hath blinded the eyes (eyes of understanding) of all those who believe not for fear light of the glorious gospel will shine into them, that they might be saved, 1 Cor. 4:4? Does he know that the virginity of the church means to keep free from all earthly institutions, that the harlotry of the church means the union of church and state, therefore serving two masters? All this has nothing to do with a man being married here on earth. Does he know that Jesus said the true church class would be persecuted, brought before judges, imprisoned, put to death, for the truth's sake, His (Christ's) sake? Does he know it has been fulfilled? Does he know that all these things help to prove who this class is? Does he understand that there are three covenants mentioned in scripture, and what it means? Also that there are three classes mentioned, The Little Flock, The Great Company, and the Worldly Class? Does he know there are three worlds mentioned also, "the world that was," before the flood, "the world that now is," this wicked world, and the new earth a world which ushers in the new order of things? Does he know that the wheat and tare classes have been growing together, but are now being separated? This has been going on for some time. The principal trouble with the people is that they apply all scripture to every one, thinking the Bible is addressed to mankind in general. A greater mistake could not be made. This is illustrated by an able editor, applying the text, "Ye are the salt of the earth," to all mankind. He quoted the entire passage and did not see the point. "Ye are the salt of the earth; but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is therefore good for nothing, but to be cast out and to be trodden under foot of men."

This man claims that Christendom is being trodden under foot, and adds that it is going deeper into the mire each day. The first and last words, "ye" and "men" show the line of difference. From the first to the second advent of Christ the work has been principally to select this bride of Christ the hundred and forty-seven thousandth redeemed ones. And incidentally to witness to the world of the coming times of restitution when the living shall be restored to Edenic conditions. The dead millions (these children put to death by Herod's edict and all) brought out of the (prison house of hope) the tomb and given a knowledge of God's truth in order that they may have restored to them, mental, moral and physical perfection. One more question: Does Mr. Robinson know that one of the proofs of sonship is love for the brethren. And did the Christian (?) nations show this love for each other in time of the war—or science.

Below is a verse of a song which gives some light on morality:

The moral man came to the judgment,
But his self righteous rags would not do,
The man that had crucified Jesus,
They had passed for righteous men, too.
The soul that had put off salvation,
Not tonight, I'll get saved bye and bye.
No time now to think of religion,
At last they had found time to die.
Then, O, What a weeping and wailing,
When the lost ones heard of their fate.
They called on the rocks (fortresses of society) and the mountains (kingdoms of earth.)
They prayed, but their prayer was too late.

Wives of Famous Men

Sarah Jennings, Wife of the Duke of Marlborough.

Although possessed of a temper that, at court, was surreptitiously likened to that of a tigress, Sarah Jennings, wife of the Duke of Marlborough, one of the greatest generals that England has ever had, was a pattern of fidelity and wifely devotion for 44 years, and remained faithful to her husband even when, after his decease, the "proud Duke of Somerset" asked her to marry him. This was no mean record at a time when it was said of the court of England that if men had gone into mourning for the immorality of their wives, sisters and daughters, half the court would always have worn black.

Sarah Jennings was brought up at court from the age of 12. She had little education, but her proud beauty and queenly bearing made her much sought after. For her sake, the Duke, then John Churchill, a handsome and irresistible young soldier, gave up a marriage with a kinswoman, Catherine Sedley, who was very wealthy and much favored by his parents.

Being the wife of a man so fascinating to womankind as the handsome and valorous Duke, proved no mean task. At times Sarah Jennings temper burst under the strain. During one altercation, maddened by her husband's nonchalance, she cut off her long and beautiful hair, of which the Duke was very proud, and threw it in his face for spite. After his death, she found the tresses locked in his private cabinet among his treasures. Whatever she lacked in tenderness however, Sarah Jennings made up in faithfulness. She kept the strictest watch over her husband's reputation and held up his end tenaciously in the intrigues at court.

The Duke's love for her was true and deep. Their letters to each other are remarkable for tenderness. "I do love and adore you with all my heart and soul," he wrote to her once, "so much that I will ever be better pleased with your happiness than with my own."

As for his wife, she replied to the Duke of Somerset's proposal of marriage that "if she were only 30 she could not permit the emperor of the world to succeed in a heart which has been devoted to John, Duke of Marlborough."

Study Puts Strain On Your Children

Need Building Up During School Days—The Safe Tonic Is Father John's Medicine.

During the long strain of the school year, many children become pale, thin and tired. The strain of the winter's study is too great for the growing child in many cases. At such a time

Father John's Medicine is of particular value and thousands of mothers give it to their children regularly and find that it gives the children the tonic food that they need. To keep all the family well and strong, Father John's Medicine is of proven value. It has been successfully used for sixty-seven years.

Its special value as a food tonic is due to the fact that its basis is cod liver oil combined in a scientific way with other ingredients. Research proves that cod liver oil is 200 times richer in vitamins than any other source.

Approve $644,500 for Norwich State Hospital

Hartford, April 3.—Immediate additions to the Norwich state hospital for the insane, involving an aggregate expenditure of $644,500, will be recommended to the general assembly tomorrow by the legislative committee on appropriations. Two new ward buildings accommodating 135 patients each and minor structures will be provided for in a bill to be reported. Commitments of insane have increased to such an extent that it is expected that one of the new ward buildings will be filled to capacity in nine months.

Passing the 1,700 mark, the population of the Norwich institution is increasing at the rate of 15 inmates a month. The Connecticut state hospital for the insane at Middletown, with approximately 2,700 enrolled, is unable to provide accommodations for more, and it is felt that the Middletown institution has been made as large as it should be, for maximum efficiency.

The Norwich proposition is the first capital outlay for the state's humane work to be recommended by the appropriations committee at the current session of the legislature. Both the governor and the state board of finance have urged the extension of accommodations at Norwich in an effort to keep up with the increase in commitments of insane persons, there having been times within the past two years when lack of room at either of the state institutions for the insane has made it necessary for towns to provide special guards to watch over insane persons until places could be found for them at Norwich or Middletown.

The appropriation to be recommended tomorrow represents a cut of $139,500 from the amount requested by the board of trustees of the Norwich state hospital. Provision is made in the approved substitute bill for the following: Two ward buildings for 125 patients each, with furnishings, $425,000; nurses' home and furnishings, $65,000; house for staff physicians, with furnishings, $10,000; changes in power plant, $30,000; enlargement of cold storage and refrigerating plant, $10,000; purchase and improvement of nearby farm, $12,000; kitchen and laundry improvements, $8,000; chicken farm, $500; auto truck and food truck, $4,000.

FAVORABLE TO LILLIBRIDGE STANDARD TIME BILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 3.—The standard time bill introduced by Representative Lillibridge of Norwich was returned to the house today as a substitute bill with a favorable report by the judiciary committee. It is understood that there was considerable difference of opinion at first as to just how far the bill should go. The committee came together on the bill presented today. It was drafted by Representative Bell of Salisbury. On motion of House Leader Buckley the bill was tabled and ordered printed in the journal.

The bill follows:

Section 1. Each department of the state and each state institution including each institution receiving aid from the state, each city, borough and town and each school district shall, within such department, institution, city, borough, town or district, employ a fixed daily time of opening and closing the respective offices of such department, institution, city, borough, town or district, which fixed daily time shall not be changed to conform to any time known as "daylight time" or "daylight saving time."

Sec. 2. No person, firm, corporation, organization of association shall willfully, publicly display any time measuring instrument or device intentionally set so as to indicate any time other than the standard of time as defined by chapter 37 of the public acts of 1921. Any person or any officer of any corporation or organization or association violating any provision of this act shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days, or both.

Sec. 4. This act shall take effect from its passage.

180 PRESENT AT FATHER AND SON BANQUET UNDER Y. M. C. A. AUSPICES

The 10th annual Father and Son banquet of the Y. M. C. A., held Tuesday night at the Community House, was the most successful ever held in Norwich and was attended by over 180 fathers and sons of the city. The program opened at 6.30 o'clock with the banquet and songs by chorus under the leadership of Joseph F. Worth, and from the time the grape fruit was tackled until the benediction had been pronounced by Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church the affair was a success.

Fathers and sons marched into the dining hall and stood until after Rev. F. C. Williams had said grace, after which the following menu was served by the Women's Auxiliary of the Y:

Grapefruit

Mashed Potatoes — Meat Pie
String Beans — Jelly
Rolls
Apple Pie — Ice Cream
Coffee

The speaking programme was opened by James C. Macpherson, president of the Y. M. C. A., who said that this meeting really represented the past and present and the future. It pleased him to see so many fathers and sons of Norwich assembled together and that this annual banquet was the largest of its kind ever held in this city. He urged the fathers to encourage their sons to associate with the Y, stating that the association always looked after the interests of its boys and saw to it that each received the proper guidance that he might have influence for good among his associates. He welcomed the boys and fathers to join the Y where social, physical and spiritual benefits could be received.

Senator William G. Park as toastmaster introduced L. R. Fillmore, who favored with a tenor solo, Crinoline Days, which was greatly appreciated. Robert W. Otis accompanied on the piano.

The next speaker was Richard Holden, who spoke for the sons to their dads. Mr. Holden said that the boys were glad to have their dads with them, that they wanted more of their companionship, more of their advice, to aid them over the rough spots of life, and wanted the dads to remember that there was some good even in the worst of the sons.

For the Dads, Rev. J. Harlow Graham responded, stating that dads were really only elder brothers, that they were always interested in the welfare of their boys. They did not forget they once were boys like their sons and had the same desires and interests. For the dads, Rev. Mr. Graham said that the welfare of the boy was always uppermost in their minds and they welcomed a closer relationship with their sons.

Mr. Fillmore then delighted his audience with another tenor solo, "For the Sake of Old Lang Syne."

Toastmaster Park in introducing Rev. James McGee, D. D., pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New Haven, said here was a man too big to be just a Baptist; he was of every religion.

Rev. Mr. McGee spoke on Boys and Their Dads, in part as follows:

I was once asked if Father and Son banquets were held in Bible days and I answered "Yes," for you all remember the story of the son who left home and later returned and the fatted calf was killed, a banquet served and there was great rejoicing. In that banquet, however, there was some sorrow and we do not want any of this in our Father and Son banquets, I hope that in time Grandfathers may be invited to the banquet that there may be no shadows. We don't want these to be 50-50 times on the plan of the rabbit sausage that was fifty-fifty rabbit and horse meat, that is, one rabbit to one horse. We want the boys and their dads to be 50-50, an equal average.

I learned that to a boy a man can tell only the truth for once a small boy asked me what I had in my handbag and I answered "Nothing." The boy came back with the answer, "Then why are you carrying the bag?" We must tell our boys the truth.

To the boys I say they must not think they can get away with anything with their dads for they are like the boys in the train who watched the old man search his pockets for his railroad ticket, the ticket being in his mouth all the while. They thought the joke was on the old man but later when he said, "I got away with it," they learned that he had done it intentionally, the ticket being an old one, the old man trying to suck the date off the ticket. Boys, don't try to fool your dad, he has more tricks than you know and some time will open up on you and knock you off your feet even though you have got a high school education. Your dad has been through the mill. Therefore it seems that there are several things that count with dad and the boy, the first being:

Friendship—Every dad and son should be friends, but sometimes it happens that this is not so. If a father and his son keep their hearts closed their friendship is only of the tongue. Boys are always willing to come into a close friendship with their dads, but will not come in unless dad opens his heart to them. If dad opens his heart first, the boy will come in and open his heart to dad and a perfect friendship will ensue. If you and your boy aren't friends of the heart, he won't ask you questions and you'll have to draw them out. The boy is like a shipwrecked sailor who sees ships pass by but has nothing with which to signal and be rescued. In trying times of life the boy sees his dad at a distance but has no means of signalling his distress and dad passes by, leaving the son marooned.

The father must make himself over to see as his son does, become a boy again, give him the hand of an elder brother to aid him along in life. Some fathers are like the man who made money by wrecking ships and then robbing the drowned passengers. He plied his trade until one day the body of his own son floated ashore. Dads who follow the material things some day will see the wreck of their son floating on life's seas.

We dads must help and do it because we like to do it. If we can't do it ourselves we can put them with good men where they can grow up good men, and let me tell you, boys, your father wants to do it, wants to see you safe into port.

Then there is character. The father must mold his character when the son arrives for he cannot fail with his son. Character building must be a partnership that produces the very thing you're looking for. A man of character needn't bluff. He has the goods and the world knows it. Boys who smoke cigarettes may retain what is good within them but still there is a chance that the habit will destroy this very thing. The finest thing a father and leave is a son of character not afraid to face the devil and tell him he is the devil.

Religion is another big thing, the biggest of all, for no man can have character unless he is guided by the spirit of religion and right. You dads must show God to your boys, for God is everywhere. He is within us at all times but our puny wills keep Him back and never give Him a chance to make us the men we should be. We dads should watch over our boys, give them the advice our Heavenly Father gives us of, "Steady, my boy, steady." We must all be great fathers and great sons and to accomplish this we must not go separate ways, but must work together, and together go on to the best in life and be the men we can be by divine right.

The closing service was led by Boys' Secretary Emery Davis, everyone joining hands in a prayer circle, until the benediction had been pronounced by Rev. E. C. Dunbar.

The hall was beautifully decorated in cut flowers and the serving was done by the following: Mrs. Robert W. Otis, Mrs. Joseph W. Curtis, Mrs. Emil Fox, Mrs. Louis H. Geer, Mrs. Clarence M. Barber, Mrs. Emery Davis, Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond, Mrs. James E. Barnett, Mrs. James Bussy, Mrs. Peter Wilson, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Mrs. Herman J. Gibbs, Mrs. Joseph S. Adams, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup, Mrs. Lewis M. Young, Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman, Mrs. C. Arthur Lathrop, Miss Gladys Hill and Miss Bessie Grenier.

The general committee in charge of the 10th annual banquet was elected by Mrs. John B. Cox and comprised the following: Mrs. Edwin Hill, Mrs. William Fitch, Miss Mary Richards, Mrs. William H. Dawley, Mrs. Clarence D. Ervin, Mrs. John Cukla, Mrs. Arthur D. Lathrop and Mrs. William R. Balcom.

WILL ORGANIZE D. OF V. TENT IN WILLIMANTIC

During the past few weeks Department President D. Louise Atterbury of this city, and Mrs. Effie Topping, chairman of the organizing committee of New London, have been in Willimantic negotiating to organize a tent of Daughters of Civil War Veterans.

This being a patriotic organization it is formed not for profit; but to perpetuate the memories of our fathers, their loyalty to the Union to aid their widows and orphans when in need. All daughters or granddaughters of honorably discharged Civil war veterans who served in the Union army or navy, whether a member of the G. A. R. or not are eligible.

A meeting is to be held in Willimantic G. A. R hall next Friday evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of instituting the tent and installing officers. The organizing committee is prepared to meet any of the eligibles that they may sign the application for the charter, thus becoming charter members. Those desiring to do this will be required to bring their father's enlistment and discharge papers. A good attendance is looked for.

BUCKLEY DISTRUSTFUL OF PETITION FROM DEMOCRATS

Efforts will probably be made tomorrow to take from the table the petition introduced by Representative Ayres, democrat, of Westport which calls upon the house to adopt a resolution commending the action of President Harding "in opening a way for the United States to participate in the permanent court of international justice."

House Leader Buckley, who had the petition tabled, declared that it was not usual for a democrat to introduce any measure favorable to a republican president and for that reason desired to look into it more closely. He added that Connecticut was well represented at Washington and that the president and congress would be able to handle the matter without any petition from Connecticut.

The resolution after commending the action of President Harding, called upon the senators from Connecticut in congress "to use their influence and votes in an effort to fasten the asset of the senate to the plan which the president has proposed."

WILL ENTERTAIN COUNTY MEMBERS IN LEGISLATURE

The New London county members of the general assembly, irrespective of party will be the guests of Senator Ernest E. Rogers, of New London, at the Heublein in Hartford this (Wednesday) evening. Governor Templeton, Lieut. Gov. Bingham, Speaker Nickerson and House Leader Buckley are to be present as special guests. Tax Commissioner Blodgett will be the principal speaker of the evening. Senator Rogers wants this to be a get-together affair on county matters.

Washington Street Grass Fire.

At 4.30 Tuesday afternoon the fire department received a telephone call for a grass fire at 242 Washington street, the home of Barnett Davidson.

A gardener who was burning off the grass in the rear of the house had the fire get beyond his control and threaten the barn, but he got help from men who were passing in automobiles and they had the fire practically out by the time the apparatus got there.

Cats originally came from Paris.

REMODELED BOAT HOUSE IN DANCE HALL

The Venice, formerly the Chelsea Boat Club, recently remodeled and thoroughly renovated and modernized by Alexander Pasnik, will officially be opened on Friday, April 13th. Since purchasing this property Mr. Pasnik has made many changes and today the Venice is one of the most up-to-date dance halls and club rooms in the city.

The upper floor has been remodelled into club rooms with the most electrical fixtures and the lower floor where the lodge quarters had been taken by Richard Rodrigue Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The lower floor has been completely renovated and remodeled and now is one of the most modern halls in the city. The interior has been refinished and at the east end is the stage for musicians, a sounding board in the rear serving to throw the music out through the hall. The dance hall proper is a large one having a floor space of 1,600 square feet. On the north side of the building is an open porch extending the entire length of the building, about 50 feet. At one side of the hall is a modern refreshment bar and at the sides of the hall are rest rooms for the ladies and coat rooms. The toilets are equipped with the latest sanitaric fixtures. The lighting effects in the hall are all that can be expected.

A feature of the Venice is that the hall is suitable for winter and summer amusements. In remodelling the lower floor it was arranged to make it into an open air hall for the summer. The hall in winter is closed in and heated, making it an all year round amusement palace.

The entrance to the building is off West Main street and this entrance has been modernized, the main door being lighted brightly by electrical signs spelling the name of the hall "Venice." The ticket booth is at the main entrance, all of which is constructed in true metropolitan style. Mr. Pasnik has spared no money in making this hall one of the most attractive in this section of the state, situated near the river it will be cool for summer pleasures, and when enclosed for the winter will be warm and comfortable for winter amusements.

The dance hall has been leased by Herbert Smith, leader of one of the most popular Norwich orchestras. Mr. Smith intends to conduct dances at the hall the year round, averaging from two to three dances each week. The hall is open to outside attractions on other nights.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary A. C. Norton.

The death of Mrs. Mary A. C. Norton occurred Tuesday morning at 6.35 o'clock at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Brown, of 12 Warren street, with whom she had resided for a number of years past. She had suffered several years with heart trouble.

Mrs. Norton was born at Rockland, Me., Nov. 11, 1840, the daughter of Francis Cobb and Martha J. Chandler. She was an attendant at the Central Baptist church of this city, a woman of consistent Christian character, devoted to her home relations and a true friend.

The body was taken to Rockland on Tuesday for funeral services and burial there. Mr. and Mrs. Brown accompanied the body.

Mrs. Charles H. Main.

Following several months of illness from bronchial pneumonia and complications of the heart and ten days of critical illness, Mrs. Louisa (Miner) Main, widow of Charles H. Mrs. Main was born in North Stonington, on April 17, 1844, the daughter of Palmer and Martha (York) Miner. She lived there her entire life until the last few years that were spent in Eastern Point.

Her husband, a farmer by occupation, was for many years one of North Stonington's political leaders. He served several terms on the board of selectmen and for a long time also was a representative to the general assembly, this state. He died about 23 years ago.

Mrs. Main was a member of the Third Baptist church of North Stonington. Surviving her are the following step-daughters, Mrs. Alice Avery of Eastern Point, Mrs. Abbie Stanton of New London, and Mrs. Martha Greene of Taunton, Mass.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary A. L'Heureux, North Main street, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Myrtice L'Heureux was united in marriage with George McComber of this town, Rev. J. W. Houck, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Nuttall as maid of honor, and Louis Grope was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Mildred Burton.

Guests included relatives and a number of friends of the bride and groom, who were showered with good wishes. The home was very prettily decorated, roses predominating in the decorative plan.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McComber will make their home with the bride's mother.

Danielson is broke on coal again. Ordinarily this would not mean very much to the average householder during the first week in April, but this frigid season is a matter of vital interest to many. On Tuesday there was not a pound of either anthracite or bituminous coal for sale in the borough. As to coal, this community's salvation rests for the time being with Dayville, from which deliveries were being made to homes here. Heavy shipments of hard coal are en route to Danielson, a number of cars having been billed in for days, and may arrive at any time. The perverse weather man might do something to relieve the situation, but is showing little inclination to do so.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Call have returned here after a delightful winter spent in Florida and at other southern resorts, some of which were selected for extended stop-overs on the leisurely journey home. Mr. and Mrs. Call had an especially attractive journey south, going from New London into Georgia in a new type of touring omnibus affording every luxury of motor travel. The daily runs were seldom in excess of 100 miles, and there were various daily halts for recreation and lunches, which stops not only made the journey very comfortable and leisurely, but also allowed of every opportunity to see the country. Mr. and Mrs. Call spent the greater part of the winter at St. Petersburg, which has developed into a winter vacationist's paradise, with limitless diversions as well as restful and invigorating surroundings.

Tuesday the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Connecticut Mills company was held in Boston. This was an especially important meeting of this big corporation which is coming forward to a position of strength again after weathering a severe period setting in with the depression experienced in the early fall of 1920 and extending through a number of months of 1921. It was of interest to a number of people who noted the fact that several cars filled with visitors inspected the Main street plant of the company the first of this week. This plant formerly was owned by the Danielson Cotton company and was taken over and, except for the outside walls, practically rebuilt by the Connecticut Mills company at or near the end of the war. It has never been operated by its present owners, however, and the visitation of Monday may or may not be fraught with significance for Danielson's industrial development. It is a big plant and in operation would mean a great deal to Danielson and the surrounding territory.

A garage 100 feet in length and planned to afford accommodation for 10 automobiles likely will be built in the rear of the Attawaugan hotel by William S. Brown, who asked a permit for the construction of the structure from borough officials. Mr. Brown said Tuesday that the building likely will be constructed this spring, if there is no difficulty over obtaining the permit or other hindrances. The garage will furnish storing places for cars of guests of the hotel and will be a convenience in other ways to motorists who want a central location in which to keep their machines.

At East Killingly Monday evening at 8 o'clock the death of Mrs. Eva Robbins, 53, wife of William Robbins, occurred. Mrs. Robbins had not been in robust health for some time and became seriously ill on Sunday. She was a native of Pomfret, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fitch. Her marriage to Mr. Robbins was 34 years ago and the family has been resident in East Killingly for the past 16 years. Mrs. Robbins leaves her husband, a son, Earl, and a brother, Lewis Fitch, of Norwalk, formerly of Pomfret and Dayville. A daughter, Della, died several years ago.

Tuesday morning the funeral of Joseph Gwozdz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gwozdz, was held at their home in Goodyear, with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville, where Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, was the officiating clergyman. The body was placed in the receiving vault in St. Joseph's cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

When you come to the Windham County National bank to make your usual monthly deposit of its savings department, ask any of the officers or clerks to show you the burglar and fireproof vault, which is the most powerful vault in this vicinity. The massive 18-inch door and its corresponding concrete and steel walls are burglar and fireproof. Within the vault are steel safe deposit boxes in which deeds, mortgages, insurance policies and other valuables may be kept, free from all danger of theft and fire, at a very nominal figure. Willing to go to any limit to save his son, Maurice C., age 9, lying in a critical condition at St. Vincent's hospital, in Worcester, Joseph Gareau of Potter street submitted himself for a blood transfusion operation, the result of which appeared on Tuesday to be so gratifying that the boy is expected to recover, though not yet out of danger. Surgeons at the hospital tapped into an artery on Mr. Gareau's arm and removed a pint of blood, which promptly was transfused into the arm of the son. A half hundred nurses, hospital attendants and physicians watched the operation, which, after all, is unusual, with the greatest interest.

The boy was stricken Saturday while at play with other boys in the schoolyard near High street. He was running about when he ran into another boy, stumbled and fell. Willing hands who saw that the boy could not rise after the fall picked him up and carried him to the home of his parents, only a short distance away. A physician was called and immediately decided that the boy's condition was so critical that he must be removed to a hospital, so he was hurried to Worcester.

A surgeon there decided that an operation was immediately necessary, incisions being made, it was found that the boy was suffering from a ruptured spleen, an unusual ailment, and that the blood had flooded the region about the intestines.

An emergency call was put through to Danielson for the boy's parents and they hurried to Worcester, Mr. Gareau being put on the operating table for the blood transfusion operation. Tuesday afternoon the child was reported as doing well, though his condition remains serious.

Mr. Gareau says he feels no serious effects from loss of blood given up to save his son's life, though not quite his normal self as yet, and on Tuesday telephoned the hospital that he is willing to again go upon the operating table if it is necessary, though he was assured that it is not likely this will be required.

Another gale out of the southwest, but this time with something of warmth in it, was the agency that cut up much of the remaining ice and snow lurking back of walls and in shaded places in this territory on Tuesday. Ice was rapidly disappearing from the surface of Alexander's lake and also from the lakes and ponds about East Killingly. The temperature ran above the 60 mark during the afternoon hours.

It is really a very good idea in making a complaint by telephone to the police to be fair with them. It is little less than useless to call in many cases without giving them your name and telling them in detail of what is wanted. The officers are not mind-readers and cannot do justice to the handling of a complaint unless they have the necessary information, the source of which they are not in the habit of broadcasting for the world to know about.

In the superior court at New London a jury found in favor of J. F. Lewis of the Orpheum theatre in a case in which damages in two cases were sought from him in the total amount of $15,000, as the result of a collision between his machine and another car, between Norwich and New London, in 1920. The jury, however, assessed damages of $400 against Mr. Lewis in behalf of a woman who was a passenger in the other car and who was injured. The court will be asked to set aside this finding as not in accord with the evidence.

A string of 17 trout brought in by one man has encouraged the Danielson fishermen to brave the bad weather to try their luck on the brooks hereabouts.

Cromwell Larken was reported Tuesday as still on the border line between life and death at his home in East Killingly, where three members of the Larkin family died of pneumonia within 24 hours at the week end. On Tuesday another brother, Byron, was reported as decidedly improved and the chances for his recovery now seem much brighter.

Jack Feeney who has been seriously ill with bronchitis and a severe cold is slowly recovering. He is at his sister's home in Westerly, R. I.

Walter W. Murphy has taken a position at a hotel in Putnam.

EASTER CARD MAILED 12 YEARS AGO JUST DELIVERED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 3.—One would have to know something of history to completely discuss whether the republicans or democrats should be blamed for this—not to mention the prohibitionists—but it is nevertheless a matter of news interest that an Easter card received here Monday and addressed to a well known resident of Elmville was mailed in Providence, R. I., 12 years ago. It is regarded as something of a coincidence that the long-delayed card should arrive at Easter time in 1923, bringing greetings from a writer whose hand has been stilled in death for the past nine years, but that is the fact and the relation of the incident may be allowed to rest thereon.

PUTNAM

The salary list in Putnam's public schools will be $4050 greater during the school year beginning in September next than at the present time. Of this amount $1100 is accounted for by reason of the prospective opening of a new room in the Israel Putnam school building next September. Increases granted to the teachers are small in every instance and an advance of only $200 is made in the case of Superintendent Robert C. Jenkins.

Following a meeting of the town school committee at which teachers for the ensuing school year were elected the following committee at which teachers for the ensuing school year were elected the following schedul showing the present salary and increases was given out Tuesday morning at the office of the secretary of the school committee. Domingo Sylvia of Fall River, Mass. is at the Day Kimball hospital in a serious condition following an accident in which an automobile truck passed over his legs, Monday afternoon at the mill of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company. Both legs are badly crushed and the man is under observation for internal injuries.

Sylvia is a driver for the Inter-State Trucking Company of New Bedford and came to Putnam, Monday afternoon with a load of merchandise for the Manhasset Company. The truck was being backed down an incline into the basement of the mill and Sylvia was behind with some blocks to block the wheels. For some reason or other the driver backing the truck allowed it to proceed to the end of the runway and Sylvia was crushed against the loading platform. His outcries caused the driver to start ahead and Sylvia fell to the ground and the wheel passed over his legs.

As soon as possible the man was taken to the hospital where it was found that he was seriously injurd. It may be necessary to amputate one or both of his legs.

According to Captain Remie Delage of the police department there is to be a generous use of paint before all is ready for the spring traffic rush. All of the silent policemen are to have a new uniform of red and white paint and the "no parking" signs are being touched up with yellow and black and soon the lines on Main street will be freshened with white.

It is also the intention of the Captain to paint lines on some of the more dangerous curves and corners and an attempt will be made to have a center line painted on the hospital hill. The Captain looks for unusually heavy automobile traffic in Putnam this summer and he faces a problem of sufficient parking places. It is stated that automobiles will not be allowed to park on the east side of Main street from the Congregational church to the Kaminski-Wolfe block.

Jacob Bakker, who lives out in the Sawyer district of the town, came to Putnam Tuesday morning with the best human interest story that has come to light here in many moons.

Mr. Bakker has a son, John, a little chap with a normal boy's fondness for roaming about the fields and woods. It was on one of these strolls that the boy came upon a woodchuck caught by the forepaw in a steel trap Sunday. The chuck was alive, so gingerly getting the trap loose from its fastening the boy put chuck and trap in the little wagon he was hauling along and brought the outfit home to show to father.

Upon his arrival at the house he found a visitor who had motored in from Boston to see his father. All inspected the woodchuck with interest and then the Boston man pointed out that it would be a humanitarian act to release the suffering animal. All agreed to this and after the woodchuck had been given something to eat his paw was released and he promptly hobbled off through a field apparently joyful over his restored freedom.

Imagine the surprise of the boy when he came home Monday afternoon and found the woodchuck still nursing his wounded paw, sitting on the doorstep of the Bakker home. John fed the animal oats and potato peelings of which the woodchuck ate greedily, and then made off again across the fields. No one knows how long the woodchuck had been waiting to call upon his benefactor, but he was entirely complacent and refused to be disturbed by the barking of police dogs, hitched nearby, that were greatly excited over his presence.

At noon Tuesday the elder Bakker was waiting with great interest to learn whether the woodchuck will return again.

Joseph Cutner, who hails from Attawaugan, left Putnam Tuesday morning for a 30 days' tour of duty at Brooklyn jail. And he appeared to be glad of it. Cutner arriver in town Monday, not a cheerful day either weatherwise or on account of its position in the calendar of days.

He accosted a police officer, informed the official that he (Cutner) was drunk and would like to be arrested. The officer could not see that Cutner was in that condition so refused to arrest. Cutner made good on the matter of being drunk a while later, however, and when he next appeared to the officer there was no denying that his request was entitled to consideration. So he was locked up.

Tuesday morning at the session of the city court Judge Geismer imposed a sentence of 30 days on Cutner for having been intoxicated, so he will be at Brooklyn until the May flowers arrive.

The matter of the town of Thompson appropriating $35,000 for the erection of a four-room school building at Mechanicsville, a village of that town, and referred last week by a special town meeting for joint consideration by the selectmen and town school committeemen of that town was one of the matters that received consideration Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the school committee. There was a rumor about after the meeting that there may be a chance of the officials recommending to the town that Mechanicsville be given a new two-room building, but this could not be verified. However, it was stated that such a proposal will not be satisfactory to those who have been advocating a four room building for the village to the north of Putnam.

So-called style or fashion shows about to be staged by women's organizations in this city and in other towns in eastern Connecticut are attracting the attention of members of the Chamber of Commerce, the claim being made that such shows are really put on in the interest of one of

NEW LONDON SILK MILL WEAVERS STRIKE FOR WAGE INCREASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—About 100 weavers in the employ of the Bloom Silk mill went on a strike today when their demand for an increase in wages was refused. The strikers declare that other silk mills, both in and outside of New London, are being paid a wage in excess of that received by them. The strikers are not organized, but they declare that they will not return to work unless the wage increase is granted them. Edward Bloom, proprietor of the plant, in a statement made following the quitting of work by the weavers, stated that he was paying the weavers all that he could afford to.

The strikers have been receiving a wage of seven cents a yard and they seek an increase of three cents a yard. The increase, according to the strikers, is a reasonable demand, inasmuch as they declare that the Brainerd & Armstrong company here are paying their weavers 11 cents a yard.

Thursday evening New London lodge of Elks will install its officers and have as guests the officials of Hartford lodge. The visitors will be entertained at the Mohican hotel at dinner at 6 o'clock and the meeting will begin at 7. There will be an entertainment after the meeting and a good time for all members of the order who elect to attend.

There have been several grass fires in New London the past week and each time two or more pieces of fire department apparatus have been needed or at least were called to subdue the flames. In the event of an accident the city would have been put to an expense of a large sum of money probably. There is a statute against the starting of grass fires and an effort should be made to enforce it.

Some mathematician has figured out that the Connecticut company which operates the trolley road in this city will get the use of 20 per cent. more of the money of patrons before they have earned a cent of it by the change in rates of fares. The company previously got a quarter for three tickets where now they get thirty cents even if they have to give four rides for it. There is considerable percentage of the tokens that are given out that are lost or that never are handed in for trolley rides.

George Fine, who formerly operated the Empire theatre, is now located in Putnam.

It was fortunate for the city that it did not invest in the museum that was offered it at Niagara Falls. The price it was offered was $2,500. That tramped the enterprise at the start, but there wasn't a chance to sell it if it was $2.50.

George W. Young, a representative of the Schulte company, which recently leased the property on the corner of State and Bank streets, was in town today and started the contractors who are to alter the building to make three stores, where only one exists now, to work. They have a plan of getting the property ready in thirty days. The American Tobacco company has recently bought into the Schulte company and the lease which they have made for the New London property will be handled as is the property of the United company in this city. That company hired at the corner of State and Bank street and made three stores where but two formerly existed and doubled the rent of the three stores. In the upper part of the building the rents were also boosted. That lease has run ten years and it has recently been renewed.

The New London fire department was called upon to combat another blaze in Waterford last night when the home of Curtis Chapman on the Flanders road was threatened with destruction. A request for assistance was asked of the New London department and Deputy Chief Charles Rose and the Northwest apparatus responded. With the arrival of the firemen at the Chapman home the chimney was all ablaze from an accumulation of burning soot and to subdue it the firemen had to cut a hole in the chimney and deposit three tanks of chemicals upon the burning mass.

The highway bridge on Montauk avenue was discovered ablaze this morning and a still alarm to fire headquarters called the Pequot and Ockford Hose companies to respond. Several sections of planking were ablaze when the firemen arrived, but the fire was quickly subdued by the application of chemicals. It is believed that the fire originated from sparks from a passing locomotive.

The condition of William E. Greene, veteran employe of the Whiton Machine company, who has been critically ill at his home on Bellevue place, is considerably improved and it is probable that he will be able to sit up for a short time daily before the end of the week.

Willard Manwarring, a well known resident of East Lyme, died at his home last night, death ending a lingering illness.

Mrs. Louisa Main, a former resident of North Stonington, widow of Charles H. Main, died today at the home of her step-daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Avery of Groton. Mrs. Main, who was 79 years of age, had been in ill health a long time, complications developing following an attack of pneumonia.

The wreck force of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, which has been at work several days endeavoring to float the tug Elmer A. Keeler, which went ashore on Bartlett's Reef nearly a week ago were unable to float the tug today as was anticipated they would do. The wind, which was not so strong today as it was yesterday, continued to hold back the efforts of the wreckers.

A suspicious acting man was observed in the vicinity of No. 75 Granite street this evening and the police conducted a hunt for the fellow without success. Clark D. Edgar, who lives at the place where the man was observed, was entering his home when the fellow darted from the darkness alongside the house and ran to the street, disappearing in the darkness. Mr. Edgar informed the police of the act of the intruder, but when Sergeant Samuel Hick arrived at the place the man was nowhere to be found.

The fire department had a busy time for a half hour this evening when it was called upon to answer two alarms within fifteen minutes. As one of the alarms was a false one, the firemen did not have much work to perform, but were given a needless run in one instance.

About 7.20 o'clock an alarm was sounded from Box 43, corner of Williams street and Mohegan avenue for a serious grass fire. The fire was subdued in quick time and as the recall was about to be given an alarm for Box 12, corner of Harrison and Tenth streets was sounded, calling the firemen to that section of the city. With their arrival at Harrison and Tenth streets no signs of a fire could be found and neither had the box been rung. Chief Stanners could not account for the sounding of the second alarm only from a defective connection when the recall was attempted.

At the council meeting last evening Councillor Scott endeavored to secure the appointment of supernumerary policemen as provided for by the city charter, but he was unsuccessful. The powers seem disposed not to appoint these necessary officers, but now they will, it is said, have a conference between the mayor, the chairman of the public health and safety committee of the council and the city manager and something in the way of conforming to the charter as to the number of men the police department shall have may be accomplished. During the last summer, the claim is made the beats of officers in the city proper were left unpatrolled while the policemen were taken away and sent to Ocean Beach to do special duty, which was the regulation of traffic. Now when that is done the citizens do not get the protection they suppose they are having. The section left without police protection that in which the stores are located and just where crooks would operate if they knew there was no police protection.

A persistent appeal is being made for the relief of traffic on the section of State street known as the parade by diverting trolley cars to North Bank street. The plan is one that would relieve Main street as well and perhaps take the car tracks out of that street from a point below Hallam street, for there the cars could run into North Bank street and continue right down South Bank street to the southern section of the city and to Waterford and Jefferson avenue. There isn't any doubt that something must be done during the summer to take the congestion away from Bank street proper. At times the lines of autos and other ehicles chokes up that street so that traffic cannot move along there and the trolley cars are held a considerable time.

On State street the jam is just as bad at times. If the trolley cars were sent along North Bank street the relief would be ample. There was talk at one time of widening Bank street, but the job is said to be so expensive that it cannot be undertaken until such time as the city feels affluent, and it isn't likely to be in that happy condition in the present generation. Its bond issue is at present about all the law allows and with the prospect of more school buildings being needed, money for widening of streets will not be easy to obtain. The North Bank street plan is the best way out of a perplexing situation. The city planning board is understood to be considering the method of relieving Bank street, but whether they have made up their minds to proceed is not certain. The street has been surveyed from one end to the other the past week and all the figures that are needed are supposed to be at hand.

The New London and Norwich police were requested by the New Haven authorities today to be on the lookout for Lester Boyle, aged 19 years, one of two crooks, who robbed a jewelry store at New Haven several weeks ago. This forenoon while Boyle was awaiting trial he gained his liberty by making a dash from the New Haven court room. Boyle is described as being about five feet five and a half inches tall and of medium built. At the time of his escape Boyle wore a grey pepper and salt suit and a grey velour hat.

Thieving from automobiles continues in New London and without the thieves being apprehended. It has long been the practice of thieves to watch autos that are parked in the streets indefinitely and then loot the car. Sunday evening, Patrick J. Clifford of Ocean avenue left his machine in front of the Elks' club about two hours and when he went to the car he discovered that a spare tire had been stolen. Mr. Clifford reported his loss to the police and this morning when Patrolman Henry Hick was on his way to his home he espied a tire in the highway on Ocean avenue. The officer took charge of the tire and this afternoon Mr. Clifford identified the tire as his property. Why the thief discarded the tire in the highway is a mystery to the police.

Albert Pobiasson and Manuel Gomes, members of the crew of the tug Elmer A. Keeler, ashore on Bartlett's Reef and Mrs. Leslie Pierson and baby of Willetta avenue, were patients discharged at Lawrence-Memorial Association hospital today.

Louis Greenberg, a Hartford salesman, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer James McKenna, charged with violation of the automobile laws in parking his car on State street an hour and a half and also turning his car around on that street. Greenberg furnished a bond of $15 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, but it is probable that he will forfeit it as he declared that he would be engaged on business in Norwich at that hour set for his court hearing.

The operator's license of John Elicasky of No. 51 Bank street has been suspended by Comissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel.

Chief of Police Linton of the Norwich police department has requested the New London authorities to destroy the permit now in the possession of the New London city court authorizing Joseph Basile of Norwich to carry a revolver. Basile was apprehended in New London several weeks ago, charged with transporting alcohol and when taken into custody a revolver was found upon his person. Basile later presented a permit, issued by Chief Linton, to carry the weapon.

The body of Mrs. Hannah Cusick, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at Providence several days ago, was brought to New London this morning and interred in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Funeral services for Miss Grace E. Chapman, daughter of the late Daniel and Harriet E. Chapman, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her brother, Herbert D. Chapman of No. 95 Whittlesey street. Rev. Chester H. Howe officiated. Miss Chapman's four brothers acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Boston's big retail dry goods and ladies' garment houses and are really propaganda, if not well placed advertising, in the interest of this house and, therefore, injurious to the business men in cities like Putnam inasmuch as the style shows are apt to divert business from local trade to the Boston firm interested in giving the shows. Under the surface there is more or less irritation among local business interests over such shows and the matter may eventually be given more publicity.

Miss Helen Gertrude Anderson, 16, is dead at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, in South Woodstock. The young girl had been ill for some time. She was born in Hartford, but has been a resident of South Woodstock for a number of years.

Announcement was made Tuesday that Mrs. Minnie G. Macdonald has resigned as teacher in the commercial department at Putnam High school. Mrs. Macdonald has been a very efficient teacher and her resignation been accepted with regret.

In the rotogravure section of a Hartford Sunday paper, current issue, is a group picture of a class of student nurses at the Hartford Hospital Training school for nurses and among them is Miss Lorena Gallant, a resident of this city, and for several months in training at Hartford.

At North Grosvenordale Justice Tourtellotte has had the experience of being called upon to impose a fine of $25 and costs on Raymond Weatherbee, who is in his employ. Weatherbee was haled to court for a violation of the motor vehicle law—for indulging in what is known as "cutting in". Peter Stenosky also was in court in the same village and was fined $100 and costs for operating a motorcycle while he was intoxicated. Stenosky was riding the machine near Wilsonville early Sunday evening when he ran into a fence bordering the state highway and catapulted a companion who was riding in the sidecar of the machine a distance of 50 feet. The accused was ordered into court by State Officer Merrill Keith.

The police picked up Howard Connors, aged 12, who arrived in Putnam from Providence on an automobile truck, Tuesday afternoon. The boy was without money to get back to his home. He told the captain that his mother and five children lived in Pawtucket and that he was living with his aunt in Providence. The lad said he left Providence at ten o'clock in the morning but it was nearly three in the afternoon when he reached Putnam and he did not appear to be telling the truth about himself. Captain Delage gave the boy something to eat and made arrangements for returning to his home.

It was later learned that the boy had come from an institution of R. I. where he has been for the last seven years. He will be held by the local police to await the arrival of a constable to take him back to the institution.

WILLIMANTIC EASTER MONDAY BALL BY K. OF C.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 2.—San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, held its annual concert and ball in the state armory Monday night and the affair was one of the most brilliant social functions held in this city for many years. The Peerless orchestra of eleven pieces played a delightful concert from eight to nine o'clock.

At 9.15 the grand march was commenced with Grand Knight William J. Grady and his sister, Miss Florence Grady in the lead. Little Richard Bergeron and Helena McQuillan assisted in the distribution of the dance programmes.

Dancing followed which was greatly enjoyed by the large number of lovers of the dancing art. The orchestra responding to a large number of encore selections. At intermission an excellent buffet lunch was served. Refreshments were also served during the evening. Decorations which were by T. D. Donohue were beautiful and something new here. The drill shed was artistically decorated, being partitioned off into 30 boxes, each of which was furnished with potted plants, and lattice work with artificial red roses added greatly to the attractiveness of the individual boxes. Around the hall artificial roses, lattice work and stripes of white bunting were arranged. Across the gallery were spread the letters K. of C. and on the front of the orchestra stand made of lattice work was the inscription, Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, under whose auspices the ball was held.

The ladies' gowns enhanced the beauty of the scene to a large extent. Gilbert Flynn was chairman of the ball committee with William J. Moriarty as chief of aide assisted by the following: Francis Moriarty, F. B. Bertora, Arthur P. Bergeron and Thomas O'Brien.

The reception committee included Hormidas Dion, chairman, J. P. Carter, John P. Carr, John H. Morrison, A. P. Bergeron, James Courtney, Edward F. Casey, James F. Twomey, John McDonough, William A. METHODISTS ARE GATHERING FOR NEW ENGLAND SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

Methodists in this territory are turning their eyes with much interest this week in the direction of New London where there will convene this (Wednesday) morning at the Methodist Episcopal church the eighty-third annual session of the New England Southern Conference.

This conference includes all the church organizations of the denomination in Connecticut east of the Connecticut river, all the state of Rhode Island, and that section of Massachusetts south of the towns of Wrentham, Walpole, Dedham, Milton and Quincy. At the last conference session there were 169 pastoral charges in the territory. There are three districts as follows: New Bedford District, Rev. Robert L. Robbins, D. D., superintendent; Norwich District, Rev. William H. Bath, superintendent; Providence District, Rev. Ira W. Le Baron, superintendent.

The entertaining church at New London and its enterprising pastor, Rev. Myron E. Genter, have been busy for several weeks preparing for the great event. No pains will be spared by them in the effort to give a royal entertainment to the guests and to make all the speakers, official visitors, clergymen of the conference, and visiting laymen welcome to the city.

The presiding bishop this year will be the Rev. Charles Wesley Burns, D. D., resident bishop at Helena, Montana. Bishop Burnes is one of the number who were elected and consecrated at the general conference held in May of 1920, at Des Moines, Iowa. This will be the first time that he has presided over a session of this conference.

The system of Episcopal supervision used by the Methodist Episcopal denomination makes the bishops co-ordinate and coequal in authority, the territory of actual administration being determined by the board of bishops themselves at their semi-annual meetings held in May and November of each year. It often happens that the resident bishop of a certain area is assigned to preside over the conferences of that territory but the nature of the case it cannot always be so as frequently two conferences in one Episcopal area are in session at the same time. Rev. William H. Hughes, D. D., resident bishop in New England has presided over the conference the past two years but he is presiding this week over the New England conference which opens also this (Wednesday) morning at Holyoke, Mass.

As is customary the conference will be opened with the holy communion service conducted by the bishop and assisted by several of the clergymen present. All Christians of any name or denomination being invited to partake of the same and join in this service.

After the organization of the conference is effected and preliminary business has been transacted, there will follow at 11 a. m. the memorial service for deceased ministers and ministers' wives who have passed away during the year. Rev. G. G. Reeves will preside over this service and the address will be delivered by the Rev. Lyman G. Horton, D. D.

During the week some of the leading ministers of the denomination will be heard at the various services during the afternoons and evenings each day. Bishop Burns is to be the speaker on Thursday evening and again on Saturday evening.

The Rev. Newell Dwight Hills, D. D., of Plymouth church (Cong'l) of Brooklyn, New York, will lecture on Wednesday evening.

The morning hours will be given to the business of the conference. These morning sessions are regarded by many as the most attractive periods in the whole conference programme. These are all open to the public as a general thing, unless an occasion as sometimes happens when an executive session is ordered by the conference to discuss matters pertaining to individual personal character.

The conference this week will be quite largely attended by people in Connecticut this being the first time since 1916 that it has convened in Connecticut. Norwich people will remember that in 1916 it was held here in Trinity church and Bishop Quayle was the presiding bishop.

Methodism in New London started in the form of a class meeting organized in 1793. The first meeting house was erected in 1798. Methodism has steadily grown in New London in all the time since and has concentrated all its interests in one church organization allowing that to develop instead of scattering the forces into divided in the organization of more churches. It is now considered that the New London church is the largest and most aggressive church in Norwich district. Its splendid new church edifice completed in 1921 at a cost of $200,000 and its every-day-in-the-week programme now being carried on are among the outstanding evidences of its vitality and strength. In the 30 years of history since the New England Southern Conference was constituted a separate conference the New London church has entertained on five occasions as follows: 1848, Bishop Hedding presiding; 1861, Bishop Ames presiding; 1874, Bishop Scott presiding; 1891, Bishop Bowman presiding, and 1905, Bishop John W. Hamilton presiding. Of the pastors who have served the New London church in recent years, the following still survive: Rev. W. J. Yates, Ph. D., who served the church 1892-94 is numbered as one of the retired ministers of the conference. He has, however, continued to supply a small church at Truro, Mass., where he preached the past seven years. Dr. Yates is not expected at New London this week. Rev. W. S. McIntire, pastor 1900-1905, entered the retired relationship in 1921. Rev. Walter P. Buck, pastor 1906-10, is now in the retired relationship and resides in New London at the present time. Mrs. Buck, his wife, is at the head of the committee on the assignment of guests this week at the conference.

Rev. Myron E. Genter, the present pastor came to the church in 1918, following the late Rev. C. Harley Smith. Mr. Genter came from a very successful nine-year pastorate at the Washington Park church, Providence, R. I. It is under Mr. Genter's pastorate that the church has attained to its present strength and influence.

ADDRESSES OF WELCOME AS CONFERENCE OPENS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—All day today the clergymen from Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut towns have been coming into town for the sessions of the conference. By mid-fall fully half of the conference membership had arrived.

At the service tonight in anticipation of the opening of the conference Wednesday morning, an excellent congregation gathered in the large auditorium of the Methodist church. The following addresses of welcome were given: Hon. Alton T. Miner, chairman of the local committee, spoke feelingly of the hard work represented in the construction of the church and made interesting allusions to the history of the New London church as he presented a very hearty welcome to the conference in behalf of the local church.

Rev. H. W. Hurlburt, D. D., secretary of the City Federation of Churches, presented a hearty welcome to the conference in behalf of the Protestant churches of the city. Speaking of the friendly unity that prevails among the Protestant churches in New London he said the Methodists have methodized us all, as the Congregationalists have congregationalized us all and as the Episcopalians have episcopalianized us all and the Baptists have baptized us all.

James Barlow, city manager, in the absence of the mayor, welcomed the conference in behalf of the city government.

James N. Hammond, secretary of the chamber of commerce, presented the welcome in behalf of the business interests of the city. He paid a glowing tribute to the Methodist church of New London, which he said was truly serving the community with 100 per cent efficiency. Although not a member of the church he felt that he represented the city's best interests in urging that the bishop should appoint the present pastor, Rev. M. E. Genter, to New London for another year and he added for another score of years if possible.

President Benjamin T. Marshall of the Connecticut College for Women, who was to have been one of the speakers was unavoidably absent.

Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, the presiding bishop, was introduced and spoke some very happy words in response in behalf of the conference.

A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Palmer with piano accompaniment.

Epworth League Anniversary.

The anniversary of the Epworth League followed, with the Rev. Frank W. Gray, president of the conference Epworth League, as the presiding officer.

Prayer was offered by Rev. M. J. Creeger, president of the Providence District Epworth League.

Mr. Gray explained that prizes had been offered during the year to the league which would present the best and most workable program of work for a year. The judges had awarded the first prize to Matthewson Street League, Providence, R. I., and the second prize to the Gales Ferry League.

The speaker was Rev. Fred W. Adams of Springfield, Mass. His address was interesting and the main part of his discourse was devoted to the description of what he regarded as the seven supreme personalities of history. These he named as Jesus, Moses, Socrates, St. Paul, Leonardo De Vinci, William Shakespeare, Abraham Lincoln.

Personals.

Rev. Frederick C. Baker, a former pastor of the Norwich Town church as well as of the former Norwich North Main street church, is closing a very successful three years' pastorate at Whitman, Mass. He has declined to be considered by that church for a fourth year and will probably be appointed to a new field.

Rev. S. F. Maine, another former Norwich pastor, is closing a pastorate of six years' duration at Hebronville, Mass., which he thinks is long enough for a good pastorate justifying him in joining the moving procession this year.

Rev. John E. Duxbury, still another former Norwich pastor, is planning to move this year, having spent five years as pastor of the Thompsonville church, during which time he has seen extensive repairs made on the church edifice.

Rev. S. J. A. Rook, whose ministry began in Norwich in 1896, has spent one year as pastor of the Second church, New Bedford. This church and the County street church of New Bedford have been consolidated and the two pastors are going to leave that newly formed church, to be known as "Trinity," may begin its history under an entirely new pastor.

GIVES POWER TO ESTABLISH RECREATIONAL SPACES

A bill taken from the calendar and passed Tuesday morning in the house at Hartford extends the power of the state park commission in providing recreational facilities for the public. This bill would permit of securing Lantern Hill for what would be practically a state park, it is one of the most beautiful spots in the state and its scenic wonders are not excelled by any of the state parks.

By the fine state road from Westerly to Norwich it is easily accessible, being only about two miles south of this road.

The bill is as follows:

Section 2177 of the general statutes is amended to read as follows: The state park commission shall have power, acting by itself or with local authorities, to acquire, maintain and make available to the public, open spaces for recreation. Said commission may take, in the name of the state and for the benefit of the public, by purchase, gift or devise, lands and rights in land for public open spaces, or take bonds for the conveyance thereof, or may lease the same for a period not to exceed five years, with an option to buy, and may preserve and care for such public reservations, and in the discretion of the commission and upon such terms as it may approve, such other open spaces within this state as may be entrusted, given or devised to the state by the United States or by cities, towns, corporations or individuals for the purposes of public recreation, or for the preservation of natural beauty or historic association, provided said commission shall not take or contract to purchase or lease any land or other property for an amount or amounts beyond such sum or sums as shall have been appropriated or contributed therefor.

BETTER FEBRUARY RECORD BY NEW HAVEN ROAD

New Haven railroad did measurably better in February than in January with a net operating deficit of $329,693 against a deficit of $780,857 in the first month of the year and a ratio of operating expenses to gross of 88.5 per cent. against 94.1 per cent.

Better results than those shown were scarcely to be expected, in view of wretched weather conditions, congestion, embargoes and an excessive number of cars on the line.

It is also to be noted that New Haven continued its heavy maintenance of equipment program, expenditures on this account showing an increase of more than 34 per cent. compared with February, 1922. This is a reflection of the determination of the management to get the large number of bad order cars back into condition for service. It has made steady headway in cutting down this accumulation. When this car repair program is completed New Haven should be able to cut down maintenance expenditures and putting of these cars back into service should have the effect of reducing car hire debits.

Both the January and February net earnings make poor comparison with last year in spite of the face that gross ran 13.6 per cent. heavier in January and 8.1 per cent. heavier in February.

CONNECTICUT PROPOSES ZONING ACT FOR CITIES

An enabling act for zoning cities in Connecticut is pending before the state legislature. This movement is the direct result of the activity of the chambers of commerce throughout the state. The purpose of zoning is to protect property rights and values from the invasion of unscrupulous real estate investors. It would prohibit the invasion of a factory or a store in a residential section; or the invasion of a junk shop or similar business in a working man's home district. Property values are maintained, a city becomes well regulated and secure in its values through the operation of zoning ordinance. 15,000,000 people in 109 cities and towns throughout the country live under zoning regulations. New York city was zoned in 1916. Twenty states, including New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island and our bordering states have state enabling zoning ordinances. The movement is rapidly spreading throughout the country.

COURT OFFICIALS MAKING SALARY RAISE REQUESTS

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 3—The judiciary held hearings today on 25 bills calling for increase in salaries of states attorneys, clerks of commons pleas and superior courts, messengers and sheriffs. Those appearing in favor of the bills declared that the enormous increase in the work and jurisdiction of the county courts made it necessary for additional assistant clerks to be secured while the present clerks were being underpaid and should have their salaries increased.

Easter at St. James Church.

The usual services with appropriate music was held on Easter day at St. James' church, Poquetanuck. At the 11 o'clock service the choir rendered Stephens' Te Deum, and Miss Marian Geer sang as an offertory solo the carol, Bright Easter Skies! Fair Easter Skies. The music was rendered in a pleasing manner by organist, choir and soloist.

Observance of Passover.

The Feast of Redemption or the Feast of Unleavened Bread as the Passover holiday is sometimes called, is observed by the Jewish people this year beginning on Sunday, April 1, for a period of seven or eight days, depending on the degree of ceremonialism followed by each individual.

So firmly is the symbolism of the feast of Passover intrenched that during the week every Jewish family abstains from eating leavened bread, and uses instead the Matzoth—thin, flat or disk-shaped wafers—a reminder of the bread eaten by their remote ancestors in their hasty departure from Egypt. The Matzoth are symbolic of the festival note of rejoicing over their deliverance from bondage. Reform and Orthodox Jews alike partake of it.

Beginning to License Dogs.

Owners of dogs are starting earlier than usual this year to respond to the town clerk's request that they renew the licenses for the canines early in the month of April so that they will not be so much of a rush in the latter part of the month. Ordinarily it has not been till about the middle of the month that licenses were issued in any considerable number, but this year Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook has already issued over 50 in the first few days. He hopes the good work will continue and requests those coming for licenses to bring their last year license with them as it facilitates the clerical work in issuing licenses for 1923.

A MULTITUDE OF WOMEN RECOMMEND IT

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitude of women who have used it. It has been proved that 98 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous records shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every ailing woman to try it.

KLAN OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING $100,000

W. N. Furney, Cashier, Involved to the Amount of $80,000; T. J. McKinnon, Chief of the Investigating Department, $20,000—Warrants Have Been Sworn Out by E. J. Jones, an Associate of Emperor William J. Simmons—Sheriff is in Charge of the Imperial Palace Pending Decision on Petition for an Injunction Against Imperial Wizard Evans and His Staff.

Atlanta, Ga., April 4—Warrants were issued late today for N. N. Furney, cashier of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, charging him with embezzlement of $80,000 and for T. J. McKinnon, chief of the investigating department, charging embezzlement of $20,000, according to the sheriff's office. The warrants were sworn to by E. J. Jones, an associate of Emperor illiam J. Simmons.

Associates of Simmons said other warrants might be taken out and that the charges against the two officials followed a day of investigation at the Imperial Palace, official headquarters of the Klan, while Simmons was temporarily in charge yesterday. Simmons was ousted early today by court order and Sheriff J. I. Lowry placed in order.

Klansmen are reported arriving from all parts of the country, some flocking to the standard of Emperor Simmons, while others were rallying around the faction headed by the imperial wizard.

CYCLOPS SKIPWITH RALLIES TO STANDARD

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse Parish, La., Ku Klux Klan, arrived in Atlanta late today to rally around the standard of Emperor William J. Simmons, it was announced at Simmons' headquarters.

The exalted cyclops was accompanied by 32 klansmen from Bastrop, La.

Captain Skipwith was quoted as saying that "If there is to be a break between Colonel Simmons and Dr. Evans then I will support Colonel Simmons 100 per cent, and the Klan in my section will stage a strong fight in his behalf in the controversy."

Captain Skipwith and his delegation were in conference with the emperor shortly after their arrival here, it was said. Captain Skipwith figured prominently in the investigation conducted by the state of Louisiana into black hooded bands' activities in Morehouse Parish, which culminated in the deaths of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richards last August. Two grand jury investigations have been held in the parish and no indictments were returned.

There was a rumor current when the jurors went to dinner that they stood eight to four for conviction, but there was admittedly nothing on which to base that figure.

That a heated argument was raging at times within the jury room was evident even in the court house corridors. At times during the day a half a dozen voices were raised at once, dominated by that of Mrs. Minerva Olson, the only woman on the jury.

SHERIFFF IN CHARGE OF IMPERIAL PALACE

Atlanta, Ga., April 4—(By the A. P.)—Sheriff Lowry of Fulton county will remain in charge of the imperial palace, general headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan, until Judge E. D. Thomas decides tomorrow afternoon who was in possession of the headquarters at the time Emperor Simmons filed his petition for an injunction against Imperial Ziward Evans and his staff.

CHAPMAN ESCAPED FROM ATLANTA PENITENTIARY

Athens, Ga., April 4.—Gerald Chapman, leader of the gang that staged the $1,000,000 mail robbery in New York in 1921, is again at large. He escaped from the St. Mary's hospital here tonight. He made a sensational escape from the Atlanta federal penitentiary last week and was recaptured following a gun battle with officers which resulted in his being badly wounded.

Chapman leaped from a window on the second floor of the hospital, his body landing heavily in a garden below. He disappeared before the guards could get out of the institution. The prisoner was being treated for bullet wounds in the kidneys and in the arm. A deputy sheriff was guarding Chapman. He said the prisoner made the leap when his back was turned.

STERLING CHEMISTRY LABORATORY DEDICATED

New Haven, Conn., April 4.—A full century after Professor Benjamin Silliman, the elder, met his first class as the first professor of chemistry in Yale college there was dedicated to his memory today the Sterling chemistry laboratory in the presence of the most notable group of scientists to whom Yale university has played the host.

The presentation of the building by the trustees under the will of John W. Sterling, its acceptance by President James Rowland Angell, and the oration of the day by Professor Edgar F. Smith, three times president of the American Chemical society, were carried out in the court of the industrial engineering laboratory in which a platform had been set up. As the space accommodated only about 500 others stood in the corridors or class rooms leading off this central court. The scene was colorful and had much the characteristics of commencement day as guests, the Fellows of the Cooperative, and members of the faculties were in gowns, the hoods of many having the brilliant markings of degrees awarded by foreign universities. The exercises were formal but the luncheon which followed was informal. The afternoon was given over to inspection of the building, concluding with the Goodyear memorial dinner of the rubber section of the American Chemical society.

The evening general meeting in Woolsey hall was addressed by Sir J. J. Thompson, F. R. S., on The Unity of Chemistry and Physics.

Earl of Carnarvon Died This Morning

Pneumonia Followed Blood Poisoning Which Was Reported Due to the Bite of an Insect.

Cairo, April 5.—(By The A. P.)—The Earl of Carnarvon died peacefully at two o'clock this morning. He was conscious almost to the end. His death was due to blood poisoning through the bite of an insect, with the later development of pneumonia.

The death of the Earl of Carnarvon comes shortly after the culmination of the exploit that brought him chiefly into public notice—the discovery of the rich tomb of the Pharoah Tutenkhamun in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt by the archaeological expedition which he headed.

While the press of the world was still devoting no small amount of its space to the notable contributions to the world's art and history which Lord Carnarvon and his fellow explorers had uncovered came the news that he had been suddenly stricken down and was lying seriously ill in Cairo from the bite of an insect.

By the public at large the misfortune which the earl had met was regarded as a lamentable incident of what might happen in a tropical clime such as that of Egypt. But to the credulous students of Egyptian mysticism the news did not come as a surprise.

Even before Lord Carnarvon was stricken with blood poisoning, announced as due to an insect bite, there had been talk of the curses laid by the ancient Egyptians, with mystic incantations, on any who dared disturb the sleep of a pharoah. After he was stricken, the old legends spread, and hundreds were to be found, not before superstitious, who were ready to believe that the old Egyptian curse had fallen on the rich and famous Englishman.

There were some who even questioned whether it was an insect that had dealt him the poisonous stroke. It was suggested that he might have touched some poisoned object in the tomb itself set thirty centuries ago to avenge the dead king on any who might disturb his rest.

Marie Corelli, the noted writer, recently declared that she called the attention of Lord Carnarvon to the beliefs of Egyptian mysticism and also expressed herself as not surprised at an accident occurring to "those daring explorers who rifle the tombs of dead monarchs." She cited from an ancient book on Egyptian history which gave long lists of the treasures buried with some of the kings, among these "divers secret potions enclosed in boxes in such wise that they who touch them shall not know how they come to suffer."

The tomb, which contained an unprecedented quantity of objects of the greatest historical value as well as the undisturbed sarcophagus of the pharpah, was said to have been the richest find ever unearthed in Egypt.

MUST SETTLE SUGAR BILL AGGREGATING $237,735

New Haven, April 4.—Isaac Swirsky, wholesale grocer of this city, who figured during the war in a sugar controversy, must settle a sugar bill of $237,735 owed to the George H. Finlay company of New York, by decision of the supreme court of errors handed down today. The decision confirms the judgment given by Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court last June.

During the sugar scarcity, when that commodity was selling at 25 cents a pound, Swirsky, backed by a letter of credit from a local bank, placed an order with the Finlays for 400 tons of sugar at 20 cents a pound. When delivery was tendered on the first lot Swirsky refused to accept it, the market price having dropped to 8 cents a pound. The company had a loss of 12 cents a pound and it sued Swirsky for $300,000 damages. There was much litigation and an appeal was taken to the supreme court, which now finds no error in Judge Hinman's award.

ANTI-DAY LIGHT SAVING BILL UP TO THE SENATE

Hartford, April 4—The Anti-daylight saving bill passed by the house today, which would impose a fine of $100 or a sentence of ten days in jail for wilful showing of any but standard time, will appear in the senate tomorrow where it is expected that it will receive serious opposition.

House Leader Buckley had it sent to the senate after its passage under suspension of the rules, in an effort to expedite ite, and there is a possibility that it will be acted upon tomorrow instead of being left for next week.

The bill, as amanded and passed would forbid all public institutions which receive state aid to adjust their time schedules to conform with daylight saving and puts teeth in the anti-daylight saving law passed in 1921 which simply compelled them to show nothing but standard time on their clocks.

The second section provides that no person or organization of any kind may willfully show in a public place any but standard time. The penalty for conviction on this offence is a fine of $100 or a jail sentence of 10 days or both. It was this section of the bill which led Alfred C. Baldwin, clerk of bills to place a notation upon it declaring that it was of doubtful constitutionelity.

If the bill should pass the senate it will come before Governor Templeton who made a strong plea for the exclusive use of standard time in his message last January.

RAILROADS TO PREPARE FOR HEAVY TRAFFIC

New York, April 4.—The executive committee of the Association of Railway Executives today approved a program outlined yesterday by the board of directors of the American Railways Association for meeting in 1923 what is expected to be the greatest traffic year in American railroading history.

In approving the program, which will be submitted tomorrow to a meeting of representatives of member roads, the executive committee endorsed plans calling for "the largest budget of new facilities, power and equipment for many years, if not in the history of the roads."

"The committee was unanimous in the opinion that the operating program proposed by the directors of the American Railway association, supplemented by the large increase in facilities which the roads had reported to this committee, promised transportation results for the year," read the report of the executive body, of which Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, is chairman.

It pointed out that the four day session of officials of the railroads, including all classes and subsidiary terminal and transfer systems, was called "to take account early of the prospects for the heaviest traffic to be moved over the railroads of the country in their history, and to anticipate all possible measures available to handle this traffic to the satisfaction of the public.

"The action taken yesterday by the board of directors of the American Railway Association proposing further transportation measures and outlining additional methods of co-operation between the railroads and with shippers was received and carefully considered," the report continued.

"Reports have been secured from substantially all member roads showing the additional locomotives and cars that will be provided and also the additional roadway facilities with particular reference to additional yard and side tracks, enlargements of terminal facilities, automatic signals and other facilities calculated to increase the capacity of the railroads.

"These reports were carefully reviewed and the members of the committee were gratified to learn through them that the improvement program for railroads in 1923 indicated the largest budget of new facilities, power and equipment, for many years, if not in the history of the roads.

"Reports were received from several committees which have recently been in conference with representatives of important business and commercial organizations looking toward further co-operation in order to secure the highest use of all available transportation facilities. Other matters considered were of a routine nature."

Despite the shopmen's strike of last fall and the unusual severity of the winter, there are now more locomotives in good repair and a smaller percentage in bad order than ever has been reported by all roads at any period.

The car situation is correspondingly good, it was reported, with more available for traffic and more new ones on order, than there have been in the spring for two years. As evidence of the excellence of the labor situation it was pointed out that, whereas the winter season usually makes huge inroads on the supply of surplus cars, due to the inability of shopmen to keep up repairs, the supply this past winter has been increased.

Mr. Clifton had been sought since March 29, when Thomas C. Chavez, president of the Cumberland Chemical company, and three others were arrested on complaint of Prohibition Agent Ridgely, who claimed the defendants had accepted a $500 deposit on a large quantity of liquor which he proposed to buy. Mr. Lincoln recalled to the members, the success of the Old Home and School Week in 1908.

He explained the methods used in checking up on bogus stock investments and told of the benefits of the investigations made. He stated that in this country there are about 500 corporations being formed monthly and 400 of that total are of unknown merit and unreliable. In his opinion the keystone to successful investment is proper information and investigation before buying. He said that business men in any community should amalgamate their forces and secure proper information about their investments. A questionnaire followed the speaker's most educational and interesting talk. Mr. Ketchum was given a rousing vote of thanks.

Robin Hood Robbed Rich to Feed Poor

According to legend, Robin Hood, hero of infinite exploits of matchless valor in the days of chivalry eight hundred years gone, hit upon a clever method of avoiding the odium of robbery when he audaciously dedicated himself to the occupation of "robbing the rich to feed the poor."

He made a practice of inviting wealthy men to dine with him and he played the part of a most hospitable host, affording his guests feasts on the best of high class edibles, including rare venison and choice fowls. Then at the conclusion of each such repast he would appear suddenly, armed with his trusty bow and arrow, and using this to impress his seriousness, would demand that each guest pay for his dinner. Invariably the daring adventurer would specify the sum each must pay, and pay it he did rather than suffer the consequences of coming in contact with a deadly arrow.

It is claimed that following each of these incursions on purse and pelf there would be an end of plenty in whatever district Robin Hood happened to be, because he would always divide the spoils with the needy, his generosity and charity being without parallel. Naturally, he was much beloved by the poor and just as naturally he was feared and hated by those better blessed financially.

But his idea of making the fiddlers pay when they assembled around his festive board was unique to say the least, and it is safe to say that it did not fail to do good to those were most needing a helping hand.

As played by Douglas Fairbanks in his elaborate screen production, Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, a United Artists release, now showing at the Strand theatre, this character compels unstinted admiration, his charmingly romantic penchant being especially stressed in this notable characterization, which bids fair to live in cinema history as one of the most conspicuous triumphs ever attained by any star in any histrionic effort.

Two Star Features at the Strand.

Grandma's Boy lived in Blossom Bend, one of those slow towns where the Tuesday morning express arrives Wednesday afternoon—if Monday's train gets out of the way! Harold Lloyd is Grandma's Boy and his grandma is Mrs. Anna Townsend, a dear old lady 79 years old. Mildred Davis is the boy's sweetheart.

All the humorous, thrilling and amusing troubles that Grandma's Boy encounters in five reels were concocted by Hal Roach, Sam Taylor and Jean Havez, who conspired to make this Lloyd's funniest and greatest comedy. Fred Newmeyer directed it, and H. M. Walker contributed his own particular brand of humor in the sub-titles.

In other words, all the brains and forces that contribute toward making the Harold Lloyd comedies that Hal Roach produces for Associated Exhibitors the best comedies in the world were behind Grandma's Boy with 100 per cent. effort. The Strand theatre is happy to announce that Harold Lloyd's newest comedy in five parts will be shown today, Friday and Saturday.

An unusually interesting romance is said to be presented in the William Christy Cabanne production, Till We Meet Again, presented today at the Strand theatre. In it Mae Marsh, returning to the screen after an absence of several years, enacts the part of a girl who is loved by a thief gang leader and also by a rich young aristocrat. The aristocrat is of her station in life but her heart is touched by the selfish devotion of the crook who had been her only friend in an hour of great need.

The indecision in the heart of the girl is said to be experienced by the audience, whose sympathies are equally divided, so that suspense is kept up until the final scene, said to be one of the most gripping climaxes ever screened.

The two leading male roles are portrayed by Norman Kerry and Wolfer Miller. Others in the cast are Martha Mansfield, J. Barney Sherry and Julia Swayne Gordon. The story is Mr. Cabanne's own, adapted to the screen by Edmund Goulding. It is a recent Associated Exhibitors release.

A News Weekly is also on the same bill.

REPORT THAT COSGROVE IS TO COME TO NORWICH IS FALSE, SAYS O'LEARY

The following story of interest to baseball fans in Norwich appeared Wednesday night on the sport page of The Hartford Times.

A Norwich semi-pro club is understood to have made Joe Cosgrove a flattering offer to manage the team this summer and that is said to be the reason he went to be put on the voluntary retired list. It is said that if the Waterbury club is unsuccessful in swinging a deal which would send the fleet outfielder to another club, his request to be placed on the retired list would be granted.

William O'Leary who managed the K. of C. team in Norwich last season and who with others has been interested in having a semi-pro team in the local field this summer denied Wednesday night that Joe Cosgrove had been approached with any offer to manage the local team.

O'Leary stated that as far as he knew there was nothing definite as yet, whether Norwich would even have a semi-pro team this summer. The cost of putting a club into the field such as Norwich fans have demanded in the past is practically prohibitive as losses have been sustained ever since semi-pro ball has been played in the city.

The story of Cosgrove's coming here to manage the Norwich semi-pro team, if there is to be any at all, is entirely without foundation, said Mr. O'Leary, and it would be folly for any backers of a local team to go out to hire the services of Cosgrove at the figure a man of his ability can demand. I haven't seen Cosgrove, said O'Leary, and he hasn't seen me; there's absolutely nothing to the report.

New York, April 4.—Tom Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, will be permitted to meet Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight boxing title, if he first defeats Jack Renault, Canadian boxer, the New York boxing commission has ruled. "THE HOME OF ACTION"

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hot Springs, Ark., April 5.—When William Killefer, Cubs' field marshal, called a meeting of his board of strategy at Avalon, Calif., about the middle of February, he addressed them as follows:

"Men, what we need is speed, youth and agility in our infield; a left-handed pitcher or two who can win ball games; a little more zip all the way round—now that we know what we're after, let's go get it."

After which speech the young manager turned loose a kid infield with this assurance, "A job with the Cubs is yours if you go out and win it." And to four southpaw hurlers he said about the same thing. Meantime, he was not overlooking several hopefuls who employ the right arm to pitch, not to mention the rookie outfielders.

The result has been that Chicago's National League entry will introduce to the b. b. public a third baseman who is touted to become a leader in his organization, and a second sacker who will make the folks in the Mid-West metropolis think of Johnny Evers when that combination of skin and bones and ginger was in his prime.

Barney Friberg is the new custodian of third. He is not a stranger to the paying public of Chicago and other N. L. cities. But Barney has been one of those utility birds—last season he played first, second and third as the occasion demanded, and spent much of his time chasing flies in the outfield. This year there is an imaginary sign erected near the hot corner of the diamond which reads, "This territory has been allotted to Bernard Friberg, third baseman; stay off!"

Friberg sure is repaying Killifer for the confidence placed in him. There never was any question about the lad's ability to hit. His average in 1922 was .311. And, as the regular third-baseman, he has the speed, the arm, the hands, the eye—and last, but not lease, the determination. Barney will get away with that hot corner assignment O. K. unless we are greatly mistaken.

A laddie buck who joined Chicago near the finish of the last campaign—George Gratham—is now listed as the holder of all rights and privileges at second base.

Gratham a Plugger

Gratham did not come to the Cubs a second-baseman. He played third for Omaha in the Western League last year. His fielding at the extreme left-side diamond post was fair—he had a reputation for trying. But with Friberg nominated for the third bag, Bill Killefer decided that Gratham had the youth and the spirit to learn the second-base job. It was tough on the boy for a while; his leg muscles knotted for him after he had made the quick wheel and toss to first several days. But Georgie boy stuck.

Grimes Classy First Sacker

If Grimes, who batted .354 last year, hitting forty-five two basers and fourteen home runs and playing bang-up ball defensively, is not the best first sacker in the league, he comes pretty near answering to that description. And we are not forgetting that Stuffy McInnis has joined the Braves.

Hollocher, 25 years old and as peppy as they come, by and large, has no peer at the short field post. He was the actual leader among the N. L. shortstops in the fielding averages last campaign. And he was credited with 201 safe hits for an average of .339. Charley has the speed, the arm, the fight—and this should be a grand season for him.

And then there is Cotter, a boy who made such a fine impression at first in the preliminary work-outs that only a Grimes could come in and send him to the reserve company. Cotter was with Springfield in the Western Association last season and batted .396. His defensive work has been noteworthy on the Pacific Coast Island h. q. Johnny Kelleher probably has a utility job won. Also there were Bob Barrett, Earl Adams and Bernie Viveiros, rookie infielders who commanded attention by their work at Avalon. No question about it—Killifer will have the young and peppy infield he wished for and capable substitutes, too.

Alex Grooms Pitchers

Alex spent long hours with the flingers. He taught 'em all the tricks of which he is a master. And now Killifer has three southpaws who are displaying so much power and cunning that he wonders which is the best—if there is a best. Nick Dumovich (the accent on the first syllable of his family name would be unfair to such a bright, spirited youth) cost the most money—some say 6,500—and probably he will get first call when the pennant race opens. He is what the b. b. wigs call "loose and rangy." Alexander has taught him to hide his good curve from batters and he has a neat change of pace.

Fussell, with a puzzling curve and that greatest of all southpaw assets, control, is rated high by the Cub board of strategy. And Hippo Hodges, the third left-hander who is being groomed for N. L. service, seems to have everything except experience. It may be stated that the Cubs will have a left-hander—probably two of 'em who may be called classy.

Stauffer, a kid right-hander with a sharp-breaking curve and heaps of speed, is the leader among the kid right-handers. But Killefer has plenty of hold-over talent among the athletes who throw the apple the right way. Alex himself has the curves, the control and the brain works to put on a good pitching job about once a week—he won sixteen games in '22 and should win at least that many—perhaps more—in the course of the coming campaign.

Vic Aldridge, the vet right-hander, is in a merry mood this spring and great things are expected from him. Then there are Stuland, Cheeves and Osborn, all young men who may be looked upon as fixtures on the staff and pretty good ones at that. Killefer should have few pitching troubles, if luck is with him.

Outfield Strong

It may be predicted that Miller, Statz and Heathcote will be the first choice outfield. Here again, Killefer demanded speed first, and ability to hit second. There were plenty of garden prospects looked over at Avalon. Marty Callaghan undoubtedly will remain with the Cubs. It is not easy to pick the best among Grigsby, Weis and Fitzgerald at this time. All hit from the left side and did their preliminary work well.

KIRKWOOD, GOLF PLAYER, NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

Pinehurst, N. C., April 4.—Joe Kirkwood, Australian golf professional, had a narrow escape from death or injury tonight when the plane in which he was flying to Asheville, N. C., made a forced landing in an electrical storm near Hillerbe.

Kirkwood left here in a plane piloted by James B. Cole of Pittsburgh. The golfer was unhurt, according to reports reaching here, but the pilot suffered three broken ribs.

Princeton, N. J., April 4.—Albert C. Hall, of West Orange, was elected captain of Princeton's 1924 hockey team today. Hall played left defense on this season's team and was also a member of the freshman team in 1921. He succeed Howell Van Nerbig, star captain of this year's team.

GENARO OUTPOINTS TAYLOR IN FAST TEN ROUND NO-DECISION CONTEST

Coliseum, Chicago, April 4 (By the A. P.).—Before more than 10,000 spectators, the biggest crowd that ever witnessed an indoor athletic show in Chicago, Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, defeated Midget Smith of New York, while Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, outpointed Buddy Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., in two sensational ten-round contests tonight.

Genaro fought as much in the air as he did with both feet on the canvas and hit Taylor with such a terrific series of punches that he had the crowd screaming.

After a dizzy first round, which went to Taylor, Genaro warmed up to his task, permitting Taylor to do a lot of the leading, while he satisfied himself with stiff and accurate countering with rights and lefts.

Taylor was credited with winning the first, fourth and tenth rounds, while the third was fairly even.

Genaro was in front in the second, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

Taylor lost two teeth in the fourth round, and in the fifth a bridge flew out of his mouth. Taylor's handlers said the damage was done by Genaro's head hitting Taylor's mouth when the champion jumped into the air to land.

Genaro backed Taylor into the ropes three or four times during the ten rounds, connecting solidly with rights and lefts to the chin. In the fifth Taylor apparently slightly stunned Genaro with a left hook to the chin.

Taylor did most of the scoring with left rips to the body and head. When he tried rights he usually missed.

Genaro weighed in at 8 p. m. at 112 pounds, the flyweight limit; while Taylor scaled at 115, a pound under the stipulated weight.

The two contests were the feature of the most pretentious boxing program offered here since the fake fight between Terry McGovern and Joe Gans twenty years ago.

The program was staged under the protection of an injunction restraining the police from interfering, although the state law prohibits boxing.

Lynch outpointed Smith, but left the ring with the knowledge that he had been in a desperate battle.

In the first round Lynch split Smith's lip and cut his tongue with a sharp right and also opened up an old injury on his nose. The Midget went to his corner bleeding profusely.

Coming out for the second, Smith shot over a vicious right cross, hitting Lynch squarely on the chin and knocking him flat. He tried to get up at the count of three, but his legs would not support him, and he waited until the referee counted nine before staggering into a fighting position.

Smith tore after him and sent him reeling into the ropes at the bell with a left hook to the chin.

Lynch was hurt badly was shown by the stiff-legged manner in which he came up for the third.

He fought defensively with Smith leading to the body and head.

In the fourth, however, Lynch began to pile up points until the seventh, using a long range left which he kept sticking into the Midget's face.

Smith won the seventh by solid right hand punches, forcing Lynch into the ropes.

The ninth was even. Lynch came out strong in the tenth and forced the pace.

WANDERERS WIN FIRST GAME FROM BANTAMS

In the first game of the series for the championship of Baltic the Wanderers defeated the Bantams by the score of 26 to 25 in a fast and one of the roughest games played in Baltic. In one part of the game the referee, who had his hands full trying to make the players play basketball being razed by one of the players, lost the temper and kicked the player a la Firpo when he knocked Brennen out. The game was halted for about 5 minutes and after the players cooled off the game went on.

The next game is to take place on Wednesday, April 11th, if both teams can come to an agreement or there will be no game on account of the bitter feeling between the players. With the Brown brothers in their lineup the Bantams had a good team, while the Wanderers never struck their stride. Simoneau with 8 baskets won the game with his great shooting.

The lineup:

Bantams.		Wanderers.
D. Brown	R. F.	Ridgeway
Stewart	L. F.	Simoneau
J. Brown	C.	Charron
A. Erickson	R. G.	Swanson, Despathy
Ashworth	L. G.	Robertie

Field baskets, D. Brown 4, Stewart 1, J. Brown 4, Erickson 1, Ashworth 1, Ridgeway 4, Simoneau 8. Four baskets, Stewart 5, Ridgeway 6. Referee, Walter Robertaille. Timer Fred Erickson. Scorer Joe Simoneau.

TO BREAK GROUND MONDAY FOR "AMERICA'S WIMBLEDON"

New York, April 4.—Ground will be broken next Monday for "America's Wimbledon"—the new concrete stadium to be built by the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hills, Long Island, where the United States will defend its title to the Davis cup this year.

This announcement was made tonight by the stadium committee of the club after it had obtained a permit for the erection of the structure from the board of appeals of Greater New York.

The stadium is expected to be completed in time for the women's national turf court championships, which have been awarded to the Forest Hills club on August 13 to 18. The Davis cup challenge round is scheduled there on August 31, September 1 and 3.

The stadium is to be built in the shape of a horseshoe, following on a smaller scale the lines of the Harvard stadium, and will seat 12,000 spectators. Temporary or permanent additions may be made to increase this capacity by 8,000.

EXPECT 130 AMATEURS TO ENTER NAT. BOXING TOURNEY

Boston, April 4.—A new crop of national amateur boxing champions seems assured. In the 100-odd entries to date for the title tournament to be held here next Monday and Tuesday are none of the winners of last year. Charles Jenkinson, of Los Angeles, 145 pound champion of 1921, is seeking honors in the 158 pound class this year.

Eleven states and the Canadian provinces of Ottawa and Quebec are represented in the entries for the eight classes already received at the Boston Athletic association. Champions of several sections are in the list.

In all an entry of about 120 is expected. Last year it took nine hours of fighting to reduce a field of 105 boxers to the 32 who advance to the semi-finals on the second night. This year it has been decided to start the bouts at 4 or 5 p. m. Monday.

HARVARD BASEBALL TEAM NOT TO PLAY IN JAPAN

Cambridge, Mass., April 4.—Harvard's baseball team will not go to Japan in term time to play a series with Waseda university, the university athletic committee decided today. Action was postponed on the question of accepting the Waseda invitation after college closes. The invitation of the Japanese university was for a series of 12 games to be played in June.

The committee expressed willingness to allot money to erect a swimming pool, but subject to the approval of the Harvard corporation and the university planning board, which now is drawing up a plan for a future university area.

LOVEBERRY WINS BLUE RIBBON IN PACERS CLASSES

Pinehurst, N. C., April 4.—Loveberry, entered by John D. Moore, of Hathorville, S. C., won the blue ribbon in both of the pacers classes at the horse show here today. Vanity Fair, entered by Miss Virginia Thomas of Greensboro, N. C., was adjudged first in the light saddle class. Loveberry also took the red ribbon in the harness horse championship event. Boston, April 4.—C. Sydnam Cutting, of New York, and Quincy A. S. McKean, of Boston, will meet tomorrow in the finals of the national court tennis championship here. The winner will meet J. Gould, the titleholder, in a challenge round.

McKean was hard pressed to defeat Roger W. Cutler, of this city in the semi-finals today. The score was 6-4, 1-6, 4-6, 7-5. Cutting defeated Dr. George S. Derby, of Boston, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

GERTRUDE EDERLE BREAKS THREE WORLD'S RECORDS

New York, April 4.—Gertrude Ederle of the Women's Swimming association, New York, winner of the international 3 1-2 mile race last year, broke three world's records tonight in a local A. A. U. meet, starting from scratch and finishing third in the 220 meter event.

Miss Ederle cut the time for 200 yards from 2.32 2-5 to 2.30 1-5; for 200 meters from 2.46 1-5 to 2.45 1-5 and for 220 yards from 2.47 3-5 to 2.46 4-5.

WALKER K. O.'S RILEY IN 2D ROUND OF 10 ROUND BOUT

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 4.—Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, tonight knocked out Johnny Riley of Wilkesbarre in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout. A right to the jaw sent Riley down for the count of eight early in the round and he had hardly regained his feet when a short left hook to the stomach again floored him. On the third attempt Walker drove a left to the stomach and a right to the jaw, and Riley went out.

FIFTY MEN REPORT FOR HARVARD FOOTBALL SQUAD

Cambridge, Mass., April 4.—Spring football practice opened at Harvard today with 50 men reporting to Head Coach Robert T. Fisher, and his assistants. The muggy weather and muddy ground made the going difficult for the candidates and the first day was devoted to elementary matter—passing, medicine ball and a little kicking. Spring practice will continue for two weeks.

Baltimore, Mr., April 4.—Bob Garcia of Camp Holabird, champion featherweight of the U. THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

An appeal that cannot fail to awaken a fitting response from the people of Connecticut is that which is put forth by the Connecticut Children's Aid society in its endeavor to not only continue the work it has been doing but to increase it.

An organization that has for its object the care of neglected and otherwise unfortunate children in our own state cannot be permitted to lack for support in carrying on its most worthy and much needed work. It is a most deplorable condition when young children are abandoned, turned loose upon the good graces of neighbors, forced to experience all kinds of hardships or are injured in health because of negligence and cruelty.

Fortunate indeed is it that there is such an organization dedicated to the abandoned, neglected and unprotected children of the state and that its field covers the entire commonwealth. It means much to the coming generations that 283 such children have been placed in normal, happy boarding homes by this society. That it found opportunities for spending $74,000 in the past year for such excellent purposes should awaken the reply from the people of this state that if ten times that amount is needed to deal properly with these conditions it will be furnished. Happily the society believes it can expand its work as planned through voluntary contributions of $33,000.

Just what such a society means to those for whom it is laboring may be best understood by those directly involved in its activities or those who have come under its influences. It stands as a friend in the time of need, a seeker after those who need help and as the guardian of those who for any reason whatever are left to shift for themselves.

No one is more deserving of such protection than children. Such aid has an influence on their whole future and nothing is more important than seeing that they get the right start. What it has done is a guide for what it will continue to do in this and coming years.

The desirability to have a hand in furthering this work should be as broad as the field in which the society labors.

C. O. D. SWINDLERS

Someone has observed that it must take a large stock of effrontery or nerve for those who make use of the post office department in connection with their swindling schemes. That is undoubtedly true, but there is no place that a greater amount of nerve can be found than right among those who are engaged in that very business.

Making use of the facilities offered by the postal service doesn't require any more nerve than it does to take away the life's savings of an elderly couple. It could be expected to give a much smaller tug at the conscience than the robbing of a widow or the taking away of the last cent from orphans by the many sharp practices that are reported to almost every day.

The latest scheme for getting the aid of the government is to forward goods C. O. D. to persons who have not ordered them. Should one member of the household settle for the package without making inquiry of the one to whom it was addressed the trick would be turned.

Those who are constantly on the watch for some method of getting big returns from the public by easy methods have been quick to seize the opportunity to force a lot of goods upon those who did not order them and do not want them at most any price they see fit to fix. The C. O. D. privilege in the postal service has been of much assistance to legitimate dealers and their customers. It is in the misuse of the privilege that the kick comes and there are good reasons why it should be strenuous.

Inasmuch as the government has denied this service to those who have been caught in such swindling operations it is plain that those who adopt such methods are those who are entitled to no confidence whatever. No established business could countenance such a scheme for a minute without wrecking itself. The post office department takes the right course in discouraging the practice by properly branding and punishing those found resorting to it.

JAPAN AND THE AGREEMENT

It is a bit difficult to understand the position of Japan in regard to the naval treaty. In connection with the question that has been raised concerning the elevation of the guns on the battleships, or whether changes can be made in existing battleships without conflicting with the restrictions of the treaty statements are attributed to it which confuse.

This country has not proceeded to modernize its battleships, but it has made appropriations for such work provided it can be done without violating the treaty. It is in the position of wanting to know what can be done, being prepared to go ahead if it is permissible but having no intention of violating the agreement. It has been led into a false view of the action by the British regarding this very matter. Although it was believed that the British had made just such changes as this country had in mind, it is learned that such is not the case, and a statement to that effect has been accepted.

As the result of this development Japan is credited with taking the view that it has never questioned its right to alter the range of gun fire, indicating that if it hasn't done so it considers it has a right to do just what this country is trying to find out about.

That is an expression by Japan of its view of the treaty on this point. The strange part of its attitude lies in the additional statement to the effect that as the result of the discussion of the treaty terms it has doubts that England and America mean to observe the terms of the naval treaty. Inasmuch as these two countries have refrained from doing what Japan thinks it has a right to do there seems to be little ground for the fear expressed. In fact nothing has been done that warrants such an expression. The question boils up, however, as to whether, in view of its statements, Japan would have refrained from modernization work until it found out just what the treaty permitted.

TREE PLANTING

The demand for the planting of more trees, aside from reforestation work, is increasing each year. The excellent results that are being obtained in certain communities serve as an inspiration for others. It is easy to note the benefits which certain cities and towns derive from well shaded streets, and visitors to these communities are carrying home the good impressions and stimulus others to like efforts.

In New York at the present time efforts are being made, although not with any great degree of success, to secure an appropriation for tree planting in Central and other parks of the city, for the replacement of those which have been removed and the further beautification of the grounds.

In a number of other cities the importance of devoting a certain sum each year to the setting out of trees on avenues which are without them, or in place of those which have had to be removed for one cause or another, has long since been recognized. It is all part of the well conceived plan of bettering the city's appearance from year to year, and it is much preferable to waiting until a city becomes treeless before attempting the much needed work of replacement.

Maintenance of property and streets is provided for each year. It is the businesslike course to follow even while new work is being carried on. The same policy followed in connection with trees would result in decided and lasting betterment at small cost. Trees add value to property and improve a city's appearance.

SPEED AND ENDURANCE

From the day when it was established that it was entirely feasible to fly in machines that are heavier than air records have been broken in rapid succession. To establish a new one with an airplane today simply means inviting another to go out tomorrow to beat it and in many instances it is being done.

The army lieutenant who recently attained a speed of 240 miles an hour for the period of a half hour has demonstrated what can be accomplished with the modern flying machine. Cutting down distance in that manner would make it possible to go from Norwich to New York and return in an hour provided there was no loitering on the way. At such a rate trans-Atlantic trips could be made easily in an ordinary working day.

Even though it will be a long time before it is possible for a machine to maintain such a speed for any great length of time it nevertheless marks the great strides that are being made in the perfection of planes and their engines for speedy operation.

This country may not be making as great strides in aviation as some other countries, because less government funds may be devoted to it, but there is evidence furnished every now and then to show that it is rapidly forging to the front. With operators and machines that can make such fast time and with the endurance records that are being hung up there is ground for confidence in the certain progress that is being made in this country in aviation.

HIS POINT OF VIEW

"Catalpa Biddle has a girl visiting her who looks so much like her that I just can't tell them apart!" announced the young woman who lived next door to Catalpa. "When I see Cyclamen I think it is Catalpa in a new dress and when I see Catalpa I am not a bit sure she is herself! Why, the girl moves and acts just like Catalpa, too!"

"How do you know it isn't that Catalpa tries to act like the new girl?" inquired the brother, who was studying efficiency and cause and effect. "When two girls who are friends show such a marked resemblance it proves that one has a weak mind and I am very anxious to get to the bottom of this special situation because I am beginning to think that Catalpa is the mosquito's necktie. In other words she is a mighty nice girl. Let Cyclamen do all the copying she wants to, but I can't have Catalpa tacitly admitting she can't think out a line of fascination of her own."

"This new girl even minces along with the same sort of silly step Catalpa uses!" protested the sister. "I never in the world saw Catalpa mince along!" said the efficient brother. "I have always thought that one of her chief charms was her graceful swaying step."

"Oh, my goodness!" cried the sister in disgust. "She walks as though any minute her feet were going to break off! She simpers! Her friend simpers exactly the same way. It is most confusing!"

"Catalpa has a lovely, innocent expression!" declared the efficient brother. "I have always noticed it and any change is certainly due to the influence of this Cyclamen girl! In endeavoring to copy Catalpa I have no doubt he falls short of the mark and that produces the painful result you describe and Catalpa is merely trying to be polite and not outdo her! This Cyclamen seems overdressed to me. Catalpa always wears such beautiful things—"

"Catalpa Biddle," stated his sister coldly, "puts on every single thing in the house except the kitchen stove when she starts out. She jingles with earrings and jangles with bracelets and is afloat with gyrostriped feathers and dripping with ribbons! You are, indeed, far gone if she impresses you as a simple little thing! But what difference does it make who copies which?"

"Think!" commanded the efficient brother. "Think how distracting it would be to have a wife who was addicted to that habit! One minute she would be herself and the next she would be Mrs. Piffle in the next block or Dorothy Dix-ie in the flat below! On Monday her clothes would look like herself and on Tuesday you could think you were walking down the street with Mrs. Addmore!"

"Every time you took her to the theatre she would drape herself over the furniture like the great Pilsmore Footlest, bounce into rooms cry like the famous little cutie, Tootie Golden, or begin shouting reckless songs like some popular vaudeville favorite who has just got into the papers for divorcing her sixth husband! She would always be doing gymnastics with her eyes vaguely resembling you or somebody you had seen somewhere, and it would take you three irritating days to remember who and where. I hope this Cyclamen girl is not going to stay long enough hopelessly to corrupt Catalpa."

"I am sure you have got it all wrong!" insisted the sister warmly. "It is Cyclamen who copies Catalpa's silly ways! I know it must be, because Cyclamen is fatter, and fat people are always indolent and disinclined for exertion, mental or physical!"

"Then Catalpa should have a great deal of credit for originating things," declared the efficient brother, strongly. "Understand, there is nothing personal in this and I am merely arguing because I like to see justice done! If somebody copies along and tries to be so clever and suggestive and attractive and fascinating as somebody else and makes a 'hash' out of it you have no right to include the original model in your denunciations."

"Well, I can plainly see that you are lost, gone and floating down the river very rapidly," sighed the sister, shaking her head. "You may have no personal interest in Catalpa, as you claim, but you are making it quite decidedly like wedding bells if you ask me! It must be comforting to have decided that Cyclamen was in the wrong—minus copyright!"

"There is not a single bit of doubt about it!" said the efficient brother. "My point of view is much more logical and sustained than yours, you see!"—Exchange.

TELEPHONE PIONEERS.

There must be a fundamentally wholesome and sound influence directing the affairs of a corporation that numbers on its employe roster nearly 150 men and women who have served continuously more than 31 years and many of whom have been with the business almost since its beginning 45 years ago.

There must be some warmly sympathetic relationship between the management and the employes of such a corporation, beyond the relationship of the wage envelope, which causes a large group of faithful workers to pause in the gaiety and frolic of a "family reunion" and banquet, and reverently bow their heads for a full minute in silent and intensely impressive tribute to men, now dead, who helped greatly to make their business organization the dependable servitor of millions of people.

There is something genuinely human, something deeply sentimental in such action.

When 150 Pioneers telephone people at the Taft the other day paid this marked testimonial to the memory of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone; Theodore N. Vail, whose genius for organization made the great Bell System humanity's tireless servant; and Morris F. Tyler, for 25 years president of the Southern New England Telephone Company whose acute business instinct placed the S. N. E. T. Company on the sound business base it occupies they gave the public a clearer knowledge of the really human and intensely personal feeling telephone people have toward their business.

This action clarifies for us the popular telephone phrase, "The Spirit of Service." Its meaning, locally, at least, will be better understood.

We personally know James T. Moran, president; Harry C. Knight, general manager; J. D. Veitch, general commercial superintendent; F. L. Moore, general superintendent of traffic; E. L. Simonds, general superintendent of plant and Edward H. Everit, chief engineer of the southern New England Telephone Company.

Therefore, we are not at all surprised that the 4,000 men and women who "work with us, not for us," as Mr. Moran has often expressed this relationship, have a keen sense of unswerving loyalty and devotion to public service and a genuine affection for their business and its managers.

But the men mentioned could not have moulded this staunchly loyal organization they lead, without support from the rank and file and an exercise of intelligence and fair and square dealing on the part of the employes.

The telephone business is a business of impreccable character and its employes, as well as its managers, have made it so.

We hail the "telephone crowd" and we admire their deep-rooted "family spirit" and their friendly will to serve. —Editorial in New Haven Union.

Stories That Recall Others

What Would the Wife Say?

"Will you lend me some writing paper?" asked a person stepping into the office of a public official.

Upon getting an affirmative reply he added: "Make it a small sheet, please. I wish to write to my wife."

The Apartment Became Warm.

One who was sitting in her apartment hugging the radiator because the janitor and landlord refused to heed her pleas for more heat called the police and asked that someone be sent to build a fire in the furnace.

She had complainted to the landlord and janitor about the lack of heat. She suggested to the landlord that he send a detective to the office to satisfy his misgivings. The landlord did not act on the suggestion.

She could stand it no longer and called the police station and asked that a policeman be sent to build a fire. She was told the work was not a policeman's duty.

"Well the police are to protect defenseless people," she said, "I am a defenseless woman and I need protection."

Just how it happened she doesn't know, but later on she was cheered by the snapping of the steam valves

Wives of Famous Men

Alice Middleton, Wife of Sir Thomas More.

Alice Middleton, second wife of Sir Thomas More, the author of "Utopia," is described as a widow "verging on old age as dnot of a yielding temper." More, however, was often aggravating enough to try the temper of any woman. The way he announced his resignation of the chancellorship, for instance, by going to his wife's pew after the service was over and saying in the manner of an attendant, "Madam, my lord is gone," without a moment's warning might have led to a divorce in these modern and less forgiving days.

Mrs. More also had to take care of the four children of More's first wife, whom he had married, he wrote, "out of a kind compassion," besides three daughters of her own and finally an idiot son. Her husband also insisted on giving her lessons on the lute, cithara, viol, monochord and flute, which she had to practice to him daily. Mrs. More, however, was a fine housekeeper and a skilled cook, and More pays tribute to the manner in which she kept his numerous family and his house in Chelsea in order.

When Sir Thomas More went to the Tower as a result of his religious convictions his wife proved her devotion to him by visiting him every day and imploring him in the manner of women to throw his conscientious scruples to the winds and leave "the close, filthy prison" and return to "the right, fair house at Chelsea." More refused, replying: "Is not this house as near Heaven as my own?"

He was not stubborn and unpleasant, however, and often found time to interest himself in his home life. In affliction he showed his true regard for his wife, as when his house at Chelsea, with his offices and gravaries, was almost destroyed by fire. Instead of reproaching her for real or fancied negligence, he wrote her to be of good cheer and to be "merry in God."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

One of the most remarkable men for his age in business today is undoubtedly John R. Booth, of Ottawa, Ont. He is 97 years old today, yet he conducts one of the largest concerns in the Dominion. In the early sixties he started in the lumber business in the district of Madawaska. His business grew until in course of time his lumber interests became the largest in the country. He was the builder of the Canada Atlantic Railway, which he later sold to the Grand Trunk. In addition to his lumber, pulp and paper business, he is a farmer of large interests. He owns his own timber limits and water power; manufactures his own wagons, sleighs and harness; and maintains his own blacksmith and machine shops. Among his other interests he has a large manufacturing business in Vermont and valuable timber tracts in British Columbia. As rugged and active as most men of 60, Mr. Booth is daily at his office by 8 in the morning and personally supervises the extensive operations under his control.

We believe a Studebaker Golden is good for five to ten years of useful, satisfactory life. We are not positive as to the real life because none has yet worn out.

If, when you trade in your car, you learn that you can get only three or four hundred dollars for it because there is no second-hand market for that make of car, then you must add this extra depreciation to arrive at the real cost of the car.

The trade-in price of Studebaker cars shows a very small depreciation, in many sections the smallest of all makes of motor cars. And there is always a ready market for used cars of Studebaker manufacture.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Arizona Wants a Seaport.

"The 'Ararat' of a strictly American 'Noah,' real community inhabitants, a huge lava flow, and salt and sand sufficient to cure most of the world's fish and to keep all its builders and glass factories busy"—these, says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society, are some of the by-products, valuable and otherwise, that the United States would acquire if it successfully acted on a recently reported resolution of the Arizona house of representatives. The resolution seeks to add to the state a small triangle of northern Mexico.

"It is for quite a different reason, however," continues the bulletin, "that Arizona desires what might be called this 'second Gadsden' Purchase' of one of the most desolate and least-known regions of North America. The map shows that while the southern boundary of the state extends due west for a space from the southwestern corner of New Mexico, it then strikes northwestward at a very slight angle. The resolution seeks an arrangement with Mexico by which this bend in the southern boundary of the state would be eliminated so that the line would continue as it started, in a due east and west direction. The triangular area that would be added to the state would be about 240 miles long by about fifty miles wide at the point of greatest breadth.

"The important consideration is that this long narrow triangle is all that separates Arizona from the sea—The Gulf of California, huge arm of the Pacific. Add it to Arizona, and overnight the state would desert the 27 inland commonwealths and join the 21 that border on salt water. With its hundreds of thousands of tons of minerals to ship, the state is now bottled up by a narrow region undeveloped and little likely to be developed by its present owner. It is felt that even the desolate, practically trailless desert, and the lack of natural harbors on the gulf would not deter Yankee enterprise and Yankee engineering ability from laying down a trail of steel and constructing quays or piers at which ocean steamers would soon be loading, furnishing the cheap transportation that bulky products demand.

"The areas of most states are well known, even the parts sparsely populated. It is hard for dwellers in many other portions of the United States to realize, therefore that not only is this triangle of Mexico a terra incognita, but that the portion of Arizona which adjoins it is almost equally so. Most of the region south of the Southern Pacific railroad may be thought of as a desert on which small broken rocky ranges of mountains have been superimposed. In the valleys between the grassy mountains are numerous patches of fertile soil, but little rain falls and there are practically no running streams—only dry stream-beds which now and then carry water for a few hours until it is lost in the sand, and a very few water-holes.

"Both north and south of the border, this region is given over almost wholly to a handful of Papago Indians with communistic customs who range as freely as did their remote ancestors, needing to give in their desolate homeland, little or no thought to border-lines or to the governmental machinery of states and nations. Th region—both American and Mexican—is known roughly as 'Papagueria,' and is seldom traversed by white men.

"Through it the international boundary extends, the ultimate is arbitrary lines. Swerving neither to the right nor to the left it extends, a straight, geometrical line, running up shear cliffs and over craggy peaks, hurdling great valleys and tiny arroyos, crossing deserts, lava flows, and sand dunes, until it strikes the Colorado river some fifteen miles below Yuma. And it is imaginary as well as arbitrary. Little monuments from three to five miles apart mark its progress, but these are often obscured; and the Indians and the occasional white or Mexican travelers, may, and do cross and recross it frequently without knowing its location, and with no guards or officials to question them.

"The Mexican triangle of Papagueria which it is proposed to add to Arizona, is even a more inhospitable country than the border region. In addition to the features of the latter, it embraces a district thirty by forty miles covered by extinct volcanic craters and an ancient lava flow, and hundreds of square miles of great towering sand dunes that create a landscape like that of parts of the Sahara. On the highest five peaks of Pinacate, say the old Papago legends, their 'Elder Brother' landed from his ark after the deluge and after floating around the world four times. While his solicitude for animals was not as extensive as that of the Hebraic Noah, he at least managed to save a coyote and a beetle. The Papagos formerly were 'sand people' living in the sand dune region near the lava fields, with headquarters at the few small water-holes. This region is now practically deserted, the Papagos living by dry-farming and stock-raising farther east and north and making journeys eastward only at intervals for salt.

"There is no general knowledge of good natural harbors along the portion of the Gulf of California that would be included in the proposed triangular addition to Arizona, but probably there would be little difficulty in constructing harbor facilities either along Bahia Adair which would mark the southern boundary of the addition, or northward toward the head of the Gulf. The larger sand dunes are twenty miles from the shore near the Gulf head and an equal distance from the Colorado river. The most feasible railroad route probably would be from the neighborhood of Yuma, extending roughly parallel to the river."

Average length of trip in a taxicab in New York is two miles.

Bumstead's Worm Syrup

"To children an 'angel of mercy.' Worms give them up. Dr. KEYES' PAILLE, Pueblo Indian Medicine man, east of SANTONE, N. M., says: 'Bumstead's Worm Syrup is my remedy. Use it freely.' Yes, it's good."

NORWICH ROTARIANS IN FUN AND FROLIC ON ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT

WILLIAM G. PARK,
Who Presided

There is a saying that when Rotarians get together there is always something doing whether it is pleasure or business. On Wednesday evening it was pleasure—pleasure spelled with a capital P. It was the third annual Ladies' Night of the Norwich Rotary club and like the first two similar affairs was a wonderful success. Nearly 200 Rotarians and guests were present in the beautifully decorated dining hall of the Wauregan hotel when Past Vice President Hugh B. Campbell started the ball rolling.

The dining hall was a marvel of beauty with its handsome floral decorations attractively arranged by Ernst. In the alcove at one end of the dining hall were banks of daffodils, hyacinths and carnations with beautiful palms and ferns. There were similar decorations about the hall. The table decorations were handsome, being baskets of tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and daisies with ferns. At each place there was a small corsage bouquet for the women guests. The favors were crepe paper Rotary hats.

After the singing of America and grace by H. B. Cary the following menu was served:

Grapefruit Cardinal
Celery Radishes Olives
Boiled Kennebec Salmon
Hollandaise Sauce
Parisienne Potatoes
Broiled Tenderloin of Beef, Tournedos
Au Gratin Potatoes Green Peas
Dinner Rolls
Wauregan Salad
Rotary French Ice Cream
Assorted Cakes
Cafe Noir
Cigars Cigarettes

During the serving of the menu there were the usual impromptu solos, duets nad chorus selections, "Lou" Wheeler acting as song leader. One of the first numbers was the classical selection, "You Tell Her—I Stutter Too Much," by "Lou" Wheeler and his stuttering songsters. This selection was realistically rendered and was so enthusiastically received that the songsters were recalled many times during the evening. Another entertaining musical novelty was the impersonation of the two famous comedians, Gallagher and Shean, by George Ingalls as Mr. Gallagher and "Bert" Gager as Mr. Shean. Their impersonation would have made the originators of the sketch green with envy.

Past President "Bill" Park after insistent demands that he lead in singing the old Rotary standby "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," responded and under his compelling influence the song was given in such spirit and volume that the very walls of the hotel vibrated.

Fun Presenting Prizes.

As has been the custom for the past two Ladies' Nights many prizes were given out. These gifts were many and of varied descriptions and awarded wholly irrespective of sex, a bachelow being liable to get an electric curling iron and a lady a pipe or cigarette-holder. "Jim" Sullivan, president of the New London club, always a welcome guest at any gathering, was unanimously elected to distribute the gifts. Jim's ready wit added no little amusement to giving out the gifts.

Harry W. Standish, Willimantic's energetic song leader, was called upon to demonstrate how the Thread City club puts over its latest song hits. Harry pleaded inability but it availed him nothing and with a determination becoming a Rotarian graciously led the assemblage in that line."

Gifts to President Park.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling in a humorous vein suggested a testimonial to Past President William G. Park in the form of a rising vote of appreciation. Alfred G. Lillibridge objected to this, saying that any testimonial should be more substantial, and proposed a gift of money. Russell A. Clapp in turn objected to this and urged that Mr. Park be given something even more substantial. As there was so much discussion the three were ordered to retire and settle the matter between themselves. As a result of their trying consultation it was decided to add a personal touch to the gift and various members gave of their personal possessions until a number of gifts had been secured and presented to Past President Park. Bill responded very feelingly for the gifts and was apparently deeply moved by the generosity of his fellow Rotarians. Mrs. Park received a beautiful basket of flowers from the club and gracefully responded, expressing her deep appreciation of the gift.

"Jim" Crawford and "Jack" O'Rourke were the next victims of someone's unmerciful humor. "Jim" and "Jack" were called before the president and admonished that peace and harmony were desirable virtues among Rotarians. After being told the virtues of brotherly love, each was given a large package which upon being opened was found to contain a set of six-ounce boxing gloves. The actual use of the gloves will be postponed until some future meeting.

Unique Program After Dinner.

The program after the dinner was unique and very entertaining. The first number was the solo by Henry J. LaFontaine, "The Girl from the East." Assisting the soloist were Mrs. "Alex" McNicol as "The Girl from the East," Mrs. Linc Crawford as "The Girl from the North," Mrs. "Charlie" Taylor as "The Girl from the West," and Mrs. "Bert" Agnew as "The Girl from the South." This number was done in costume and proved to be very attractive, in fact, so much so that they were forced to repeat it several times.

Another feature that proved entertaining was the Lemon and Rose race in which someone was in luck and someone was "stuck." The gentlemen passed the lemon while the women passed the rose, the last one holding the lemon being forced to present a gift to the woman last holding the rose. The proceeds from this entertaining feature were added to the Dr. John S. Blackmar boys' work fund.

Burlesque on Town Meeting.

The outstanding feature of the after-dinner program was the burlesque on a Norwich town meeting, in which two paramount issues were freely and unreservedly discussed, namely, the question of daylight saving and the great question of prohibition. The discussions were in a humorous and satirical vein and were the cause of no little amusement for the "voters" attending the meeting. The burlesque was cleverly presented by the various exponents of the issues under fire and the "antis" who heartily opposed the measures. Herbert M. Lerou was elected moderator and Joe Weymouth was the unanimous choice for clerk.

Arthur M. Brown, whose views on daylight saving are no secret, presented a resolution in favor of the daylight plan for the benefit of the golfers. Grosvenor Ely argued against the resolution with force and vigor and presented some very convincing (?) arguments in favor of the opposition. The opinion of the meeting was about equally divided.

The question of prohibition gave the debaters unlimited opportunity to extol the virtues (?) of license and the merits of Volsteadism. For diplomatic reasons the names of the debaters on this subject are withheld but it is certain that the remarks of Lucius Briggs, Arthur Jenkins and Otto Ernst fell on receptive ground. This was also declared a draw by Referee "Bert" Lerou.

Dancing concluded the evening, the music being furnished by Herb Smith's orchestra which also played during the evening. A pretty feature of the dance programme was the toy balloons that were let fall from the ceiling during one of the dances.

No little amusement was created by three pictures printed in the back of the Rotary program. These pictures were of the three past presidents, Joseph C. Worth, Lucius Briggs and Wil-

PREDICTS RADIO WILL AID LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 4.—Senator Ernest F. Rogers of New London was host tonight for members of the New London county delegation to the general assembly and other state officials at the Heublein hotel. In all there were thirty-six present.

Sitting at the head table with Senator Rogers were Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham, Speaker Leonard J. Nickerson, Tax Commissioner William L. Blodgett, Henry J. Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee, Internal Revenue Commissioner Robert O. Eaton, Theodore Bodenwein of New London, County Commissioner George H. Bradford, and former Comptroller Harvey P. Bissell.

Owing to an attack of throat trouble Senator Rogers was unable to address the gathering but speeches were made by several others. Lieutenant Governor Bingham addressed those present as "Fellow Citizens of New London County." He said that he was first made a voter in Salem but as that town had so many good republican voters, his single vote was not needed and he therefore moved to New Haven. He also claimed the right to address the gathering as he did inasmuch as his ancestors were among the original settlers of Norwich, and because Mrs. Bingham was a native of New London county.

Speaking of the little red schoolhouse, the lieutenant governor said that there was such to be great development in this line with the advent of the radio and its use in the district schools.

Various state officers also spoke, among them Speaker Nickerson, who said that another month would see the end of the business of the present general assembly.

Tax Commissioner Blodgett spoke at length and explained the method of the state tax department speaking principally on the state school grant. He said that at the session of the state board of equalization to be held next Tuesday some of the towns now receiving state aid will be cut off from the grant as the result of investigations of their grand list by the tax department.

The party began shortly after 6 o'clock and came to a close shortly before 10.30 when members departed for their homes.

TO GIVE NEW DRIVERS' EXAMS AT PAWCATUCK

An examination day and place for new motor vehicle operators' licenses has been set by Supt. Robert T. Hurley of the state police for the southeastern end of the state, which will save the farmers and others in that section from coming either to Norwich or New London to take their examinations to drive.

Beginning next Wednesday, and each Wednesday thereafter, Superintendent Hurley has assigned State Policeman M. R. Sterling to be at William Lawton's automobile accessories store, Pawcatuck, Stonington, from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., to give these examinations. This will be a great accommodation to the residents of that section.

REFUSES FUND FOR BRIDGEPORT NORMAL SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 4.—In the senate today the unfavorable report of the committee on education on the bill to appropriate $40,000 for the establishment of a normal school in Bridgeport was explained by Senator Bakewell.

In the discussion Senator McGrath referred to the dormitory system of normal schools and criticised it. He said, it was much better that the pupils should live at their homes where they would be protected instead of being in dormitories. If Waterbury had a normal school there would be no need of dormitories.

Senator Bakewell in replying to Senator McGrath said, there were about 150 normal school students in New Britain, boarding in homes through the city, in some instances two in a bed and three or more in a room. He asked Senator McGrath if that was his ideal for sleeping accommodations for the young women attending normal school?

Senators Challenger and Wilder regretted the committee'd unfavorable report. Senator Wilder said, Bridgeport will have a normal school in spite of the committee on education and the legislative."

The committee on finance reported unfavorably on the bill to prevent the diversion of moneys derived from the sale of municipal bonds. Senator Trumbull explained the report of the committee.

Waterbury Finances

Senator McGrath, who introduced the bill, said there was a serious evil in the local government of Waterbury. There was a deficit of $1,500,000 for which bonds were to be issued. But there was another deficit accumulating. Money for schools had been continued there would be a financial crisis in Waterbury.

Senator Trumbull said it was not the function of the general assembly to pass a general law to meet special conditions in any town. Other towns than Waterbury had their local troubles.

The report was accepted and the bill rejected.

The committee on finance also reported unfavorably on another bill introduced by Senator McGrath that bills for bond issues shall be submitted to the people of the town or city for a referendum vote. Senator Trumbull explained the bill. Senator McGrath said the bill was necessary. The present tax rate in Waterbury was 31 3-3 mills on the dollar and there was the possibility of it being increased to 43 mills. The report was accepted and the bill rejected.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bills relating to salaries of court officials and others. Senator Ellis said the proposition in the bills would be attended to in another bill. The bills were rejected.

For Norwich State Hospital

The committee on appropriations reported favorably on a substitute bill making appropriations amounting to $644,500 for the Norwich state hospital. The bill was tabled for calendar.

The committee on finance reported unfavorably on the bill relating to the abatement of taxes of street railway companies in the hands of a receiver. Senator Trumbull said the matter would be taken care of in another bill. The bill was rejected.

Norwich-Montville Highway

On the favorable report of the committee on roads, bridges and rivers the bills to include highways in Newtown and Redding and the highway in Norwich and Montville in the trunk line system were tabled for calendar.

The committee on education reported unfavorably on the bill concerning employment of children in vacation. The bill was rejected.

The committee on finance reported unfavorably on the bill relating to the exemption of soldiers and sailors from taxation. The bill was rejected.

He also spoke of legislation affecting fish and game matters and read the report of Arthur E. Story, chairman of the committee on game, who had associated with him William La Rochelle and Louis Ortman. This told of the distribution of 100 pheasants and the raising of 40 pheasants and 100 wild ducks from eggs. The report of the way wild Birds had been fed during the past severe winter. Over 40 persons had fed the birds and over half a ton of scratch feed had been contributed by Daniel Polsky.

Hot dogs, doughnuts, crackers and cheese and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

WEDDING.

Wood—Burns.

William Joseph Wood of New London and Miss Mary Anastasia Burns of 44 Thames street were united in marriage Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's church by Rev. M. H. May.

The bride was prettily gowned in gray canton crepe with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held and breakfast served at the home of the bride, relatives and friends attending from several cities. The couple left later in the day on their wedding tour fo Bridgeport and New York and on their return they will make their home in New London where the groom is employed as a core maker.

The traveling dress of the bride was a navy blue tricotine, her hat being of periwinkle crepe.

The groom was born in Moosup the son of Eugene Wood and Guertin Wood and most of his life has been spent in New London. The bride is the daughter of James F. Burns and the late Mary Casey Burns and has always resided in Norwich.

Freudenberg—Gilges.

A very pretty home wedding took place last Saturday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Eckstein of 75 School street, when Mrs. Anna Gertrude C. Gilges, daughter of the late Henry Hermanns and Mrs. Henry Hermanns of Shelton, Conn., was united in marriage to Robert Frank Freudenberg of Occum. The service was conducted by Rev. W. H. Heintze, pastor of the German Lutheran church of Willimantic.

Music for the wedding was furnished by Eckstein's orchestra of seven pieces and to the music of the Bridal chorus from Lobengrin, the bridal couple entered the parlor, led by Gertrude Eckstein as flower girl, and followed by Mrs. Eckstein, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Andrew Hermanns, brother of the bride, as best man.

TO CURTAIL PRODUCTION OF CRUDE OPIUM

New York, April 4.—A move to curtail opium production with the cooperation of other countries has been started by the British government, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, head of the American commission for the control of narcotics said today on his return from abroad on the Olympic. He asserted his mission to England had borne fruit.

England, he said, would go on as fast as possible in India, the chief source of poppy products, keeping in mind the unrest existing there, which causes concern. Drastic measures, he added, could not be invoked, therefore the solution of the question might move slowly.

"There are more than a million and a half addicts in the United States making illegal use of narcotics," he asserted. "We have sufficient laws, but what we need is more co-operation, especially from the British."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Cards with interesting original descriptive matter were received here Wednesday from Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard, who has been abroad since midwinter. One particular card pictures a section of Egypt where the pyramids have looked down upon the world for more than 30 centuries.

Writing of this section Dr. Hibbard says: I am pretty well up in Egypt on the Nile. Will send this card down to Cairo for mailing about March 15 or so. This picture is an excellent one. (The picture shows two pyramids and the walls of an ancient temple.) We have walked about and climbed over them; also the Sphinx close by. The big pyramid covers 13 acres and is 485 feet in height—built 3550 B. C. We also visited the quarries from which the great blocks of stone were taken out, these quarries ten miles distant from where the pyramids stand and across the Nile, over which the blocks were ferried on rafts when the river was in flood.

Among other visitations we have made was one to the oldest and most perfect obelisk in Egypt—this remarkable work erected about 3450 B. C. on the upper edge of The Land of Goshen. Its mate is in Central Park, New York, to which city it was transported from Egypt many years ago. Cairo—at apex of Nile delta—140 miles from the sea.

An unusually fine pageant entitled Light and intended to focus attention on the work of the schools is now under rehearsal in Danielson and 100 pupils of the high and graded schools are participating. It is to be presented here the latter part of next week.

This pageant has been presented in many states of the Union and in Connecticut has been seen at Hartford, New Haven, Norwich, Meriden and other cities, and has never failed to make a fine impression. The Killingly Woman's club, through its educational committee is chiefly instrumental in preparing the pageant for presentation here. The pageant is the work of Katherine Bryce, long a member of the faculty of Yale university. It is the hope of the Killingly Woman's club that the presentation of this pageant will command the attention of large numbers of the town's citizens, that its lesson and inspiration may not fail to leave its mark on this community.

Rattle of coal being dumped into cellars about the borough came as sweet music Wednesday morning to neighbors who are without coal. A small shipment of anthracite coal has arrived in Danielson—not enough to supply all who would buy, but enough to ease many families through chilly spring days and leave them on that section of Easy street where the fuel problem can be forgotten until some time next fall.

William M. Franklin of Broad Street has shown the finest string of trout displayed in Danielson since the opening of the present season. Mr. Franklin brought in ten beauties—real fish, big enough to be caught and of an ability to give a sportsman a real thrill when one of them struck at a fly. These fish were shown Tuesday evening. Wednesday morning Mr. Franklin brought in four more. He is not announcing his fishing grounds, but is producing evidence that he knows where to fish for the speckled beauties.

This week's meeting of the Danielson Rod and Gun club was held with Walter Anderson of Winter street. Routine business claimed attention at the opening of the meeting, but thereafter there was a debate on the matter of circuits and refreshments were served. One new member was received into the club. The next meeting of the club is to be held with Roy Parkhurst at Plainfield, which town is represented in the membership of the organization.

The fact that Killingly has a Goodyear plant—a unit of a tremendous industrial organization—is of never-failing interest to hundreds of this town's citizens. It is for this reason that Killing is keen to know about what the parent organization is doing and that makes the fact that a squad of nearly 300 men recently received diplomas at Akron after going through a course that rates them as master rubber workers. Assistant Treasurer Herman M. Coulter and Supt. C. W. Young were at Akron to witness the graduation ceremony.

Those who have received diplomas have been rated during their course as members of the Flying Squadron. This is significant of the fact that the men have been selected on merit, ability and willingness to learn and have been afforded every opportunity to work through the various departments of the plant, finally emerging as workers who know the tire manufacturing business from A to Z and are capable at an instant's notice of stepping into any working job in the big Akron plant and making a go of it.

To Killingly people this is a sidelight that will show what is being done at Akron to make Goodyear an even greater industrial marvel than it is—and such success as it attained by the parent plant will be reflected in fruitful manner in Killingly, where a Goodyear fabric plant turns out hundreds of thousands of yards of tire duck every twelve months.

Following a meeting of the stockholders of the Connecticut Mills company at Boston—this the annual meeting—it was stated here Wednesday afternoon that there is no change in the management. The board of directors remains the same as during the past year.

Vice President Obadiah Butler said Wednesday afternoon that the management sees the prospect of a fair year's business. Under existing contracts, made many months ago, there is little profit for the concern over and above the material and labor costs, with no consideration given to fixed charges of operation—commonly described as the overhead.

Mr. Butler is confident, however, that the present trend of business is toward a higher scale of prices of finished material, this assumption, based on the fact that increasing costs of raw material and advancing rates for labor, cannot fail to be reflected in the not distant future in the market for finished products. This hypothesis predicts a strengthening of prices—on a basis that will allow of the big concern to earn a real profit.

Mr. Butler said that there is nothing definite in sight relative to the Connecticut Mills disposing of its Main street plant. The corporation has received offers for this splendid property, but these offers in every instance have been too low to even receive serious consideration. The Connecticut Mills is anticipating that it will dispose of what was the Danielson Cotton Company property at a figure which will fully reimburse it for the original purchase price and the improvement cost, but the property will not be given away, and that, in effect, is the basis on which offers that have been tendered amount to up to the present.

Not a few prospective buyers have been angling for the plant and other property, but the position of the Connecticut Mills company is now too strong to let it go at bargain sale prices.

The coming of April has not created any lapse in enthusiasm over basketball at the state armory. In this week's game between the Service battery and the Danielson Tigers the battery boys were victors. Gale featured the play for the Tigers as a point gatherer, while Williams was the big scorer for the battery.

Friday afternoon members of the Civic federation will hold a regular meeting with E. H. Keach of Broad street.

Mrs. Harry Magoon is ill at her home in Brooklyn, suffering from an attack of fever.

John A. Branken of Pittsfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

This is about the time of year that talk about a clean-up week is heard. Danielson is in need of such an event this spring—possibly someone will announce one officially.

Mrs. Emma Warren is ill with the grip at her home on Main Street.

Attention of the voters is called to the fact that the annual borough meeting is scheduled for next week.

Fines were imposed in two cases in the town court in which they accused were charged with having been intoxicated.

J. C. Witter was at East Hartford Wednesday conducting an important auction sale.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer has returned to her home in Putnam after visiting with relatives in Danielson for a few days.

Mary Jane Thompson, who was in her 99th year and one of the oldest residents of this section of the country, died just before midnight Tuesday at her home in Attawaugan. Mrs. Thompson survived her husband, James Thompson, who was in his 104th year, only since December 30. Mrs. Thompson was born in Moside, Ireland, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cassidy. She leaves three sons, John of Fitchburg, Thomas of Danielson, William of Central Village and a daughter, Mrs. Edward Blackburn, with whom she made her home.

At her home in Foster Wednesday morning the death of Mrs. Catherine Simmons occurred at the age of 86 years. She was the widow of Russell Simmons and a daughter of Horace S. and Emily Davis Cole. She was born in the town of Foster and had lived her life there. She leaves three sons, Walter, Lester, Frederick, ad three daughters, Mrs. Viola Curtis, Mrs. Baron Round and Mrs. Harris Hammond all of Foster.

At the annual meeting of the Fort Nightly club held with Mrs. George S. Brown these officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. E. H. Keach; vice president, Mrs. H. B. Atwood; treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Bidwell; secretary, Mrs. Edward Bottomley; assistant secretary, Mrs. John M. Dowe; auditors, Mrs. Arthur G. Bill, Mrs. A. H. Armstrong.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. LODIC, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

GOODYEAR

PUTNAM

At the regular meeting of the common council Tuesday evening William F. Penny was sworn in as republican alderman from Ward 1, succeeding the late John G. Johnson. The city council has decided to give its fullest cooperation to the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary club in an effort to clean up the city of garbage, rubbish and unsightly and unhealthy spots. Cleanup week will begin April 30. Superintendent of Streets Frank Dumas, Health Officer Peter A. Gardner and others will direct the city employes and householders will be directed to pile refuse and ashes near the street where they can be collected by city carts.

The report of the captain of police showed that there were 12 arrests during the month of March. Five prisoners were taken to Brooklyn jail. Fines and costs collected amounted to $130.62.

A petition signed by residents of Alpha street asking that the street be accepted by the city and that sewers be installed was presented. Frank R. Whitman, one of the petitioners, appeared for them. Three new houses are to be built by Mr. Whitman—two on Alpha street and one on Mechanics street.

The appointment of Walter Carey as a member of Hose company No. 1 in place of Irving Cutler, who has removed from the city, was approved by the council, as was the appointment of Arthur Davison as first driver of Truck No. 1 in place of Charles Donahue, who has been transferred. Emile Lavoie was endorsed as a member of Hose 2.

The newly organized Putnam Rotary club held its weekly luncheon at the Putnam inn Wednesday noon, when one-minute talks were given by members as to why their field of endeavor was the most important to the community. In the evening the club members, wives and relatives made up a theatre party at the Bradley theatre. After the performance there was a dance on the stage.

In previous years the white lines setting off crosswalks in the business section have been painted with a brush by hand. A machine is to be purchased which does this work in a great deal less time and with less physical effort.

Captain of Police Remie Delage, while making his rounds through the city, has had an eye out for rubbish piles. He says that he finds many backyards that need a spring cleaning but more important than this, he declares, is piles of newspapers and other inflammable material which has been thrown into the corners of hallways in tenement houses. Such a condition the captain looks upon as dangerous. A person passing through such a hall might throw down a lighted match, cigarette or cigar and thereby start a blaze that would result in the building catching fire. Warning is given by the police captain that all such fire hazards must be removed.

R. S. Danforth, for the past nine years station agent at Putnam, has been advanced by being transferred to Norwich. His successor is C. J. Isbister, who has been freight agent at Norwich. Mr. Danforth has given excellent service both to his employers and to the public during his stay in this city and the family has taken a prominent place in the social affairs of the city. Mr. Isbister has been in Norwich for 11 years and is recognized as one of the best shippers and freight agents in the state.

The men of the Congregational church served an excellent supper to members of the parish in the gymnasium of the church Wednesday evening. The substantial part of the supper was pot roast with brown gravy.

Mother Why Don't You Take The Newer Form of Iron?

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable All The Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?—The Doctor Gave Sonny To Susie Smith's Mother and She Was Worse Off Than You Are and Now She Looks Just Fine

THE CHILD'S APPEAL

"There can be no Beautiful, Healthy, Rosy-Cheeked women without Iron."
J. F. SULLIVAN, M.D.

"You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women full of Life, Vim and Vitality."
EMIL SAUER, M.D.

"Nine out of every ten women who are weak, sickly, nervous and run-down, could increase their health, strength and energy, and feel and look years younger, in many instances in ten days' time. If they would only get a little more iron in their blood," was the startling statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital Out-Door Department, New York, and Westchester County Hospital. "Since the discovery of the newer form of iron, I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe it for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking women patients. It is iron in your blood that enables you to get the good out of your food. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks. The anaemic woman has pale skin, flabby flesh and often becomes weak, nervous and irritable. In many cases the sufferer from symptoms of kidney, heart or liver trouble; has indigestion, headaches and dizzy spells. Such women often become moody and have moments of despondency and distraction. For years physicians grappled with this problem. At last the newer form of iron was discovered and was immediately adopted by the medical profession with wonderful results. It helps iron to enter the blood and like the sun transforms, into life and action. Experiments proved that in this form Nuxated Iron is quickly absorbed by the blood and the anaemic patient in almost every case gained new strength, health and energy within two weeks' time. Nuxated Iron may be obtained from any druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron, with guaranteed results. Dr. E. Sheffield, a well known New England physician, says: "The most astonishing thing in the practice of medicine is to see how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without iron, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely pushes through you without doing you the proper amount of good. You do not get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly-looking."

If you are not strong and well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next, take two tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—This newer form of iron, Nuxated Iron, which is now being so generously used by Dr. Sullivan, Dr. Sheffield and other physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists generally. The Nuxated Iron mentioned in this article is the only organic iron product sold in tablet form only, with the name "Nuxated Iron," stamped into each tablet. The genuine Nuxated Iron is imported from Germany by the Nuxated Iron Laboratories, Inc., 52 Vanderbilt Ave., New York City, who will gladly send to anyone who writes them a booklet telling how to regain health, strength and energy. The manufacturers are so confident that Nuxated Iron will do all that is claimed for it, that they will refund the purchase price to any purchaser who is not entirely satisfied with the results. You cannot afford not to give it a trial. Sold by all good druggists.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Come along, Fi-fi!" called the new maid when told to take the pet dog out for a walk. Her mistress reproved her sharply. "I do not insist on your calling Fi-fi Miss," she said, "but I must ask you when you address her to say 'Please'."—Boston Transcript.

Poetic Husband—I'm afraid we will have to move, my dear.

Wife—But you said this was such a lovely apartment.

Poetic Husband—I know I did. But the wallpaper clashes with my poetic imagination and I can't write.—Detroit News.

"Mamma," cried little Albert from the bathroom, "please get me another sponge."

"Why, what's the matter with the one you have?" asked the mother.

"It's full of holes and leaks awfully," was the reply.—Chicago News.

Teacher—Willie, did your father cane you for what you did in school yesterday?

Willie—No, ma'am. He said the licking would hurt him more than me. "What nonsense! Your father is too sympathetic!"

"No, ma'am, but he's got the rheumatism in both arms."—London Answers.

Though she had more money than she knew how to spend, she was not averse to anything in the nature of a bargain.

"These gloves are very cheap, madam," said the salesman, "much below the cost price. We are only able to do it because this is our biennial clearance sale."

"Then I'll take two pairs of them," she said, grandly, "and by the way, how often do you hold your biennial sale, as you call it?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE GARDEN WAR.

When spring to garden wars slowly came,
It seemed a breath from off warm southern seas
Touching the tulips and their cups of flame,
With lovely languor nodded in the breeze.
The blossoms drifted from the orchard trees,
While crocus starred the sward on sunny slopes,
And daffodils that topped the grassy grass
Seemed heralds of the season's splendid hopes.

Then came a cold wind from the northern hills
Sullen of dispossession from his base,
Hailing at them his wizenatts he instills
A vague alarm about the flowered place.
Unheard their pleas for further days of grace,
They hope to circumvent him by a ruse.
And so to gain a little breathing space,
Spirea flings its stainless flag of truce.

NEW LONDON MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 4.—Frederick Barber, aged about 19 years of age, is under arrest, being held a prisoner at the police station, charged with the theft of an automobile, owned by Matthew Keenan of Winthrop street. Barber will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow forenoon.

Several days ago Barber is alleged to have stolen the Keenan automobile, driving it to the northern part of the state. While making a get-away with the car, the machine became disabled and Barber was unable to make such repairs as to allow the operation of it, so he abandoned the machine, leaving it alongside the highway and later returned to New London. Keenan reported the theft of the car to the state police department and Officer Frederick Caron was assigned to the case. This afternoon Officer Caron located Barber and placed him under arrest.

Barber has before been arrested for a similar offense.

A banquet was held this evening by the Knights of Columbus at the Hotel Mohican.

The condition of Mayor John F. Murray, who has been seriously ill of pleurisy at his home on Blackhall street for about three weeks, is now such that with favorable weather conditions prevailing, he will be able to preside at the session of the city council to be held next Monday evening.

Miss Norma Platt of Berkeley avenue, is recovering from an operation for the removal of her tonsils at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital.

It is now believed that the budget will be ready for presentation to the city council at the meeting of that body to occur next Monday night. Although the charter provides that the budget shall be acted upon by the council not later than the last Thursday in October, the city manager and councilors have been battling with the numerous appropriations for months in an endeavor to reduce the amount of the many appropriations to a minimum. While the action of the city manager in making expenditures of city money when none has been appropriated, an act that is absolutely illegal, none of the opponents of the present form of government have caused legal action to occur.

The Connecticut company is figuratively "kicking" itself because it did not secure the franchise to operate trolley cars over the Thames river bridge and get the business that comes to and goes from this city from the vicinity of Groton, Mystic and Westerly. The Shore Line route is said to be a good paying one and the money that comes from it is expected to be a snug sum. Robert W. Perkins of Norwich, who knew more about the business of the Shore Line than any other live man, associated with him Edward Perkins of Hartford, a bright lawyer and a man who has abundant knowledge of the way of doing things in the assembly, and who can get as much as anyone from the legislators when he frames his bill, and Charles B. Whittlesey, a New London lawyer, were associated with Mr. Perkins and they managed to buy what the Shore Line had to sell and to get the franchise for the road to the eastward of New London. They went about the business they had associated together to transact and soon they had trolley cars running over the Thames to Groton, Mystic and Westerly. The patronage of the line proved to be all that was expected from the start and it has grown in bulk since then.

These trolley financiers put clean and comfortable cars on the line at the start and they have kept them in that condition since. There is a considerable manufacturing business carried on in the borough of Groton and the workers employed there reside largely in New London. Beside that, the Groton cars draw patronage from that section south of New London as far as Keeney's Corners at Flanders and beyond. There are many people residing in the rural section of New London that find employment here and who come here for business purposes. These, too, use the Groton line cars.

The fare on the Groton line is but five cents to Groton, so that patrons of the line can get on a car at the southern limit of the line in New London and ride to the ship and engine works in Groton for a nickel. This is against a fare of two rides for 15 cents in New London, whether the distance is one block or one mile or more. People have grown prudent, too, in regard to riding on the trolley cars, and they have a scheme to beat the two rides for 15 cents. They walk from the upper part of the city to Main street, where they board the car and ride to their work in Groton for five cents. If they got on a city line trolley, no matter whether they went block or more to get to the Groton cars, they would be charged seven and a half cents for the ride.

It was expected that before this there would be a howl for a different rate on the car of New London.

The out of town promoters who produced the musical comedy for the Catholic Women's club at the Lyceum last evening have left for Rockland, Me., where they will produce the play again. They were well satisfied with the success of their venture in New London.

Fishermen who come to this port from Block Island and its vicinity declare that all the talk about a fleet of rum-running vessels being at anchor off the island waiting for a chance to ship their supply of liquor ashore is veritable buncomb. They say there are many vessels of the prohibition fleet in that section, watching for the rum-runners, but that there are no liquor transporters there. The fishermen say they would not object to seeing some good stuff, but they have watched in vain for it. The stories that are printed of rum-runners originate in the brains of reporters who have little else to write about and who do not make a probable story of what they do write.

Philip Chamberlain, a towerman in the employ of the New Haven railroad in this city, is to appear in the police court tomorrow morning to answer to a complaint alleging non-support. It is understood that Chamberlain will not deny that he has not supported his wife, but that he claims he has good reason for his action.

Engineer John Murphy of Franklin street, who sustained a shock some weeks ago, is reported to be recovering his speech, though the right side, which was the portion of the body affected, does not regain its normal condition.

Members of New London lodge of Elks are anticipating an enjoyable occasion tomorrow evening when the newly elected officers will be installed in their station. The work will be done by members of Hartford lodge, who will come here in the afternoon for the purpose. They will be entertained at the Mohican hotel until the meeting is to open. District Deputy Cronin will be present as will other members of the grand lodge. Members are to be initiated and a chicken pie supper is to be served after the meeting.

Ray Cooper of Truman street, Albert Neilson, a member of the crew of the tug Elmer A. Keeler, Bernard Murray of Blackhall street, Erling Gesit of the U. S. S. Pequot, Mrs. Grazia Geneziesi of Spring street and John Syracuse of Orchard street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

The funeral of Mrs. Estelle Gresham, widow of Benjamin Gresham, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her former residence, No. 93 Howard street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Burial was in East Neck cemetery, Waterford.

Charles U. Sauter, proprietor of the M. A. Kane Bottling Works, surprised his acquaintance today when he announced his recent wedding at Waterbury. Mr. Sauter's bride is Mrs. Nora Ryan of Waterbury, and well known in New London. Mr. and Mrs. Sauter are now "at home" to their friends in a cozily furnished apartment on Ocean avenue.

There is no change in the condition of Henry C. Holmes, a former well know cafe proprietor, who is critically ill at his home on Federal street.

A touring car, owned by John P. Sauders and operated by T. I. Beckwith of Blydenburg avenue and a huge truck, owned by the Standard Oil company, and operated by M. E. Sheldon, were in collision late yesterday at the approach of the Thames river highway bridge. The truck escaped damage, but the touring car was not so fortunate, the machine receiving a smashed mudguard and hub cap.

Andrew Blake of Montauk avenue was admitted to the state hospital for the insane at Preston this afternoon for observation. Mr. Blake has displayed signs of mental weakness for some time and to provide for the safety of the victim, his relatives sought and obtained his commitment.

The police were watching a couple of petty officers from the submarine base last evening on Bank street with the belief that they sought to entice two girls of about 14 or 15 years into an auto the sailors had in their possession. The auto was closely covered and its occupants could not be seen. The girls refused to take a ride and so the sailors escaped arrest.

Sneak thieves continue to operate at the Y. M. C. A. although this pursuit has been abandoned for a number of weeks. However, the crook got busy again last night and stole a gold watch belonging to Robert W. Young, physical instructor at the institution. Mr. Young did not report his loss to the police until this afternoon.

Mr. Young left his watch in his vest pocket while he pursued his duties instructing a class of members. While thus engaged the thief went to his locker and removed the timepiece.

TWO TONS OF COAL ON ONE TON TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 4.—It isn't often that the driver of a coal truck is arrested for delivery of fuel at the police station, but that is what happened late this afternoon when one of the drivers of a truck for the Howard Street Coal company was arrested.

When the supply of coal twas depleted at the police station today an order was placed with the coal company for two tons of fuel. About 5.30 o'clock the truck, operated by Gordon Chaney, drove to the police station as it was greatly overloaded. Sergeant Frank Howard arrested the driver, who was later liberated upon furnishing a surety on a bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

The specific violation was that the truck was the one-ton type and it was loaded with two tons of coal.

RESTAURANT PATRON THREW DISHES AT PROPRIETOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 4.—Edward Cook, a brakeman in the freight service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was taken into custody tonight, charged with breach of the peace. He is at liberty on a bond for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Cook went into the Manhattan restaurant on State street and ordered a sumptuous repast and when he had partaken of it he refused to pay his check. The proprietor of the place remonstrated with Cook and a war of words followed, resulting in Cook hurling dishes and other articles at the head of the proprietor. The missles came so fast at the restaurant proprietor that he finally sought and obtained Cooks arrest.

DR. DIMON SUED FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 4.—Dr. John N. Dimon of Montauk avenue, was today made the defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages instituted by Mrs. Lucretia Partlow of Groton, widow of Eugene Partlow, who died of injuries he received by being struck by the physicians automobile on Bank street.

Partlow was walking along the sidewalk when the physicians machine emerged from Golden street. When the car got into traffic it is believed that the physician lost control of it, for it sped across the street and onto the sidewalk, striking and felling Partlow and crashing through a plate glass window. Partlow was rushed to Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, where he lingered several days. Following the accident Dr. Dimon attempted suicide by cutting his throat.

Since the fatality Dr. Dimon has been arraigned in the police court, charged with manslaughter and is now out on bonds awaiting trial at the next term of the superior court.

This afternoon Coroner Desmond came here from Norwich and obtained the version of Lieut. Stanley M. Haight, stationed at the submarine base, who was an eye-witness of the accident, but who has been at sea since the fatality.

FARMER'S YOKE OF OXEN PULLED AUTOS FROM MUD

A farmer with a yoke of oxen has been reaping a harvest during the last ten days at the top of Fort Hill on the road between Groton and Mystic, where, it is reported, there has been a stretch of 400 feet of mud in which scores of machines have been stuck fast.

The farmer has stood by with his oxen and has pulled the machines from the mud as fast as they stuck fast, all of course for a certain monetary consideration.

When a Norwich man arrived there in his car a few days ago, sighted the mud and halted to consider the chances before he ventured to try the passage, he asked the farmer which was the best way to get through. "Well, some try one way and some try another," the canny farmer replied, unwilling to spoil another prospect," you'll have to use your own judgment about that."

But the Norwich driver got through without the help of the oxen.

HOUSE REJECTS BILL TO MAKE ONE STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR TWO COUNTIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, April 4.—The house today rejected the bills consolidating the duties of state's attorneys of New London and Middlesex, counties and of Tolland and Windham counties and debarring them from private practice.

Business from the senate concerned in the house, was reference of S. B. 171 and S. B. 278, providing for an appropriation of $300,000 for dormitories for the State Normal school at Danbury, were referred to the appropriation committee.

Concurrence was voted with the senate in rejecting bills concerning teachers retirement system, vocational training, concerning schooling of children, payment by the State of one half of the cost of survey of Bissell Park, concerning attachment of vehicles used as jitneys, concerning appropriation to Rocky Hill Sanatorium, bills concerning anglers' license, and concerning municipal finance. H. B. 157 concerning vaccination was sent back to the committee on public health and safety.

The petition of Wm. Brooks of New Haven was rejected. It was voted that the comptroller secure protraits of ex-Chief Justice and Chief Justice Wheeler, to be placed in the State library.

H. B. 319 concerning aid to soldiers' orphans, concerning aid to schools, providing for the payment by the State of public school expenses of children residing in tax exempt property, were committed to committee on appropriations.

Unfavorable reports were made on bills concerning trained teachers for small towns, also that they should be Normal school graduates.

The bill consolidating the school districts in West Haven was rejected. The bill making the salary of the sheriff $3,000 was rejected as the matter is to be taken care of in a general bill.

All bills favorably reported were ordered on the calendar for printing as follows:

Amending an act consolidating the borough of Winsted with the town of Winchester; fixing the time of the annual town meeting of the Watertown fire district; amending the charter of the Branford Cemetery association; amending an act conferring service of process out of officers' precincts; amending an act concerning registration of the owners of honey bees; providing for the vacation of appeals in criminal cases; amending the charter of the Collins company; amending the charter of the Connecticut Historical society; concerning the soliciting of contributions and sale of tickets of admission upon public highways; concerning fishing in Alexander's lake; concerning Babcock milk test bottles tested and stamped.

The house adjourned at 1.10 to 11.15 Thursday.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Says Wincarnis Gave New Health

"I feel in duty bound to write and thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from your splendid 'Wincarnis.' For months I had been depressed and nervous, and so weak I could hardly walk, and I felt I wanted to be always resting or lying down. But now 'Wincarnis' has put New Life into me. I can now go about my work with a new vigor that makes my household duties a pleasure, instead of a burden as before. I cannot properly express my gratitude for the grand health your life-giving 'Wincarnis' has given me. It is splendid to feel so strong and well. I have told my neighbors about 'Wincarnis,' and I feel I want to tell the whole world what a splendid tonic and restorative it is."

"Yesterday rubbing till you ached—today soaking takes the place of rubbing"
For all wash day methods—soaking, boiling or for washing machines

The suds of this new soap soak the dirt right out

¶ With this new kind of soap all but actually ground-in dirt comes out easily—safely

WITH this new kind of soap, soaking takes the place of rubbing.

Simply soaking in its thick, lasting suds loosens all the dirt. Even the places where dirt gets ground-in—seats and knees of children's play clothes, cuff-edges and neck-bands of men's shirts—need only a light rubbing.

The old way of washing meant ceaseless rubbing—rubbing soap here and there on the clothes and then rubbing the clothes—a long-drawn-out method. It was so tiring, and it was hard on the clothes, too. But it was the only way to get the dirt out.

Now Rinso has changed all this. It is so rich in pure soap, yet so gentle and mild, that soaking in its big lasting suds takes the place of rubbing.

The only places you have to rub the dirt out are where somebody rubbed it in, and even these places you have to rub but lightly.

Where this light rubbing is necessary just sprinkle on a little dry Rinso. The most obstinate spots will disappear at once.

You need no soap powder or other soap with Rinso. It takes the place of bar soap for every washing method. It does the whole job.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap-makers in the world. It is as wonderful for the regular week-in, week-out family wash as Lux is for fine things—just as easy and safe to use.

All grocery and department stores have Rinso in two sizes—in the regular size and the big new package.

Get Rinso today and learn what wonderful results you can get, and how much of the drudgery of wash-day you can do away with. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

DISSOLVE — USE ENOUGH — SOAK

THESE are the simple directions for using Rinso. Just dissolve Rinso in boiling water in a sauce-pan. Make a good thick solution. Fill your tub with luke-warm water until tub is half full. Pour your solution into the tub. Then put in your clothes. Be sure that the suds stand up even after the clothes are in; if they do not, add a little more of the Rinso solution. Let the clothes soak an hour—all night if you wish. (Colored clothes, of course, not longer than half an hour.) Then rinse them out.

With Rinso you will find you do not have to boil, but if you like to boil your white cottons, pour enough Rinso solution into your boiler to give you the suds you like.

If you have a washing machine, use enough Rinso solution to give good suds. Rinso suds have just the body needed in the washing machine.

WITH RINSO YOU NEED NO OTHER SOAP

If you have a washing machine

These washing machine manufacturers say to use Rinso in their machines—Apex, Bluebird, Coffield, "1900" Cataract, Gainaday, Getz, Haag, Horton, Laundryette, Meadows, One Minute, Rotarex, Sunnysuds, Surf, Trojan, Voss

These men advise the public to use Rinso in their washing machines just as the textile manufacturers advise the public to wash their fabrics in Lux.

"We have tried out Rinso and other soaps—many of them good—in our machine, but for all 'round satisfaction we recommend Rinso." That's what the president of the Rotarex Company says.

The president of the Laundryette Company writes: "We found no fuzz or soapy particles floating around in the water in our tests with Rinso as we did with some of the other soaps. Twelve minutes was the average operating period with Rinso and not a single article had to be hand rubbed."

Rinso the new soap that does the whole job

MARKET DULL, IRREGULAR

New York, April 4—Speculative interests, apparently uncertain and undecided as to the next definite trend of the stock market, manifested a hesitant attitude in today's dealings with a resultant dull and irregular movement of prices.

Opening prices were generally firm. Some short selling took place later in the steel, equipment and Pan-American Oil shares but this was abandoned when it failed to bring out stock in other quarters. Accumulation of the steel shares towards noon was in anticipation of unusually favorable earnings reports for the first quarter but the rise was checked by the weakness of Westinghouse Electric, which dropped 3 points on the announcement of new financing, recovering about half of its loss before the close.

The market turned decidedly dull in the afternoon. Some selling took place toward the close on a revival of the time-worn rumors of an increase in the local rediscount rate, which again failed to matrialize.

The Bethlehem issues led the brief rally in the steel shares. The "A" stock crossing 68 and closing 5 5-8 higher at 67 1-8 while the "B" stock crossed 67 and closed 1 5-8 higher at 64 1-8. U. S. Steel, Republic and Crucible all closed fractionally lower while Gulf States dropped more than a point. The weekly steel and iron trades reviews again called attention to the lessening demand resulting from the recent increase in prices.

Losses ranging from small fractions to nearly 2 points also were registered by such recent industrial favorites as Baldwin, American Locomotive, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, American Smelting, Anaconda, Sinclair, Phillips Petroleum, Shell Union Oil, the Pan American issues and California Petroleum.

Mack truck established another new at 93 1-4 and the slid back to 91 3-8 where it was up 2 3-8 on the day.

Savage arms also established a new top at 29 1-4, up 4 3-4, on the announcement that the company had abandoned negotiations for a bond issue and instead had sold to a syndicate of bankers $500,000 of its 7 per cent. preferred treasury stock. The proceeds, it was stated, will supply all requirements for working capital.

Although there were a few independent points of strength such as Delaware & Hudson, up 3 1-4, and Lackawanna and Lehigh valley, each up 1, the rails generally moved within narrow limits.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, eased off to 4 1-2 within an hour and thence to 4, where it closed. The final rate was the lowest since February 16. The abundance of call money resulted in a slight easing of the time rates with a moderate volume of business transacted at 5 1-2 per cent. A firmer tendency was noted in the market for Commercial Paper with an increasing number of the prime names commanding 5 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were irregular but the fluctuations were small. Demand sterling dropped 1-8 of a cent to $4.64 9-16 and French francs dropped five points to 6.50 cents. Italian lire held firm around five cents, another new low record, in response to another sharp drop in coffee prices.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 4—Decided improvements in the prices of bonds was noted in today's fairly active market, while there were some exceptions to the general trend upward, notably in the case of the U. S. government bonds, the demand was particularly apparent among the rails and high grade industrials. The better tone was attributed largely to a slight easing in time money.

U. S. government issues, with the exception of the tax exempt 3 1-2s, which were unchanged, and the fourth Liberty 4 1-4s, up 6-32 of a point, lost ground, the drop ranging from 1-32 to 5-32 of a point. Foreign government issues were firm, Brazil 8s advancing 1 1-4 points despite weakness of Brazilian exchange.

Advances of 2 points by Illinois Central refunding 4s, and 2 1-2 points by Union Pacific refunding 4s led the list in the railroad group, other noteworthy gains being Chicago Burlington & Quincy refunding 4s, 1, Great Northern 7s, 1 3-8, New York Central 5s, 1 1-4, and Atchison Adjustment 4s, stamped, 1. Delaware & Hudson refunding 5s off 1 1-2 and Iowa Central 4s, off 1 5-8, were outstanding heavy spots.

Buyers displayed interest in copper and steel company liens, Magma Copper 7s advancing 1, Lackawanna Steel 5s, of 1950, 1 1-8, Bethlehem Steel 5s, 1, and American Smelting 5s, 1 3-8. Western Union 6 1-2s, were up 1 1-8 and Union Oil of California 6s, 1. Virginia Carolina Chemical 7 1-2s, with warrants, declined 2 points and Briar Hill Steel 5 1-2s were off 1 2-8. Public Utilities were active, Northern Ohio Traction & Light refunding 6s gaining 1 3-4, while Columbia Gas & Electric 5s were down 1. Kansas City Terminal 4s were up 1 1-2.

Total sales (par value were $12,786,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 4—Although much of the time today the wheat market here reflected an advance in Liverpool quotation, belief that the domestic winter crop had received substantial benefit from rain and snow led afterward to a reaction. The close was unsettled at 1-4c net decline to take a like advance, with May $1.20 1-2 to 1.20 5-8 and July 1.17 1-2 to 1.17 5-8. Corn finished half to 7-8 up; oats unchanged to 1-8 a 1-4c off, and provisions unchanged to 7c higher.

At first, the wheat bulls in the Chicago market were assisted both by the Liverpool advance and by indications that the winter wheat sections which most needed moisture had received the least. For a while, strength of values in the corn market did a good deal likewise to stimulate buying of wheat, and so too did estimates that Europe had taken 1,000,000 bushels of wheat mostly Canadian but including considerable durum.

Realizing sales broadened out, however, on the price upturns in wheat and with private reports indicating that more moisture had been supplied to the winter wheat territory than was shown by the government, the market was a two-sided one during the late dealings. Narrowing of the spread between the May delivery and the July was the principal feature of the trading at the last.

Good export business in corn, together with gossip that wet weather in Argentine was delaying the crop movement there, had much to do with lifting the corn market here.

Besides corn receipts in Chicago were the smallest for some time past. Oats lagged owing to liberal arrivals at primary points.

Provisions were firm in response to the action of hog values.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Getting a New Spring Suit.

Goodness me! Do you know, I hardly wrote a thing about the two little rabbits in the story before this. I just happened to look over my scrapbook to see where I left off and when I found I had said hardly anything about dear Uncle Lucky and Measuring Uncle Lucky.

Little Jack Rabbit, I was almost afraid to start this story. But, never mind, I haven't forgotten them, even if you did think I had.

"Where shall we go now?" asked the little rabbit, whom you remember, was making a call with Uncle Lucky on the barnyard folk.

"I must see about my new spring suit," answered the old gentleman rabbit, "suppose we call on the Tailor Bird." So off they went and by and by, not so very far, they came to the tree in which the Tailor Bird had his little shop.

"I want a spring suit," said Uncle Lucky, "what is the latest style?"

But when the Tailor Bird brought out his rolls of cloth and showed them to Uncle Lucky, nothing seemed to suit the old gentleman rabbit. One was too dark and another too light, so after a while, the Tailor Bird said: "Oh, dear me, but you're hard to suit, my dear Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot."

"Not at all," said the old gentleman rabbit, "when I find what I want!"

While measuring Uncle Lucky, the Tailor Bird began to sing:

"Oh, all day long, I stitch and sew—
I'm not afraid of work.
I whistle a song as I go along,
For time goes fast when you whistle a song.
And I never, never shirk."

After that the two little rabbits hopped into the Luckymobile and started off for Uncle Lucky's little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, Rabitville, U. S. A. But, Oh, dear me, as they were going along just as nice as you please, all of a sudden, just like that, a big storm came up and the thunder roared and the lightning flashed and pretty soon the road got so muddy that the Luckymobile couldn't go another foot.

And, Oh, dear me, again, Uncle Lucky's wedding stovepipe hat began to leak. Yes, sir, the rain soaked right through the roof—I mean the top, until the old gentleman's bald head was covered with two inches of water. Wasn't that dreadful? Well, I just guess it was. He was afraid to take off his hat for fear the water would run down his neck and tickle his back.

"Goodness me! Here's a fine kettle of fish," he said, "I don't know whether I'm drowning or not!"

Just then, a voice said:

"Get out of your Luckymobile and come
Into the wood with me;
I have a house with a shingled roof
Under the Chestnut Tree."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

TAFTVILLE

Sacred Heart church was the scene of a pretty church wedding Monday morning at 7.30, when Miss Eva Julia Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Emma Sullivan of South B street became the bride of Rene La Roche of Occum, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, the assistant pastor of the church. The bride was attended by Miss Anna La Roche, sister of the groom and the best man was John Sullivan, brother of the bride. The wedding party entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played on the massive organ by Professor Dugas, organist.

The bride was charming in a gown of white canton crepe, her silk corsnet veil being caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and Easter lilies. Her maid was becomingly attired in green canton crape with hat to match and carried a bouquet of red roses.

After the ceremony a reception and breakfast was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emma Sullivan on South B street, which was attended by numerous friends and relatives of the young couple. During the afternoon the happy couple left on a wedding journey to Boston and Worcester, Mass., and upon their return they will reside in a newly furnished home in Occum. The bride's traveling suit was of blue tricotine with gray hat. She was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including household furniture, linen, cut glass and a large sum of money. The wishes of their many friends go with the young couple for prosperity in the future.

The funeral of Pierre Charpentier was held Wednesday morning from his late home on Providence street with a solemn high mass of requiem at Sacred Heart church at which Rev. U. O. METHODIST CONFERENCE ORGANIZES AND HEARS FIRST OF DISTRICT REPORTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Apr. 6.—The 53d session of the New England Conference was organized this morning after the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Bishop Chas. Wesley Burns of Helena, Montana, the presiding bishop, officiated at the sacramental service, being assisted by the following clergymen: Rev. W. H. Bath; Rev. I. W. Le Baron, Rev. R. L. Roberts, Rev. H. D. Robinson, and Rev. M. E. Genter. The choir of the church was present and furnished one special selection besides leading in the hymns.

Rev. J. Francis Cooper, secretary of the last conference, called the roll of the conference, showing 91 members present. Concluding the roll call, the names of the men who have died during the year were spoken by the secretary while the conference stood in silence and Rev. W. I. Ward led in a fervent prayer.

Rev. J. Francis Cooper was re-elected secretary for the 22d consecutive year and he named Rev. T. J. Stewart and Rev. George A. Grant as his assistants, they being elected by the conference.

Rev. Amos M. Bruce was elected statistician with these assistants: Rev. M. J. Creeger, Rev. F. W. Knickerbm and Rev. W. D. Hamilton.

Rev. John S. Bridgford was elected treasurer with Rev. E. J. Curry and Rev. P. A. Ahern assistants.

Rev. O. L. Griswold was added to the board of examiners and Rev. W. I. Ward to the committee on obituaries. The death of Rev. E. M. Anthony the past year having left a vacancy on the conference board of trustees, Rev. I. W. Le Baron was elected to take his place.

It was voted that all desiring a change in relationship, all candidates for ordination, and all desiring admission on trial or into full membership in the conference must go before the committee on conference relations before the matter is brought before the conference for action.

The bar of the conference was fixed on motion Rev. W. H. Bath to include the first eight pews in front and inside the balconies.

Question I. Is this annual conference incorporated according to the requirements of the discipline? was answered in the affirmative.

Question XIV—was opened—Was the character of each preacher examined?

New Bedford District Report.

New Bedford district, Rev. R. L. Roberts, superintendent, was called. Dr. Roberts and all the traveling elders on his district being passed in character the superintendent proceeded to read the report of his district. The report opened with a touching eulogy of the late Rev. J. H. Newland, D.D., whose death in the early autumn left this district without a superintendent. The report showed that in spite of the death of his two preachers and one preacher's wife, three preachers being temporarily set aside by accidents, surgical operations upon preachers' wives and one preacher having had an operation from which he has not yet recovered, the district has witnessed advances in many ways. Several of the parishes report elaborate improvements upon churches and parsonages which represent large expenditures of money. The Lyon Evangelistic campaign in New Bedford in the winter was participated in by all Methodist churches in the city and by the church in Fairhaven in harmony with other evangelical denominations added large classes of preparatory members and has deepened the tone of spiritual life in all that section. Other successful evangelistic efforts were made on a smaller scale in other points of the district. Fifteen churches on the district have increased in centenary offerings and six have decreased. This report also referred to the consolidation of the County Street and Second Churches in New Bedford as a move to secure a strong influential church in the center of the city and a project in every way commendable.

Memorial Service.

Following this report, Question XIV was suspended to make way for the order of the day, the memorial service having been scheduled for 11 a. m. Rev. G. G. Scrivener, chairman of the committee on obituaries, presided over this occasion. Hymn 430, "For All Thy Saints Who From Their Labors Rest", was sung. A very tender and comprehensive prayer was offered by Rev. J. I. Bartholomew. The address of the occasion was delivered by Rev. L. G. Horton, D. D. The following are the names of those who have died during the year: Rev. E. E. Phillips, De Land, Florida; Rev. John Thompson, Groton, Conn.; Rev. Samuel Thatcher, Bridgeton, R. I.; Rev. John H. Newland, D. D., Supt. of the New Bedford district; Rev. John N. Geisler, Portsmouth, R. I., and Rev. O. E. Newton, Old Mystic, Conn. Dr. Horton, in his very excellent, though brief, address, had a brief word of appreciation reflecting the fine value in character and life of each of these departed brethren. Hymn 628, "My Heavenly Home is Bright and Fair", was sung and the service closed.

Limit to Speakers.

Resuming the business of the conference, acting under recommendation of the committee appointed for the purpose, Rev. H. H. Critchlow, chairman,—it was voted to limit all speakers representing special religious work asking the privilege of addressing the conference as follows: Methodist institutions, ten minutes; non-Methodist institutions, five minutes. The bishop was requested to adhere closely to this rule.

Dr. A. C. Knudson of Boston University School of Theology was introduced and briefly told the conference of the fine work of the school which he said has now the largest student body of any Protestant school of theology in America.

Rev. Chas. M. Melden, D. D., president of a college in New Orleans, spoke in behalf of the work of the board of education for negroes. One very interesting thing he told was that the New Orleans area, which is a negro constituency, stands first in the ranking of the Episcopal areas of the denomination in the paying of centenary subscriptions. He said that the Louisiana conference raised $100,000 for the centenary and that this is being largely paid by people who work for wages ranging approximately from 75c to $1.25 per day.

Question XXV was taken up.—Who are the triers of appeals? The following were nominated and elected: W. I. Ward, W. M. Newton, G. G. Scrivener, J. F. Cooper, and J. I. Bartholomew, with W. F. Davis and C. A. Stenhouse as reserves.

Upon motion of the secretary it was voted to make the printed year book the official journal of the conference.

Bishop Burns stated that he had received a message of greeting from the resident bishop, Edwin H. Hughes. It was voted upon motion that the greetings of this conference be sent to him in Holyoke, Mass., where he is presiding over the New England conference this week.

The conference adjourned for the day at a few minutes past 12 o'clock, noon.

Conference Sermon.

The conference sermon was on the program for 2 p. m. Rev. Joseph Cooper presided. The preacher was the Rev. W. I. Ward and he named as the text I John 4:9, "Herein was the love of God manifested in us that God sent His only begotten Son into the world that we might live through Him." The speaker assumed the greatness of Jesus Christ and spoke of the presence of the Son of God in the world as the result of a providential plan. Hymn 180, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", was sung and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. M. Charlton.

The dinners and suppers are being served to the conference in a group at the Y. M. C. A. building. Guests are provided with free tickets, but others pay. Breakfasts are provided in the homes where the visitors are entertained.

Personals.

Rev. Ernest McP. Ames, who was almost fatally injured in an automobile accident over a year ago has been improving during the year and his presence at the conference this year is greeted as a pleasant surprise. Mr. Ames began his ministry in Norwich district, serving Old Mystic in 1902-3, but the rest of his ministry has been on the other districts. He resides now in Acushnet, Mass.

Rev. Chas. B. Bromley and wife from Windsorville, Conn., arrived today to stay the week. Mr. Bromley will retire from the active ministry this year. He is closing a seven years' pastorate at Windsorville.

Rev. Henry D. Robinson, who assisted at the communion service this morning is the oldest living member of the conference. He was admitted on trial in 1858. Mr. Robinson was presiding elder of the Norwich district from 1882 to '85 and was pastor of the New London church, 1880 and '81.

Because of his health, Rev. A. W. Kingsley is not expected to attend this conference. He was admitted on trial in 1868. He was originally a Norwich boy and was one time a pastor in Norwich, serving the former Central church, 1893-'94.

DR. HILLIS' LECTURE HAS AUDIENCE FILLING CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 4.—A delightful musical program was provided in the evening at the conference. From 7.30 to 8 o'clock an orchestra of nine pieces presented several numbers which won much applause. Miss Florence Tourjee, harpist, gave two charming selections with the harp. Miss Emma Williams and Miss Lenore Elwood followed with a vocal duet, Miss Tourjee accompanying them with the harp. They responded to an encore.

At 8.20 p. m. Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the church, after giving a few announcements, introduced Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis as the lecturer of the evening. Dr. Hillis' lecture was heard by a large audience which nearly filled the seating capacity of the church auditorium, this being a paid lecture.

The lecture was on The State of the Country. Dr. Hillis has a fund of statistical information at his tongue's end and he is able to present matter often thought to be dry and uninteresting in a way which captivates an audience. He presented a few facts generally used by pessimists which he held to be black spots to be deplored but not to obscure our vision that we cannot see the finer things that exist in contrast which on the other hand unduly emphasized would make us extravagantly optimistic.

Nevertheless, he raised his voice in criticism of some existing mistakes we are making. He told of a man down in the south he discovered who was earning $5,000 a year taking care of a colt valued at $50,000. Talking with the man, he discovered him to be very illiterate and his work very easy. Comparing this with the average salary of the school teacher, he observed that we are putting a premium on illiteracy. He said that in 1550 this country was the first in the percentage of people who can read and write. This country is now ninth in rank, and we are growing more and more illiterate. Dr. Hillis urged that we are losing out by neglecting the moral and religious education of our children. He said 10,000 murders occurred in the United States last year and the way we are going there are likely to be 20,000 next year. He lifted a voice of solemn warning and urged that we attend to these real causes for alarm before it is to late.

REV. C. H. RICKETTS SPEAKS AT NOON SHOP MEETING

The weekly noon meeting under Y. M. C. A. auspices at the Richmond Radiator Co. proved very interesting Wednesday when Rev. C. H. Ricketts delivered an impressive address on the topic, Life through the Resurrection. In part Mr. Ricketts said:

It is only as these poor souls of ours are brought into contact with the living God as revealed in and through a personal Christ that we can truly be said to be religious. It is only when my whole being is energized by the spirit of the Great Teacher, and my entire personality bears the imprint of the Man of Nazareth that I am religious in the highest sense. Hence religion is life in me imparted by life outside of me when my longing spirit comes into contact with Him who is ever saying to me "because I live ye shall live also."

Let us not make the mistake in supposing that religion is a dogma; it is a life given and constantly maintained by contact with a divine personality. As a rule we are not sufficiently impressed with individual importance. It is the human body rather than the clear-cut individual members that compose: it is the social order, rather than the great spirits that make the social order. But as we scan human history we shall find that it is the individual man who is vastly bigger than any books he may have written, or laws he may have made. The mountain peaks of history are men, not creeds; it is spirit, not matter, that rules the world. Moses, David, Isaiah, Plato, Aristotle, Paul, Luther, Saint Bernard, Shakespeare, Washington, Lincoln, Gladstone, and preeminently the Christ because these have lived and functioned we have civilization.

Institutions live because they are supported by living personalities, and when men die their spirit and influence continue to function after they have gone. A cowardly bullet may strike down a noble Lincoln when the Union, tasked to the limit by awful carnage, is staggering to its feet. All Europe may predict that the end of American democracy is near, but the martyr president whose spirit had been touched by the living humanity of Jesus had communicated that immortality to the republic that was not destined to die. In 1887 when Henry Ward Beecher died, a great newspaper said that green mold would appear on the walls of Plymouth church. But it didn't, because Beecher's great spirit never left it. Green mold never grew on a church where Lyman Abbott preached or where Dr. Hillis still preaches. Where the dominant spirit in any church is the living Christ that church is absolved from death.

All this hinges on the fact that Christ is not dead by living. If the crucifixion had been a finality, redemption would not have been complete. In dying Jesus trampled upon the error that His was a worldly dominion which His followers could not get out of their heads. Through the channels of death they began to see what He had said again and again, "My kingdom is not of this world," and that His throne was to be established in the hearts of men.

If Christ is our pattern in all things, if He were permanently dead we should be permanently dead also. But through the happenings on that third day we see that while the crucifixion crushed sin, the resurrection, has crushed the grave and I am born into all the newness of the spirit. Because Christ died we shall die also; because He rose from the dead we shall rise also, and because He liveth evermore, we too, shall live ever more. This great doctrine teaches me that my body is not I. When I move out of it I care little what disposition is made of it. Mother earth, mother fire or mother sea may have it, for I shall have done with it forever. The real life will have entered the larger day.

BARS TICKET SALES ON HIGHWAYS TO MOTORISTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 4.—Among the bills passed from the calendar in the house was one concerning the soliciting contributions and sale of tickets of admission upon public highways. The bill reads: Any person who shall signal or stop any moving vehicle on any public highway for the purpose of soliciting from any occupant thereof any alms, contribution or subscription or for the purpose of soliciting the purchase of any ticket of admission to any game, show, exhibition, fair, ball, entertainment or public gathering, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars for each offense.

Another bill which has attracted much interest in Danielson and vicinity was passed in the house today relating to fishing in Alexander's Lake. The lake has been closed to public fishing for a number of years and it is reported as being well stocked with edible fish. The water of the lake is controlled by the Goodyear company and is also used by the Williamsville water company for domestic purposes by the residents of that place.

Section 1—Any person may fish in Alexander's lake in the town of Killingly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays during the open season for fishing, but no person shall take from said lake more than ten black bass and ten pickerel in any day. Any person who shall violate any provision of this act shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days or both.

Section 2—So much of section six of chapter 247 of the public acts of 1919 as is inconsistent herewith is repealed.

The law concerning the keeping of honey bees is amended to read:

Section two of chapter 174 of the public acts of 1919 is amended to read as follows: A record of such registration and the name and place of residence of the registrant and the definite location in the town where bees are kept by him shall be kept in a separate book in the office of the town clerk, which record shall be accessible to the public. Each town clerk shall file with the state entomologist of the Connecticut Experiment Station a complete list of such registration.

Executive committeemen, district deputies and post commanders were also present at the meeting and Commander Kellys' stand was unanimously approved at the session.

REPORTS STATE SURVEY ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

That those cities and towns which last year observed daylight saving will observe the same this year, unless legislative action forbids it, is evidenced in an announcement made Tuesday at the executive offices of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, showing what cities and towns plan to observe daylight saving and what towns will observe standard time.

The announcement was in the form of a bulletin to members of the state chamber advising them of the sentiment about the state with reference to daylight saving and standard times. Several weeks ago a questionnaire was sent to affiliated members of the state chamber and the results are as follows, "D. S. T." meaning daylight saving time and "S. T." standard time:

Barkhamsted — Observed D. S. T. last year and will this year

Bridgeport—Observed D. S. T. last year. This year "depends what railroad does."

Bristol—Favors D. S. T. "in event that the railroad schedule is on D. S. T."

Danbury—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year.

East Hartford—Will observe D. S. T. except farming population.

Greenwich—Will observe D. S. T. if New York does.

Hartford—Observed D. S. T. last year. Probably this year.

Kent—S. T. last year and will this year.

Manchester—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year.

Meriden—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year but will probably observe D. S. T.

Middletown—Last year divided, but in general observed D. S. T. This year community will probably be divided.

New Haven—Observed D. S. T. last year. No decision this year.

New Britain—No action taken.

New London—Will observe D. S. T.

Norwich—Observed D. S. T. last year.

Plainville—Observed D. S. T. last year and probably will this year if the railroad does.

Putnam—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year.

Rockville—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year.

Stamford—Observed D. S. T. last year and probably will this year.

Thompsonville — Community divided last year and probably this year. Factories will probably follow the railroad.

Torrington—Observed D. S. T. last year and probably will follow railroad this year.

Waterbury—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year.

West Haven—Observed D. S. T. last year and will this year "if obliged to."

Willimantic—Observed S. T. last year and will this year.

Windsor—Most of the people observed D. S. T. last year. This year "largely depends on position taken by railroad."

Winsted—Observed D. S. T. last year. No action this year—sentiment in favor.

Industrial Association of Lower Naugatuck Valley—"Association resolved to observe D. S. T. and the communities of Ansonia, Derby, Shelton and Seymour observed that time last year. If New York and Massachusetts do, we will."

JOHN T. CLARK'S LONG DISTANCE HOTEL RECORD

Accompanied with his picture, the April issue of Knott Knotes contains the following referring to John T. Clark of this city:

A story about Lincoln appeared in the February Knotes, telling about his visit to the Wauregan hotel in Norwich, Conn., in 1860. That was sixty-three years ago. The gentleman above arrived at the Wauregan three years later, and has been with us there since—sixty years. We hope they have not seemed long to Mr. John T. Clark, whom we believe holds the world's long distance hotel record.

280 Attended Banquet.

By error it was stated in Wednesday's account of the Father and Son banquet of the Y. M. C. A., that 180 fathers and sons were in attendance. It should have read 280 fathers and sons. The music for the evening was furnished by Swahn's orchestra and was greatly enjoyed, and the floral decorations were by Geduldig.

THIEF GETS AUTO ROBE THAT WILL BE USELESS

One Norwich automobile owner who had a robe stolen from his machine while it was parked alongside police headquarters one night last week has the laugh on the thief. The robe, a fine quality article, buff on one side and blue on the other, doubtless looked like a prize to the thief as it lay folded in the machine. When he got where he could unfold his prize and look it over, he would find that the owner's name was worked in large letters on both sides so that the robe could not be used without advertising who was its rightful owner. Apparently it will be of little use to the thief.

"FLU" GERM DISCOVERED

Dr. Simon Flexner, Director of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, announces that germs of Influenza have been identified through experiments on animals. This germ impairs the lung tissue so that it is no longer able to destroy the common bacteria of the nose and throat that causes bronchitis and pneumonia.

Kill the germ with Sterling's Vapor-Ese, the healing, soothing, antiseptic salve that penetrates deep down into the passages, kills the germ that causes the cold, relieves congestion and acts as a restorative to irritated and inflamed mucous membranes.

Sterling's Vapor-Ese does its work easily, quickly and without delay. It is also absolutely harmless and easy to apply. Simply rub it on the throat and chest at bed time and place a little of this healing, antiseptic up the nostrils to relieve any stuffed up condition. Then, just breathe your cold away. Be sure to get Sterling's Vapor-Ese from your druggist. A 25 cent jar will do the trick. Look for the name "Sterling's."

CONOCLASTS FLOUT VIEWS OF SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

On Question: "Did Avenging Spirits Cause Death of Lord Carnarvon for Disturbing the Tomb of Tutenkhamen?" —Egyptologists Scout Curse Theory Advanced by Doyle and Marie Corelli—Egyptians Themselves Have Less Reverence for the Ancient Tombs Than Excavators Bent on Scientific Research.

New York, April 5—Did avenging spirits cause the death of Lord Carnarvon for disturbing the tomb of Tutenkhamun?

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, exponent of spiritualism, asserted today that this was by no means an untenable theory—a theory which dispatches from Cairo assert is held by native Egyptians.

Joining hands with Marie Corelli, the English novelist, Sir Arthur said that the priests of Old Egypt knew much more of the occult than we and that they might have placed a spiritual "elemental" in the tomb to strike down the man who disturbed the bones of their Pharoah.

But Egyptologists and scientists read "insect bit" and nothing more. They scoffed openly at the idea of an avenging spirit remaining faithful a full 3,000 years, and Sir Arthur himself was forced to admit that by now "old King Tut's spirit may be far enough along not to care tuppence what happens to his bones."

Among the scoffers was a member of the department of Egyptology at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He declared that if the threats of the Pharaohs were efficacious, all the scientists who had worked in the valley of the kings would have been dead years ago.

Mrs. Caroline Williams of the New York Historical society, former assistant curator of Egyptology at the museum, was among those who scouted the ancient superstition. Unlike the others, however, Mrs. Williams was interested in finding its origin and tracing its growth, and in doing so cited some of the tomb inscriptions which have given rise to and strengthened the belief.

"One of these," said Mrs. Williams, "was found on a tomb of about 2500 B. C., and read: 'After any man who shall enter this tomb to disturb it, I will receive him like a wild fowl and he shall be judged for it by the great God.'

"Another inscription contained a threat against any one who should deface the inscription on the tomb. To understand this it is necessary to remember that certain parts of the tombs were open so that various rites might be held there in perpetuity. The inscriptions contained, in many cases, the form of the rites, and so any defacement of the inscriptions made it impossible for others to follow the prescribed ritual.

"Usually there was a promise of reward for those who protected and preserved the tomb and its inscriptions, as, for instance, one about 2800 B. C., which assured protectors that they 'shall become elders in their cities.'"

Mrs. Williams said that the mortuary endowment of Ammon-Hotep III, grandfather of Tutenkhamun's queen, gave a particularly complete account of what was expected of the protectors and preservers of the endowment, and of threats against those who violated it.

Highest blessings were promised to those who followed the wishes of the king and direst evil assured those who violated them. Of these latter the inscriptions said: "His body be accursed. Ammon shall deliver violators to blazing wrath." Others were to be "engulfed in the sea."

These threats and promises were made, Mrs. Williams pointed out, because the Pharoahs very early realized that their bodies were not safe after burial. She said that the contents of the tombs were always treated reverently by Egyptologists, whose objects were merely scientific. The state of many tombs, however, showed that the Egyptians themselves had had less reverence.

Mrs. Williams cited a case in 1902 when Howard Carter, then inspector of Northern Egypt, directed the removal of the mummy of Ammon-Hotep II from the museum to its tomb in deference to the popular wish that the mummy be left where it was buried. Afterwards, however, ghouls robbed the tomb, and tore the body to pieces in their search for valuables which did not exist. The guilty men were found, she said, but cou'd not be convicted in an Egyptian court.

It was also pointed out that Carnarvon himself had expressed the desire to have the mummy of Tutenkhamun remain in the tomb.

BRAND STORIES OF CURSE THEORY AS "PURE BOSH"

Chicago, April 5.—Professor D. D. Luckendill, Egyptologist at the University of Chicago and assistant to Professor James Henry Breasted, who accompanied the Carnarvon expedition to Egypt, characterized as "pure bosh" published stories on the curse theory of Lord Carnarvon's death.

"An Egyptian king hasn't worried about what men were going to do long after his death. He decorated his grave and ordered luxurious trappings to be buried with him so that these articles might placate the forty-two gods whose approval he must win before his soul might find peace. His interests were purely spiritual," said Professor Luckendill.

Professor Breasted's son, Charles, who recently returned from Egypt, also scoffed at the "curse" theory, although admitting that the explorer's death was curious and mysterious. The "curse" story, he said, might have been spread by the French in an effort to stir up superstition to the disadvantage of the English.

RAIDS IN NEW YORK BY PROHIBITION AGENTS

New York, April 5.—Federal prohibition agents carried out a series of widely scattered raids in Manhattan resorts today and counted 25 prisoners, including one woman, at the end of their day's work. The prisoners were charged with violation of the Volstead act and with being bartenders or proprietors of illicit liquor resorts.

Palmer Canfield, state prohibition director, who promised to dry up the sources of illicit liquor when he took office this week directed the raids.

Mr. Canfield, who will confer with National Prohibition Director Haynes tomorrow on the situation in Greater New York, said he would seek permission to make a tour of the Long Island and New Jersey coasts in company with newspapermen, to learn if there actually was a rum fleet in existence there.

NO DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME IN FRANCE THIS YEAR

Paris, April 5.—(By the A. P.)—There will be no daylight saving time in France this year. This was finally decided upon by a cabinet meeting held today at President Millerand's summer residence at Rambouillet.

Governmental opinion as expressed at this meeting was that a change of time by decree was impossible, as the question had been up before parliament, where opposition to the setting ahead of the clocks developed from representatives of the rural districts. As parliament will not meet again until the second week of May it will be too late to obtain action for this year.

It is possible, however, that the object of daylight saving will be partially gained through advancing the railroad time tables and the hours for the public departments.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN EAST NEARLY NORMAL

Washington, April 5.—Declarations were made in two official quarters today that general business conditions throughout the east were nearly normal. The central and western part of the United States were said, at the same time, to be making rapid strides towards recovery, and the prediction was offered that those sections soon would be in better condition than at any time since the prosperity incident to the war.

Secretary Mellon asserted on returning from his first vacation since he became head of the treasury, that the industrial and financial situation in the east appeared "very satisfactory." His trip included visit to several important centers and in all of these he reported he found renewed evidence of prosperity and optimism concerning the future.

ARLINGTON HOTEL, HOT SPRINGS, BURNED

Hot Springs, Ark., April 5.—The Arlington hotel, oldest hostelry in Hot Springs and one of the most noted in the south was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin late today. All guests, numbering more than 300, escaped without serious injury although dense smoke threatened to overcome many as they groped for exits.

The loss was estimated tonight at more than $1,000,000.

Loss of personal effects, including jewelry, money and clothing of the guests will run into a considerable figure. Most of the hotel occupants were left with only the clothing they wore when the alarm was given.

The fire was discovered in the basement of the hotel at 5 o'clock this afternoon after it had already gained considerable headway.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT NOT PERTURBED BY FIRE

New York, April 5.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late ex-president, braved a fire in the "Double R" coffee house in West 44th street today to aid restaurant attaches in rescuing two oil paintings of her husband.

Mrs. Roosevelt was the only one of 50 patrons in the place who did not flee when fire broke out in a coffee roaster under the kitchen, filling the restaurant with smoke.

Calmly holding her place, she directed the manager, Frank Sardi, and other employes to bring canvases to place over the pictures, which were featured in the restaurant, so that the firemen would not injure them when they turned their hose lines on the fire.

P.)—A decree has been issued increasing the income tax fivefold, making it applicable to all foreigners regardless of length of stay and retroactive to the date of their arrival. FALL RIVER WEAVERS ACCEPT WAGE OFFER

Fall River, Mass., April 5.—The six unions affiliated with the Textile council voted tonight to accept the wage increase of 12 1-2 per cent., effective April 30, offered on Monday by the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association. The council had demanded an increase of 15 per cent.

When the Textile Council presented its demands last month the manufacturers declared that an increase at this time would not be reasonable, but asked the unions to defer until April 20 action on the refusal. The unions voted to wait until that date before making a further move. Last Monday, after announcements of wage increases in other New England textile centers, the manufacturers again called the Textile Council into conference and offered the compromise increase.

Of the six unions voting tonight, four were unanimous for acceptance of the manufacturers' offer. These were the carders, mule spinners, slasher tenders and yarn finishers. The weavers voted by a show of hands, and the offer was accepted by a small majority. The loom fixers accepted the offer by a vote of 98 to 20. A majority of four of the six unions was necessary to acceptance of the offer by the Textile Council.

While the unions in this city affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America have not indicated their probable action on the wages increase, it was said tonight that the decision of the weavers to accept the 12 1-2 per cent. increase would have some bearing on the policies of the doffers, sweepers and other U. T. W. organizations, which have held out for a 29 1-2 per cent. increase. The weavers, although affiliated with the Textile Council, voted in favor of strike when the manufacturers first refused advance wages, and it was believed by many that they might join forces with the United Textile Workers in the event of a clash in the industry here.

In January the doffers authorized President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers to call a strike at his discretion. In a statement in New York today President McMahon said his organization would continue its struggle for the 29 1-2 per cent. wage increase, which would restore the schedule paid in the textile industry in 1920.

FOSTER JURY DISAGREED, 38 BALLOTS WERE TAKEN

St. Joseph, Mo., April 5.—(By The A. P.)—Hopelessly deadlocked after 31 and a quarter hours' deliberation, the jury trying William Z. Foster of Chicago, for alleged violation of the Michigan law against criminal syndicalism, was discharged by Judge Charles White this evening.

The jurors stood six to six on all their 38 ballots without changing a vote.

Five men and one woman voted for Foster's acquittal and six men for his conviction.

Foster was the first to face trial of the 32 men and women arrested as a result of the raid on the convention of the communist party of America, held in the lonely Dunne country near here last August. Charles E. Ruthenberg, one of his co-defendants, will be placed on tial a week from next Monday.

C., declared today on her arrival on the steamship President Polk from a six months' tour of Europe. She was accompanied by Miss Helen C. Schofield, Washington policewoman.

Mrs. Van Winken said she based her observations on the studies she and her companion made of crime conditions and police methods of the principal cities of England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France, Holland, Austria, Italy and the Scandinavian countries. In each city, she declared, she had been taken on a midnight tour of the underworld.

Anti-Jewish progroms also are reported from the Ukraine, and numerous Jewish families are said to be fleeing toward the Polish frontier.

France Would Scrap Navies of the World

Would Have One International Fleet Under a "Real" League of Nations.

Paris, April 5.—(By the A. P.—The president of the naval committee of the French senate, Gustave De Kerguezec, in a statement to The Associated Press today advocated the summoning of a further naval armament conference which would have for its object the actual scrapping of the big navies of the world.

"I guarantee, in the name of the French parliament," he declared, "that France will suppress her entire fleet if the other powers will do likewise."

M. De Kerguezec is probably the best informed man on naval affairs in either house of parliament. For six years preceding 1921 he was a member of the chamber of deputies and served on the committee directing the naval budget. In his statement he said:

"What we are coming to is another Washington treaty which will make an honest revision of naval armaments. What I would propose is a new conference for scrapping the big navies. If the world does not look out it will destroy itself totally in a new war.

"People insist in ignoring the lessons drawn from the recent war. But it must be pointed out that in the comparatively recent history of humanity the wars were between clans, then between countries, then nations, and now they are between continents.

"And each day I am informed of more dreadful arms of warfare which will lead not only to the remaking of the national maps but the extinction of untold millions of combatants and civilians alike."

Defining France's general attitude, M. De Kerguezec said: "France has recovered her lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, so now she must keep guard on land with her face to the east and with free seas at her back. For communication with her colonies, and for this defense she does not require big ships. It is only nations with offensive plans who need capital ships.

"This policy has been attacked by the English, who intimate we want submarines to attack enemy commerce. Lord Lee, first lord of the admiralty has declared submarines are unable to cope with capital ships. The truth is that the sinister attacks lauched against submarines at the Washington conference were for the purpose of giving dominion of the seas to one or two nations."

Referring to the Washington treaty itself, the senator said: "I was able to the treaty, because in . . . the possibility of limiting the . . . ace of armaments, but the French doctrine was unfairly represented there (in Washington) by the demand for capital ships, the error coming from M. Briand's unfamiliarity with the subject."

M. De Kerguezec set forth that France's need for submarines was an essential feature of her naval defense. Only by the use of this type of warcraft, he said, could she adequately protect her coasts and her communications.

"Today France is obliged to remain armed," he declared, "because of one of the greatest injustices in history, namely the withdrawal of the guarantees given her in the Versailles treaty. The French people would ask nothing better than to lay down their arms and live happily and peacefully, but the allies guarantee us freedom of the seas and peace on land and we will disarm.

"Better still, if the allies will follow a proposal for general disarmament of all the world's fleets and replace them with an international one, we shall be the first to agree to let the United States furnish to this international fleet ten ships, England ten, France six and Italy six. Then the world will have peace, and not until then.

"If I spoke English I would go to the United States to outline to the people this road to liberty. Let me give warning that the people of the world are strongly set against any more wars. The governments and the bankers do not hear, but there are voices rumbling around the world demanding peace, and woe to those who cannot or will not listen.

"Let us create, while there is time, a real league of nations. The present one is useless, because it is unarmed. Arm a new one, and it can command peace."

SWEDISH PARLIAMENT DEFEATED GOVERNMENT

Stockholm, April 5.—(By The A. P.)—The government, headed by Hjalmar Branting, premier and foreign minister, was defeated in the uper chamber of parliment tonight by a vote of 76 against 60.

The vote was on a proposal by the government to distribute doles among the unemployed. The formal resignation of the cabinet will be tendered tomorrow, but Crown Prince Gustave, who is acting as regent, will suggest that M. Branting handle the affairs of state until the king, who at present is in Nice, returns home.

The debate over the doles question was unusually heated, and the vote rejecting the government's proposal is considered by many persons as the first sign of a general reaction against the socialists and an alliance of the other parties against them.

Jail at Hard Labor For Fish Profiteers

Fourteen Men Were Sentenced at Boston Yesterday—Now Behind the Bars.

Boston, April 5.—Fourteen men found guilty four years ago of conspiring to keep the price of fish at high levels in war-time were sentenced to jail at hard labor today and tonight were behind the bars.

F. Monredyer of New York and Boston, a banker who was the organizer of the Bay State Fishing company, described in the court proceedings as the "fish trust," with four of the biggest dealers who were officers of the company, received sentences of 10 months in jail and fines of $1,000 each. Nine other dealers, members of the company, were sentenced to five months and to pay fines of $500 each. William F. McKeown, a member of the latter group, was not sentenced today because of poor health. Simeon Atwood, Jr., still another member of that group, has been serving a similar sentence at the house of correction at Deer Island since February 17, having abandoned his right under the motions for appeal and delay.

Atwood will be joined in the island institution tomorrow by his associates who were sentenced today. They spent the night in Charles street jail, the last boat having gone to the island for the day.

Counsel revived the request for delay this afternoon, asking Judge Sanderson to postpone sentence again so that the case might be taken to the United States supreme court on a constitutional question. But the supreme court of Massachusetts having held that there was no apparent grounds for a writ of error, the court proceeded to impose sentence.

Those sentenced with Dyer to 10 months at hard labor and a $1,000 fine were Joshua Paine, Joseph A. Rich, Ernest A. James and John Burns, Jr.

Those sentenced to five months and a $55 fine were Frederick C. Phillips, Willard R. Cox, Albert E. Watts, Ephraim M. Cook, Winfield S. Kendrick, Herbert F. Phillips, William E. Curran, Alvin G. Baker and Louis B. Goodspeed.

EMPEROR CLAIMS KLANSMEN HAVE BEEN BLACKMAILED

Atlanta, Ga., April 5.—The invisible empire under the present administration of the Ku Klux Klan became a government by black mail, declared Emperor William J. Simmons, founder of the organization, in a statement issued here tonight.

He said that the . . . intended to see to it that "the money coming into the treasury of the organization shall no longer be diverted to the purpose of blackmailing klansmen."

About the time the emperor was making his statement, three to five thousand klansmen assembled in the lodge rooms of the Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan No. 1, the first klan to be organized in Georgia and imperial wizard's home klan.

It became known through the announcement of the mother Klan that a triumph convention secretly held here Monday night attended by the majority of the members of the klonclihum had voted to support Simmons.

This, it appears, was done while Imperial Wizard Evans was engaged in a conference in New York, where plans were being laid to defeat the revolution from within, and it is believed to be certain that Evans will bitterly fight all efforts to put the action of the "complete klonclihum membership on wheels in record.

Attorney J. V. Poole, representing Simmons, declared tonight that a quorum was present at the session and that the action taken was legal.

Simmons did not attend the meeting held tonight by the mother klan, but its first . . . bore his name a huge demonstration was planned.

A brief proclamation was issued after the meeting declared: "We intend to stand by our emperor and imperial wizard, Colonel William J. Simmons, in his . . . and admonishing the citizens of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and we pledge to him our loyal, unqualified and individual support."

CONVICT GERALD CHAPMAN REPORTED HEADED EAST

Athens, Ga., April 5.—Gerald Chapman, escaped federal penitentiary prisoner and leader in the $1,000,000 Leonard street mail robbery in New York in 1921, is headed east tonight, a very sick man, but with his freedom, according to federal and state officers who have followed what was believed to be his trail today.

Chapman escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary a week ago. Two days later he was brought to a local hospital, having been wounded when he and his partner, Frank Gray, a convicted forger, were caught near here following a gun battle. Last night Chapman hurled himself out of a second story window of the hospital and began his second flight.

Before taking the leap, the prisoner dressed himself in the clothes of his guard, Deputy Sheriff McCarthy, while the latter sat outside the hospital room door. The guard when he went on duty had brought the extra clothing in a handbag. His explanation for having the clothing is said to have been satisfactory to his superiors.

Chapman left behind no trail, except the imprint of his body in the soft turf below the window and a few footprints as he made his hurried exit from the hospital grounds. The trail ended at the sidewalk, where, officers believe, an automobile awaited him.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BILL YET TO BE DECIDED BY SENATE

Lieut. Gov. Bingham, Dissolving a Tie of 15 to 15, Cast the Vote Which Will Cause Future Consideration of the Measure—The Bill Has Been Tabled for Printing—Will be Ready for Action in the Senate in About a Week.

Hartford, April 5.—An effort to kill the anti-daylight saving bill, which passed in the house yesterday was checked in the senate today, when Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham, breaking a tie of 15 to 15, cast the vote which caused the senate to reconsider its action in postponing the bill indefinitely.

His vote came after a bitter fight between those who desirded to kill the bill immediately and those who desired to have action on it taken by the senate at some later date. The bill has now been tabled for printing in the journal and the amendment on the file and will be ready for senate action in about a week.

When the bill came into the senate today Senator Trumbull moved that action be indefinitely postponed. His motion was carried by a large vote. A few minutes later he moved that the senate reconsider its action in the hope that it would not prevail. This would have killed the bill, since its postponement indefinitely could not be reconsidered.

His motion immediately brought fire from senators in favor of the bill who declared that it should not be killed summarily, but should be considered carefully. Several who were against indefinitely postponing action declared that they had not fully made up their minds on the bill. Senators Gibbs and Child both objected to permitting the bill to be killed, declaring that standard time was too important for the senate to pass over it rapidly.

Senators Pierson and Ash declared that the state should have uniform time and that the bill should be dropped. Senator Rudd also declared that the bill required more study and that hasty action in killing it was inadvisable. Senator Doty declared that killing the bill simply would leave the state on standard time, but passing it would work hardship on cities and persons who wanted to change their time.

Senator Challenger declared the rule of the majority should prevail. He said the cities were in favor of daylight saving and that the little towns should not force the cities to accept what they did not want.

Senator Christoph declared that the farmers should have an opportunity to consider the bill and that it should not be summarily killed. Senator McGrath said he hoped the bill would be indefinitely postponed and that the motion to reconsider should not prevail.

A motion to hold a roll call on the motion to reconsider was lost.

Senator Trumbull asked leave to withdraw his motion, but an objection from Senator Brooks was upheld and Senator Trumbull withdrew his motion to consider.

Senator Christoph then moved that action in postponing be reconsidered and a 15 to 15 vote resulted. Lieutenant Governor Bingham then cast the deciding vote in favor of reconsidering. A moment later the bill was tabled for printing in the journal which means that the senate will have another opportunity to consider it.

Those voting to reconsider were: De Peyster, Pierson, Rudd, Brooks, Ash, Child, Pratt, Behre, Addison, Park, Gibbs, Belsaigel, Beers, Christoph, Bidwell and Lieut. Gov. Bingham.

Those against: Doty, Spieman, Degnam, Trumbull, Covert, MacDonald, Clyne, Golden, Ells, McGrath, Johnson, Rogers, Wilder, Harer, Challenger.

Not voting, Tone.

RAILROADS TO EXPEND $1,540,000,000 FOR EQUIPMENT

New York, April 5.—The American Railway association today approved the expenditure by its members of $1,540,000,000 for equipment, the biggest aggregate railroad budget ever recorded, then issued a nation-wide appeal for co-operation in helping the roads through the heaviest transportation era in history.

Basing estimates on the unprecedented tonnage hauled in recent months, the association's experts forecast the smashing of all records in 1923, with at least thirteen weeks when car loadings will exceed 1,000,000 a week, and an estimated high mark of 1,080,000 cars predicted for the week of next Oct. 20, at the height of the fall crop movement.

Realizing that, with existing facilities, they were unprepared for such a year, the railroads contracted for $440,000,000 worth of new supplies in 1922 and $1,100,000,000 more for 1923. They also have speeded up shops repairs, reconstruction and maintenance of way departments to the point where they promise by fall to have a high percentage of rolling stock available for their customers.

Public assistance to help early shipping and storing of all freight including coal, ore and construction materials that usually interfere with the fall movement of crops, was asked by the conference.

SMOOT PREDICTS INCREASE IN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

Washington, April . . . that customs receipts . . . year ending next June 30, would reach $550,000,000 and possibly approach $650,000,000 was made today by Senator Smoot, of Utah, one senior republican member of the senate finance committee and one of the leaders in drafting the present tariff law. The senator said his estimate was based on calculations furnished him by the treasury and, if borne out, would exceed the previous high record of $587,000,000 in receipts in the year under the Payne-Aldrich law.

Some treasury officials . . . to disagree with the estimate made by the Utah senator because, they said, it was yet too early to determine whether the unusually heavy receipts for February and March were an indication of a definite trend upward in imports or whether they were largely those months heavy representation of seasonal shipments of raw materials.

Senator Smoot's argument in support of his estimate today, that customs receipts give assurance, he declared, that the tariff law was working equitably. This is proved, he asserted, by the fact that the . . . include almost every commodity known to commerce and trade.

TO OBTAIN MONTICELLO AS JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

New York, April 5.—Obstacles in the way of obtaining Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, in Albemarle county, Virginia, as a national shrine have been removed and the way is clear for turning over the property to the nation, the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation announced tonight.

"Difficulties which heretofore have prevented the change of ownership of Jefferson's Virginia home have been overcome," a statement said. "Jefferson M. Levy, present owner of Monticello, whose family has held title to the property since his uncle, Commodore Levy bought it in 1833, seven years after Jefferson's death, has been an ardent admirer of the author of the declaration of independence and was loath to part with Monticello. Patriotic motives finally influenced him to enter into an agreement with the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation and the way is at last clear for turning over the property to the nation."

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is mail Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart":

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years, and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. A. Henderson, 520 Sprague St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. This isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 30 cents, 60c, $1, $2.50, $5.

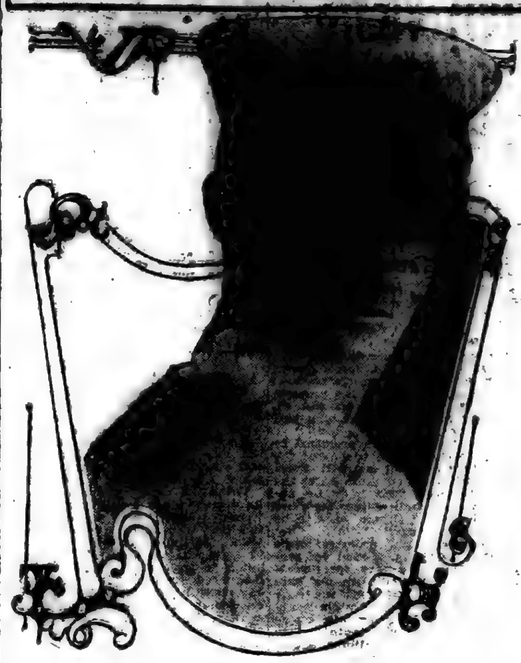
The Original Erich Phillips Co., appeared in a fine routine of hand balancing oddities.

The Paramount feature with Alice Brady in The Leopardess was also well received.

MORE THRILLING than a Jules Verne romance were the adventures of Warrant Officer H. B. Smith on the famous Sub Chaser "Seneca," which left him almost a physical wreck. He gives Tanlac full credit for complete restoration.



HUGH B. SMITH

The many deeds of daring and heroism—thrilling rescues and hair-raising U-boat attacks—in which the U. S. submarine chaser, Seneca, participated from the Mediterranean to the North sea, furnishes one of the most interesting chapters of the entire World War.

The officer that Hugh B. Smith, warrant officer on the Seneca, paid for his gallant part in these hazardous encounters, was a nervous system so shattered that he broke down completely.

"What I saw and went through," said Mr. Smith, "would leave its mark on any man. For two full years my nerves were at high tension all the time.

"When I got back to God's country, the reaction set in and I broke down completely. I was terribly nervous and irritable, had no appetite, and could not sleep except when exhausted. I was also about fifteen pounds under weight, all of which made me realize something must be done.

"I resigned from the Navy but soon found out new environment and duties made no improvement in my physical condition.

"Finally a friend persuaded me to try Tanlac and after taking six or eight bottles of Tanlac I had gained fifteen pounds, was back to my normal weight, and felt completely recovered. Tanlac was a life-saver to me, and I heartily endorse it."

Mr. Smith is branch manager for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., at 301 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and resides at 436 Westervelt Ave., Staten Island.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

BREED THEATRE

Something of an idea of the bigness and general scope of Douglas Fairbanks' latest photoplay sensation, Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood" may be gathered from the summary of facts given herewith. For this last word in Fairbanks super-features, is now showing at the Breed theatre under a United Artists release, a host of engineers, architects, artists, and artisans labored for months before ever a camera lens was opened.

Twenty-two experts delved and studied in the necessary research work for accurate designing of the colossal sets.

Libraries the world over were ransacked by these experts for authoritative facts in ascertaining the historical data that all might be presented truthfully to this period.

Hundreds of workmen labored three months to build the sets.

One million feet, or approximately thirty-five carloads, of lumber were used in their construction.

This lumber, if laid out in board feet, would cover twenty acres of ground; if placed end to end would span a distance of about five hundred miles.

One carload, or about thirty tons, of nails were consumed in erecting the sets.

Two hundred and fifty tons of material went into the castle walls.

More than fifteen acres of studio property are in use for the principal sets.

The king's castle set covers two and one-half acres and is 310 feet in height. The exterior is 620 feet long.

In building the castle 178,000 square feet of wall board, plaster board and button lath were required.

There are eight castle towers. If each tower was a water tank, each would hold 276,000 gallons.

The castle is surrounded by a moat, built from historically correct specifications, broad enough and deep enough to serve as a genuine barrier against the taking of this stronghold.

The royal banquet hall is the largest room in the world, being larger even than the concourse of the Pennsylvania Terminal Station in New York City.

Eleven canvas pavillions were built, each one forty feet in height.

The muslin diffusing system—used to diffuse light—is bigger than the combined "big tops" of the world's circus enterprise.

The camera staff work from a platform built of selected spruce and airplane wire, with an area of forty square feet, weighs only 400 pounds and can be assembled by four men in seven minutes.

Twenty thousand yards of heavy velvets and rich cloth material were used in making the 3,500 costumes worn by principals, players and extras.

More than one thousand pairs of shoes were required for the production, and but one pair could be made from the hide of one sheep. The entire stock of three tanneries was taken in supplying these hides.

Every weapon carried in the production was made entirely by hand. There are 2,000 spears, 1,500 swords, 2,000 shields and 500 daggers.

More than one thousand wigs, each made of human hair, are worn by members of the cast.

Saddles and trappings were made for hundreds of horses, all hand-made and hand-sewed.

In making an exact duplicate of the standard used by King Richard I in his Crusade to the Holy Lands, 800 pounds of iron were necessary.

An army of 10,000 extra people is being employed in various scenes at various times.

The prodigal use of hand-work on all effects in "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" is not a careless extravagance, but serves to illustrate the absolute authenticity of the production, for in the period depicted machinery was little used, metals and almost all materials being worked by hand.

BAZAAR AND CARNIVAL TO OPEN AT ARMORY

Plans are now completed for the Battery B and First Contact train's bazaar and carnival which will open Saturday, April 7th for a run of seven nights. The armory has been decorated and looking very fine with its coat of bunting and banners. There will be many attractive booths, also some of the very best exhibits, among which is the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin.

The Lord's Prayer on the head of an average pin is the most marvelous engraving in the world.

The pin is 47-1,000 of an inch in diameter or the the size of an average pin. It has 68 words, 254 letters and 14 punctuation marks. It was necessary to make 1865 cuts to complete this work. Every word is spaced perfectly and distinctly readable through powerful microscopes. It took over three years to complete this marvelous engraving and it is pronounced by experts to be the most prodigious feat of engraving ever accomplished.

DOUBLE FEATURES PLEASE AT STRAND

If there has been any doubt as to just where Harold Lloyd stands on the ladder of fame, it is dispelled with "Grandma's Boy," his five-part Associated Exhibitors comedy, which places him at the top. Yesterday's audiences at the Strand Theatre were filled with sympathy, pathos and thrills, the while they laughed as only those who have forgotten all personal troubles can abandon themselves to mirth.

"Grandma's Boy" is the perfect comedy! It contains a real story—a story with such a serious theme as cowardice, and the power of mind over matter. This serious undertone is probably why the comedy is so funny.

Lloyd is seen as a young man striving to be brave and failing at every turn, always in a humorous way, of course. Finally Grandma tells him of how his Grandfather overcame cowardice with a good luck charm. She gives the charm to the boy, who goes out and with the confidence born of possessing the charm, licks the small world to a frazzle. He finds that self-confidence is the secret of courage, and he wins the final and greatest battle—the battle of the girl—in a manner that leaves the audience laughing hysterically long after "The End" is flashed on the screen. It's a knockout, with a knockout punch!

A good story, intensely dramatic with comedy relief, very well directed and exceptionally acted by a remarkable cast is, in brief, "Till We Meet Again" the William Christy Cabanne production released by Associated Exhibitors and remaining at the Strand Theatre until Saturday is the second feature.

Mr. Cabanne wrote and directed the photoplay which firmly maintains the interest. It is doubtful if at any point, there was a dry eye in the audiences. And if must have been gratifying to Mr. Cabanne to have Mae Marsh interpret the leading character. Miss Marsh is convincing always and unsurpassable in her emotional scenes.

She is given the splendid support of Norman Kerry and Walter Miller, to the latter falling a role somewhat similar to Miss Marsh's in sympathy. Pauline Starke, Mansfield is pretty and charming in a small role. J. Barney Sherry is a polished villain and Julia Swayne Gordon is a convincing society matron. Gaynmaly Young and Dick Lee contribute two humorous crook impersonations. "Till We Meet Again" is a picture no one can afford

INDOOR TENNIS PLAY NARROWS DOWN TO FOUR NOTED PLAYERS

New York, April 5.—Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, defending champion, and three former indoor title holders today advanced to the semi-final singles round of the national indoor tournament, and will meet in the semi-finals tomorrow.

The three who will contend with Hunter for the right to play in the finals Saturday are Vincent Richards, Yonkers; Frank T. Anderson, Columbia; and E. Howard Voshell, Brooklyn. Hunter will meet Anderson and Richards is matched with Voshell.

Hunter today was forced into three sets to defeat H. L. Bowman, New York state champion. Bowman took the first set but dropped the match 8-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Richards experienced unexpected difficulty in defeating Percy L. Kynaston, Rockville Center, 6-1, 10-8. His superior volleying and service finally overcame Kynaston's brilliant forehand attack after a hard-fought duel in the last set.

Anderson defeated Henry H. Bassford, New York, 6-4, 6-1, and Voshell won from G. A. L. Dionne, New York, 6-2, 6-0. Kynaston and Bowman were among the six players seeded at the opening of the tournament.

The singles survivors also will play in the final doubles match tomorrow, Hunter and Richards opposing Voshell and Anderson, the defending champions.

Hunter and Richards today eliminated W. D. Cunningham and A. S. Cragin, New York, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, in the most hotly contested doubles match of the tournament. The champions also found stiff opposition in Bowman and Bassford, but won, 5-7, 6-1, 6-0.

RICHARDS TAKES YOUNGSTER UNDER HIS TUTELAGE

New York, April 5.—Himself, the protege of William T. Tilden, with whom he holds the national doubles championship, Vincent Richards, 19-year-old Yonkers sensation, has taken a budding tennis star under his tutelage.

He is Eugene McAuliffe, of Yonkers, a 14-year-old Fordham "prep" school student and, according to Richards, has a brilliant court future ahead of him. The No. 4 ranking star, who himself attained national fame when but fifteen, today admitted he had been teaching McAuliffe the fine points of the game. He declared the youngster showed unusual ability as a volleyer—a tennis art at which Richards is acknowledged to be a master.

Richards and his protege may make their public debut as a doubles team tomorrow or Saturday, in an exhibition in connection with the national indoor championships at the Seventh Regiment Armory. The former said he planned to pair with the youngster in various Metropolitan tournaments during the outdoor season.

RENAULT MATCHED TO FIGHT TOM GIBBONS

The match meets with the approval of the state boxing commission, it was said, which had ruled that Renault and Gibbons should not meet before the latter could carry out a challenge match with Dempsey.

Gibbons, who was polished by Hilts distance fighter from Maryland, signed to meet the Canadian in a 15 round bout. This, however, the match was not announced.

SIKI CLAIMS HE WAS ROBBED IN IRELAND

Paris, April 5.—"I was robbed," said Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter, who returned yesterday from Ireland, while referring to the fight in Dublin in which he lost his title of heavyweight championship to Mike McTigue.

"I will never go to Ireland again," the dusky mauler continued. "unless I can cross by way of Siberia. I lost so much weight during the dozen days to Ireland and back that I am now a middleweight."

Siki knocked out a diner in one of the best known Paris restaurants early this morning during a brawl.

P.)—Racine bowlers featured today's competition in the American Bowling Congress tournament, two stars from the Bell City placing high in the singles, doubles and all-events standing. W. A split in the fourth frame of his second game prevented him from topping Ramsperger of Cincinnati, who is leading with 754.

Lemoine teamed with C. Bettenhausen for the fifth 1200 total of the meet when they counted 1206 pins tying for third place in the doubles. Larson shooting with the Big Eds of Racine fell short, totaled 987, which coupled with his total in the singles and doubles, gives him a combined 1967 in the all-events, putting him in the fourth position.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hot Springs, Ark., April 5.—In the springtime a young man's fancy turns this-a-wa and that-a-wa—if he happens to be a baseball correspondent Pullman-ing from camp to camp and sending his eyes to an examination of the athletes who will represent the sixteen big league clubs in the pennant races. Often second division clubs appear quotable in the Southland when the boys engage in practice play, with no thought of where their team will stand in the percentage table on the morrow.

A's Will be Flag Contenders

Today we propose to deal with the American League clubs and we shall put the kick in the early part of our story by declaring that, in our judgment, the four pennant contenders in 1923 will be Detroit, Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

Teams that are likely to trouble the contenders—put on spurs—that may be particularly damaging to certain leaders—are St. Louis and Cleveland.

Washington and Boston are just ball clubs—surely not to be regarded as pennant possibilities.

Ty Cobb's Tigers are mentioned first in the pre-season prognostication because Detroit has, with its b. comedy intact, by far the most powerful offensive in the big leagues today—and we do not except Babe Ruth & Co., who are conducting business in a new location, but along the same general lines. The Tigers will bat well over .300 as a team. Give a thought to the psychological effect upon opponents who must face that terrible offensive. Pity the poor pitchers! A game with Detroit is not won so long as Ty's sluggers are entitled to a turn at bat.

Detroit has a smart and active defensive ball club—the line-up remains the same as it was in '22 which is an advantage. Pillette, Johnson, Collins, Dauss, Holloway and Francis form a pitching corps that, in the spring, shies up fully 50 per cent stronger than Detroit's throwing staff of last season.

Kamm Bolstered Sox

The offensive of the White Sox has been strengthened considerably by the addition of Willie Kamm, the $100,000 third baseman, and two young outfielders, Elsh and Pennington. The possible absence of Ernie Johnson, a topppy shortstop, who fitted into the defense so well, may be a serious matter. Taylor, a recruit, looked good in the position, but he can't be rated a Johnson his first year out.

Offensively, Kid Gleason has a good team, with Eddie Collins in there fighting as he will be, unfair rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. Defensively, the Sox have been weakened by the refusal of Robertson, the crack young pitcher, to sign a contract. However, Gleason has Leverette, Blankenship and Faber, and several youngsters who show promise.

Any club bossed by the irrepressible Kid has the will to conquer. It is our opinion that Chicago has a pennant contender; a possible winner.

For some unfathomable reason some of the experts refuse to recognize the right of Connie Mack's Athletics to be granted a fighting chance for the flag. However, when one has spent some little time in the Mack camp he can't help but figure Connie has a "comeback". It is the fine spirit that prevails which is most impressive.

Sammy Hale, his $75,000 purchase, has given Mack an infield. Wid Matthews has added much strength to the outfield. Ed Rommel, the pitching ace, is bound to have some real help from other members of the curving corps, particularly two or three of the youngsters. The Athletics should have an attack not so very far inferior to that of Detroit. It is the conviction of this writer that Connie Mack has a first-division club; maybe not a winner this yaer, but a team with possibilities far beyond those expected with athletes who have been knocking around the cellar.

Yanks Will Have to Travel

But how, under the canopy of heaven, can the Yanks, as we saw them at New Orleans, finish in front of such spirited and active teams as the Tigers, White Sox and Athletics. You give the answer.

Admitted Ruth will start the season and will hit home runs—we do not regard him as mentally or physically fit to establish new records. The other stars on the club will do their stuff largely for personal glorification. The pitching staff has its greats and Herb Pennock should add strength. Miller Huggins, the wee manager, will lend his wise counsel when the stars will listen to him.

Speaker Rebuilding Team

Tris Speaker is rebuilding and his selections of Luitke for third base, Summa for an outfield post, Guisto for first base and Myatt as a 50-50 catcher with Steve O'Neill all seem wise and good. But if these new players come through, as they may, the pitching staff of the Indians does not look equal to the task of putting the Ohio entry up among the pennant contenders this year.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

My goodness! Do you remember how it rained in the last story? Well, I do. I was afraid that my typewriter would get wet and maybe get the razzle-dazz or something worse than the whooping "flu!"

Of course, the two little rabbits hopped out of the Luckymobile when they heard the voice ask them to come into the wood.

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Lucky after twenty-two hops and a half. "I don't see anything but rain here and there and everywhere."

"Come over to this old oak tree and

He pulled him out of his old stovepipe hat.

I will tell you who is me," answered the voice in poetry.

So the old gentleman rabbit and Little Jack Rabbit hopped over to the oak tree and the first thing they saw was a little door right in the trunk, and the next thing they saw was a nice fat squirrel with a red coat and a bushy tail.

"Come in out of the wet," he said.

"I don't dare take off my hat," said the old gentleman rabbit. "I'll have to explain 'cos'—see, the rain has leaked through the top till my head is two inches under water and if I lift up my dear old wedding stovepipe hat the water will run down my neck and tickle my feet."

"Ha, ha!" laughed the old squirrel. "I know a [illegible]. Stand on your head and then give a jump or a wiggle or two and you'll be all right."

"That's a good idea," said Uncle Lucky, so he stood on his head, but Oh dear me, when he tried to wiggle out of his old wedding stovepipe hat he couldn't. No, sir, he just couldn't that's all there was to it.

"Oh dear, oh dear, what shall I do? I'm standing on my head.
I can't get on my feet again—
I wish I was home in bed."

"Don't wiggle your hind legs," said the red squirrel, "if you stop wiggling your hind legs, I'll help you."

So Uncle Lucky kept perfectly still while the red squirrel climbed up on a chair and pulled him right out of his old wedding stovepipe hat. Wasn't that nice? Well, I guess it was, for the old gentleman rabbit was almost getting apple plexy.

Well, after that, they all sat round the fire and when the two little rabbits were nice and dry and the rain had stopped they said goodbye to the nice red squirrel and drove away in the Luckymobile, and by and by, after a while and many a mile, and maybe a smile, although I'm not so sure about that, they came to the house where Mr. Peter Pig lived.

Now Mr. Peter Pig was a very nice sort of a pig and everybody liked him, and as soon as Uncle Lucky tooted his horn Mr. Peter Pig came out on the porch and said: "What can I do for you?" and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Nicotine is an alkaloid. It belongs to that important class of organic substances which are particularly characterized by their extreme potent physiological properties. They are all very deadly poisons and generally of great utility to the physician. Such substances as morphine, cocaine, hemine strychnine, caffeine are alkaloids. Nicotine can, accordingly, exert a powerful action on the human system; in fact, it is a deadly poison, almost as poisonous as prussic acid gas. Nicotine itself is used on rare occasions in medicine as an antidote in strychnine poisoning and in the treatment of tetanus. Nicotine contains the element nitrogen. Accordingly, tobacco that is grown in a very rich soil which has been fertilized with a strong nitrogenous manure will be high in nicotine.—Scientific American.

THE THRIFTY PERSON.

When the government, through the treasury department, undertakes to set forth the meaning of thrift by issuing a pamphlet entitled "How Other People Get Ahead," it will appeal to some and others will shed it quite the same as water rolls off a duck's back.

This pamphlet tells what the government idea of a thrifty person is. It also defines a tightwad and a spendthrift. Each one will recognize the classes are decidedly different, although the wrong impression is too often held as to what a thrifty person is. It is a term that can be and often is taken to mean something far different from what is actually intended. Too many get the idea that a thrifty person is stingy.

The treasury department holds that a thrifty person is one who saves twenty cents of every dollar of income, spends fifty cents on living expenses, ten cents for education, ten cents for alms and ten cents for recreation. Stinginess cannot be considered as lurking in the system of an individual who makes such use of his funds.

The tightwad is pictured as one saving sixty cents of every dollar of income, uses thirty-seven cents for living expenses, and three cents for education, recreation and charity.

The spendthrift gets away with fifty-eight cents for living expenses out of every dollar income, spends forty cents for recreation, one cent each for education and charity and saves nothing.

Opinions will vary concerning these classifications. Some will modify in one respect and some in another. There may be cases which they do not fit at all. The object of the government in putting forth such a pamphlet must be to get before the people a better meaning of the term thrift. Such contrasts as it has drawn point plainly in that direction, and there can be no question but what the devotion of a proper amount to thrift would result in great benefit.

A BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

Among the things recommended by the president of the Pan-American conference is to get to know each other better through a better understanding of the languages. His idea is that North Americans should give more attention to the study of Spanish and South Americans to the study of English, that through such action the people of the two continents would come to understand each other better.

It is perfectly evident that there is merit in the suggestion. This country has experienced no little difficulty because of conditions growing out of this very lack of understanding. It has been repeatedly told us by South Americans that a certain preference for dealing with Europeans was that they could get what they wanted while in trading with the United States there was encountered the unpleasantness of being asked to take something that was not ordered.

A better understanding would do much to overcome this situation, and it is recognized that much more attention has been given to Spanish in the past few years than ever before. That this developed because of the opposition to German is partly true, but there was the additional ground for it in that we were developing new relationships with countries using that language and it thus became apparent that we needed the very thing which President Edwards of the Pan-American conference is now urging.

Courses in Spanish have been established in many schools, and many have taken up the study of it through classes that they might become proficient in its use with a view to travel either for business or pleasure in the countries to the south of us. When the last census that the South Americans show as much interest in getting the English language at their command there are good reasons for believing that the improved understanding will be easily recognized. It is a goal for which both groups of countries should strive with equal enthusiasm. Mutual desirability calls for mutual effort.

RUNNING DOWN THE FRAUDS.

It has been a long time since the first fellow was caught with a lot of valueless oil stocks, but it will be a much longer time before the last case of such a type will be registered. Trailing the swindler is no new task, yet it appears to be quite as necessary now as ever.

From such information as has been revealed concerning the operations of certain exploiters good reason exists for the department of justice devoting special attention to those who are making use of the mail for the purpose of disposing of shares in oil properties for which much is claimed but for which all has been said when the claims are presented.

It is easy by the use of the postal service to misrepresent. Glowing pen pictures of the wonderful opportunities for investors have served to separate many a person from his money. They were led to believe that all that was required was to forward the money and great riches were bound to follow, but the only result was a rich experience to the wives of the coterie of get rich quick operators.

Just as long as it is possible to use the mails for the purpose of getting in touch with those who are disposed to be free with their money when it comes to pursuing the absurd, the game of misleading the gullible and the practice of fraud is sure to get encouragement.

Uncle Sam has no thought of shutting out the legitimate dealer even in oil stocks. He is disposed, and properly so, to cut short the privileges of those who are engaged in questionable business. Perhaps those who have earned their dollars feel that they have a right to use them as they please but when they discover by the experience of others that they have narrowly escaped parting with their hard earned cash for a piece of worthless paper they begin to get their eyes open. The steps that are being taken by the government should therefore do much good as a protective measure if nothing else.

CAPE COD CANAL TOLLS.

With the increase in the tolls on the Cape Cod canal there will be another reason for bring increased pressure to bear upon congress for the purchase of that waterway.

If the canal company finds it cannot get along without additional revenue it must have taken into consideration the amount of business that could be expected to use Vineyard and Nantucket sounds and go around the cape in preference to the short cut. It must have figured so that it would not only be safer but less expensive for vessels to pay the increased charges than to bear the cost of traveling something like 60 miles additional to reach the same points. It is not in the position where it can afford to drive away business, but every time there is a boost in tolls it tends to that very thing.

Eliminating the dangerous trip around Cape Cod has been of great benefit to shipping. It has removed a particularly bad section of the coastal trip where shoals abound and the channel is none too wide. The canal has presented certain handicaps to big ships but the value of it is by no means small.

Whenever there is anything that bobs up to restrict the use of the canal, such as obstructions or higher tolls, there is certain to be increased pressure to have the government take it over. At the last session there was no lack of sentiment in its favor and had there not been such good reasons for curtailing expenditures there are good reasons for feeling its purchase would have been authorized. Another reason for buying is now offered.

GRASS AND WOODLAND FIRES.

How difficult it is to get a general response to much needed efforts even though the effort be small is indicated by the large number of forest fires that occur each spring and fall because those who are responsible for them fail to give the meager amount of cooperation that would prevent them.

Even if it is no more than grass fire it is well to give thought to proper safeguards before taking any chances. Those who display carelessness in the discarding of firebrands would be oblized to devote a bit of thought to what they are doing. But the prevention of serious losses, whether buildings or only standing timber are involved, is of sufficient importance to get greater consideration from that number of individuals who travel through the woods and fields, or who for one reason or another start fires which they cannot control.

Not all grass and forest fires can be attributed to the careless individual. There are those who go about it deliberately and overestimate their ability to restrict it, and there are many others which are started by locomotives. In this connection it is worthy of note that the New Haven road has agreed to cooperate with the state forester in clearing up its porperty along its tracks with a view to removing much that would serve as excellent material for kindling a fire should sparks drop in its midst.

If similar cooperation could be obtained from the careless big reductions in the number of fires would be made.

"Something ought to be done about it!" said the lady in the jade sweater who by no chance knew or did anything but expected somebody else to do it.

"It would just spoil the season to have a drowning," agreed the stout person in coral. "That child has been down there in the water for two hours now without a soul near him! Where is his mother?"

"Playing bridge," explained the woman who always kept track of everybody. "But she has a nurse—my goodness, he almost took a header into the deep pool then!"

"Well, where is the nurse?" demanded the practical woman who was always hand-hemstitching.

"Most anywhere but here," pleasantly explained the woman who kept track of folks. "If you gave that nurse a choice of fifty places to be in she would painstakingly choose any one of the forty-nine places where little Frederic wasn't! Heavens! Oh, he did manage to scramble out! Don't you think we ought to tell him to come out of the water and go home?"

"You do it," begged the stout woman in coral. "I should just love to see somebody real intense and powerful tell Frederic to do something and then make him do it! If you tied his hands and feet and glued his head to the right angle, I admit he would look precisely like one of Raphael's cherubs, but there is a striking difference from thence onward.

"Frederic is now aged 5 years, and if his calm determination that his way is best increases in direct ratio with his years by the time he is 25 the world may well tremble! I tried to lead him into other paths of endeavor when he was engaged in tying the tail of the Dinkweather's Angora cat to its left hind leg, and nothing could surpass the assured slightly bored scrutiny with which he favored me. When the cat finally lost its disposition and objected after the fashion of cats, Frederic favored me with one stormy, outraged look and then opened his mouth and yelled.

"It did not seem possible that so much noise was packed away in such a small boy and it disturbed even his mother, who hastened to the scene much annoyed because the bridge at that moment had been most tricky and unusual. Giving me a look even blacker than Frederic had bestowed, she addressed the top of the trees near by and confided that she did wish meddlers would attend to their own affairs and learn patience! Children, she said, were a responsibility. What is Frederic doing now?"

"I think," said my excited lady in the jade sweater, "that he is trying to see how far he can wade without stepping off the ledge out there! Oh, dear, what if he should step off?"

"There—he's come back to shore," sighed the woman who was hemstitching. "Oh, Frederic! Why don't you sit down and make some nice sand pies?"

"Donwantis!" Frederic called back coldly after coldly surveying the group on the hotel porch.

"Come right out of that water, Frederic Stevens!" suddenly commanded the practical woman, arising to her feet. "I can't stand it another minute! Come out!"

"Donhafto!" Frederic reminded her, waking in further.

"You see!" said the despairing lady in coral. "The child has brains! He doesn't have to because you have no authority over him!"

"Is it his idea that we are to sit here and watch him and his life?" demanded the lady in jade somewhat hysterically. "Oh, why doesn't somebody do something?"

"Well, he can wade faster than we can," the practical woman reminded her hopelessly. "I am so nervous I am just jerking and I know I shall have a headache! Why doesn't that woman attend to her child! I want to know!"

"You are doing it for her," explained the stout woman in coral. "And she has faith in the Ultimate Outcome—I heard her saying so the other day as she hastened from a bridge game at the north end of the veranda to one at the south end. There—he is standing on one toe on that little round rock at the edge—Frederic!"

There was a splash and as one body all the women rose and dashed toward the spot of the fatality, but before they got there the hotel porter arose from where he had been lying in the all beach grasses, stepped in, fished Frederic out from the depths and set him safely on the shore with an exasperated spank. "G'wan home!" he ordered fiercely.

"Well," quavered the woman in jade clutching her heart, "anyhow, he's going to drown sometime! The angels can't be on the job every minute! My goodness!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rooster Crowing Getting Worse.

Mr. Editor: What is the use of the lawmakers forming new laws if they are not going to be enforced? For instance, not long ago a law that meant much to the nerve erased ones was made, and one that was expected to bring much relief, but if it has had the desired result I am still in ignorance of it. It's bad enough to have several Rhode Island red roosters on their job at the dawn of day in the next yard to one, but when the owners, who are foreigners, refuse to close them up until 7 a. m. it's hard on those who are unable to endure it. If it ever gets warmer the nuisance will grow worse as these same roosters will not be satisfied to remain on their own premises but will take rest under our bedroom windows. This is not a necessary noise and should not be tolerated by any one who suffers from it and if it is not satisfied by law then all any of us can do is to take the bull by the horns. I think this noise has been more overlooked than before the law was made. If the Bulletin readers would write on the golden rule and how to love thy neighbor as thyself it might put into practice more of the religion and Christianity that some of them know so little about.

Wives of Famous Men

Martha Denny Martin, Wife of Stephen Douglas

It was, if there ever was one, a love match!" Thus wrote a biographer of the marriage of Martha Martin, traditional flower of the old South, to Stephen Douglas, Abraham Lincoln's famous opponent. And few people can entirely calculate the full extent of Martha Duglas' influence upon her husband's mind and career. Unusual beauty, combined with the charm of manner more often read about than experienced, was disarming. The human tendency to dissociate beauty and brains give Martha her great opportunity. Even Douglas himself never realized her power.

The young Senator was instantly captured by Martha's delightful presence and he sensed instinctively, rather than reasoned, that underneath her radiant manner the girl had a keeness of mind that would mean a great deal to him in his career.

All the public saw was the brilliant young Senator Douglas and his sweet young wife. Some people, it is said, were heard to express wonderment at his choice of a bride. But Martha's influence over her husband penetrated more deeply than any one at that time realized. The hospitality shown him at the home of his parents-in-law gave him most favorable opinion of the South, and the conditions on the Martin plantation showed him slavery at its best. Thus it was only natural that he should unconsciously acquire the Southern point of view on those all-important subjects Added to this was Martha's swaying of his views, so that this delicate, gracious super-feminine woman actually had a share in the shaping of the public mind.

Their domestic life was extraordinarily happy, and unfortunately brief, Martha, never very strong, succumbed after a brief illness blessing Douglas and thanking God for her happiness with her dying breath.

Stories That Recall Others

His Talent.

Catherine, aged four, had been playing with a group of neighbor children, when she went home very indignant over the conduct of one of the boys, and told her mother the naughty things he had done and said. Her mother asked her why she stayed, why she didn't come home and not play with such a bad boy. Her childish sympathy was immediately aroused and she said: "Why mother, he isn't all bad, he can spit farther than any of us."

The Turning Point.

Mr. and Mrs. X were guests at a dinner the other evening at which the conversation drifted to first experience with automobiles. It was then that Mrs. X. told of her first drive with her husband when he landed in front of the house one afternoon several years ago with a certain widely-known model.

"Come on, let's take a ride!" Mr. X. shouted.

"Why, how long have you had it, John?" the wife asked.

"Just an hour to the minute," was the reply.

Breathing a little prayer, Mrs. X. climbed in beside the man she had promised to love, honor and obey. He headed out for the state road, the little car wabbling to the nervous but determined steering of the man at the wheel.

Suddenly the car stopped, Mrs. X looked out. On one side was the river bank and on the other a big iron fence.

"What are you going to do, John?" the wife inquired rather anxiously.

"I'm going to turn around," was the cold, unemotional reply. Mrs. X. gasped, then stammered: "Well, you've picked out a grand little place to do it!"

When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

STRONG OPPOSITION TO THREE HEADED COMMISSION

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, April 5—The roads, rivers and bridges committee held a rehearing on the bill submitted by Senator Ellis of Waterbury and known as the Governor's bill, providing for a highway commission of three members.

In opening the hearing Senator MacDonald said that the committee was entirely open-minded concerning the matter of organizing the highway department and would largely be influenced in its decision by the suggestions of those who appeared before it.

The bill would create a three headed highway commission appointed by the governor, which would go into office July 1, 1923. A joint salary of $4,000 a year is provided for the commission. The new commission would supplant the present highway commissioner and would have under its direction a chief engineer in charge of road building.

With the exception of Senator Ellis, no one spoke in favor of the bill. After more than a score had expressed disapproval a rising vote was taken. More than fifty arose as opposed and no one arose as favoring it.

An executive session was held at the close of the hearing and it was voted to lay it on the table for consideration of the committee as to the action to be taken on the bill.

SAILOR FIGHTS TROLLEY CREW AT THAMESVILLE

Motorman Arthur Prodell, running on the 10.05 car out of here Thursday night for New London, was badly cut about the head in a fight started by a sailor whom the car crew was endeavoring to put off near Bushnell place. Prodell had to be taken off the run, brought to Franklin square to have his wounds dressed by Dr. W. T. Driscoll and another motorman ran the car to New London.

The sailor, who was Clifford Manuel of the submarine base, was raised by the police on the Central Vermont railroad tracks near the woolen mill, having run away after the fight.

Manuel, who was with three or four others before, was so noisy and obstreperous in the car that the conductor, Lawrence Weir, finally gave the motorman three bells for help to put the sailor off. When Prodell came to the back platform, Manuel tripped him and threw him against the controller, cutting his head badly.

Capt. D. J. Twomey sent a squad of officers down in the motor patrol wagon, but Manuel fled from the trolley car before the officers arrived. Their search located him on the railroad track.

The forty-eighth annual meeting of the New London County Medical association was held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Norwich Tuberculosis Sanatorium a large number attending. The meeting was called to order by Dr. L. M. Allyn of Mystic, Conn, president of the association, following which the minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary and treasurer Dr A. C. Freeman, of Norwich, and accepted as read.

Following the report by the various officers of the association the guests were introduced and a social time enjoyed.

The general business of the meeting began with the election of officers for the ensuing year resulting as follows: President, L. M. Allyn, Mystic; vice-president E. J. Brophy, Norwich; secretary and treasurer, A. C. Freeman, Norwich; councillor, C. C. Gildersleeve, Norwich; censors, E. K. Douglas, Groton; C. B. Graves, New London, R. R. Agnew, Norwich state delegates E. K. Devitt, Lyme, J. G. Stanton, New London and A. C. Freeman, Norwich.

Reports of various committees were heard followed by the election of new members and the transaction of regular business, new and old.

The scientific session opened with an address on Bladder condition as Applied to the General Practitioner, by B. A. Thomas, M. D., Philadelphia Pa., Dean of Urological Department of the Post Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania; Urological Surgeon, Polyclinic Hospital and Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia. At the conclusion of the most enlightening address by Dr. Thomas a general discussion of the subject was entered into by those present.

The meeting closed with several voluntary papers on medical subjects by members of the association.

At 7 o'clock the members were escorted into the dining hall at the institution where a most appetising dinner awaited them. NORWICH RADIO CLUB SEEKING LARGE MEMBERSHIP

The regular meeting of the Norwich Radio club was held Thursday evening in the club rooms in the Thayer building, L. J. Smith presiding.

A receiving set has been installed at the club rooms and the prospects of a 10 Watt C. W. Transmitter are good. Several subjects of interest were discussed one of the most popular being the new Fluvelling Super-circuit which was submitted in a working model for the approval of the club by Mr. Smith.

The club voted to hold its weekly meeting every Tuesday night instead of Thursday nights as has been done in the past.

During the meeting a most interesting paper was read by Mr. Smith which in part was as follows:

There must be at least two hundred radio receiving sets in the city of Norwich and with receiving stations so close together if the sets are not properly tuned they will cause interference for the others listening in to the broadcast music. This interference can be eliminated by learning how to tune the set properly and do away with this unnecessary interference and obtain maximum results from the set. It is the object of the club to teach its members how to tune their sets for maximum efficiency. There also seems to be difficulty for the broadcast listeners to distinguish the amateur stations from the commercial stations and anyone that knows the code can readily distinguish one from the other by their call letters. It is the object of the club to teach its members how to read the code and teach them to copy the different stations.

Friends, lets all get together and start tonight, to put Norwich on the radio map. Remember, you are doing this for your own benefit and pleasure, and a Radio club in any city, of any size, cannot exist unless it has the unstinted co-operation of all its members, so lets show them what we can do and "Go Over the Top!"

Church Will Receive Over 50.

At the Thursday evening service at the Central Baptist church, Rev. David A. Pitt, the pastor, spoke on church matters during the prayer service. At the conclusion of the service the congregation adjourned to the church auditorium where Rev. Dr. Pitt baptized two converts to the faith of Christ. Seven were received on Thursday evening.

At the service Sunday morning the right hand of fellowship will be extended by Rev. Dr. Pitt to over 50 of those who have been baptised during the past two weeks. During the recent evangelistic services held last fall at the church the members set a goal of 50 conversions before Easter Sunday. The pledge was carried out with several to spare, much to the satisfaction of those who had banded together in the great work of the church.

Ansonia—Last tribute was paid to Herbert A. Steeling, for 10 years managing editor of the Ansonia Sentinel. Mr. Stocking, who died Tuesday morning, following an illness of pneumonia, which was followed by complication of troubles, was laid at rest in Pine Grove cemetery.

WILLIMANTIC BOY IS KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Apr. 6.—Stanley Michalski, aged 7, son of Mrs. Mary Michalski, of 70 Lyon street, is in the St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries reported to be in a serious condition as the result of being struck and run over by an automobile owned and driven by Albert Kelly of this city. Kelly, who is an employe of Contractor P. Altera, was proceeding down Lower Main street about 4.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon when just opposite Hecht's national park two boys started across the street. From what could be learned Kelly avoided hitting one of the boys, but became confused and Stanley Michalski was knocked down and run over. Mr. Kelly rushed the child to St. Joseph's hospital and then reported the accident to the local police department. He was placed under arrest but later released under bonds of $1,000 furnished by Mr. Ahern. Kelly will appear before the police court next Monday morning, that date being set in order to allow time for further developments in the boy's condition.

LAYS CHAMPION EGG IN STORRS CONTEST

The champion egg for the year was laid by a White Leghorn hen owned by James O. LeFevre of White Paltz, N. Y., during the twenty-second week of the twelfth egg laying contest at Storrs. This egg was 73 millimeters or 2.87 inches in length, 54.4 millimeters or 2.14 inches in diameter and weighed 117.5 grams or a little over four ounces. Its area was 17.3 square inches. It is about 5 3-5 inches in circumference longitudinally and 6 7-8 inches in circumference latitudinally.

The total production for the week was 3332 eggs or a yield of nearly 55 percent. This is 52 eggs less than last week's production and a drop of 587 eggs less than the 5th year average for the same week. Again the heavy breeds captured all the prizes for the week. These prizes were distributed amongst the Reds and Barred Rocks. Fellows Brothers Rhode Island Reds from Norwich Town, Conn. won the week with a production of 57 eggs. The nearest competitors were two pens of Rhode Island Reds entered by H. P. Deming of Winsted, Conn., and Charles H. Lane of Southboro, Mass. These pens produced 55 eggs each. Keoweydin Farm's Barred Rocks from Darien, Conn. were third with a yield of 54 eggs. A pen of Barred Rocks owned by the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelp, Ontario and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by E. Newton Searls of Pomfret Center, Conn., both tied for fourth place with a production of 53 eggs each.

Prolapsus of the oviduct seems to occur during the heavy laying season. This disease can be recognized by a mass of red or bloody tissue projecting from the vent. Treatment consists of catching the individual and if the case is only slight, and there is no evidence of injury from the other birds, keep the bird on short rations for a week so as to stop egg production until the muscles have become normal. If the case is bad and the projecting parts have been badly torn, kill the bird and use it for food. For flock treatment, if the birds are constipated give them epson salts at the rate of one pound to 100 birds and follow with a liberal amount of green food. It is also well to reduce the amount of beef scrap in the mash.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

Plymouth Rocks.

REV. W. H. BATH PRESENTS REPORT ON METHODIST CHURCHES IN THIS DISTRICT

Rev. W. H. Bath of this city, superintendent of Norwich district of the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church presented his annual district report Thursday at the annual meeting of the conference in New London.

The following was his report, which was received with applause for his concluding words:

Norwich District

For the first time since 1916 the annual conference meets on Norwich district. The Connecticut end of the conference is a land of steady habits, diversified industry and genuine hospitality. While it boasts no great cities with teeming populations, yet from its towns and villages have gone many men of note and influence—a teacher like Professor C. T. Winchester, born in the Uncasville parsonage; a missionary like David Brainerd, a writer like Donald C. Mitchell; a preacher and evangelist like Lorenzo Dow, who was converted in the South Coventry church; a patriot like Nathan Hale; also of South Coventry. If alien faces and alien tongues are increasingly common it is equally true that a small group of the aborigines still remains. The title of James Fenimore Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans" is not historically accurate. It may be of interest to you to know that a living member of Trinity church, Norwich, claims to be the last of that tribe. To Connecticut and to Norwich district we bid you hearty welcome.

Pastoral and Personal

The annual conference adjourned with the district superintendent rejoicing that every charge was manned. The joy was short-lived. Sunday brought news that two supplies had fallen by the way. In a short time, however, Rev. George W. Potter, a local preacher in Oneco, was secured for Niantic and Lyme, and Rev. W. B. Collier, a student in Hartford Theological Seminary, for East Hampton and Marlborough. When in September the board of foreign missions took Brother Collier for India, Bishop Hughes transferred Rev. Albert Abbott from Vermont to succeed him. In June there died a noble man, Rev. O. F. Newton, a man of spiritual insight and practical achievement who never had a big charge but never did small work. After many weeks Rev. E. N. Dabritz, a student in Boston, came to shepherd the faithful flock at Old Mystic. Rev. Samuel Thatcher, a brother, beloved, died suddenly in November, since which time Rev. C. M. Keefer has supplied at Bridgeton. When Rev. Herbert Curnee left Portland in the fall to study in Boston university, Rev. C. B. Thompson, a missionary on furlough, took up the work. Upon the appointment of Dr. Roberts to the superintendency of New Bedford district, Rev. J. H. Graham was appointed to Norwich Trinity and has begun his work with energy. Rev. D. A. Blake was released from Manchester in December because of illness and Rev. Robert Thorne has carried on the work. Rev. C. C. Weimar left East Blackstone and Millville in early winter and was followed by Rev. Raymond L. Hart.

In addition to the deaths noted above, two retired ministers have died—Rev. John Thompson, for more than forty years a preacher of Jesus and the resurrection, and Rev. H. H. Arthemy who through his consecration of life, money and business ability, was a mighty influence for good in the community where he dwelt and the conference of which he was so long a member. During the year we have been bereft of a number of the laity who have been important factors in the work of their local churches—Messrs. Albert E. Hayes of Windsorville, Welcome Davis of Eastford, Hector McConnell of Attawaugan, Allen Bridge of Hazardville, Mrs. Cossette Lippitt of Norwich, Miss J. Arded Manff of Millville and Mrs. D. B. Gilbedt of Putnam. May all who sorrow in these losses have caught some new vision of Him who heals the broken heart and befriends the lonely.

The severity of the winter has affected the work. Sickness has been general in our communities, visiting nearly every parsonage and keeping half the preachers from their pulpits for periods ranging from one to six Sundays.

Twice during the year wedding bells have run in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper, of South Manchester, Miss Ruth Willard Cooper being united in marriage with Mr. Ralph Hunter Bailey, of Stoughton, Mass., and Mr. Frank Cyril Cooper with Miss Mary Dittmer, of Brookline, Mass. In September Miss Gladys L. Thompson, daughter of the late Rev. John Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, became the bride of Dr. W. J. Jamieson, under appointment as medical missionary to Ceylon. At Christmas, Miss Winifred Wilbur, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Wilbur, of Oneco, was united in marriage with Mr. John Mackie of Sterling. The good wishes of many conference friends follow these young people. Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Thompson also Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Dabritz are open to congratulations on the coming of young sons to their homes. It is prophetic that one of these little gentlemen is already commonly referred to in the community as "the bishop."

Federation and Consolidation

Need for readjustment of the religious forces in Wapping has long been felt. The method only was uncertain. Last fall a joint committee representing the Methodist Episcopal and the Congregational churches unanimously recommended federation, which recommendation was adopted. The two congregations now unite for work and worship under the leadership of the Methodist pastor, Rev. T. H. Woodward, and the plan seems to work happily.

There are many places on the district where duplication of churches militates against the best work for the Kingdom. It ought to be said, however, that federation is not a panacea. It is palliative rather than remedial. At best—or worst—federation is but a stepping stone, a tarrying place. It is not necessarily a solution of the problem. It may represent a failure to face squarely the issue.

During the year, North Main street church, Norwich, which had been federated with the Third Baptist church, was by the writ of Bishop Hughes, consolidated with Trinity church. The consolidation will be known under the historic name, "Trinity church."

At South Glastonbury we have had an organization that for years has been scarcely more than nominal. Only two resident members remain. The trustees petition a readjustment that will merge the South Glastonbury property interests with Hockanum.

Anniversaries.

On Sunday, Oct. 29, the Danielson church observed its 80th anniversary, Rev. Ray E. Hunt preaching in the morning and the district superintendent in the evening. On this occasion the people brought in birthday gifts to make possible the repairs on the property.

Westerly observed its 75th anniversary Oct. 8-15. On the first Sunday Dr. L. G. Horton, a former pastor, brought inspiring messages. The district superintendent preached the second Sunday. A special feature of the week was an original historic pageant prepared by Mrs. T. P. Nichols. An advance movement was inaugurated during the celebration, which includes among the objectives immediate erection of a parish house. This church, under the forward-looking leadership of the pastor, Rev. M. S. Stocking, has caught a vision of its possibilities and is setting out to realize them.

Gifts and Bequests.

East Hampton has received $1,000 from the estate of Herbert Clark; Putnam, $606.75 from the estate of Mrs. Lydia Haskell; Warehouse Point, $564.61 from the estate of Mrs. Ida Cutler. Mrs. P. H. Opie has given $2,000 for the complete modernizing of the Westerly parsonage. Mrs. Henry Gilnack has left a farm, one-fourth of which, upon the death of her husband, goes to the East Glastonbury church. Mrs. C. H. Truesdell has given a communion table and the Epworth league has given pulpit chairs to the Attawaugan church.

A modest and devoted member of the South Manchester church has placed with the Manchester Trust company the sum of $30,000 toward a building fund, provided the church within a specified time raise an additional $100,000 in cash and bona fide pledges. The financial campaign will soon be put on. A strong committee is at work on the building plans.

I want to speak a word of appreciation for some unusual work done by Noyes B. Allyn in the interest of the Gales Ferry church. Realizing the inability of the church adequately to support itself, he undertook the task of raising a permanent fund. That was 18 years ago. The fund has passed the $3,000 mark, representing more than 3,500 contributions ranging from one cent to $250. A bulletin board presents the daily status of the fund. Mr. Allyn has designated $2,000 in his will to the church provided it shall raise $200 a year until the fund amounts to $10,000. Such practical interest in the church might well be emulated.

Property.

Baltic has improved its lighting and heating system. Electric lights have been placed in the parsonages at Bridgeton, Old Mystic, Portland, Putnam and in the chapel at Niantic. New furnaces have been placed in the district parsonage and in the parsonages at Portland and Trinity. Paint on the parsonage, repairs and new walks at the church improve the Danielson property. Rev. J. H. Miller with his own hands has added a large piazza to the East Thompson parsonage. The spire of the East Hampton church, destroyed by fire, has been rebuilt and the interior of the church redecorated. A new electrically lighted bulletin board helps advertise the church functions at Moosup. The North Grosvenordale people have completely renovated their vestry. Trinity church, Norwich, has re-roofed the church and rebuilt its walls.

Putnam has re-shingled the minister's home. Rockville made improvements on both church and parsonage. An oak floor has been laid in the auditorium at Warehouse Point. Two splendid tennis courts have been built on the church grounds at Mapleville. About $1,400 has been expended in improving the Camp Meeting grounds at Willimantic. These and other repairs and improvements represent an outlay of nearly $18,000.

Jewett City and East Hartford have each paid $100 on indebtedness, Rockville $200, Thompsonville $400.

Financial Method.

Nearly every church has adopted the every member canvass and the duplex envelope. Wherever this method is earnestly followed, there is no financial stress.

Centenary and Conference Claimants.

Bishop Fisher visited the district on the "I Will Maintain" campaign. A fine body of our people came together at Willimantic to receive his message. The allotment to the district was met, mostly by the bringing up of arrearages. For the year, twenty churches report an increase in centenary payments, about fifteen report a decrease, but the total in money for the year will represent a slight increase. We shall need to take this cause upon our hearts as we enter the new year, that the centenary period may close in triumph.

Not all the churches will pay the conference claimants' apportionment in full. In some instances the vision is lacking; in some, the ability. In illustration of the latter, the apportionment for one church on this district amounts to more than four dollars for every family in the constituency. The small churches, some of them very poor, feel keenly the rapid increase in their apportionment. In a period of two years the change in basis of apportionment meant for the larger churches an increase in the apportionment ranging from 30 per cent to 200 per cent. The same changes represented for the smaller churches an increase in the apportionment ranging from 250 per cent to 650 per cent and in one case, due partly to salary increase, of more than 1500 per cent. The danger is that an impossible apportionment will discourage certain churches from doing what they can. No basis of apportionment will satisfy every particular case. But it would seem that there might be flexibility enough to adjust the apportionment to the ability of the church. Some churches can easily pay the present obligation, and more. Some cannot. Here is a sample case; but not an isolated one: A certain small church pays $650 cash salary, but is able to do so because of $440 annually received from invested funds for pastoral support. The ability of this handful of people is measurably represented in the $210 they raise. To ask of that church $67 for conference claimants and $55 more for bishop and district superintendent, a total of $122, saying nothing of the benevolent askings, is unreasonable. My plea is for justice to the small church struggling against depressing conditions. Obligations to the retired preacher must not be slighted; neither must the small church be unduly burdened. Some of the embarrassment would be relieved if the permanent funds for this cause might be greatly increased.

Zion's Herald

Reports indicate that about 500 Zion's Heralds and a considerable number of Christian Advocates are taken. The Herald is a welcome visitor wherever it comes. There is no better church paper and we commend it to our people.

Willimantic Camp Meeting and Epworth League Institute

Again the Camp Meeting showed an increased attendance. Also the institute, with an enrollment of 377, passed the high record of the previous year. It was a great week. Young and old as they left the grounds said, "Surely the Lord was in this place." Preachers from the district, Revs. W. E. Platzon, E. A. Legg, H. B. Wilber, Joseph Cooper, R. L. Roberts, L. G. Horton, were heard gladly. The messages of Dean Beebe, Professor Chantler of Wesleyan, Rev. A. Earl Kernahan and Dr. George Elliott stirred the mind and warmed the heart. Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens gave valuable assistance in a course on Sunday School Methods. The singing under the leadership of Mr. E. C. W. Smith was a special feature. Much of the program is fixed for the coming summer. The institute will enlarge its scope and is aiming at an enrollment of 400.

Membership

The winning of souls is our chief business. Incomplete reports indicate that 238 have been received into preparatory membership, 390 into full membership and that there has been a net gain of 243 full members. I hope that nothing will happen in the final figuring to lessen the apparent gain which is not big enough to occasion either boasting or complacency. Burnside reports 40 accessions; Baltic 44, Attawaugan 15, Mystic and Noank 27; New London 56; Norwich Trinity 27; Putnam 38, Rockville 40; Uncasville 18, Westerly 41.

We must not allow ourselves to think that the foregrowing of our territory has exhausted the opportunity for evangelistic effort. It is far from true. In the state of Connecticut there are four-fifths as many unchurched Protestants as the entire Roman Catholic population. In round numbers there are said to be 420,000 Protestants who are not church members, while the total Roman Catholic population is about 525,000. In the Sunday schools of Connecticut are enrolled 133,000 children and young people under the age of 25, but there are reported to be 161,000 nominal Protestants of that age outside the Sunday school. Statistics would indicate that for all New England there are nearly three Protestant non-members for every member in the church. The door of opportunity is wide open.

Organizations

Too much cannot be said in appreciation of the Ladies' Aid societies. They abound in every good work, spiritual as well as material. The ladies at New London, Westerly, Willimantic, South Manchester have raised large sums of money. No less worthy of note are small societies of Gurleyville and West Thompson, where $171 and $275 represents as much as the thousand elsewhere. Some of these societies are doing excellent work as parish visitors.

The Epworth League at South Manchester has been reorganized. Leagues at Niantic, Willimantic and Attawaugan have shown renewed vitality. The men's organizations at Baltic, Rockville, South Manchester, Westerly, Willimantic are vigorous adjuncts to the church work.

Some Items of Interest

The church Training Night idea grows. Special results have been reported especially at Westerly, Moosup, New London (classes in Bible, Mission, dramatics, stewardship, teacher training, church history and doctrine mean for more intelligent and more efficient leadership in our local churches.

Two meetings of unusual profit have recently been held by the Protestant ministers of New London county. One was given to an all-day consideration of the work and aims of the several denominations. The experiment was so profitable that it will be repeated. The second, under the auspices of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., and made up of essentially the same persons, afforded opportunity to listen twice to wisdom and inspiration from the brain and heart of Dr. C. K. Jefferson. Such gatherings make for inter-denominational understanding and co-operation.

Rev. Herbert L. Wilber is a real itinerant, preaching four times and attending two Sunday schools each Sunday. Jewett City is the head of the circuit. At Voluntown, the receiving of eleven meant a doubling of the resident membership. Griswold raised $196 to help the pastor buy a car.

Rev. C. W. Packer, of Niantic, has established a preaching place for the summer visitors at Saunders Grove. He has also organized a small Sunday school for the Protestant children in the Seaside sanatorium.

The church at Hockanum is planning to enlarge its vestry at a cost of not more than $5,000. Hazardville will soon undertake extensive repairs and improvements.

Rev. G. H. Wilber was instrumental in having 50 street lamps set up in the village of Oneco, greatly to the people.

Conclusion

Much must be omitted from the report. Suffice to say that in spite of certain difficulties real gains have been made. And just one word more. Nowhere can more devoted men be found than the pastors of this district. Faithfully, consecrated sacrificially, they prove to do the real work of the ministers. Intimate fellowship with them has been an ordinary privilege. It has been sacramental. For fellowship with them and with the splendid laity of the district, and for the privilege of sharing in the work of the advancing Kingdom, I would lift my voice and heart in reverent thanksgiving to Almighty God.

LATE WINTER COLDS OFTEN FATAL
TAKE NO CHANCES—USE VAPOR-EZE

Eminent medical authorities have recently called attention to the fact that the greatest number of deaths from pneumonia occur during the late winter and early spring. That is why it is of the utmost importance, at this time of year, to get rid of a cold as quickly as possible. Give it no chance to develop into pneumonia or influenza.

Sterling's Vapor-Eze acts on a cold in head or chest, in two ways at once. First, its antiseptic properties destroy the germ that causes the cold, and, secondly, its healing, soothing vapors penetrate deep down into the air passages, restoring the membranes to a normal, healthy condition and thoroughly breaking up congestion.

Simply rub Sterling's Vapor-Eze on the throat and chest at bedtime, and place a little of this healing antiseptic ointment up the nostrils and breathe that cold away. Be sure to get the genuine Sterling's Vapor-Eze from your druggist. A 25 cent jar will do the trick. Look for the name "Sterling's"

RHEUMATISM PAINS ARE NOW IN SEASON

Says glass of Salts helps to overcome Rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than cure, says a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine, the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Twenty-five Days of Intensive Selling

In this great array of Anniversary offerings lies the culmination of weeks—yes, months of preparation. Here is news of the most important merchandising event ever attempted by this organization during its fifty years of storekeeping. An event so great in size—involving thousands of dollars' worth of new goods—that it will linger long in the memory of the people of Eastern Connecticut. An event establishing low price levels, on new wanted merchandise, beyond the dream of the buying public. An event that sets a new record in value-giving.

In our preparations for this Golden Anniversary Celebration, we have utilized, to the greatest extent, the co-ordinated efforts of our buying organization to make possible these Anniversary offerings. All of our sources of supply have contributed their quota. Manufacturers have ignored their own costs. We have priced the offerings almost on a cost basis. The aim has been to achieve the presentation of the season's newest merchandise running the entire list of requirements for person and for home, at about half the ordinary prices.

THE GREAT SALE, CELEBRATING OUR 50th ANNIVERSARY, WILL START SATURDAY, APRIL 7th. WE EARNESTLY INVITE YOU TO SHARE IN ITS WONDERFUL BENEFITS.

ONE OF NORWICH'S GREAT BUSINESS INSTITUTIONS WILL CELEBRATE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

THE HISTORY OF THE PORTEOUS & MITCHELL COMPANY. WHAT ENERGY, APPLICATION AND AMBITION HAS ACCOMPLISHED.

Saturday, April 7th, will signalize the rounding out of fifty years in the dry goods business in Norwich for Messrs. Porteous and Mitchell. When a business house has attained to that age with a growth during that period from a small local store attended by a mere handful of clerks to a commercial establishment of state-wide reputation it has written a history of success that stands as an important commentary upon the business methods of a nation.

Business a Public Service.

Every business man is in a sense a public servant. He serves the public and is a factor in shaping the business

JOHN PORTEOUS, President
The Porteous & Mitchell Co

customs and policies of the country, that tend to uniformity and common practice and finally culminate in recognized principles that are not only accepted by the people at large but by the very courts of the country. The business man, therefore, who rises above the plane of an ordinary trader and becomes one of the pioneers in the introduction of business or trading principles that redound to the benefit of society, becomes a public benefactor and is a proper subject for discussion.

Review of Career.

Good government in the legislative and administrative branches of the law is synonymous with good government in the executive and administrative branches of commercial business. So well recognized has the application of these principles to business become, that the public has learned to look upon successful business men with as much interest and concern as upon successful statesmen, and it will, therefore, be considered entirely within the rules of propriety to review the business career of the men at the head of the most prominent mercantile house in Norwich, one that has been a potent factor in shaping the business policy in this city and that all recognize as beneficial to the entire community. In fact it would be no exaggeration to state that with the advent in business of Messrs. Porteous and Mitchell in Norwich, began a new era for this fair city that has not only given it a metropolitan air but has placed the general public in a position to enjoy the same trading advantages enjoyed by the people of the larger cities in the country.

A. MITCHELL, Jr., Treasurer
The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

Looking Backward to 1873.

It was in March, 1873, that James Hislop, John Porteous and Archibald Mitchell came to Norwich and leased the store, No. 170 Main street, in the Richards building, which had just become vacant. It was a small store as stores go now, having about 1,800 square feet of floor space, but at that time it was considered a store of some size and the landlord, Charles L. Richards, since deceased, said to the new tenants, "You have all the room you will ever need." Five clerks in addition to the proprietors, constituted the entire working force of the new firm. It is interesting to review the first announcement of the new store which appeared in the columns of the Bulletin fifty years ago and which is reproduced on this page—also the article, which appeared in the news columns of the Bulletin, in the same year, on the Monday following the opening, and which is likewise reproduced on this page. Comparing the modest seven-inch advertisement of that date with the page advertisement which the Porteous & Mitchell Company publishes in this issue, announcing an anniversary observance to begin tomorrow and to continue for twenty-five days, tells more than the same relative progress in the methods of publicity now employed, that may be observed in the conduct of business fifty years ago and today.

Early Business Training.

Before coming to Norwich all the members of the new firm had obtained a thorough acquaintance with the details of the dry goods business by a long apprenticeship in their native country—Scotland. This was supplemented by several years' service with the firm of Brown, Thomson & McWhirter of Hartford, now The Brown, Thomson Company. These, then, were the men who founded the business which in half a century has grown from a small store occupying 1,800 square feet of floor space to an establishment which contains nearly 40,000 square feet of floor space and has a working force of more than 100 people, continuously employed.

General Business Helped.

One of the earliest predictions that followed the introduction of the department store methods into the business life of the nation, was that the day of the small store had passed. It has been demonstrated, taking Norwich as an example, that instead of curtailing small businesses and interfering with small stores, a great centralized business like a department store helps the general business of a community by attracting custom from the territory outside the limits of the town and that fact is evidenced by the number and prosperity of the small stores, as compared with fifty years ago, that line the business section of the city as well as spread themselves throughout the suburbs.

Policy of New Firm.

The business of The Porteous & Mitchell Company, since its founding in 1873, has been a constantly progressive, growing and unfolding one. "How can we better serve the public?" is the eternal question that is always in the minds of the store's executives and the members of the sales force.

The first year's business, while satisfactory was necessarily in the nature of pioneer work, but because of the progressive methods adopted the store prospered from the start. They introduced the "one price to all" system, a policy which was practically unknown in merchandising in Norwich up to the time of the coming of the young merchants. They further practiced the rule which, even in this day, is an important essential in retailing, of aiming above all things to please their customers. To this end they were particularly careful to sell "quality goods". They saw to it that their small force of clerks stated with truth and exactness the merits of the articles which they sold. The customer found that he had received just what had been promised him over the counter, or if anything a little better. The saying that "quality goods" is a potent factor in commercial success has grown trite, in these days, with repetition, but nevertheless it was a foremost agency in the future success of the small business enterprise which had its beginning in the spring of 1873.

Golden Rule in Business.

The Porteous & Mitchell Company was among the leaders in the business world to develop a spirit of mutuality of interest between buyer and seller; and through all its years of growth the company has had a well established policy in storekeeping which protected the rights of the buying public and contributed greatly to instill popular confidence in the store and its wares. Among the business principles early adopted by the company, and which are part of the store policy today, are the following:

"One price and that the lowest consistent with reliable quality."

"Exchange of goods or refund of money within certain hygienic limits."

"Freedom and courtesies of the store without obligation to buy."

"To see that prices are kept low by scientific methods—a boon to all the people—and not by substituting inferior qualities."

Growth Was Rapid.

It was not long before the original store, which the landlord predicted would be big enough for all time, began to seem small and additional room was needed. This was gained by taking room in the Bulletin building which additional space was devoted to the dress fabric department. A few years later a further extension was made by taking in the store in the Rockwell building, formerly occupied by N. and L. S. Winslow. This was an important step as it not only gave the firm a material increase in store area, but added a large frontage on Main street of great value for display purposes. The firm's business increased even more rapidly with the addition mentioned and soon demanded further extension of store space.

Two More Stores Added.

The next addition was the two Main street stores of the Bulletin building, before occupied by the post office and the stationery store of Charles A. Burnham, and a little later the quarters in the Richards building where had been the First National Bank. This gave the firm a continuous frontage on Main street of 160 feet. Again in 1906 the firm made another enlargement, one of the most important additions of its mercantile career. It leased the entire five floors of the Bulletin building and proceeded to fit up the additional room in the most up-to-date way. A modern elevator was installed, new departments were added and practically every department in the store was enlarged.

Retail and Wholesale.

This last change gave the people of Norwich a department store which in stock and equipment is unsurpassed by any store in eastern Connecticut. In the meantime, while they were developing the retail end of the business, a wholesale department had been added, occupying quarters in the Richards and Bulletin building on Water street, which was gradually built up on a corresponding scale with the retail department. It now occupies four large stores in the two buildings named, and the stock carried is a very large and varied one. While naturally not so familiar to the regular patrons as the retail branch, it supplies many dealers in Norwich and vicinity with their entire stock of goods.

Business Interests Extended.

Within three years from the founding of the Norwich store a branch store was opened in New London and James Hislop took charge of the firm's interests there. This was but a forerunner of many other departures. In March, 1885, a new store was opened in Grand Rapids, Mich., which is conducted under the firm name of Charles Trankla Co., and which has become one of the leading stores in that busy city of the middle west. Charles Trankla, a native of this city, who gained his training in the local store of the company, is the managing partner of the Grand Rapids store, and he has directed its affairs with signal ability. In March, 1906, another store was established in Portland, Maine, being known as The Porteous, Mitchell & Braun Co., and is under the management of Robert Braun and John B. Porteous, both of whom are natives of Norwich, and gained their knowledge of the business with the parent house in this city.

Advantageous Buying Connections.

It is not only by these several branch stores that The Porteous & Mitchell Co. has increased its buying capacity; they are one of the founders and hold a membership in the Dry Goods Union of New York City, with a central office at 433 Fourth avenue. This is one of the largest organizations of its kind in America, with a purchasing power of more than twenty-five millions of dollars annually. In their New York office a competent force of buyers is maintained who are in daily communication with the largest producers of every kind of merchandise that is handled by department stores. The members of the union form a purchasing unit, the magnitude of which is known and respected by every jobber and manufacturer. This important connection gives the patrons of the local concern a service which, from a standpoint of newness in merchandise and economy in prices, is unsurpassed by any other store in Connecticut. Moreover, The Porteous & Mitchell Co. has always enjoyed a reputation for fair dealing and of selling only merchandise of well known dependability. They believe that nothing is cheap that does not have sufficient quality to give an honest return in service for the money paid for it.

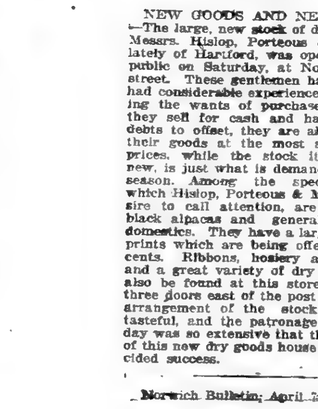
Makes Shopping a Pleasure.

But while the Porteous & Mitchell Co. is recognized as the largest business institution of its kind in eastern Connecticut, it is not its great size alone that interests the buying public. Rather, it is the variety and character of the stocks of merchandise which it carries that has the greatest appealing force. The policy of the company is to gather under one roof the greatest possible variety of merchandise for personal wear and the furnishing of the home; to select this merchandise with expert care and wise discrimination—buying always dependable goods, but buying with such knowledge and judgment that the merchandise may be sold at the lowest possible prices.



JOHN M. LEE, Director
The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

Complete Stocks of Merchandise.

If there are any who visit the store for the first time during the anniversary celebration they will be surprised and delighted at the extent and variety of the display. Starting at the top or third floor they will find a broad and satisfying exhibit of floor coverings and drapery materials, everything for beautifying the home. On this floor are also shown the well known "P & M." sewing machines which are giving satisfaction in hundreds of homes hereabouts and which have revolutionized the selling of sewing machines by affording an opportunity to purchase a dependable sewing machine at prices much less than are usually charged for these necessary household articles. Housekeepers will also be interested in knowing that the latest labor-saving devices for housecleaning, including leading makes of carpet sweepers and vacuum cleaners, are exhibited in this department.

Second Floor Display.

Next comes the second floor, where will be found an extensive display of apparel for women, children and infants, such as tailored suits, stylish coats, smart dresses, dainty muslin underwear, all the best known makes of corsets and unusually attractive display of infants wearables, including coats, dresses, caps, etc. The main floor presents the greatest variety of merchandise as it is on this floor that located the boys clothing department which is favorably known to nearly all parents of boys, the department for silks and woolen dress goods with its splendid display of new fabrics and new spring colorings and the departments devoted to the sale of the accessories to the toilet, including hair goods, jewelry, toilet articles, leather goods, women's neckwear, ribbons, handkerchiefs, gloves, hosiery, knit underwear, laces, trimmings, small wares, etc.

Millinery in Annex.

In the annex adjoining the main floor, is the millinery department—a most fascinating spot for women during these early spring days. The Porteous & Mitchell Co. is especially noted for its millinery. Here is where the exceptional buying facilities of the company are seen to best advantage and its claim of "style, quality and fair prices" is forcibly emphasized in the offerings of stylish headwear at moderate prices.

The Basement Departments.

Pushing to the basement departments we find a complete showing of articles of household utility. The domestic department which is located in the basement, is one of the largest and most important in Connecticut, and includes every variety of the better quality up to the finest in muslins, linens, sheets, pillow cases, bed spreads, blankets, fine table linens and towelings. Adjoining is the wash goods, another important department here.

L. R. PORTEOUS, Secretary
The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

The showing of new wash goods is varied and attractive and all the novelty and staple weaves are represented. On this same floor is located the housefurnishing department with its hundreds of useful articles for household use.

Of Interest To Men.

The store caters to men as well as women and has a splendidly equipped men's department with a separate entrance. The display of men's wear is unusually complete. The Porteous & Mitchell Co. specializes in men's clothing and in addition to their clothing line, which includes the product of some of the best makers in the country, they show a very complete line of the best kind of men's furnishings. Men who are not regular patrons of this branch of the company's business will be surprised and delighted by a visit to "The Men's Store" during the anniversary celebration.

By Mail and Telephone.

In addition to the large patronage which The Porteous & Mitchell Company enjoys from the many thousands who visit the store during the course of a year, they also do an extensive busines by mail and telephone. They have a very complete telephone service on every floor of the establishment, enabling patrons to communicate direct with every department in the store. Orders by mail are given careful attention by experienced shoppers, thereby insuring satisfactory service. Those who do not find it convenient to visit the store at all times, in person, realize that they may trade by mail or telephone, with this up-to-date store and be assured of right goods at right prices, and the privileges of a willing exchange of goods or a refund of money, whenever anything is unsatisfactory. And now that the parcel post is in operation the people of eastern Connecticut, all of whom live within the first zone, thereby being entitled to the lowest rates, are enabled to have all their purchases delivered at a minimum cost. This simply supplements the delivery system of the company, as it has always been a part of the store policy to pay all freight expenses and mail charges, anywhere in Connecticut, on all purchases of $5.00 or over.

The Two Founders.

As the career of a business establishment is due entirely to the men who direct and control it, something of the personality of these two men will be of interest at this time. As has been said, both are natives of Scotland. Both came to America when young men after having laid the foundation for their present business training in their native land. The mastery of detail which they acquired in Scotland was of the utmost value to them in entering business in this country. It was just the preliminary training necessary to fit them for the energetic business life of America. Another thing which has contributed largely to the prosperity of this company has been the judicious division of the work which insures thorough efficiency in every department. Mr. Mitchell exercised a general supervision over the financial interests of the firm and with an executive ability of a high order

A. MITCHELL, Vice-President

he has proven a wise and at the same time a conservative financier. His conservatism and wisdom in determining the early financial policy of the firm has contributed largely toward establishing the position of stability which the present company occupies in the mercantile world. Mr. Porteous had charge of the buying. He early recognized the importance of the buying end of the business and realized that economical purchases of stock, made subsequent low retail prices possible. He understood, too, that many economies—margins so small as to represent but a fraction of a cent—taken in the aggregate, form large savings, that allow much leeway in fixing retail prices. This was another success factor as it enabled the making of prices that captured the buying public. The buying end of the business, therefore, received his closest personal attention. He scoured the markets with an eye trained to acquiring stock at the utmost advantage. As a result of his buying activities, Mr. Porteous has an extensive acquaintance with dry goods merchants and manufacturers, all over the country and abroad, and is generally regarded as one of the most competent buyers of general dry goods in New York and other markets.

After 50 years of service both Messrs. Porteous and Mitchell are still active in the business affairs of the institution which they founded half a century ago, and can be found at their desks every day, during business hours, when not otherwise engaged in attending to the varied interests which claim their attention.

Incorporated In 1906.

In line with the progressive policy of the firm, the business was incorporated in 1906 under the title of "The Porteous & Mitchell Company" and several of the employees that had been in the service of the firm a number of years were taken into the company at that time.

Active In Civic Interests.

Both Messrs. Porteous and Mitchell have been identified with a number of enterprises which are active in the business life of the community. Mr. Porteous is a director of the Thames National bank, a director of the Norwich Savings Society and president of the Lawton Mills company of the nearby village of Plainfield. This is an extensive and successful cotton goods plant which, owing to its proximity to Norwich is very helpful in all channels of trade. Mr. Mitchell is a director of the Chelsea Savings bank, a trustee of the Otis library, and an incorporator of the Norwich Free academy. Aside from his business interests, he is an ardent sportsman, and is recognized as one of the most skilful anglers in the country. He is one of the promoters of the Slater Memorial hall musical courses and has been instrumental in bringing to Norwich some of the greatest musical artists in the world. During their long business career in Norwich, both Messrs. Porteous and Mitchell have left the impress of their character on the community and will receive heartiest congratulations upon their fiftieth business anniversary and will have cordial wishes from everyone for the continued success and prosperity of the business institution which they founded fifty years ago.

Local Notices.

NEW GOODS AND NEW STORE.—The large, new stock of dry goods of Messrs. Hislop, Porteous & Mitchell, lately of Hartford, was opened to the public on Saturday, at No. 170 Main street. These gentlemen have already had considerable experience in supplying the wants of purchasers, and as they sell for cash and have no bad debts to offset, they are able to offer their goods at the most satisfactory prices, while the stock itself, being new, is just what is demanded at this season. Among the specialties to which Hislop, Porteous & Mitchell desire to call attention, are their fine black alpacas and general line of domestics. They have a large stock of prints which are being offered at 8½ cents. Ribbons, hosiery and gloves, and a great variety of dry goods can also be found at this store, which is three doors east of the post office. The arrangement of the stock is very tasteful, and the patronage of Saturday was so extensive that the opening of this new dry goods house was a decided success.

NEW LONDON FIRE CHIEF ASKS TO BE PLACED ON RETIRED LIS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 5.—After about thirty years of excellent service as the chief of the New London fire department, John Stanners has asked for retirement that he may stand on the sidewalk and see the men with whom he has so long been associated as a public servant engaged in the most laudable of purposes—the saving of human life and property from the ravages of fire. John Stanners did not begin fire duty when he became chief of the department for he had served a long apprenticeship as a member of the Allen Hook and Ladder company and in that organization was known as a firefighter who had no fears no matter what the duty he was called on to perform. He was a ladder man who could scale a building like a cat and he often did that very thing for he served in days when the modern appliances were not to be found in the fighting of fires in this city. He served at a time when every piece of fire fighting apparatus was drawn by man power and that was a task that few in the department today would hanker to perform.

He saw the advent of horses in the department and then the development of motor driven apparatus. That was a big change for the department, but Mr. Stanners was equal to adapting himself and the methods of the department to it. And Mr. Stanners was an outdoor worker, acclimated to severe weather that would have hardened him to severe conditions of cold and heat, for he had been a barber many years. Still he fitted into the place because of his zeal in doing fire duty.

When Mr. Stanners will get his retirement is not known, but he has asked the city managers to bring about the end of his services to the city during the early spring. His request should be granted. Mr. Stanners succeeded Charles B. Ockford as chief of the New London department, which had then been directed by such men as the late Albert T. Burgess, Artemas Douglass, Frederick L. Allen and George Williams. It was a long step to a young man like John Stanners but the city council took that step and got young blood that was to develop into a real fire fighter. Mr. Stanners saw the motorizing of the entire department and saw this city take a place at the head of the progressive cities in the state. Bryan F. Mahan, who is now in the evening of his life, had a strong hand in the development of the fire department into a motorized service, something everyone is proud of and which will never be regretted. Mr. Stanners was contemporary with the late Chief Joe Carrier of Norwich, who had the assistance of such men as Hugh Osgood in helping him to make the Norwich department what it is today under Chief Stanton.

The passing of John Stanners takes from the department of New London all but a few of the old time fire fighters for his service dates back some fifty years. There are many men in the department who today are regarded as old-timers, but there are few who can find their names on the roster of the active fire fighters with that of the man who asks for relief from active duty now after such excellent service. Chief Stanners has seen the firemen collect a fund that has been contributed to them by interests that have suffered by fire but which would have suffered more but for the excellent department the city has and has maintained for years.

There is still some apparatus Chief Stanners would like to see the city have before he goes out of service. One of the needed pieces of apparatus, he says, is an aerial ladder. He may make a request for that when he is through and self interest cannot be attributed to the request. The ordinances and rules governing the department may be revised before Chief Stanners' successor is appointed, and the officers of the several companies should suggest such a course to the powers that will have the selection of a chief. There are changes that might well be made for the efficiency of the whole department. The department needs a pumping machine for the upper end of the city and that, with an aerial ladder would put New London right next the pole in the race for fire suppression.

Joseph Scroggie Collins, a letter carrier in New London during nearly twenty-nine years, has been retired on a pension. Mr. Collins was appointed when the carriers had a much easier time in their duties than they now have. They lug a load for a horse at times now, whereas when the service was established their load was a small one. Gradually the routes have been extended and the work has in every way become heavier than in the early days of the service.

The pension for Mr. Collins will be $55 a month. He has taken up the business his brother, the late Daniel P. Collins, laid down some months ago, that of the sailmaking business and awning manufacture. Had Mr. Collins remained in the service twenty months longer he would have been entitled to a pension of $60 a month, but the inducement was not great enough to keep him.

Philip Chamberlain did not make the defense that was expected from him after the statement of his attorney some days ago—that he was reluctantly contesting his wife's claim for support. Had Mr Chamberlain made the statement then that he made today he would probably not have been sued for non-support. Today when he was on the witness stand in the police court he said he was willing to live with and support his wife, whereas he claimed the complaint was brought to the court that his wife was not morally entitled to a dollar from him. Mrs. Chamberlain, who was Lillian Hyde before her marriage and a cashier in the Mohican stores, determined that her husband should make good that statement so she pursued him through prosecution.

He went into a rambling story in court about what his expenses and earnings were and finished by stating that he had sought out his wife since he abandoned her and then stated that he was desirous of having her for his life companion, though he objected to having her mother in the family.

Chamberlain admitted that he had written to his wife informing her that he had taken steps to secure a divorce, which he admitted he took to "scare" her. She evidently didn't "scare" but went right on demanding the support she was entitled to.

The scow Mauretania, one of the scows in tow of the tug Elmer A. Keeler, which went ashore on the rocks off Bartlett's Reef during a severe gale a week ago, together with the tug, was floated this afternoon by the Merrit, Chapman, Scott Wrecking company and towed into port. The Keeler is still fast on the rocks, but it is believed that she will be floated within a day or two. The Keeler is of the steel hull type of craft and it is believed that her hull is extensively damaged.

The Mauretania was coal laden.

Smith Perkins of Truman street, Mrs. Rose Perkins of Waterford, Patrick Connors of Garfield avenue, Miss Norma Platt of Berkeley avenue, John Dewire of Garfield avenue, and Master George Farley of Tilley street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. Mary Branigan, widow of John Branigan, died last night at her home No. 22 Cleveland street, her demise ending a lingering illness. Mrs. Branigan was in her 86th year and is survived by a daughter, Miss Mary E. Branigan, with whom Mrs. Branigan made her home.

Thieves, probably of the juvenile type, burglarized the Atlantic restaurant, 346 Bank street, last night. The only plunder obtained was two silver dollars, which were taken from the cash register. A quantity of pennies also left in the register was not disturbed.

Entrance to the restaurant was gained by the thieves ascending a rear stairway, which led to a skylight. The skylight was then opened permitting the crooks to drop to the restaurant.

Lucien H. and Hattie E. Firmin have sold a house and lot on Perry street to Arthur C. and Daisy Adamas.

Hyman Mallop has sold a house and lot to Marie L. Gauthier.

Fred Barber, a young lad who has already been at a reformatory institution, the Junior Republic, seems to have a slant toward the theft of automobiles. He is now accused of having stolen or at least with having taken the automobile of Matthew Keenan without the consent of the owner and to have abandoned it at Uncasville when the gas gave out and he could no longer operate the machine without replenishing the juice that gives it power.

Barber seems to be very frank about his actions and says he paid Keenan for the inconveniences he occassioned him and for any damage he did to the auto. He also says that he had a carte blanc authority from Keenan to take the auto at any time when it was not in use by asking for the permission, but he did not find Keenan when he wanted the machine so he acted on the blanket authority that had been given to him. His story will be checked up. In the Junior Republic Barber is said to have been the chief of police because of his disposition to make the boys there behave themselves.

The Merritt, Chapman, Scott Wrecking company failed again today to float the tug Elmer A. Keeler, which with the scow Mauretania, coal laden, went ashore on the rocks off Bartlett's reef a week ago, but this afternoon the scow and her cargo of fuel was hauled into deep water and towed into port. The wreckers then gave all their attention to endeavoring to float the tug.

The Keeler is a tug of the steel hull type and, although the extent of the damage she has sustained is not known, it is believed to be extensive. With favorable weather the next few days the wrecking company anticipates being able to float the Keeler.

Police Captain Charles A. Finney, who underwent an operation for hernia at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital several weeks ago, is back at his desk at the police station.

An automobile owned and operated by Samuel Copeland of No. 19 Meridian street, was in collision with one of the buses operated between New London and Niantic on Bank street, this evening. Neither auto was extensively damaged.

The alumnae of Williams Memorial Institute conducted a bridge whist at the Hotel Mohican this evening, the affair being attended by about 156 ladies.

Mrs. Lucy T. Beckwith, wife of Franklin A. Smith, a former resident of New London, died last night at her home in New Haven. Mrs. Smith was 71 years of age and is survived by a sister, Miss Mary J. Turner of No. 10 Bulkeley place, formerly a teacher at the Williams Memorial Institute.

William A. Kingsbury, formerly of New London, died last night at his home in Willimantic, death ending a lingering illness. Mr. Kingsbury was formerly superintendent of the Bingham Paper Box Manufacturing company in New London, but had made his residence in Willimantic about six years. He was 65 years of age, and is survived by a wife.

This evening was an ideal night for the meeting of Elks, and the attendance was as large as the spacious lodge room would accommodate. The installation of officers and the initiation of candidates for membership was the chief attraction though there was a vaudeville entertainment and a feast at the lodge room that would have delighted any one.

District Deputy William Cotter of Hartford and District Deputy Daniel M. Cronin were there to witness the work done and to pass judgment upon it. They pronounced it first class. Mr. Cronin's address was particularly good for he got out of the beaten path and said some things that will benefit the members and the order if they are pondered upon. The officers of the lodge and the Hartford guests and Mr. Cronin were feasted at the Mohican hotel prior to the meeting. New London lodge is now approaching a membership of 1000 and when it gets there something will be doing in the way of a celebration.

Trout fishermen who have been on the brooks during the past week report that there are few fish but plenty of water. The brooks are all swollen. The water is unusually cold and the trout shy. The claim is made that the fish get so much food from the watershed along the brooks that they will not take to worms or the "fly."

The weatherwise, or at least those who profess to have by experience learned that a very wet spring brings a very dry summer, believe that when warm weather gets here dry times will accompany it. An old resident here declares that the rainfall each year averages with the preceding twelve months. If we have an abundance of rain early in the season we have little when the year gets far advanced.

Philip Hendle, who has this week bought the Beckwith building on State street, intends to take out the front of the building and replace it with a drapery brick front that will make an entirely changed structure of it and one of the most pretentious and attractive store buildings on the street. He is to take away granite steps that are now located at the front of the building and lower the main floor, giving increased height to the main store. The rest of the building will be altered so that the upper floors will be most attractive as offices and business places.

The plant of the Connecticut Power company was somewhat crippled by the storm here tonight for many of the arc lights that illumine some of the principal streets failed to operate. The cause for the disablement was attributed to short circuits. A repair gang was set to work and the greater portion of the trouble was remedied before midnight.

NEW LONDON HOUSE DAMAGED BY FLAMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 5.—The fire department was called out at 3.30 o'clock this morning when an alarm from Box 12, corner of Harrison and Tenth streets, summoned the firemen to quell a blaze of mysterious origin in the vacant tenement owned by Abraham Katz, between Tenth street and the approach to the Thames river highway bridge. The fire was located in a room in the upper story of the house and burned through the roof before it was finally extinguished.

The fire is believed to have been started by someone entering the house by means of the rear entrance, which was found unfastened, for the purpose of obtaining a place to sleep for it was revealed that the fire started on a mattress and it is believed that the sleeper dropped a lighted match or a cigarette on the mattress before attempting his night repose.

The damage will not exceed $300.

SCHLEIFER ASKS FOR CHANGE OF VENUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 5. — Ernest Schleifer, a union labor enthusiast, who went about urging violence during the railroad strike, according to the complaint brought against him in the police court here, has petitioned for a change of venue in New Haven where a similar complaint to that brought here, has been tried and probable grounds for holding Schleifer for trial in the superior court in that county was found. Schleifer was held in $2,500 bonds for trial by Judge Prince in the police court here. He deposited government bonds for security in New London.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

Don't look old! Try Grandmother's recipe to darken and beautify faded, streaked hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

"SLAUGHTER DAY" IN HOUSE ON REJECTION OF MANY MEASURES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 5.—This might well have been called a "slaughter day" in the house, because of the number of bills unfavorably reported and rejected. The committee concurred with the senate in rejecting all matters that were rejected yesterday.

The house was called to order at 11.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair. House Bill 732, providing that foreign corporations doing business in this state shall pay an additional tax, was rejected. The house concurred with the senate in rejecting bills prohibiting the use of animals, birds and chameleons from being exhibited by persons soliciting alms or by hand organ grinders, authorizing the public utilities companies to permit utility companies to extend service; concerning motor vehicles over fixed routes and providing indemnity bonds for owners of jitneys.

The claims committee reported unfavorably on claims of Raymond Gorman for $5,000, Anna Whalen $5,000, John Whalen $10,000, John J. Monohan $250, Thomas Buckley $5,000, Mary McCardle $5,000, Amanda McGovern $5,000, Robert J. Barnes $5,000, Annie Morris for $25,000, Florence Whalen $10,000, Margaret A. The bill introduced by Walker of Plainfield which on motion of Mr. Fenton of Windham was tabled was today taken up and discussed by Mr. Walker. He claiming that an injustice was being done to the large body of weavers if this bill was to be rejected. Mr. Andrews of Danbury, chairman of the labor committee, said that the bill had considerable merit. It was found by his committee that most of the manufacturers were now doing what the bill called for. He motioned that the bill be rejected and the whole matter be referred to the commissioner of labor for an investigation. His motion prevailed.

The bill providing for a commission to investigate the ballot law to examine any ballot box and its contents that was used at the 1922 state election and ascertain if the law could be improved, was indefinitely postponed.

House bill 175, providing for the retirement of state employes who have been in the service of the state for forty years was taken from the table and passed.

All bills, but few in number, that were favorably reported were tabled for calendar and printing.

The house adjourned at 12.25 to Tuesday next.

Indebtedness of Municipalities

The bill amending the law concerning the bonded indebtedness of municipalities was explained by Senator Trumbull, the chairman of the committee on finance, and favored by Senator Brooks and Senator MacDonald. The amendment was passed. It provides that the grand list shall be construed to include, in addition to the taxable real estate and tangible personal property, the fair market value for the tax-exempt real estate therein, except such tax-exempt real estate as the state of Connecticut or the county may be owned by the United States, in which such town is situated, such tax-exempt real estate owned by Yale university as is situated in the city of New Haven, such tax-exempt real estate owned by Wesleyan university as is situated in the town of Middletown, such tax-exempt real estate owned by Trinity college as is situated in the city of Hartford and such tax-exempt real estate owned by the Connecticut College for Women as is situated in the city of New London.

Under general parliamentary law the consent of the senate would be necessary to permit the senator to withdraw his motion.

Senator Ells said there were many people who thought they would not have been given a square deal if the consideration of the bill had been denied. The senate was a deliberative body and every matter should be fully discussed.

The senate adjourned to Tuesday next at 11.15.

NO GETTING AWAY FROM THE RESTRICTIONS OF NATURE.

(Written Specially for the Bulletin)

King Canute seems to have been a rather successful king in the old days when there was a bigger boom in the king business than there is just now. He regarded himself as quite the stuff, and seems also to have been so regarded by others. His wife was assured of it; his children had no doubt of it; his courtiers verified it. Every one of them jumped whenever he said "Boo". He had valets who came at his call, and soldiers who marched at his orders. He had about what he wanted and did about what he pleased,—or knew the reason why.

All except in one famous historical instance. That was the day when he peremptorily forbade the North sea tide to rise any higher and wet his feet.

You all remember the tale. King Canute sat there on the shore in his great carved oaken chair of state, his courtiers behind him, the North sea in front. The tide was rising and threatened to dampen his royal toes. So he told it to stop then and there. Simple enough—if only the tide had obeyed. But it didn't. It actually didn't pay any attention to the regal behest.

When the court fool and the physician-in-ordinary had at last dragged him back out of the wet and wrapped his kingly shanks up in dry flannels, His Royal Nibs made the best of a bad matter and preached a nice little sermon to the admiring gentlemen and ladies in waiting, astounding them by the admission that he was himself only mortal and not dowered with omnipotent powers over the elements.

Now, one great difference between most farmers and most other people is that practically every farmer understands from the outset that he can neither stop the ocean tides, nor delay the sunset, nor hasten the spring, nor stop a thunderstorm,—nor in any other way arrest or escape the overmastering powers of nature which surround and control all his activities. He knows this from the exercise of his reason. He would be taught it by experience, if his reason was slow in schooling him. But a lot of others don't seem to know it.

All the farmer's life is lived and all his work is done between the two limits of "Thus far shalt thou go, and no farther"—Bear in mind, if you please, that this command is double. First it is an order to go "thus far". Moreover, that is not an order which can be debated or disputed. It isn't open to amendment or qualification. It doesn't admit of reservations. It is without recourse of appeal. That "shalt" has behind it all the inconceivable majesty of power which holds the universe to its course. Neither the farmer in his furrow, nor the king on his throne, nor even the legislature of Connecticut in its hall can suspend or modify that inexorable command. "Thus far shalt thou go." And thus far you will go, or you will be crushed under the relentless wheels of the following chariot. There's no getting away from it.

This mandate to action up to action's limit is just as supreme as the prohibition contained in the second clause. And that prohibition is likewise just as imperative as the mandate to action. The one furnishes an irresistible compulsion before which we must advance; the other erects an impassible limit which we cannot overpass.

Within those limits we are permitted a certain measure of free action. Not wholly free, for Nature never abnegates over any area of her domain, however trifling. But the obstacles we come upon within those limits may, perhaps, be overcome; the winds which blow in our faces we may sometimes make head against; the enemies who assail us we may at least fight. And that's about all.

We farmers have to take the spring when it comes, not when we would like to have it come. We have to take the early and late frosts as they appear, whether we're ready for them or not. We have to take such rains as fall, regardless of the needs of our crops or such droughts as intervene, despite those crons' pitiful beseechings for water. We have to take the seasons as they may be, not as we would dish them up. We have to take the weather as it comes, and have no say-so as to its quality.

We must "scratch gravel" at our livelies' and our dependence on unseen and uncontrollable forces for results. Paul may plant and may I, fourteen hours a day on the job, and Apollos may water and keen at it till moonrise, but only God giveth the increase.

Now, I don't mean to say that all farmers would say the thing in just the way I have said it. But they all know it and act upon the knowledge. They can't pay more heed to knowing it than they can help seeing the sunlight on a cloudless June day, and act upon it because they know they've got to.

And right there lies one fundamental, ineradicable line of demarcation between the farmer and the shop or factory worker. The latter can vary his hours of labor and his rate of wages, if he chooses to fight hard enough and long enough. But the farmer can do neither one.

The hours which a man shall work per day or per week in a shop or factory are matters for mutual agreement. The may be squabbled over, indeed, and the settlement may come after much bad blood has been aroused. But they are unquestionably within the control of those directly interessed. They may decide to work twelve hours a day, six days a week or only two hours a day and two days a week. It's up to them, employers and employees, to decide which is for their best joint interests.

But the farmer must make hay while the sun shines, and not when he happens to feel like it. Moreover, he must make hay for fourteen or sixteen hours a day, under such sort of weather conditions. He must do all his other work when he can, not by any means when he wants to. Nor can he knock off work when any whistle blows or any bell rings or any union orders him to stop. He must work while the day lasts lest the morrow find him stopped from all labor by an east storm. He can't make any agreement with Nature to work eight hours and eight only. He must work when she sees fit to let him and as long as she gives him light and strength to keep at it. Otherwise her weeds and her brambles and her slugs and her bugs will take over the job and put an end to all his hopes.

So long as he will cattle along after her and humor her whims and tread carefully in her steps and jump lively when she smiles and hurl his [illegible] to give him a [illegible] of potatoes or wheat or oats or hay or his pains. But he works when she tells him, and takes his pay in what she pleases to give him.

There comes in another line of demarcation. In shop and factory the worker and the owner may settle between them the wages which the worker shall receive and the profit capital shall be allowed. That, too, is a matter capable of agreement. But the farmer has nothing final to say about what wages he shall have for his year's work. He accepts what Nature chooses to give him,—and is durned glad if it isn't a slap on the jaw! He can't get another red cent out of her by strikes or sabotage. He does his level best, and then takes the wage she hands out, be it five dollars or five cents a day.

I don't know when I have been more pleased than with an article by Ivan Davenport of the Illinois College of Agriculture in a recent issue of the Philadelphia Public Ledger. I am so sure that you'll agree with it, also, that I'm going to ask you to read part of it. I quote:

"There are two standards among us as to what shall constitute compensation for labor. In the 'organized industries' it is all that force can secure out of employment by every means known in modern warfare—indeed, it is frankly called warfare. The other standard is upon the land, and there the measure of a laborer's day is what Nature will produce through sun and rain and a fertile soil, after man has done his best in preparation of the crop.

"Here is a yardstick that measures the value of human endeavor in such masses that it cannot be disregarded by any nation that would live. An organized guild may exact a double compensation, and to that end it may even limit the number of apprentices it will permit to learn the trade. By working together the members of any essential craft may so terrorize the public as to exact bakshish out of it, but no such methods will cause one more spear of wheat to sprout or one more ear of corn to ripen than would the most peaceful methods.

"This is why it will always be true that industrial advantages gained by force cannot be carried into farming.

"How long will it take the world to learn that we cannot conduct half of our industry by the methods of warfare when the other half, which provides the means whereby we are fed, can prosper only in peace?"

Do you know that when your hair falls out, or comes out on comb, the roots DO NOT come also. They remain in the scalp and in very many cases can be invigorated and aided to grow new hair again even after a long time. Be sure to try Kotalko.

Dear Sirs—What Kotalko has done for me is nothing short of wonderful.

Several years ago I lost all my hair.

My head was bare and shiny just like the back of my hand.

I had been under a hair specialist and a doctor, but all in vain.

One day, on seeing your advertisement, I decided to try Kotalko, and I am simply delighted that I did so, for I now have a head of beautiful curly, silk-like hair, which is admired by everyone.

Kotalko has certainly proved itself a true hair grower.

(Signed) MARY LITTLE.

ARE YOU LOSING HAIR, OR BALD?

You may save time by purchasing a full size box of Kotalko at a busy druggist's almost anywhere. Money refund guarantee. Try it at our risk. Accept nothing else. Or if you wish, you may receive by mail from us a PROOF BOX of Kotalko ABSOLUTELY FREE. Simply fill out the coupon or copy it on a post card or letter. Only one free box given in any family. Cut out this advertisement. It may not appear again.

Gentlemen: When my daughter began to use Kotalko she was nearly bald. Although she had tried many things, her hair would not grow.

We thought the roots were dead.

However, as one more trial, we sent for a box of Kotalko. This was a test and we thought it would prove to be just like the other preparations used. We are glad to state that after faithful use she now has thick wavy hair. Photo enclosed. You may publish it. Unless I had seen it for myself, I would not have thought it possible.

WINDHAM

Word has been received in town of a fire which did almost $1500 damage to the home in Darien owned by Charles S. Dobe, formerly of Windham. The fire was discovered about 2 a. m. Sunday and is thought to have been caused by a defective overheated chimney. Prompt work by the Darien firemen confined the fire to two rooms in the rear of the house.

Mrs. H. F. Robinson was a recent guest of New London friends.

Miss Sarah Johnson goes to Norwich Thursday to visit her brother, Oliver L. Johnson and family.

The annual meeting of the Windham Centre district was held in the 8th grade room in the new school house, Saturday evening. Dr. Guild was chosen moderator. The district committee remains the same as last year. The voters authorized Tax Collector Hopkins to place liens on property of those who had not paid or refused to pay the tax for last year of which $76.63 remains unpaid. The income for the year ending with the date April 1, 1922, $10.51; received from town $250; cash from collector $371.07; corporation tax (1921) $84.75; corporation tax (1922) $71.15; total $787.48. The principal question discussed was the lack of fire protection and how to remedy it. It was stated that South Windham is to buy a $1200 chemical truck fully equipped and that the village would have the use of it if the district contributed toward the purchase of it. The matter of purchasing a small 40 gallon chemical engine that could be managed by 2 men was considered. The committee has also consulted with the Willimantic fire department, in regard to having their chemical truck come over if needed. The matter was left in the hands of the committee with power to act and also to dispose of the old fire engine as they chose.

MARKET WAS BUOYANT

New York, April 5.—Stock prices made ufther recovery from their recent heaviness in today's more active market despite another attempt by short interest to unsettle the list by attaching the railroad shares.

Publication of additional favorable earnings reports by large industrial companies, easier money rate and the circulation through the financial district of an optimistic forecast of business conditions by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon all contributed to the more cheerful sentiment of professional interests but the laggardness of U. S. Steel common and the continued heaviness of Union Pacific induced a cautious attitude on the part of the outside public.

Equipment shares were heavily bought on reports that railroad executives, meeting here, had planned heavy purchases of rolling stock in the next few months. Baldwin and American Locomotives each advanced 2 3-4 points and General Electric 2 1-8. Air Reduction also was pushed up nearly 3 points.

Sales of more than 500,000 bags of raw sugar at 5 5-8 cents a pound revived speculative interest in the sugar group, Punta Alegre, South Porto Rican and Manati jumping more than 3 points each while Cuba Cane preferred advanced 2 3-4 and Cuban American and American 1 3-4 each.

Some of the independent steels shares made a good response to reports of record-breaking pig iron production last month, Gulf States leading the list with a gain of 2 1-4 points. Republic and Crucible each advanced more than a point and U. S. Steel closed 1-8 higher at 106 3-4 but the Bethlehem issues were slightly reactionary.

The renewed attack on rails was rather surprising in view of the unprecedented March traffic returns, extreme losses of 1 to nearly 2 points being registered on the break by St. Paul preferred, Great Northern preferred, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chicago Northwestern, but all made partial recovery before the close.

Virginia Carolina Chemical issues received another bad setback which sent them to new low figures for the year, the common showing a net loss of 1 5-8 and the preferred, 8 points. American Can, American Water Works and the Market Street Railway issues were among the conspicuous strong spots.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, but dropped to 4 just before the close. The time money market was somewhat easier, brokers bidding 5 1-4 and bankers asking 5 1-2, with loans for, virtually all maturities arranged at the latter figure. Commercial paper was moderately active with no change in rates.

Trading in foreign exchanges was rather quiet with the principal rates exhibiting a firm tone. French francs advanced 5 points to 6.55 cents and demand sterling held steady around 4.66 5-8. Brazil Milreis dropped 10.40 cents, a new low, and then snapped back to 10.55.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 5—Marked strength of sugar company liens, the Punta Alegre 7's rising 5 points and marked improvement in the active U. S. government issues were the features of today's bond dealings on the New York Stock Exchange. Foreign bonds also displayed considerable firmness. Railroad mortgages and industrials were irregular.

Eastern Cuba Sugar 7 1-2's followed the Punta Alegre 7's, with a gain of 1 1-4 points, but the Cuba American Sugar 8's fell behind, closing down fractionally. Friar Hill 5 1-2's, up 1 3-8 made the only gain among the steel moragages, Cerro De Pasco 8's and Wickwire Spencer 7's each losing 1 1-8 points. Other losses in the industrial group include Union Oil of California 6's, 1, and Ligget and Myers 5, 1 3-8.

Changes among the railroad mortgages were small and unimportant for the most part, Hudson and Manhattan refunding 5's gaining 1 1-4, and Illinois refunding 4's being off a point. Tractions were in supply, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 7's losing one point.

Foreign government bonds were in fair demand, Brazil 8's gaining a point and the 7 1-2's, 1 1-4. Most of the European issues were up fractionally. Gains among the U. S. government bonds ranged from 2-32 to 9-32 of a point.

Total sales (par value) were $12,056,000.

The Canadian Pacific Railroad announced it would pay off an issue of $52,000,000 6 per cent. note certificates in July about seven months in advance of maturity.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 5.—Active export business that included the largest amount of durum which Europe has bought in a long while gave the price of wheat today a material upturn. The market closed firm, 1-2 to 1 1-8c net higher, with May $1.21 1-2 to $1.21 5-8, and July 1.18 1-8 to 1.18 1-4. Corn gained 1-2 to 3-4c and oats 1-8c to 3-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 10c lower.

Besides the liberal volume of new purchasing for Europe today, estimated at 1,250,000 bushels revised figures indicated that yesterday the amount of wheat bought for trans-Atlantic shipment was fully 2,500,000 bushels. It was said the totals included 750,000 bushels of durum yesterday and 700,000 bushels today. Continued need of rain in western Kansas tended further to strengthen values, and so too did talk of crop damage by green bugs in Oklahoma.

Special notice was taken of a report from one of the most experienced crop experts in the country that the outlook for wheat in western Kansas was the worst he had ever seen. Until near the end of the day, however, speculative dealings were slow, and prices held within narrow limits. Nevertheless the market at no time sagged more than 1-8c under yesterday's finish and at the close today was near the season's topmost figures for July and September.

Notwithstanding determined opposition, bulls succeeded in forcing the corn market to above 75c for the May delivery. Estimates that export sales of corn totaled 750,000 bushels were factors in helping to lift prices. Oats followed corn and wheat upgrade.

Provisions averaged higher with hogs, but finally became weak as a result of packers' hedging.

Day's total sales 1,056,000 shares.

20 industrials averaged 102.36 net gain .96. High 1923 105.38; low 96.96.

20 railroads averaged 86.08, net loss .32. High 1923, 90.63; low 84.53.

JOHN H. CLARK POSITIVE LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL BE 1924 ELECTION ISSUE

Former Justice of the United State Supreme Court Declares That No Candidate for the Presidency or the Senate Will be Permitted to Conceal His Position for a Single Week—Believes the Churches, Women's Club, Great Newspapers, Farmers, Labor Unions and 4,000,000 Young Soldiers Will Support the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association.

New York, April 6.—(By A. P.)—Declaring the only serious bar to America's entry into the league of nations is "a small group of able but ambitious men — some of them very old—who are characteristically prodigal of the lives of others," former Justice John H. Clark of the United States supreme court tonight served notice that the league issue would be forced into the 1924 election, and that no candidate for the presidency or the senate would be permitted to conceal his position for a single week. Speaking on the sixth anniversary of America's declaration of war on Germany, as the first of a ten-day series of mass meetings throughout the country arranged by the league of nations non-partisan association, of which he is president, Justice Clark said:

"It is reported that Senator King of Utah, speaking for the democratic party management, say the league of nations is not going to be an issue in the presidential campaign next year. We shall see—we shall see.

"Tell it not to Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askalon' or of Washington, but the suspicion grows that the churches and women's clubs and the great newspapers will have something to say about that, and that the farmers and labor unions will have something to say about it, and I promise the senator that our four million young soldiers and the league of nations non-partisan association will have a great deal to say about it.

"Our association is already organized in every state in the union and long before this time next year we shall have an organization in every congressional district in the country. It may as well be accepted in advance that no candidate for the presidency or for the senate will be allowed to conceal his position for a single week on this great moral question: Whether he prefers this new national agency for peace or the old method of brutal war for settlement of international differences."

A similar note was sounded by Oscar S. Straus, republican secretary of commerce under Theodore Roosevelt, who said:

"Let me say to our republican friends, that if they continue to intercept the last election by claiming that their opposition to the league gave them eight million plurality, the next election may prove an eye opener. If it should finally appear that in the last election we republicans and millions of others who favor the league, put our money on the wrong horse in 1920, it does not follow that we will make the same mistake in 1924. The league of nations transcends all partisanship."

Justice Clark, who resigned from the supreme court to work for American entry into the league, declared that more pressingly now than ever before did "the fate of the world hang upon this decision."

Besides serving as a warning to Turkey, Germany and Russia against disturbing the peace, he declared, America's influence in the league was the sole agency that could keep England and France "in amity and peace."

"With Germany and Russia prostrate, as they are," he said, "modern Europe means only Great Britain and France, and what the world in the near future must be, depends on whether these two nations shall be friends or enemies.

"Britain is a trading nation and must have markets or perish. France can live within herself but only in mortal dread of invasion by her age long enemy. Britain wishes Germany restored so that she may trade with her; France fears—who shall say without reason—that Germany restored means another ruthless invasion for her.

"France and Britain have been enemies oftener than friends during the last two hundred years. It is plain truth to say that there has not been a time in modern history when two nations controlling the destiny of the world stood so much in need of an impartial counselor, guide and friends to compose inevitable differences as they arise as Britain and France stand in need of such a one today."

"Japan is too far away and is too alien in blood and tradition for such a service and it seems indisputably clear to those of us who believe, notwithstanding the experience of the last nine years, that this is still God's world, that this great, detached, powerful and peace-loving nation of ours has been sent to heaven to thus serve our friends, our allies and mankind by holding these two great nations together in amity and peace.

"It is easier to imagine than to describe what the situation of our country would be," Justice Clark declared, "if the British empire should disappear from the world, carrying as it would, France down with it and thus involving all Europe and Britain in the economic and social demoralization and despair in which Germany, Russia and Asia-Minor are today.

"And yet our government stands aloof, in suspicion and fear, as if it were contamination even to touch the league of nations which is the only hope for such a union."

President Harding, he continued, after pledging himself in the most solemn manner to "devise and enter some association of nations to promote the peace of the world," had failed for half his term to "do anything but resort to a limited alliance with a few powers to deal with the problems of the Pacific but which touches not at all the crisis on the Atlantic which threatens to overwhelm the world."

Later he referred to the president's request that the senate advise and consent to the negotiation of a treaty making America a party to the international court of justice, as "signs her day is breaking in the longitude of Washington." "Let us hope," he added, "that it is not the 'phantom of false dawn', but a real coming of the light."

He criticised the president, however, for asking the senate to "advise and consent" to an unmade treaty instead of sending that body a completed treaty and asking for its ratification.

"The executive should avoid even the beginning of the evil of surrender to the senate in this grave matter," he said. "But the senatorial mind is always ponderous and slow to act, and so it has taken six months to think over this request, which should have been granted by a viva voce vote, without debate."

INTERNAL DISSENSION IN KNIGHTS OF KU KLUX KLAN

Atlanta, Ga., April 6.—Internal affairs of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan continue in uncertain status pending a decision on the order of Judge Thomas that W. J. Simmons, emperor, show cause why injunctions brought by him and his supporters last Monday should not be dismissed. The injunction sought to displace Dr. H. W. Evans, from the office of imperial wizard, executive head of the organization.

At the same time the court is confronted by an amendment to the original injunction which charges that Evans and F. L. Savage, his chief of staff, appropriated klan funds for their personal use.

The third feature on which the interest of the membership centers is the statement of Emperor Simmons, issued last night, which charged that the klan, under its present administration, had become a government by blackmail.

But she was found to be without cargo, bound light from Searsport, Maine, for Gulfport, Mississippi, her skipper said.

TWO MACHINES STOLEN BY AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, April 6—While Danielson and other communities in this part of the county slept during the early hours of Friday morning what approximates a game of hide and seek between a band of automobile thieves and the state police was underway and the whole story as it was checked up during Friday approximates a three-ring circus for the multiplicity of the activities that were indulged in and the complications developed.

The show started about 1 a. m., when Officer Albert S. Field, in charge of the Danielson police barracks, received a telephone call from L. H. Burnham at Hampton telling him that automobile thieves had broken into his garage and stolen his Dodge truck.

State officers hot-footed it over to Hampton to get in touch with the situation and were not long in discovering that one of the reasons why the Burnham truck had been stolen was because the thieves car, a Ford sedan had become stalled in the mud not far from the Burnham place. The Ford, which was abandoned later proved to be a stolen machine, taken from the street in Providence Thursday night. It bore registration R. I. No. 33311 and was owned by the Bartlett company of 35 Wendell street, Boston, but was in use by one of their salesmen, P. K. Niven, of Providence. The car was brought to the police barracks here.

Not long after the Hampton incident it was indicated that the thieves had driven back to Brooklyn and then went to Wauregan, where they broke into a garage and stole a Ford car belonging to Ernest DeForest of 23 Walnut street. This car was still missing Friday evening. An unsuccessful attempt was made to steal another car in Wauregan, as was also the case at another garage near the cemetery on the Hampton road.

The theft of the DeForest car has been fixed at around 3 a. m. Sometime later it was ascertained that a Hudson car, R. I. P-853, owned by the Bristol, R. I. Auto Company had been abandoned on Broad street in Danielson. This car was stolen Thursday night. The few state officers available for the mass of work that was thrust upon them so suddenly did not hear of the Hudson car sufficiently early to seize it, and in the meantime another Hudson car, a sedan, arrived from Providence, this about 3.30 a. m., bringing two men, one of them, Gennaro Di Domizio, 25, was being held for the Bristol, R. I. police here Friday evening.

Di Domizio claims he does not know the man he brought out from Providence to pick up the abandoned Hudson owned by the Bristol Auto company, but whoever the man was he appeared to know where to look for the stolen car and made off with it just a few minutes before the state police arrived. Speeding eastward toward South Killingly in their cars to search that territory the state police finally found Di Domizio with his Hudson sedan stalled in the mud on Horse Hill. He was taken into custody and the car brought over to the barracks.

This car, the registration shows, is the property of Sam Di Stazo of 152 Pine street, Providence. Di Momizio claims that he has permission to drive the car when occasion warrants.

Di Domizio was very uncommunicative about the whole affair. Insofar as anything he said Friday would indicate he knows whatever about the machine stealing plot. He just did a stranger the little favor of bringing him out a distance of 25 miles from Providence to Danielson in the small hours of the morning to pick up a stolen car that no difficulty was experienced in locating.

In the meantime Mr. Burnham has recovered his truck, which was abandoned at Wauregan after the missing DeForest car was stolen.

It would appear that there were three men engaged in stealing the machines. What became of the Hudson that was left on Broad street, for some unknown reason, is uncertain. It is known that a car that may have been the stolen machine was seen racing back at high speed, even with one front tire flat, from the Rhode Island line in the direction of Danielson just before five o'clock Friday morning. Earl Wilbur, who was walking along the state highway above the Gallup farm, on his way to a trout brook, saw this machine and marveled at the time at the high rate of speed it was making even with one tire down. This was the last seen or heard of this car.

Asked why he got off the state highway and onto the back road where his car stalled in the mud, Di Domizio said he met an old man that told him it was a good way to get onto the state highway that leads to Providence. It wasn't.

French Collect Fines By Force at Borchum

Streets Blocked by Troops While Detachment Went Into Bank and Seized 250,000,000 Marks.

Essen, April 6.—(By The A. P.)—Bochum is again the storm center in the Ruhr because of repeated acts of individuals against the French troops and the continued refusal of the German authorities to obey the French army orders. Penalties have been imposed on the city and French troops have collected the fines by force.

The streets on which the banks are located were blocked by troops while a detachment went into the reischbank branch and seized 250,000,000 marks. This sum was from a fund sent into the city from Berlin to pay the French fine, but about a third of the fund was intended for payments in connection with the resistance movement, the French contend.

Bochum is still without police protection, as the Germans have refused to organize a municipal police force to replace the expelled security police.

Dancers from the Metropolitan Opera company furnished an attractive feature.

The menu was: Supreme de fruits; bouchees de honard nantua; filet de volaille pascal; fruits a la sherry, friandises and cafe.

As the dance ended, bacon and eggs, rolls and coffee were served.

No date has been set for the wedding.

TELEPHONE PAYMASTER ROBBED OF $23,000 IN BOSTON

Boston, April 6.—Robbery of a paymaster of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company of $23,000 was reported to the police here today.

Peter A. Gaddis, the paymaster, driving in an automobile with the payroll for the company's Brighton plant, said he was overtaken at the corner of Massachusetts and Lansdowne streets in the Roxbury district by two men who jumped on the running board.

The men pressed a pistol to his head, took the money bag beside him, leaped to the ground and boarded another automobile in which they escaped.

Paymaster Gaddis said the holdup came so unexpectedly that he had no chance to make any defense. The men evidently had planned the robbery carefully, he said, for they drove up in a large touring car and got out a short distance away.

Waiting their chance, they jumped on Gaddis' car and before he knew what was happening the revolver was pressed against him and the bag was taken.

CHAPMAN NARROWLY ESCAPED RECAPTURE

Athens, Ga., April 6.—(By the A. P.)—With his feet propped against a brass rail beside the boiler in the basement of the hospital from which he was thought to have escaped on Wednesday night, Gerald Chapman, leader in the million dollar mail robbery in New York 31 months ago, was nearly captured today by Harry Bishop, a guard from the Atlanta penitentiary.

Bishop, in giving attention to Miss Estelle Scott, a nurse, who accompanied him when the discovery was made, and who thereupon fainted, told Chapman to go back to his room.

An immediate search was instituted but brought no results.

Coast Guards Saw Ship Suddenly Sink

Cuttyhunk Guards Unable to Find Trace of Crew—May Have Left in Their Own Boats.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 6.—When the heavy fog which had prevailed for hours lifted today the Cuttyhunk coast guards sighted a vessel about 150 feet long, apparently a stea mtrawler flying what appeared to be distress signals. As they watched the craft suddenly sank. A search of the waters in the vicinity revealed no trace of the crew but it was thought they had left in their own boats before the craft was sighted.

The craft was in Vineyard Sound southeast of the Cuttyhunk coast guard station and halfway across to Menemsha Bight. The coast guard lookout said that the davits were swung overboard, indicating that the vessel's boats had been launched. Steam was escaping and the craft appeared to have been a collision.

The coast guardsmen found no floating wreckage. No word of the crew landing anywhere on Martha's Vineyard was received and it was thought they might have been picked up by some vessel, possibly the one with which the trawler was believed to have collided.

GET THE HABIT THAT PAYS

Folks are naturally companionable. When your heart overflows with happiness you like someone to rejoice with you. "Even misery loves company." The most forlorn individual in the world is the one who has nobody to play with. He can't be happy.

All of us are continually surrounded by better thoughts and things. When we consistently overlook them we are as badly off as the youngster who has to play alone.

The business of bringing these thoughts and things to you is the service of advertising. It is the voice of the loom, the shop, the foundry, the laboratory—all the places where minds turn pleasant thoughts into worth-while things for you.

Do you read the advertisements in The Bulletin?

Do it. It is a paying habit.

TEXAS OIL STOCK FRAUDS MORE THAN $100,000,000

Investigation Shows Vast Amount of Money Filched From the Public During the Last Five Years—Disclosure Made by Postoffice Officials—Postoffice Department Intends to Move in a Vigorous Measure to Protect the Public.

Washington, April 6.—Oil stock promoters operating in the state of Texas during the last five years have filched more than $100,000,000 from the public, Postmaster General New was advised today by John H. Edwards, solicitor of the post office department, and Chief Postal Inspector Simmons, who are in Fort Worth co-operating with the department of justice in the prosecution of mail fraud cases involving oil promoters.

In making public the report, the postmaster general also declared the post office department intended "to move in the most vigorous and persistent manner possible for the enforcement of both the criminal law and the fraud order statutes against the use of the mails not only in the sale of fraudulent oil stock but all other cases involving fraud in the mails."

Mr. New said the government had been appealed to "by disillusioned stockholders to stop the oil stock frauds" after "wild cat promoters" had escaped prosecution by state authorities. Post office inspectors, he added, have been working since last summer on more than 200 cases, many of which have already gone to the grand jury now in session at Fort Worth.

The report to Mr. New follows in part:

"More than $100,000,000 is the estimate placed by post office inspectors upon the amount of money filched from the public during the past five years by oil stock promoters operating in the state of Texas. This statement challenges the attention of the country and demands speedy and certain action. Post office inspectors also report that companies and syndicates have been organized, run their course, and passed away by hundreds during these five years, leaving approximately a half million stock holders scattered throughout the United States to mourn the fading roseate dreams of wealth with the final disappearance of their hard earned dollars."

"Almost all the promoter concerns operate as common law trusts. Over such organizations the Texas statutes provide no supervision whatever. The promoters appoint themselves trustees with sole and unlimited power to procure and handle the money of their investors as they please without question from any state authority.

"To impose the penalty for using the mails to defraud, the post office department and the agents of the department of justice must show sufficient evidence of intent to defraud. The department representatives report that the cases, especially those involving large stock selling schemes, are the most complex and difficult to handle of all criminal cases arising in the federal jurisdiction. For this reason they require months and sometimes years of patient and persevering investigation."

TWO WOMEN HACKED TO DEATH WITH BUTCHER KNIFE

New York, April 6.—Miss Bessie McMahon of Utica, N. Y., and Mrs. Irene Biandino, of Jersey City, were hacked to death early this morning with a butcher knife and dumped from a motor car on a lonely stretch of road near Stapleton, Staten Island.

Scores of uniformed police and detectives who spend the day working feverishly on the case, still had not ascertained tonight just where the crime occurred, who committed it, or what was the motive.

Walter Sterling, a taxicab driver who had told detectives he drove two women answering the general description of the slain pair, together with three men to an address near the spot where the bodies were found was confronted with Biandino and Dilorenzo but said he could not identify them as members of the party, neither could he say definitely whether the bodies were those of the women who had driven in his machine. Mrs. Blandio's second husband, James Blandino admitted he was absent from home until two o'clock this morning and relatives of Mrs. Blandino at Utica said he had been intensely jealous of her but Blandino claimed he had witnesses to affirm that he did not leave Jersey City last night. His account of his whereabouts was being carefully checked.

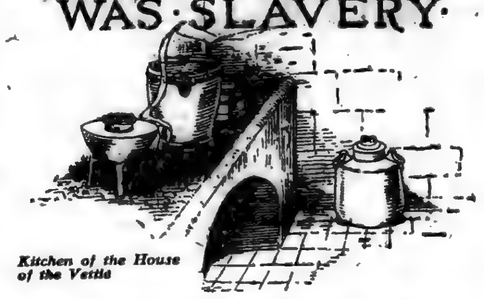
WHEN COOKING WAS SLAVERY



Kitchen of the House of the Vettii

A STORY OF OLD POMPEII

Centuries ago, when Pompeii and Olympia and Mycenae were in their prime, there was an ancient civilization that the world still holds in veneration.

But there was a canker in the heart of the civilization—the canker of slavery. Among these slaves were those who worked in the kitchens of the mighty.

The great people of Pompeii lived sumptuously in homes of exquisite beauty. They gave banquets that are the despair of modern hostesses.

Imagine a dinner at the house of the Vettii, which has been reconstructed from its ruins in Pompeii. Think of the beautiful inner court. Around it runs a paved court with classic marble columns. There is a gay garden in the center. From odd and unexpected places tiny streams of water trickle from little statues of bronze into cool basins. Marble tables stand among the flowers.

Conjure up a picture of a dinner at the house of the Vettii. Low couches are placed along the outer edge of the marble tables and the guests lie propped up on their left elbows with rich cushions to make them comfortable.

The diners can see the sunset glow in the sky. Off in the distance they see the great bulk of old Vesuvius, casting an ominous shadow over the city. Cool breezes invade the garden and rustle the leaves of the garden shrubs and vines. The little fountains furnish a delicate musical accompaniment.

The slaves bear the large silver platters of food. It was good to be a woman of high-standing in those days.

But there is a reverse side to the picture. Back in the hidden part of the Vettie's spacious house was a tiny room—its kitchen. Small, cramped and stuffy—it presented a compelling contrast to the classic beauty of the garden. Here was the crude stove. It was only a low stone structure, on the top of which charcoal was spread. The pots in which the food was cooked were on tripods and they were set right in the glowing coals. The cooks had to bend over this bed of fuming coals as they cooked.

This was in the home of a Pompeiian of wealth. Still more primitive were the stoves of the less fortunate.

Pompeii is gone. The old Roman civilization has given way to a newer one—and slavery is a thing of the past.

The stuffy kitchen has gone; the primitive stove has been discarded, and now cooking has become an art and a science. Cooking is no longer slavery. It is something that every true housewife loves.

But every true housewife has learned that her emancipation is accomplished by the aid of a Sterling Range. She knows that here is a cook stove that has been built with a keen eye to her comfort.

The Sterling Range is the range that never fails. It has been constructed scientifically. It has been thoroughly tested, and time and again it has baked a barrel of flour with a single load of coal.

It is a thing of household beauty. It is correctly proportioned, attractively finished. It has roomy cooking and oven space. It utilizes both coal and gas and has a combination hot water-heater.

In fact, the Sterling Range is the great Emancipater of the modern woman, for it is within the reach of all. Every woman can profit by its economical and time saving features. Can if desired so arrange terms of payment with the Sterling dealer that the Range will practically pay for itself by the savings it effects.

The slaves of Pompeii were obliged to use the stove they had. You can escape kitchen drudgery by simply calling on the Sterling Dealer today.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

Scheduled for presentation at the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is the Fred Niblo production, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," a photoplay version of a play which has been acknowledged as one of the most important contributions of many years to the book of the American drama. If the success which it won as a stage play is any criterion for judgment, the picture should prove an unqualified success, and there is every reason to await the picture's coming with the greatest expectation.

James Forbes, distinguished American playwright, is the author of the stage play. In it the celebrated players Henry Miller and Blanche Bates were seen for an entire year on Broadway, and for two years afterwards they toured the United States in it, winning approval on every side. Everywhere it was greeted as a really significant drama of American home life, and it presented a problem which is still vital and still unsolved.

The author has summed up his entire play in these words:

"A woman actuated by duty engages in war work, winning honors and the loving admiration and encouragement of her family; but when on her return she, actuated by selfish vanity, again leaves him, the realization is brought home to her tragically that a wife and mother can have a career but not at the expense of her obligations to her home and family."

That is the theme of the play, and the various roles that make it a thing of great humanity are magnificently portrayed. As Mrs. Nancy Fair, Myrtle Stedman adds to her distinguished screen accomplishments, presenting a portrayal that is tender, sympathetic and thoroughly intelligent. Huntly Gordon, as her neglected husband, is likewise splendidly real Marguerite De La Motte and Cullen Landis, as their two children on whom the brunt of Mrs. Fair's selfishness falls, are just as one would imagine them to be in real life, which is, after all a great tribute; and Ward Crane, Carmel Myers and Helen Ferguson round out the strong cast in a fine manner.

Many elaborate scenic effects have been obtained, some of the interiors especially being remarkable. The feminine characters, all members of the New York "smart set," wear costumes which are the latest in fashionable apparel, and this phase should prove of interest to the women.

The photo-play, a Metro-Louis B. Mayer production, was adapted by Frances Marion from the great American play. It was photographed by Charles J. Van Enger. Howard Higgin was art director.

Buck Montana in "Glad Rags", and Topics of the Day make up the remainder of the bill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Strand Monday.

Norma Talmadge, the most popular of the women stars on the screen today, will be seen soon at the Strand theatre in her latest offering, "The Voice From the Minaret," declared to be a story of unusual dramatic power. Frank Lloyd directed this First National picture, which was adapted by Frances Marion from Robert Hichens' famous novel.

The action of the tale is laid in London, Bombay, Damascus and the desert, and the production has a pictorial background of striking splendor. The story is a colorfully romantic one, swiftly moving, and nothing has been left undone to make this Norma Talmadge's greatest picture.

The star is cast as Lady Adrienne, the wife of the governor of Bombay, Sir Leslie Carlyle. Cruel by nature, Lord Leslie takes keen delight in torturing his wife in every conceivable manner, insulting and disgracing her in public at every opportunity.

Lady Adrienne bears up patiently under his abuse, but the time came when she found she could stand no more and she determined to leave her husband. So she started on her long journey back to England. En route she became acquainted with a son of Britain who was on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. He induced her to change her plans and to accompany him.

They found love in the desert of the east—but not the peace that craved, for the voice of the muezzin, calling the faithful to prayer from the minarets, constantly reminded them of their duty to others. Resolutely, they turned back, to face a series of highly dramatic adventures that nearly brought an end to their lives.

A Comedy and News will also be shown. As an added attraction the management has secured the Message of Emile Coue, his only personally appearing picture explaining self-mastery through conscious autosuggestion.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

Surrounded by regal splendor that bespeaks lavish expenditure of money, Ethel Clayton gives a brilliant performance in her first big super-special production "If I Were Queen," revealed for the first time Sunday at the Broadway theatre.

Miss Clayton, heretofore, has chiefly been identified with social dramas upon which she has built her widespread popularity. In her new production she strikes a note of wholesome romance that is delightful. The story, which was adapted from the novel "The Three-Cornered Kingdom" by Du Vernet Rabell, has to do with the adventures of an American girl in a mythical principality in the mountain fastnesses of the Balkans. The romantic atmosphere of the memorable "Beverly of Graustark," "The Prisoner of Zenda", and other stories that carry one back to the age of chivalry.

"If I Were Queen" has been constructed on imposing lines. There is, for example, a train wreck which is quite the most realistic the screen has shown in many a day. The court scenes are big with romance and regal pomp. The story moves swiftly to a rousing climax. The skilled hand of the director, Wesley Ruggles, is evident throughout.

Then, too, the cast merits commendation of the highest degree. In addition to Miss Clayton there are Andree Lafen, Warner Baxter, Victory Bateman, Murdock MacQuarrie and Genevieve Blinn, each of whom contributes in no small measure to the distinction of the photoplay. "If I Were Queen" is sponsored by the Film Booking Offices of America.

A Comedy and News Weekly complete the bill.

Mrs. Edward Andrews is to give her annual recital at Slater Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, April 11, the proceeds to go toward the vacation fund of the two groups of Camp Fire Girls of Norwich. ACADEMY OPENS BASEBALL SEASON TODAY AGAINST ALL-COLLEGIANS

The Academy baseball season opens at the Academy campus this afternoon when the 1923 Academy team plays its opening game against Bill McKnight's All-Collegians. The prospects for a good baseball team at the Academy are bright and Coach Eddie McKay is greatly encouraged over the outlook. Last season the team was the poorest in years, but this season there is much promising material from which a good team can be developed.

The 1923 team will be developed around three veterans of last year—Dinty Kilroy, Walz and Phil McNamara. Kilroy and Walz are outfielders and McNamara is an infielder. The remainder of the team will be made up from the new recruits and several of last season's substitutes.

The pitching staff looks fairly promising with Johnny Fellows, Ellie Seigal and a youngster by the name of Healy. Healy looks good, having lots of speed and plenty of hooks. Fellows is a southpaw and Seigal is a slow ball pitcher with wide breaking curves.

On the receiving end, "Butch" Mlieski and Perry Hollander look as though they would bear the burden of the backstop work, although McGibney and Corcoran are showing some good form.

The first sack position has three likely candidates in Sullivan, Burke and "Stretch" Young. Sullivan is a good sticker and fields his position well, while "Stretch" is just a little slow but may develop as the season progresses. Burke, a youngster who showed up well on grammar school teams last year, has good form and, being a left hander, would make an ideal first sacker. With more experience he will be a regular.

In McGowan and Haslem Coach McKay has two good prospects for the keystone position. McGowan was a sub last year and has a little on Haslem in experience but will have to travel to make a regular berth.

In the short field "Midget" Trombari looks like a real ball player and his fielding is exceptional for a first year player. "Deacon" Strouse is also out for this position and will give any candidate a hard rub for the position. Niziricks is another candidate for this berth and is developing in a fast fielder and hard hitter. Jimmy Fenton is another candidate for the berth.

Phil McNamara and Carroll are fighting it out for the third base position. Phil has the edge on Carroll for the berth, as he covered it last season with credit. He is a fair and dependable hitter.

There are many candidates for the outfield but the left and center gardens will probably go to Walz and Capt. Dinty Kilroy, two veterans of last season's team. Walz is a good fielder with a perfect throwing arm and is also a hard hitter. Walz has also tried his hand in the box and may be called upon during the season to perform in this position. Kilroy is a fair fielder and a good sticker and is the best prospect for the center garden. The right field berth is uncertain. There are a number of candidates for this position, including Cohen, a good hitter, Steinman, Mahoney and Downes.

Practically all the new material will be given a chance to demonstrate their ability today against the All-Collegians. The Collegians will have the following in their lineup: Mullin of Middlebury c, Wright p, Nelson of C. C. C. 1b, McKnight of B. Y. 2b, Ringland of Tufts ss, Whitney of Middlebury 3b, Brown of St. John's lf, Bennett of Middlebury cf, Murphy of N. U. rf.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

HUNTER AND RICHARDS WIN DOUBLES TITLE

New York, April 6.—Playing a fast, spectacular game, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle and Vincent Richards of Yonkers today captured the national indoors tennis title from S. Howard Voshell and Frank T. Anderson of Brooklyn, 6-3, 7-5, 7-5.

Hunter, the playing through singles champion, and Richards, a former title holder, also were victorious in the semi-final round of the singles and will meet tomorrow for the singles championship. Richards defeated Voshell, also a former champion, 9-7, 6-1, and Hunter eliminated Anderson, 1921 champion, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Anderson's slump in the final set with Hunter continued into the first set of the doubles. He appeared nervous, and Voshell's steadiness could not stem the attack of their opponents.

Richards and Hunter came from behind to win both the second and third sets. Anderson's confidence returned in the second and he and Voshell captured the first three games in rapid succession. The defending title holders were close to victory when games stood at 5-2 in their favor but Richards and Hunter staged a spectacular rally, volleying and smashing their way to victory in five straight games to take the set.

The third set also was closely fought, Hunter and Richards rallying to win three straight games after trailing at 4-5.

GIBSON DENIES LEONARD IS TO MEET FREEDMAN

New York, April 6—Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world denied tonight that he has agree to a titular match with Sailor Freedman, of Chicago on July 2, at the Polo Grounds as Freedman announced in Chicago today.

Denial of the report also was made by Tom O'Rourke, match-maker of the club operating the Polo Grounds for boxing matches.

Phillies Back Home

Philadelphia, April 6—Manager Arthur Fletcher and his squad of Philadelphia National league players arrived today after a month of spring training in Florida.

Training Camp Talks

by STONEY McLINN

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hot Springs, Ark., April 7.—Pitching is a defensive factor in baseball that practically determines the outcome of the pennant competition. A manager may have a club that will average better than .300 on the attack; his fielders may be masters of their several positions. But if he does not have four or five hurlers who are competent to hold the enemy offensive in check he can't hope to finish in front.

On the other hand, a club with four or five good pitchers may meet with success in a flag race even though the batting and the fielding are not big league through and through.

From a baseball point of view entirely—that is, eliminating the essential fight and spirit—the winner of the championship banner in the National League this year, A. D., 1923, will be one of three or four clubs which gets the best pitching.

In the springtime we shall select as the contenders New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and possibly Chicago. Naturally the Giants are mentioned first, because John Joseph McGraw has a company of athletes who won pennants and world's championships in the two previous seasons. The regulars are young man in their baseball prime and the team as a whole is no weaker—maybe a bit stronger—this year than it was in '22.

Pirates Have Team Spirit

The team spirit that one reads about but seldom comes in contact with, exists in the Pirate camp. McKechnie is a popular leader. His players like him, respect his ability and believe it is quite possible for Pittsburgh to fly the 1923 championship flag.

Next in line we mention Cincinnati. Pat Moran will send into the fight the same club that battled so merrily and skillfully near the finish of the '22 campaign. Jake Daubert's illness on the eve of his start for the spring camp was a blow. But the Reds will romp along with a competent substitute until Jake joins them. If Jake is out for the season—well, that's another thing again. But we do not figure Cincinnati out or in even though Daubert is lost to the club.

Benton had added untold strength to what was a first-class twirling force. And the right sort of spirit exists in Redland—it always exists where Patricius Moran is the commander in chief. Yes, Cincinnati will be in the race as a contender. Not so strong on paper as New York and Pittsburgh, perhaps, but to be figured in.

Cubs Look Good

Phil Killifer's Cubs may be contenders, and may even win, if the pitchers deliver. William is depending upon one or two young southpaws, and at least one right-hander from rookieland, to help his veterans. Furthermore, Killifer has been a reconstructionist and will have new regulars at two important infield posts—third and second.

St. Louis will have a team with a punch on the attack. Rogers Hornsby sets an example for other young men on the club that some of 'em are pretty sure to follow. Branch Rickey has strengthened his team by assigning Bottomley to first base. It is possible that he will find a big league shortstop among the fourteen he had in the Florida camp of the Cardinals.

Phils Are Fighting Club

Arthur Fletcher will give Philadelphia a colorful, fighting ball club. The athletes admire their leader and have imbibed some of his aggressiveness. Holke at first and Sand at short have helped the infield. Two of the recruit infielders appear to be comers.

On the attack the Phillies will be a thorn in the side of the clubs with pennant aspirations. But Fletcher's pitching staff is weak. So far as we can see at this writing, Fletcher's pitching staff is weak. So far as we can see at this writing, Fletcher's only hope for this year is to finish ahead of Boston and Brooklyn—maybe St. Louis.

Boston, with Stuffy McInnis on first base and Christy Mathewson as president—Matty had added some thing in a psychological way—may climb. It is possible for the Braves to finish at the top of the second division; even in fourth place. But Mitchell lacks hurling strength, we believe, and may find it tough to get higher than seventh.

Brooklyn has several pitchers who will be disliked by opposing batsmen seeking an average and fame as sluggers. Robbie is bound to develop the twirlers. But in other departments the Superbas appear second class. Youngsters are being groomed, but none of them is likely to become a star this year. His many friends—and we are among them—will hate to see good, old Uncle Wilbert in the cellar, but he'll have trouble keeping his club from finishing there.

As a final word, bear in mind that injuries to certain players and other happenings beyond the control of man may turn our predictions and opinions topsy-turvy. (That's the old alibi, but a necessary one).

A swing round the spring camps provides some fun; many hardships. We have done our best to please. We thank you!

MICHAEL KNOCKS OUT KETCHELL; O'DOWD GETS DECISION OVER MILLER

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, April 6—Sailor Michaels of the Submarine base put away Steve Ketchell of Providence in the fourth round of their scheduled ten-round go in the feature bout at the town hall here Friday evening. A blow to the stomach put Ketchell against the ropes and two more hooks to the head sent him down for the count. While it lasted this match was one of the finest that has been seen here. Both men are very clever but Michaels seemed to be in the better physical condition.

In the semi-final Willie O'Dowd of Central Village got a decision over Kid Miller of Norwich after six rounds of uninteresting milling in the slowest bout of the evening. O'Dowd weighed in at 117, Miller at 113 1-2.

In one of the preliminary matches Young DeForrest of Danielson substituted for Young Bernier of Danielson who is suffering with a boil on the face, fought Tommy Woods of Plainfield to a six round draw and made a splendid showing as he was giving away six pounds in weight, scaling in at 114 while Woods weighed 120.

The opening match of the evening came to an abrupt ending when, after a minute and a half of the first round Young Choquette of Danielson knocked out Young Superneault of Wauregan. In this Choquette sacrificed weight registering 134 against Superneault's 140.

State Boxing Commissioner Frank Murphy of Hartford made the announcements and Frankie Glennon of Hartford was referee.

It was a great night for challengers and the more than 600 fans present had a chance to look over a lot of talent. Among those who threw out defies were Irish Billy Glynn of Norwich who wants a bout at 135 pounds, Red Rankin of Norwich looking for a match at 126 pounds. Young Devine of Norwich who would take on some 150 pound boy, Mickey Welch, Submarine Base, challenging anyone in New England as a junior lightweight. Young Joe Gans of New York challenged anyone at 160 pounds and Young DeForest of Danielson challenging Willie O'Dowd, winner from Miller.

Holmes to Lead Yale Riflemen

New Haven, April 6—Frederick T. Holmes, 25, of Waterbury, was elected captain of the Yale rifle team at a meeting here tonight. D. S. Sanford, Ja., Redding Ridge, was elected manager, while Robert Palmer, of Dunkirk, N. Y., was elected assistant manager.

YALE TO DECIDE ON SWEETSER CASE NEXT WEEK

New Haven, April 6—Yale's attitude on the question of permitting Jesse W. Sweetser, national amateur golf champion, to leave his studies here to go abroad with the American team, will be decided early next week by a special committee appointed recently. It is the general belief here that the university does not look with favor on the proposal.

Taftville to Play at Westerly.

The Taftville soccer team will play the American Thread team of Westerly at Westerly on Sunday afternoon. A hard game is expected but the local team is confident of winning, as the same team that beat South Manchester will be in the field against Westerly. The lineup will be as follows: Finlayson, goal; Gavin and McCluggage, backs; Alexander, Greenhalgh, Wragg, Thompson, Strong, Jones and Walker, forwards. The team will leave Taftville at 1 o'clock and will pick up the Norwich players at Preston bridge.

MACK TO REMAIN IN SOUTH LONGER

New Haven, April 6—Johnny Mack, coach of the Yale track team, who went to the Bahamas for his health some time ago is now in Jacksonville, Fla., the guest of John Acosta, former Yale football player. Mack did not feel well when it was time for him to sail for New York and instead went to Jacksonville where he will remain for another week. He will probably return to Yale about the middle of April.

SWEETSER MAY YET BE MEMBER OF U. S. GOLF TEAM

New York, April 6.—Jess W. Sweetser of Yale, national amateur golf champion, may yet be a member of the American team which will go abroad for the international Walker cup match with Great Britain, it was learned today, despite his recent announcement that scholastic duties would prevent him from making the trip.

Officials of the United States Golf association, who are especially anxious to have Sweetser on the team, are understood to have taken up the matter with Yale authorities in an effort to obtain leave of absence for the national champion.

MUSKEGON MEETS KANSAS CITY FIVE TODAY

Chicago, April 6—(By the A. P.)—Muskegon, Michigan, high school champions, defeated Osage, Iowa, champions, 26 to 25 today and thereby won the right to compete in the semi-finals tomorrow afternoon at the national invitation interscholastic basketball tournament at the University of Chicago. The Kansas City, Kansas, team also won its way to the semi-finals today, defeating Tilden high, Chicago district champions 44 to 28. Kansas City and Muskegon Mich., will meet tomorrow afternoon in the first block of the semi-finals.

DEMPSEY OFFERED $200,000 TO MEET GIBBONS

Milwaukee, April 6—(By the A. P.)—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight fighter, has been made a bona fide offer of $200,000 to meet Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, in a 15-round bout to a decision at Shelby, Montana, on July 4.

Despite the fact that Chicago has been in the second division for several seasons, the Chicago club has one of the greatest records of any team in the National League. New York has cut down Chicago's lead in championships won, but the Cubs still lead, 11 pennants to 10.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Chased by Old Man Weasel

Mr. Peter Pig came out of his house
And a nice fat pig was he,
And when he went over to the wood
He found an acorn tree.

But he didn't do that until after the two little rabbits went away, for you remember, in the story before this, they had just driven up in the Luckymobile to make a call.

"Well, what can I do for you?" he asked.

"We want to buy a bushel of acorns," said Uncle Lucky.

"Haven't got a bushel left," answered Mr. Pig.

I must go over to the Shady Forest and look around under the acorn tree. Maybe there are a few nuts left over from last year."

Little Jack Rabbit poured it all over the road.

"All right," said Uncle Lucky, "and if you find any call me up on the telephone and I'll drive over and get them," and then, he and Little Jack Rabbit said goodbye and drove away, and pretty soon, for so very long, they came to the Bubbling Brook, but they had never seen this part of it before and at first they thought it was another brook but when the little Fresh Water Crab called out "Hello!" why, of course, they knew he wouldn't live in any other water. Oh, no, no. The Bubbling Brook was his country let me tell you.

"Do you remember the day you lost the letter?"

"Yes, I do!" said Little Jack Rabbit. "My, but that seems long ago."

And then, all of a sudden, there was a great splash in the water and before you could say "Willie Boker" Old Man Weasel climbed up the bank. I guess he had tried to jump over the Bubbling Brook and had fallen in and may be he hadn't, but anyway the two little rabbits didn't stop to find out. Oh, my no! They started off in the Luckymobile as fast as they could go, but Old Man Weasel was behind them! My, how fast they went and how fast he went! I guess he hadn't had anything to eat for many a day!

"Gracious goodness me-bus!" said Uncle Lucky, "I hope we have enough gasolene to last us. Old Man Weasel seems pretty spry today."

"I'll fix him," said Little Jack Rabbit, opening his knapsack and taking out a big bottle of glue. Then, leaning over the back of the Luckymobile, he poured it all over the road and when Old Man Weasel stepped in it he could hardly pull up his feet and after a few steps more he couldn't get them off the ground. There he stood just like a wooden toy in a shop only of course, he could wiggle his head and his tail and wink his eyes. But his feet! Oh, my no. They were stuck to the ground as fast as you please. Why, he couldn't even bend his knees, just think of that.

"'Oh, please help me!'" he shouted to the two little rabbits.

"Sorry, but we can't," replied Uncle Lucky. "You'll have to stay where you are until it rains and melts the glue" and the Luckymobile turned a hill and Old Man Weasel was left alone and if it doesn't rain tonight, he'll be there in the morning.

PORTFOUS & MITCHELL CO. ANNIVERSARY.

Not only Norwich, but thousands [illegible] will make the most of the opportunity that is offered today to commemorate. The Portfous & Mitchell company on its golden anniversary, a milestone in the business career of the city that reflects most creditably upon the sound and progressive policies of the founders of this fine department store.

Norwich has depended upon the service that it has furnished almost from the very start. [illegible] no better illustration of the remarkable development [illegible] has undergone.

Such an outstanding business enterprise [illegible] introduction to the people of Norwich and eastern Connecticut. It is known [illegible] within the trading radius of Norwich and beyond. Its [illegible] extended into the wholesale as well as the retail field [illegible] which have grown [illegible] from the small [illegible] We all been manifold [illegible] of success. It has [illegible] a school for many [illegible] business [illegible] use the [illegible] that govern [illegible]

It was [illegible] Norwich who [illegible] and Mitchell. They had a [illegible] and the [illegible] before the [illegible] trading [illegible] the [illegible] public [illegible] the [illegible] houses of [illegible] would be [illegible] occupy the same [illegible] the citizens of Norwich and [illegible] of the state.

What can be done when there is a sure [illegible] which to place [illegible] as well illustrated [illegible] remarkable development [illegible] Mitchell company.

It is a [illegible] been of untold benefit [illegible] Norwich nor [illegible] time but cannot fail [illegible] hope that the next half [illegible] will find its development [illegible] The store that opened [illegible] good stores are [illegible] asserts a city can have [illegible] ably look forward to a [illegible] steady development.

MAKING USE OF OUR STREAMS.

Whether there is going to be fuel enough [illegible] requirements, [illegible] note the action that [illegible] the extensive [illegible] hydro-electric plants [illegible] part of the country [illegible] Here in this [illegible] direction. We have suffered from the [illegible] cheap power and [illegible] coal and [illegible] the [illegible] vast amount of water [illegible] going to waste [illegible] disregarded.

Industrial [illegible] companies have demonstrating the advantages [illegible] so long [illegible] it is [illegible] that a number of [illegible] be available [illegible] power [illegible] with [illegible] Lon [illegible] the [illegible] water [illegible] the [illegible] use [illegible] the [illegible] dry spells [illegible] We [illegible] of [illegible] use [illegible] the [illegible] at the [illegible] may [illegible] is a [illegible] but [illegible] the [illegible] be considered [illegible] is compared [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] methods to check the [illegible]

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Lord Robert Cecil has come to this country to tell us [illegible] of the league [illegible] and show what we [illegible] it. He says [illegible] the league [illegible] the only way in which to prevent war.

While he is [illegible] the speaking tour in this [illegible] the president of the royal [illegible] of the French senate is saying that the present league of nations is useless and impotent, that there should be a new league that would have an international navy to back it up in order to command peace.

The British speaker, who is credited with knowing as much as anybody about the present league, is endeavoring to arouse sentiment here in behalf of membership in the league. He doesn't bring any new arguments and he doesn't point to the stopping of the Greco-Turkish war as an accomplishment of the league. He isn't able to show that the league made it unnecessary for the French to go into the Ruhr.

That he may serve to strengthen the belief of many that there is wisdom back of the idea of joining the international court of justice seems not improbable. Such action doesn't mean joining the league, or assuming any obligation similar thereto. What the attitude of the country is toward league membership hasn't changed much from which it was two years ago when the presidential election reflected the public feeling.

THE DOUBLE ELECTROCUTION.

The appalling manner in which two lives were snuffed out Friday night in Crescent street calls for a prompt and thorough investigation as to the cause.

The circumstances would appear to be such that there is a menace to each and every person who gets into a similar position and that menace is certain to continue until the needed remedy is applied.

If there is a leak in high-powered wires, or if it is possible for persons to get a death shock from coming in contact with poles or wires it is time that it was known. It cannot be believed that knowledge prevails that such danger actually existed previous to this double fatality, but with this revelation there should be no delay in taking prompt and effective action to prevent anything of the kind in the future.

Let the investigation or investigations be started at once, and as a proper precaution make them broad enough so that the danger of such electrocutions being repeated elsewhere about the city be eliminated.

The city loses a most efficient police officer in the death of Sergeant Kane, who sacrificed his life in the pursuit of duty. He has long been a member of the force who was conspicuous for his conscientious and diligent service both as a patrolman and as a sergeant, which office he has held for a number of years with much credit to himself and the police department.

THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHPLACE.

The purchase by President Harding of his birthplace doesn't indicate action that is so different from what others have done. There are those to whom the actual birthplace means more than it does to others. The birthplace has far more attractions if it is the place where many years of youth were spent than if it was one of many homes in which the early years of an individual were spent.

Buying up an ancestral home does not necessarily mean anything in the way of plans for a distant future. The possession of such property does not always mean a desire to return to reside there, though there are instances where such is highly desirable.

The desire for preservation is, however, well to the front when action of this kind is taken. And this is especially true when the property has gone from family hands. Rather than see it go into disuse and decay through neglect and mistreatment sentiment arouses many a person to similar steps to what the president has taken. It is another one of the steps that shows the makeup of the president and gives emphasis to that old phrase that "There's no place like home," humble though it may be. Having fond memories of such a place the president has taken the proper course to preserve them and to make possible a visit thereto whenever he pleases without encroaching upon another or being saddened by the condition he might find it were it left to the care of disinterested parties. Too often is it the case that people never care to see their birthplaces again because of the conditions they found them in on return visits.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

How many communities would have to plead guilty to similar law enforcement to that in Gary, Ind.?

April showers make it all too evident that we cannot delay the opening of the fly-swatting season much longer.

New York may yet find that the increase in crime there is due to a secret old home week among the criminals.

It is even more difficult to decide whether to let the heater fire go out than it is to reach a decision on taking 'em off.

With the British income tax producing £50,000,000 more than expected there might be a quiet tip therein for Germany.

There are enough of them so that it ought not to be difficult to find a Block Island for Turkey and its prohibition laws.

A British scientist has discovered the origin of coal. More interest would be manifested in the future of the coal supply.

Inasmuch as Turkey has prohibited liquor it would be interesting to learn how it deals with a fleet outside the three mile limit.

The boost in the price of sugar has started some investigations but it is still possible for the people to go in for sugarless Sundays.

There will not be as much objection to the claim that prosperity is here to stay as there would be to the same sort of a claim about a wet April.

The man on the corner says: When you feel that this is the grandest town to which mortal ever paid taxes you know spring has arrived.

There seems to be little ground for the hope by some ship operators that a grabbag will be made for some of the vessels the shipping board would like to get rid of.

Don't think it is necessary to wait for the other fellow concerning clean up activities. Like housecleaning there's more satisfaction in crowing over a finished job.

"At any rate," says the Vancouver Sun, "the man who uses a sandbag to get your money doesn't make you like a return." No, but how you would like to hand him one!

THE MAN WHO TALKS

As these lines are written we are still in the grip of cold weather. It seems to be what we hope it will prove to be—the last spasm of a hard winter. Harder still are our feeble efforts to meet these spasms with asbestos (not anthracite) coal. Trying to keep warm with high winds blowing and the mercury down to 18 degrees above zero on fireproof, non-combustible material, and surviving in good old-fashioned, orthodox fashion, shows that the American people have not lost their white oak timbre. "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good," an old saying that mine operators are proving to their heart's content. It has given them an opportunity to dispose of old dump heaps that have been accumulating ever since the discovery of hard coal, but it has been rather tough on families of small incomes to be forced to pay $16.50 a ton for it.

Money-grubbing tends to shortness of vision; so does every other kind of grubbing. Men who dig ditches or walls as an occupation must of necessity be short sighted. Living constantly within narrow horizons must needs create shortness of outlook upon life in general. Men and women may be found in the deep valleys of the Alps who refuse to believe there is any world outside of the high mountains that hem them in on all sides. Beatmen on the Nile call American tourists liars who tell them that in their country people can walk on their rivers in winter, and that loaded teams can go across them. Unable to read and write, they do not believe there is any world beyond what they see. How little do most of us, not subject to such limitations, fully understand all the conditions under which people live in distant parts of our own land. There is no greater eye-opener than travel.

While growling over any ill, real or fancied, (most of them, however, are fancied) never gets one anywhere so far as you can see it, yet it has one mental and, possibly, physical satisfaction. That growling is a bad habit to get into we must all readily admit, and when the habit is once formed it will lead one to the uttermost limits of absurdity. The writter actually ran across a man once in the northeastern part of Maine who growled about the tongue of his mother-in-law. This fact is stated merely to show how completely unreasonable growling may sometimes be. But there are times when it is attended with greater or less satisfaction. When we are stirred up to the boiling point over something that is supposedly a grievance, we certainly do have a rip-snorting-good time in "blowing off steam." Possibly it saves us from a stroke of apoplexy. But when one feels the growl coming he had better stroll off into the fields a mile from the nearest house.

One is constantly being impressed with the utter unreliability of predictions. Where there is one prophecy based on scientific knowledge there are ninety-nine that grow out of sheer imagination and superstition. The weather man has his fling at it, and his forecast is neither imagination nor superstition, but nature herself is so restive in her scientific harness, that the predicted comes off far enough ahead or behind the time disignated as to shatter its accuracy. The dear old lady predicts a mild or a cold winter according to certain abnormal marks on a turkey bone and it is believed in some quarters. The old man knows that a storm is coming from the degree of comfort he gets out of his rheumatic joints. Whether this is science, imagination or superstition, it is believed. But wildest of all the flings in the field of prophecy are those of the religionists. At any rate playing the part of prophet keeps the mind from stagnation.

One has heard very little, up to date, about the size of the "speckled beauties" caught, or more especially almost caught, for reasons too obvious even for elastic imagination. One is inclined to think that this lack of great whollopers caught is not quite due to the fact that April first this year fell on Sunday, or that Easter with its fine soprano solos, bass and tenor duets or even eloquent sermons had superior attractions to the little rippling brook in the dell. The truth of the matter is there were no little rippling brooks in the dell this year. The brook had become the sizable stream, nearly everywhere overflowing its banks, so that its channel could not be easily followed. Another drawback was the icy temperature of the water. The "speckled beauties" did not intend to leave their warm quarters for such a chilling reception merely to please the fisherman. Well, fellow sportsmen, better days are coming.

Rapid changes are constantly going on in the character of our population, and with the changes there are consequent dangers because assimilation is not keeping pace with the influx of immigrants. A recent denominational census brings out the following significant, if not alarming, facts. To say the very least they are impressive enough: 32.5 per cent. are of American antecedents, 30.5 per cent. are of foreign parents; 27.3 per cent. were foreign born; and 8.1 per cent. were of mixed parentage. The next statement is one that ought to "make us sit up and take notice," that Connecticut is the only state in the Union to show an increase in its parentage of illiteracy during the last decade. According to this investigation this increase was among the foreign born of which 150,000 were unable to read, write or speak our language. This is indeed serious because a way will be found to make them voters.

The time has come for a clearing up of the wreckage of winter. Rubbish abounds all about us. It is everywhere simply because winter has been everywhere—in all the nooks and crannies the winds have deposited all refuse matter. We find it on our front lawns and in our back yards and it does not signify that we are sinner above all others because of this untidiness. Your neighbor's premises look just as badly as yours. The garden rake and the bonfire will soon be in evidence. But a word of warning is needed here, not, however, in regard to the rake, because it cannot be used too soon. The bonfire may come a bit too soon, if it is started before the high March winds have subsided. There are two things that seriously menace us; the first is, the tall, dry grass of the fields, and the second, is the small boy with matches in his pocket, which ought never to be allowed. The burning of the Church of the Sacred Heart is a sad reminder of waht a careless fire will do.

The daily press reminds us that foreign ships of various sizes and from different countries are coming to the limit of the international boundary line on the high seas loaded down with contraband merchandise. As a citizen of this country for one I protest against this deliberate insult to the organic law of the land. The question is not whether other nations favor our prohibition laws or not,they are morally bound to respect those laws as long as they do not interfere with the public life of their peoples. It is bad enough for immigrants to sting the hand that would give it bread, it is worse for the nations that send their immigrants here to encourage them in their law breaking. Our congress would act clearly within its rights to inform these nations that their action in here construed as acts of hostility. And also let bootlegging on the part of aliens be answered by deportation.

Today's Birthdays

Most Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, born 75 years ago today.

Rt. Rev. Edward Campion Acheson, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut, born in England, 64 years ago today.

Walter Camp, celebrated as a writer and authority on athletics, born at New Haven, 64 years ago today.

John J. McGraw, head of the New York National league baseball club, born at Truxton, N. Y., 50 years ago today.

Benny Leonard, holder of the lightweight pugilistic championship, born in New York City, 27 years ago today.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

From all over the world Dr. Randall T. Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, will receive congratulations today on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. Dr. Davidson holds the highest office of the British realm. As the ninety-fifth Archbishop of Canterbury, dating from the foundation of the see in A. D. 597, he ranks immediately next to royalty, having the "pas" over every one of the king's subjects, no matter whether duke, premier, lord high chancellor or secretary of state. None of his predecessors have been more respected and esteemed than is Dr. Davidson. He is at once a great ecclesiastical statesman and a kindly human being. Though always cautious and moderate, he has definite opinions and does not hesitate to let them be known and to make decisions when necessary. Perhaps the outstanding feature of his tenure of his important office will be the improved relations that he has brought about, between Anglicans and Nonconformists, and the resolute attempts made towards church reunion.

LAST WORDS WRITTEN BY LINCOLN.

Attorney General Daugherty found a most interesting document written by Edward Bates, of Missouri, who was attorney general when the civil war began in 1861, among the old files of the department of justice. The following document, inscribed in a rather scrawly hand on the ruled paper of the period, was found in the department of justice archives:

Atty. Gen's Office,
April 19, 1861.

In the present crisis of public affairs, and because there are instances, daily coming to light, of official unfaithfulness to the government, it has been deemed proper to require all persons engaged in the department, to renew their pledge of loyalty to the government.

Therefore, I propose tomorrow morning at half-past nine o'clock, in this office, to take an oath (myself setting the example, and all others belonging to the office following) to this effect—

"I Edward Bates, attorney general of the U. S. (or Asst. A. G., or clerk in the A. G.'s office) do solemnly swear that I will support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, and that I will bear true faith and loyalty to the government of the United States, as established by the constitution and the laws, so help me God.

Edw. Bates.

The paper is folded in the manner of legal documents and indorsed as follows:

The oath herein was taken and subscribed on the 20th April, 1861 by Edward Bates, Atty. Genl.
T. J. Coffey, Asst. Atty. Genl.
R. D. Bates, Clerk.
J. H. Cooper, Clerk.
J. A. Rowland, Clerk.
D. DeW. Smith, Clerk.
H. A. Klopfer, Messenger.
All employed in the office of the Atty. Genl. of the U. States.
April 22, 1861.
Rd. Bates.

Lincoln's Human Sympathy.

Mr. Daugherty said he was particularly impressed by the "human" side of Lincoln who appeared to interest himself at times in matters which might be considered unimportant, yet which dealt with incidents of a nature involving kindness and consideration to humble folks.

An indorsement by Lincoln on the back of a pension petition dated April 19, 1862, indicates the martyr president's personal interest in the case of a war widow: "Will the Attorney General please examine this case and give me his opinion whether the accounting officers should pay this claim, the Resolution of Congress to the contrary notwithstanding—

A. Lincoln.

Several other letters in Lincoln's hand on various subjects were found in the records, but the one of greatest historical and sympathetic interest is that written on April 13, 1865, for it is believed to have been the last official letter ever penned by him. He was shot down by the assassin on April 14 and died early the following morning:

Executive Mansion.
Washington, April 13, 1865.

Attorney General
Dear Sir:

Send me a Commission for William Kellogg, to be Judge in Nebraska in place of W. P. Kellogg resigned.

Yours truly,
A. Lincoln.

The indorsements on the back of the letter show that the appointment was that of a chief justice for the territory of Nebraska. The fact was the "W. P. Kellogg" who resigned and the "William Kellogg" who was appointed were one and the same person. Mr. Kellogg was appointed chief justice of Nebraska by Lincoln in 1861 but was granted leave of absence by the president to raise a regiment and participate in the war. He resigned as chief justice in 1865 and was reappointed, as the autograph letter indicates, as "William Kellogg."

Another autograph Lincoln letter relating to a judgeship is dated June 3, 1863:

Hon. Attorney General
My dear Sir

Judge Pettis having resigned, as appears by his letter herewith enclosed please send me a nomination for Allen A. Bradford as his successor.

Yours truly,
A. Lincoln.

Notations on the back show that the position referred to was that of Federal Judge of Colorado Territory.

Lincoln's Last Written Words.

The last words ever written by Abraham Lincoln, Mr. Daugherty said, were scribbled on the back of a calling card at 8.30 o'clock on the night of April 14, 1865. George Ashmun was waiting in the White House lobby for an audience when the President passed through on his way to join Mrs. Lincoln who was seated in the carriage to take them to Ford's theatre. Lincoln asked Mr. Ashmun for his card and drawing a lead pencil from his pocket wrote:

"Admit Mr. Ashmun and friends at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

A. Lincoln.

April 14, 1865.

This card, together with a statement by Mr. Ashmun, is preserved in the Lincoln case at the Library of Congress.

A communication from President Grant, dated August 11, 1871, probably caused something of a flurry when it reached the Department of Justice. An assistant to the attorney general had written the president direct somewhat abruptly requesting him to "furnish the facts within his personal knowledge" concerning the seizure of a steamboat on the Ohio river ten years before the war. Gen. Grant's indorsement on this letter is written in a very firm hand and the ink used was of the blackest:

Respectfully referred to the Atty. Gen.

Should any information be required as to what I know in regard to the subject within it will be found in the records of the War Dept. of the time of the occurence.

My opinion is that Mr. —— is not a suitable person for the place which he now holds.

U. S. Grant.

Aug. 1th, '71.

Walt Whitman's signature appears on the pay roll of the Attorney General's office for October, 1865, as having received $98.56 for services that month as a temporary clerk. Eleven names are on the roll, headed by that of James Speed, attorney general, and ending with H. A. Klopfer, messenger, at $1,000 year, or only $200 a year less than the salary credited to Walt Whitman. A column in the pay roll indicates that a war tax of 5 per cent was assessed against the salaries of all employes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Suggested List of References.

Mr. Editor: We have been told that people are not reading the Bible as they should. All history, of the remote past and all down to recent years, shows us that the Bible is a hard book to understand. There is so much of it that the important points are lost.

As a help to anyone who may desire to "search the scriptures" may I suggest that the following list of references be read and without wandering. After these have been read a concordance may be taken and the ideas gained followed up.

The French Deserter's Name.

Mr. Editor: Kindly accept correction in the article of March 29 the "French deserter's" name should have been spelled "Lousine." Doubtless the original error was on my part.

Very respectfully,
MRS. ELLEN C. W. LIVERMORE.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

AFTER-EASTER THOUGHTS.

Easter is the coronation of the Christian year. As we mount the golden stairway of love and faith which leads us to the contemplation of our Lord's resurrection, we realize our right to be called the children of God. As Christ laid down His life to take it again, so we, falling asleep in Him, shall awaken to newness of life. To death every believer may smile a welcome, for death but opens for us the door into the house of the Father where is fullness of joy, and we go no more out forever. I wonder whether we, as Christians, appreciate the comforts that Easter day brings to us, or care, as we should, for its promise and its pledge of the eternity which is to be "conjubilant with song." Surely in the deep meaning of Easter there should be for us an abiding peace. We should learn a noble trust. Our attitude toward the next life should be more confident, less shrinking, more serene, and when our loved ones go we should follow them with some mingling of gladness in their felicity to sweeten the loneliness of their absence.

Not of death do we think at Easter so much as of fulness of life. All winter we have had bare branches and silent woods, gardens, stripped fields brown and bare. But the time of the singing of the birds has come. The orchards are soon to be gay with blossoms. Nature apparently languid and idle during the period of storm and cold, has been steadily at work in her potential way for months, and soon the world will be waving and fragrant with summer again. In the eagerness of healthful childhood, who does not participate in the happy hours; who is not aware of thrill of rapture as he listens to the song of the robins or smells the bloom of the lilacs. Spring has a charm to restore lost childhood and make the old you once more. Every springtide witnesses this miracle anew in you and me. The same flowers come back year by year, preaching the same sweet sermon of the changeless faithfulness of our God. When the last echo of the Easter music has melted away into space, when the Easter garlands are withered, and from the Mount of our Easter exaltation we descend into the valleys and the common places of our daily lives, let this be our ceaseless joy: that God is ever with us. Always the same gospel! He who, year in and year out sends the shower and the sunbeam, dresses highway and by-way with beauty, from the dogwood to the goldenrod, from the green leaf to the brown, will not forget the least of us. His godness is ever new; His kindness always outpoured. His tenderness greater than our uttermost demand, and the same springtime over and over is sent by the same dear Lord and Father.

In the old days of the Bible there were those who dwelt with Jehovah as we seldom do in our hurrying modern life. Abraham was "the friend of God," and Enoch habitually "walked with God," and we too, in our railway trains and at our work, may have glimpses of the unseen, may walk with God, if we seek Him amid the details of our avocation and take time to look upward. What a different world this might be for some of us if we were ever alert to hear the voice of God. If amid the perturbations and disturbances of our days we walked in such sympathy with Him that our souls would be tranquil, whatever came to us.

"Calm me, my God and keep me calm.
Soft resting on Thy breast."

Should be the prayer of every one who walks with God.

Every Christian Sabbath is a commemoration of the resurrection. The apostles so near the time when the Lord was crucified, and so happy in their personal knowledge of Him before he ascended into heaven, continually preached the resurrection. Not more knowledge, but more love, more child like simplicity, more spontaneity in our service are the great necessities of the Christian life today. Now that we are leaving Easter behind, and pressing on toward summer with its work and its recreation, shall we not strive for more intimacy with Jesus? Is Christ real to you? Do you feel that you love Him so that life lacking Him would be strangely short of beauty, of interest, and of enthusiasm? If so, you may carry with you everywhere and always a continual Easter in your heart and life.

"When the Easter chorals cease,
When the Easter flowers fade;
Keep us still in perfect peace
In the sunbeam, in the shade.

Grant us, Lord, the Easter love,
Give us, Lord, the Easter hope,
Till we reach the realm above,
And the crystal portals ope."

Wives of Famous Men

Isabella Shawe, Wife of Thackeray.

One of the deepest tragedies in the history of literary men marked the marriage of William Makepeace Thackeray, famous English novelist and satirist, and Isabella Shawe, daughter of a colonel in the British army. Not, as so many other marriages among artists in all branches, a failure due to incompatibility, not a conflict of temper or, temperament, but a more terrible tragedy of a clouded mind. Isabella Thackeray was ordained to live only a few short years of happiness with her gifted husband when she was stricken with a fever and her mind failed.

Thackeray, although called a cynic, was anything but that within the domestic circle. Nothing in the world is more touching than his patient devotion to the wandering-minded wife and loving attention lavished on his three children, all girls, who were deprived of a mother's care. The author for a long time refused to believe that his wife's mental infirmity was permanent. He spent hours each day trying to coax the light of reason back to her eyes.

"He would not believe," writes a biographer, a contemporary and friend of Thackeray, "that her illness was more than an illness, and he clung to her and waited on her with an assiduity of affection which only made his task more painful to him."

It is dreadful to contemplate the severing of a union which had, during its brief duration, been so unusually happy. But Isabella grew steadily worse, and ultimately even her husband agreed that it would be better to take her away.

"Thus," adds the commentator, "he became, as it were, a widower to the end of his days."

Stories That Recall Others

She Figured Them Out.

A youngster was absent from school for a number of days. A teacher who shows real interest in the progress of her pupils called the mother on the telephone and inquired concerning the lad.

"John's afraid to come back," said the mother. "He says you threatened to throw him in the furnace."

Perplexed, the teacher for a day or two wondered what child could have put that silly notion in he boy's head. Then she remembered. Some days before she had told that class that some recalcitrants had been absent more days than good scholarship permitted. She had announced to her class that if those persons missed another session she would be compelled to "drop them from the register."

New Method Of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 461 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

ST. ANDREW'S RECTOR IS TO GO TO WILLIMANTIC

Rev. Frederick C. Williams has presented his resignation as rector of St. Andrew's church, to take effect May first, in order that he may accept the call from St. Paul's church, Willimantic, to become rector of the churches at Willimantic and Windham.

The resignation was accepted at a special parish meeting last Monday evening, in St. Andrew's church.

Mr. Williams' friends in Norwich deeply regret his leaving, but feel that this call offer him an opportunity for greater work and advancement than he has had. The parish to which he is going is about twice the size of St. Andrew's, and under the leadership of the last rector, Rev. Walter F. Borchert, modern methods and plans have been set in operation there that will enable the new rector to take up and carry on more progressive and constructive work than his present parish affords. There is also a need for mission work, in which Mr. Williams has had many years of experience.

Since Rev. Mr. Williams came to St. Andrew's church, a year ago last fall, the church school has been built up to a membership of nearly a hundred, and the children's Lenten work for missions has more than doubled, the Easter offering from two classes alone this year being equal to that of the whole school last year, the previous record offering of the school.

A branch of the Woman's Auxiliary has been organized and the work of the other societies, while a number of repairs to property have been made and new equipment installed.

Mr. Williams will not leave Norwich until after the first of May, as he wants to help in carrying out plans already made for this month. These include a mother and daughter banquet, and a celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Girls' Friendly society.

HERBERT SPEARS AND SRGT. KANE KILLED BY ELECTRIC SHOCK FROM POLE ON CRESCENT STREET

SERGT. JOHN H. KANE

Second Sergeant John H. Kane of the Norwich police department and Herbert T. Spears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spears of 55 Union street, were killed suddenly about 7 o'clock Friday evening when they accidentally touched a suspension cable on an electric light pole in front of the home of Weston C. Pullen on Crescent street, receiving the 4,000 volts carried on the circuit.

According to the story of Mr. Pullen who witnessed the death of Sergeant Kane and aided in rendering every assistance possible, the Spears boy had been playing in the street with Daniel Grecco of 290 Laurel Hill avenue. Mr. Pullen was working in back of his home when the Spears boy evidently touched the cable and dropped to the ground. His companion evidently frightened, jumped onto a trolley car that was passing and left the scene.

Saw Boy's Body on Ground

Mrs. Pullen saw the boy in the street and called her husband, saying that there was a boy lying in the street, seemingly badly injured. Mr. Pullen ran to where the boy lay and noting his condition rushed into the house and summoned an ambulance from the W. W. Backus hospital and then notified the police.

Other people nearby also seeing the boy notified the hospital and called for an ductor. Clyde Townsel, driver for Charles R. Butts, was at Perkins corner when he saw the boy drop and ran to the place as did Thomas Winters, who was some distance away.

The boy had fallen with his head in the street and his feet on the sidewalk and was unconscious, and the people then picked him up and placed a coat beneath his head, laying him on the sidewalk. As they did this he moaned slightly and died.

The ambulance arrived and seeing that the case was for the medical examiner and coroner returned to the hospital.

Sergeant Just Coming On Duty

When Captain Twomey received the telephone message about the Spears boy from Mr. Pullen, he directed Officer Patrick Murphy to get the motor patrol wagon from the barn and return to headquarters to pick up Sergeant Kane who was just about due to report for his night duty. As Officer Murphy came back to headquarters with the patrol wagon, Captain Twomey was waiting for him on the sidewalk outside of police headquarters and as Sergeant Kane arrived just at that time the captain took from him his lunch box and directed him to go with Officers Murphy to the scene of the accident.

When the officers arrived they searched the pockets of the boy and found a Norwich Free Academy schedule card for studies, upon which was written the name of Herbert Spears. Sergeant Kane reported this over the telephone from Mr. Pullen's to Capt. Twomey who directed him to send Officer Murphy to notify the parents of the boy of his death.

The sergeant with others then continued the investigation questioning the witnesses as to what they saw before the Spears boy fell. There were no marks of any kind on the body to indicate violence and it was believed that death might have been from heart trouble.

While looking about Sergeant Kane touched the suspension cable which was about seven feet above the ground, and according to witnesses touched it twice. At that time there was nothing about the pole or body of the boy to indicate death by electrocution and no one thought of the possibility of a shock coming from the cable.

Saw Sergeant Fall

Just as Officer Murphy drove up with Mr. Spears, father of the dead boy, Sergeant Kane again by accident touched the pole and cable and as he did so he was heard to moan in agony and then fall to the ground. Mr. Pullen again rushed into the house and called for the ambulance and medical examiner, and Officer Murphy and Jonathan L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson of 21 Lincoln avenue picked up the body of Sergeant Kane and placing it in the police patrol started for the hospital.

Dr. W. T. Driscoll, who was at the hospital when the men came in with Sergeant Kane immediately worked over him some time. He told Capt. Twomey that there was a slight pulse at first, but the restorative measures failed to bring back life.

When Sergeant Kane fell, Mr. Pullen saw that the two accidents had been caused by something wrong with the wiring at the pole and immediately called the plant of the Norwich Gas & Electrical department and Frank Mott, night trouble man rushed to the spot and immediately cut off the power at the pole ending any danger of another person being killed by shock.

Captain Twomey was also immediately notified of the death of Sergeant Kane and Officer Murphy again was sent out to take the sad news to the home of the deceased.

Shut Off Electric Current

Line Superintendent N. C. Pierce of the electric department was notified of the two deaths and went to Crescent street to aid in the investigation. A scar as could be learned there was nothing broken at the pole or in the circuit, the only thing that could account for the deaths following the touching of the cable, being a short circuit. The arc light on the pole was cut off pending an investigation which will take place today (Saturday) when the true cause of the accidents will become known.

Mr. Pierce in speaking of the accidents Friday night said that in his opinion the shocks came from a wire which swung against or touched the suspension cable of the arc light on the pole. This cable should not contain any electricity, he said, for there is insulation to prevent this and everything looked normal on the pole as far as he could see from the ground.

Showed Normal Conditions.

Another peculiar thing about the charge that was running through the cable is that the ground detector at the plant showed the circuit to be in normal condition, the indicator showing only the normal amount of leakage.

The pole on which the arc light was placed is separated from other poles, as the pole carries the Franklin street arc circuit that has a 4,000 volt pressure at the plant.

Cars Probably Caused Wire Vibrations

It is believed, however, although not definitely known yet, that the insulation on the cable had become cracked and a vibration on the pole caused the circuit to open and allow the voltage of the wire to pass down into the cable, and when touched by the Spears boy and Sergeant Kane, pass through their bodies to the ground.

What led to this belief is caused by a peculiar fact which happened at the time when both deaths occurred. It seems that as the Spears boy touched the cable a trolley car was nearing the pole, causing some vibration, this probably causing the short circuit to happen. The same thing happened about the time Sergeant Kane touched the cable the third time. He had touched it twice previously but felt no shock, but the third time he touched it a trolley was again nearing the pole, causing a jar which again made the short circuit.

This phase of the double tragedy escaped the notice of the men at first, but later when facts were gathered it appeared probable that the vibrations caused by the passing trolleys were all that was necessary to send the current down through the cracked insulator into the cable.

Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve was at the police station about 9 o'clock and learned the facts of the case and gave permission for both bodies to be removed to local undertaking establishments. Later he went to C. A. Gager's and examined the body of the Spears boy and then went to Hourigan Bros.', where he examined the body of Sergeant Kane. He announced that Coroner J. J. Desmond would hold an inquest on the deaths of the two men this (Saturday) morning, calling in witnesses of the death of Sergeant Kane and the Spears boy.

The city gas and electric department carries casualty insurance protection to the amount of $50,000. This amount has been carried since C. W. Taggart became superintendent, and at his suggestion and insistence, it is understood. The previous protection that had been carried was in the amount of $20,000.

Sergeant J. H. Kane.

In the death of Sergeant Kane, the first Norwich police officer to lose his life on active duty, the city of Norwich loses one of the best men who ever donned a policeman's uniform. Courteous, kind, honest and fair in all his dealings with his fellow men Sergeant Kane had made many fast friends among all classes of people, all of whom will learn of his tragic death with deep regret. Wherever he had been placed while a member of the force Sergeant Kane performed his duties with singular fidelity and satisfaction to his superiors and to the public.

As the word of his death spread among his fellow officers of the department a spirit of sadness crept into their hearts for they all had learned to love him, not only as a brother officer, but as a man's man, and there was not a dry eye among them.

Born on Sherman street, May 4, 1864, the son of Daniel and Margaret McCaffery Kane, Sergeant John H. Kane has always resided in Norwich. He received his early education in local schools and in September, 1890, joined the police force as a regular, John A. Bowen then being chief of the department. He would have rounded out 33 years of active service on the force in September of this year. After joining the force he was assigned to the Thamesville beat at night for five years, took the Washington street beat for four months and then returned to the Thamesville beat. Later he was assigned to the important Main and Franklin square beat at night, which he filled for 15 years in succession.

For a year subsequently he was night bank watchman and was later transferred to the Falls where he served for a long period. His last beat was the Greeneville night beat.

It was as he was reporting in for duty Friday night that the message came of the death of the Spears boy at Crescent street and he was sent to investigate the death, his death following in line of duty.

About 25 years ago last October Sargent Kane was united in marriage in this city to Miss Sarah Huggard who survives him with three children, Jennie, Dorothy and John Kane, all of Norwich.

Sergeant Kane was a member of St. Patrick's church parish.

As a young man he had been a prominent local baseball player, playing first base for the old Norwich Stars, and always maintaining his interest in the game.

Herbert T. Spears.

Herbert T. Spears was the only son of Thomas Spears and Rosina Spears of 55 Union street. He was born in this city in February, 1908, and after attending public schools entered the Norwich Free Academy last September as a junior. He was ambitious and bright and with the Grecco boy was employed as one of the assistant janitors at the Academy. His parents are members of the United Congregational church and Herbert was a member of the church school. He also sang in the boys' choir at Christ Episcopal church. His father is employed in the shipping department at the Plaut-Cadden Co.'s.

He was popular among his many boy friends and was liked by all who knew him. In the loss of their only son, Mr. and Mrs. Spears have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

The two boys had just finished their usual janitor work at the Academy Friday night and were on their way home at the time of the tragedy.

Eagles Will Celebrate Anniversary.

Routine business occupied the attention of the regular meeting of Norwich Aerie of Eagles Monday evening. The Anniversary committee reported progress and outlined plans for a banquet and dance to be held at the Wauregan hotel. Another class of candidates will be initiated during the latter part of May. A social session followed the business meeting.

FRIEDA HEMPEL HOLDS RECORD AUDIENCE CAPTIVE

The glorious voice of Frieda Hempel held in complete thraldom Friday evening at Slater Memorial hall the greatest audience that Norwich has ever seen in the Slater Hall musical course. Extra seats had been provided in every available spot on the main floor and in the annex, while all the stage was filled except the space needed for the appearance of the opera star in her Jenny Lind programme. An audience of close to 1,000 was moved to unrestrained applause for the principal and her assisting artists, Coenraad V. Bos at the piano and Louis P. Fritze, flutist, giving them encore after encore that extended the programme far beyond its original length, but even then the big crowd was reluctant to leave.

Golden in quality, of velvet smoothness and of marvelous flexibility for the most difficult trills and roulades of the coloratura work in which her programme abounded, Miss Hempel's voice, with her power in interpretation, held absolute sway from her first appearance when the charm of her personality captivated her audience.

The following was the programme:

PART I

a Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre — Handel
b Sweet Bird, from Il Pensieroso — Handel

Miss Frieda Hempel

a Ave Maria — Schubert
b The Trout — Schubert
c The Nut Tree — Schumann
d The Herdsman's Son — Norwegian Melody

(Generally known as the Echo Song)

Miss Frieda Hempel

a Romance — Chopin
b Waltz, G Flat — Chopin

Performed on the pianoforte by Coenraad V. Bos

PART II

Grand Aria Di Bravura, Carnival of Venice — Benedict

(From Opera of "The Brides of Venice")

Miss Frieda Hempel

a Andante Pastoral — Th. Boehm
b Minuet — Beethoven

Performed on the flute by Louis P. Fritze

a On Wings of Song — Mendelssohn
b Bird Song — Taubert
c Greeting to America — Taubert

(The celebrated prize National Song as sung by Mademoiselle Jenny Lind at her first concert in America. The poem was written by Bayard Taylor, Esq. The music composed expressely for Mdlle Lind by Julius Benedict.)

d Home, Sweet Home — Bishop

Miss Frieda Hempel

Miss Hempel appeared in a gown of the Jenny Lind period of 1850, white satin with white lace net, pointed bodice, with paniers at the sides, sprays of morning glories on the voluminous skirt and morning glories in her hair. She wore diamond ornaments. Mr. Bos and Mr. Fritze also wore costumes of the period.

At the rear of the stage was displayed the blue banner lettered in gold with "Welcome Sweet Warbler", which was used at Carnegie hall for the historical centennial concert, Oct 6, 1920 when Miss Hempel first impersonated Jenny Lind.

Eleven academy girls carrying shepherds' crooks and old fashioned bouquets acted as honorary ushers, escorting Miss Hempel, and had seats on the front row on the stage. They were the Misses Marian M. Blackledge, Mildred F. Whitney, Esther E. Rixby, Rose Driscoll, Elizabeth T. Higgins, Mildred Peckham, Helen Risley, Mary Rose, Helen Tirrell, Isabelle Vignot and Bertha Weeks.

After Miss Hempel's marvellously fine rendition of The Herdsman's Song, the compelling applause brought her back for an encore for which she gave The Last Rose of Summer, playing her own accompaniment as Jenny Lind always did with this song. A ripple of amusement ran over the audience at her clever management of her voluminous skirt as she seated herself at the piano.

A lovely cluster bouquet of pink roses and a beautiful old fashioned bouquet were presented to her after the Grand Aria Di Bravura from the Carnival of Venice and when the applause continued she gave as an encore number, in honor of the Camp Fire Girls, of which she is a member, By the Waters of Minnetonka. One encore was not enough and again she responded with a spirited rendering of Dixie, a Jenny Lind favorite. Once more there was an encore call and this time she gave The Night Wind, by Parlow.

After her final number, which was Home, Sweet Home, rendered with a depth of feeling that brought tears to many eyes, she was not allowed to end the concert without another encore, and this time she gave by request The Blue Danube Waltz, by Strauss.

Accompaniments that were impeccable were rendered by Mr. Bos and he was insistently called on for an encore after his two numbers, responding with Printemps (Chaminade).

Mr. Fritze, on the flute, accompanied Miss Hempel in Handel's Sweet Bird, the Carnival of Venice number and Taubert's Bird Song. His work in his two solo numbers appealed strongly to his hearers and he was called on for an encore.

The floral decorations on the stage were by Ernst and made a beautiful setting for the concert. Red roses formed a trellis over the arch and at the back of the stage and palms and ferns with swansonia and Easter lilies were arranged at the sides and along the front of the stage.

At the intermission the honorary ushers distributed souvenirs which were a copy of the prize ticket for a Jenny Lind concert in Providence that sold for $653.

The ushers were Henry Brynan, Frank S. Bunnell, Frederick S. Haslam, Walter K. Hoefer, Robert E. Lydon, Jr., Edward D. McKay, Clifford J. Moody, Louis B. Mounley, Stanley W. Vaughn and John H. Williams.

DISALLOWS CLAIM FOR MORE COMPENSATION

Commissioner J. J. Donohue has disallowed and dismissed the workmen's compensation claim for additional compensation, in the case of John Burgess, 11 Briggs street, New London, against William Spencer and Son corporation of that city. The claimant did not appear at the hearing and in view of the evidence the commissioner found that no further compensation can be given.

The man, who was employed as a stevedore, had a fracture of the right arm on Jan. 1, 1923. He was paid compensation at $12.24 per week for 7 5-7 weeks to March 4, 1923 and was able to resume work on March 5, but at that time the employer had no work for him to do.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION AWARD FOR HAND INJURY

By a finding by Commissioner J. J. Donohue Fred Schettig of Valley Cottage N. Y., who was an employe of the Robert Gair Co., at Uncasville, is found to have sustained permanent injury to his right hand at or above the wrist, which amounts to 33 1-3 per cent. loss of use of the hand. This entitles him to payment for specific injuries for 52 weeks from Jan. 17. He had already been paid for 15 6-7 weeks at $16.45 for total incapacity from May 1, 1922.

Under the commissioner's finding he is to be paid at once $180.95 for the time from Jan. 17 to April 3, and the remainder of 41 weeks commuted at 4 per cent. to the lump sum of $663.88. The total award is thus $844.83.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Notices of an advance of 12 1-2 per cent. in wages effective April 30, were posted Friday at the plant of the Aseptic Products company in East Killingly. This concern, with its general offices in New York, gives employment to about 85 people. By advancing wages in rounds out the complete list of plants in Killingly that have agreed to pay more money to their employes after the end of this month.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department has compiled a list of figures showing the per capita fire loss in 30 cities of the United States as compared with the loss in Danielson, and in view of these figures it would appear that Danielson has one of the best records in the country, its per capita loss being only 51 cents annual as compared with a high of $51.99 made by Santa Barbara, Cal.

The figures given here for Danielson are for the year 1921, as the figures for the other cities listed. The average per capita loss for the past 15 years in Danielson has been but 64 cents. Since the fire alarm telegraph system was installed 18 years ago the department has responded to 168 alarms.

The total fire loss for the past 16 years has been only $33,415. The average loss for the year has been $2341. The average loss per fire $276.16. The per capita loss per year 64 cents.

The body of Frank C. Quinn, who, ing since Tuesday forenoon from his home on Franklin street, was found Friday afternoon up a cartpath about an eighth of a mile from the Green Hollow road on the property of Fred Wood. Andrew Donovan of Putnam, a brother-in-law of Mr. Quinn, who had searched diligently during the day for the missing man found the body. It was apparent that Mr. Quinn had died soon after leaving his home on Tuesday. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner George M. Burroughs, who gave permission for its removal, and Undertaker L. E. Kennedy took charge.

Mr. Quinn's disappearance and death comes as a great shock to his relatives and his great many friends in this township. He had been unsteady ill for some weeks, but recently has been somewhat improved and was in the habit of taking walks in the surrounding country for the benefit of his health.

Mr. Quinn had lived practically all his life in Danielson and was liked by all who knew him. He was of a quiet and retiring disposition, yet made many friends and held them. He had been employed for years as a weaver in the local woolen company at Daysville. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quinn and had lived in Danielson since his boyhood days. He leaves a wife and five children, the youngest nine months of age. He is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. George Quinn of Danielson, Mrs. Andrew Donovan of Putnam, Mrs. John Mowry of New London and Mrs. John Brown of Brooklyn. Mr. Quinn was 37 years of age and a native of Danielson.

Business men will be pleased to learn this morning that Postmaster Raymond Allen received notice Friday afternoon that parcel post delivery to Baltimore bodies will be resumed this morning. This service has been suspended for more than a week because of shortage of funds in the postoffice department and it has been necessary for merchants to go to the postoffice to get stamps for them. Friday afternoon's communication to Postmaster Allen from the postoffice department at Washington makes available two-thirds of the sum heretofore appropriated for parcel post delivery service in Danielson. In the past year parcel post has materially increased at the Danielson office, so Postmaster Allen is confronted with the necessity of making a two-thirds appropriation do more service than the full appropriation was intended to supply.

Trout fishermen who went hitherto out Friday morning had a surprise coming to them. Every brook in the entire territory was flooded so that they could not be fished with any success and in lowland sections the brooks had developed into lakes.

State road crews continue to be employed on getting the state highway on Stearns hill into good condition. This road was badly cut up when the frost began to get out and was cut to pieces in some places by heavy trucks.

At the rate the services of the state police have been called for during the past three weeks a dozen men could be used at the Danielson barracks from which all of northeastern Connecticut is being covered.

Henry A. Dodson of Fall River was a visitor in Danielson on Friday.

Early Friday evening there was little change from Thursday in the condition of the Larkin brothers, who are so seriously ill at their home in East Killingly.

A number of sailors from the submarine base at New London came here Friday evening to witness the boxing exhibition at the town hall.

The Danielson Rod and Gun club has been so much in the limelight of late that there is a tendency to write about it sometimes, while the types should be saying something different, as in the item in this column in which it should have been said that that Danielson Radio club met with Walter Andersen of Winter street this week, not the Rod and Gun club, the meeting of which is scheduled for the coming week.

PUTNAM

Putnam may have a big central parking place for automobiles — a place where machines may be kept without charge and under constant supervision of an officer detailed to guard them. This was the proposal heard Friday afternoon, and it is said to have the backing of the common council, the chamber of commerce recommended from beneath the overclose to the very heart of the city is under consideration for use as a parking place. If it is established the streets in the center of the city will be relieved of much of the congestion now caused at busy times, by having both sides of the street lined with parked cars. There is also the consideration that car owners will be glad to leave their machines where they will be away of scorn and under constant watch by an officer.

Pleasing to all of his friends here, as well as to his relatives, is the announcement that John A. C. Warner has been named an chief of the division of aeronautical instruments in the bureau of standards at Washington, D. C. Mr. Warner is the son of Judge and Mrs. Edgar M. Warner of this city.

His duties in his new position involve the handling of executive and administrative matters and the development and construction of various new types of instruments for aeronautical use. The staff of which Mr. Warner is now the head includes twenty-five scientists, engineers and technical experts.

He has been with the aeronautic instrument division since the World war and has made a rapid rise to his present important position. Mr. Warner is a graduate of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. He was a lieutenant overseas during the war.

There is no telling what a flivver will do, as possibly one owned by Allen Dodge of Woodstock Valley may have been insulting the boys who have been doing the stunt for so many years when it ran up along a supporting girder of the bridge over the Quinebaug river, on Pomfret street, after the movies Thursday night and then toppled over, as many of the boys have done, even as you and I.

Eben, a little the worse for wear, was extricated from beneath the overturned car; likewise his brother Dwight who was also aboard the logger when it did its fancy flop. Eben had a lacerated nose, a small gash under the eye and complained that his right leg hurt. Dwight escaped unharmed.

The machine was being driven out of South Meadow street when the accident happened. Nathaniel Spink, who was an eye witness of it, helped get the Dodge brothers out from under their car. Sergeant Laird and Officer Ryan of the night police also were promptly on hand to aid in straightening out matters. The car was somewhat damaged.

In a periodical report to the town school committee L. P. Battey, Americanization director at the evening school, states that the distinctive feature of the evening school during the past month is the class training for citizenship. Twelve men comprise the class. Seven of them already have taken out their second papers. The men also have appeared before the federal examiner. The class is using the Federal textbook and have thus far studied the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States. It is purposed to acquaint them briefly with the foreign possessions of the United States, with the historic background of the national holidays and with the state, county, city and town governments.

County Agent F. L. Davis has given out the following of interest to farmers and orchardists:

A large number of calls have come into this office this spring in regard to handling of hatching eggs. Eggs for hatching should be held not longer than ten days, and if they are to be shipped they should be sent out when they are one or two days old. This is done in order to insure good hatching quality when they arrive.

The hatches in the county, as a whole, have been quite satisfactory, a large number run around 80 per cent. and some as high as 90 per cent. Some of the poor hatches have been undoubtedly, due to the chilling of the eggs. Hatching eggs should be kept in a room with the temperature ranging from 50 to 60 degrees, Fahrenheit.

Colds have been prevalent in a large number of poultry flocks this winter. In some cases colds have gradually developed into roup. The first signs are watery and swollen eyelids, and as the cold develops into roup there is a watery discharge from the nostrils.

The side of the bird's head is hot and badly swollen. Just as soon as the colds appear the sick bird should be removed, at once, from the flock and put in warm, dry quarters where there is plenty of fresh air and sunshine but no drafts.

It is well to dip the head of the bird, so effected, in a solution made from dissolving a teaspoon of permanganate of potash in a quart of water. Permanganate of potash may be purchased at any drug store.

It is also advisable to put a small amount of permanganate of potash in the drinking water so as to prevent the disease from spreading. Colds in a flock should be regarded with concern due to the fact that roup is a hard disease to eliminate.

Where a large number of the flock have colds it is well to mix a wet mash using a pound of epsom salts in the mixture for each one hundred hens. Where there are only a few affected the best thing to do is to isolate them and treat them as above.

Milk has proven a splendid feed for chicks and a chicken ration that does not have it included is not complete. Milk is a great vitalizer and in addition to its food value, it helps in digestion and growth. Its use is strongly advised.

A meeting of those interested in forestry is to be held at Williamantic, April 17th. The Farmers's association will co-operate in the programme. There are approximately four thousand acres of land in Connecticut that have been planted with forest trees up to 1913. Forest planting for the purpose of making non-agricultural land productive of a profitable crop of timber is a very recent development in Connecticut and is receiving more attention yearly.

The county agent has observed the pruning of watersprouts in an orchard where it would have been far wiser to leave a certain member of them for future fruit production. Watersprouts may be left to advantage to fill a vacant space in the tree or to grow fruiting branches lower down on limbs which are bare and devoid of any growth for several feet of the trunk. There is an erroneous opinion quite prevalent to the effect that watersprouts do not bear fruit. This is a mistake for if given time to spur up they will produce good fruit. They can be cut back moderately, say a fourth to a third to encourage branching, but not so severe as to cause a second growth of watersprouts to arise at the expense of shorter spurs.

At the week end the following notes were given out at the Trade school:

Ernest Stary is taking charge of the carpentry department at the trade school, succeeding L. C. Morehouse. Mr. Stary comes from Wellesley, Mass., and has had experience as a tradesman, foreman, and instructor. He is also a graduate of the Wentworth Institute, architectural drafting course.

The school is planning to offer special summer courses again this year in a variety of vocations. Last year quite a number of young men availed themselves of the opportunity these courses provide, the practical application of drawing, math, and science in real shop procedure. This experience is an asset to a boy preparing for an engineering career.

Baseball starts next week. Mr. McCormick and his young leaguers expect an active and interesting season.

The machine, electrical and carpentry departments have a contract for a the complete equipping of the manual training department of a Maine school in a nearby town. This work is providing very excellent experience for all departments participating.

At the Baptist church Charles M. Smith has been elected chairman of the ushers' committee and Raymond Durfee assistant collector. The former church officers were elected at the recent annual meeting.

A large party from this city was at Danielson Friday evening to witness a series of boxing bouts given at the town hall in that place.

Harold S. Corbin, who is with the Hearst Syndicate and located at Syracuse, has been spending a few days at his home in this city. Mr. Corbin was formerly engaged in newspaper work here.

As tomorrow is Conference Sunday and Rev. M. B. Burton is at New London attending the annual Southern New England conference, there will be no services at the Methodist church.

Members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., have a meeting scheduled to be held in Odd Fellows' hall Monday afternoon.

An electrical storm, the first of the spring season, deluged this and surrounding territory Thursday night.

Mrs. W. A. Ballard has been spending a few days at Wilthrop with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ballard.

Rev. S. E. Cozad and Rev. J. C. Stoddard of Putnam, Rev. W. E. Newton of North Grosvenordale, Rev. W. B. Williams of Danielson and Rev. F. E. Harrison of Woodstock have been named as a committee of the Clergy Fellowship to arrange for a school of religious education to be held in Putnam during the next fall or winter.

Miss Elizabeth M. Smith will succeed Mrs. Minnie B. Macdonald as head of the commercial department of Putnam High school, Mrs. Macdonald having resigned.

A. M. Wilkinson, vegetable specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college, will address a gathering of vegetable growers on April 17 at the Community house in Woodstock.

Trout are due for two hard days this week end. Today will bring a host of fishermen to the brooks and many who like the sport will be fishing Sunday.

Bids for the work to be done at the Windham County Temporary Home for Children will be advertised for during the coming week. It is anticipated that the work to be done will cost about $25,000.

Rev. George F. Waters, formerly a Woodstock pastor, died recently in Hartford. He was born in Lenox, O., August 29, 1840.

A. E. Brown arrived at his home by Columbia lake on Monday last, having passed the winter at Dade City, Florida.

About twenty-five members of Columbia Congregational church and of the Christian Endeavor society, accompanied by the pastor, Rev. T. Newton Owen, attended the Andover Congregational church on Sunday evening last, when an Easter cantata was sung by the members of the Andover church.

Miss Eleanor Collins has returned to Smith college, having spent the Easter vacation of two weeks at her home on Chestnut Hill.

Herbert P. Collins, town clerk and treasurer, states that he has received over $1,500 in taxes. April 3d was the first day for the receipt of taxes.

Is Your Back Giving Out?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Is that constant backache getting on your nerves? Does every morning bring the same dull, throbbing ache—every evening the same utter weariness? Then you should be looking to your kidneys! Winter's colds and chills are mighty hard on the kidneys. That's why spring-time for so many folks is backache time! The kidneys fall behind in filtering the poisons from the blood. The effect on blood and nerves is quickly apparent. Your back aches, you have sharp, stabbing pains; feel nervous, weak and all played out. Headaches come, too, with dizzy spells and annoying bladder irregularities. Don't neglect these early symptoms—delay may mean serious kidney sickness. Help your weakened kidneys now with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Norwich Folks Found Relief:

GEORGE CONRAD, Motorman, 211 Palmer St., says: "I have had attacks of lumbago at times caused by the constant jarring of the car. Some mornings when I first got up my back was lame and sore. I had severe pains that felt as sharp as a needle, cutting through my kidneys. I had dizzy spells, too. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. They have always cured such attacks. Doan's do their work quickly."

MRS. H. SPALDING, R. F. D. No. 1, E., says: "I always hold Doan's Kidney Pills above other kidney remedies and they have always proved valuable. When I bent or twisted my body, sharp catches cut through my back just over my kidneys that felt like sharp needles. Doan's relief was most wonderful for me and I have used them a few times since with the same good results."

ALBERT P. DUNHAM, 9 Burley Lane, says: "Bending and walking so much as I have to do at my trade as a spinner, worked hard on my back until my kidneys gave out. I suffered with constant pains in the small of my back just over my kidneys. When I bent sharp pains shot through my back that fairly took my breath away. I had to get up a number of times to pass the kidney secretions. A couple of boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills from the Lee & Osgood Drug Co. cured the trouble."

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY. FIN DE SIECLE.

This life's a hollow bubble,
Don't you know?
Just a painted piece of troubble,
Don't you know?
We come to earth to cwy,
We gwow owdeh and we wigh,
Owdeh still and then we die,
Don't you know?

It is all a bow'wid mix,
Don't you know?
Business, love and politics,
Clubs and pawties, cliques and sets,
Fashions, follies, sins, wegwets,
Stwuggle, stwife and cigawettes,
Don't you know?

And we wow'wy through each day,
Don't you know?
In a sort of, kind of, way,
Don't you know?
We are hungwy, we are fed,
Some few things are done and said,
We are tihed, we go to bed,
Don't you know?

Business, oh, that's beastly twuble,
Don't you know?
Something's lost or something's made,
Don't you know?
And you wowwy, and you mope,
And you hang youah highest hope
On the pwice, pe'haps, of soap,
Don't you know?

Politics? oh, just a hawk,
Don't you know?
Just a night mawch in the dawk,
Don't you know?
You pe'spiah all day and night,
And afteh all the fight,
Why pe'haps the wong man's wight,
Don't you know?

Society? Is dwess,
Don't you know?
And a sou's of much distwess,
Don't you know?
To determine what to wash,
When to go and likewise wosh,
And how to pawt youah hair, bwush,
Don't you know?

Love? Oh, yes. You meet some girl,
Don't you know?
And you got to such a whirl,
Don't you know?
Then you kneel down on the flush
And implowah and adowah,
And it's all a beastly bwush,
Don't you know?

So theah's weally nothing in it,
Don't you know?
And we live just for a minute,
Don't you know?
For when you've seen and felt,
Dwank and eaten, headed and smelt,
Why all the capahs are dwelt
Don't you know?

You've one consciousness, that's all,
Don't you know?
And one stomach, and one smell,
Don't you know?
You can only weah one tie,
One twowsiah in youah eye,
And one coffin when you die,
Don't you know?

WHAT THE CHOIR SANG ABOUT ABOUT THE NEW BONNET.

A foolish little maiden,
Bought a foolish little bonnet,
With a ribbon and a feather,
And a bit of lace upon it,
And that the other maidens
Of the little town might know it:
She thought she'd go to meeting
The next Sunday, just to show it.

But the her brother said
The bonnet fitted "primest"
The getting of it settled
Proved to be the work of three;
So when 'twas fairly tied,
all the bells had stopped their ringing,
And when she came to meeting,
Sure enough the folks were singing.

So this foolish little maiden,
Stood and waited at the door;
And she shook her ruffles,
Out behind, and smothered down before,
"Hallelujah! hallelujah!" sung
The choir above her head—
Hardly knew if you'll hardly know you!
Were the words she that they said.

This made the little maiden
Feel so very, very cross,
That she gave her little mouth a twist
Her little head a toss;
For she thought the very hymn
They sang was all about her bonnet,
With the ribbon, and the feather,
And the bit of lace upon it.

And she would not wait to listen
To the sermon or the prayer,
But pattered down the silent street;
And hurried up the stair,
Till she'd reached her little bureau,
And in a band box on it
Had hidden safe from critic's eyes,
Her foolish little bonnet.

Which proves, my little maidens
That each of you will find
In every Sabbath service
But an echo to your mind;
And that the little head
That's filled with silly little airs
Will never get a blessing,
From sermons or from prayers.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS.

April 11. — Club No. 1 meets in Franklin hall, Willimantic.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

DORINDA: Letter forwarded as requested.

TROTTIE: Many thanks.

ANASTASIA: Card received and forwarded as requested.

THE LIFE OLD QUESTION.

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: So many good letters in the Corner! Surely Cie may have her choice either of something good to eat or something good to think about.

Student, Your card received and many thanks. It was very nice of you to remember me. Wonder if you received mine. I have no very definite address.

Kitty Lou: I enjoyed your very interesting letter. Your question is as old as life itself. We have been taught all through the ages that death was an after thought and not a part of the original divine plan, that God made this fair earth and created man sinless and perfect, and intended, if man was obedient, that he should live here on this earth as immortal as the angels. But man sinned, and so as a result of that sin, as a punishment sent by divine anger, death came into the world and all the train of evils, that are generally associated with death. While attending a funeral service recently the minister remarked, "Since by man death came into the world," and I thought is that old fetish still being taught in this enlightened age. Rather let us face the fact, for it is a fact. This is demonstrated science that death is as natural as life, that death is a part of the divine order and not an after thought not the result of any angry in the part of God or the result of any man's sin. Did you ever wonder why God in His infinite wisdom did not create all people good and so have left out the devil and the place of endless torment?

In Edson Arnold's "Light of Asia, the young Prince Siddartha for the first time goes outside the palace gates and finds there so much of crime and misery, he exclaims, How can it be that Brahm would make a world and keep it miserable since if all powerful he leaves it so, he is not good, and if not powerful he is not God! What an incompleteness in God's great plan of death ended all. Rather let us understand it as an open door to all that is bright and beautiful and opportunities that we have missed with all our hopes and desires we shall find in the overthere.

STILLWATER.

PLEASED BY GIFT CARDS AND CALLS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I was sorry not to be able to attend The Corner club meeting the 24, but was obliged to stay at home on account of illness. I hope to be able to attend the next meeting.

I want to thank Calla Lily for sending me the sunshine box. It is very nice to be remembered. You find out who your friends are when you are ill. I have had a lot of beautiful flowers sent me, which more than pleased me. I also want to thank the Doctor's Mother (I do not know her pen name) for the lovely birthday card. I did not know until lately that I had a twin sister. Thanks also to Red Clover and Calla Lily for their cards, and to the sisters who so kindly call on the 'phone to see how I am, I wish to say thank you.

Mandy, who has been very ill, is more comfortable today. Hope she will soon be out again.

Wishing you all the best of health, I will say good night.

WETONA.

A CHILD'S KNITTED SWEATER.

Dear Sisters: Here are the directions for a child's sweater. I was eager to get them and feel you will.

Get six balls of peacock blue Scotch sweater yarn, one ball of cream white and one pair of size six bone or celluloid knitting needles. Cast on 61 sts. and K 9 ribs. Then, working from wrong side, continue: Row 1: P 2, * K 1, P 5, repeat from * and end with P 2. Row 2: K plain. Repeat rows one and two until there are seven rows. Row 8: P 2, * K 1, P 5 and repeat from *. These eight rows form the block pattern. Repeat these eight rows till you have ten repetitions of the pattern. Then add at underarm one stitch every other row three times and 43 stitches at each side for sleeves. Continue to work in pattern stitch until there are three and one-half squares in sleeve. K 58 sleeve sts., bind off 15 sts. for neck, and start front on 66 sts.

Front: K 4 rows even and then add at front one stitch every other row 13 times. When there are 7 pattern squares in sleeve, bind off 43 sts. and decrease one stitch every other row 3 times. Work straight at front until there are six and one-half pattern squares from shoulder, and leave on spare needle. Make other front to correspond and then K across, casting on 7 sts. between fronts. K 8 patterns and finish with plain border, as in back. Bind off loosely on wrong side.

Cuff: Pick up sts. around sleeve with white yarn and K in ribbing of K 2, P 2, for four rows. Now change to blue, K 1 row plain and rib 2 and 2 for 21 rows. Join white from wrong side, K 1 row plain, rib 2 and 2 for 3 rows, and bind off on right side.

Collar: Using blue, cast on 15 sts. and K 70 ribs plain. Sew to neck of sweater. With white pick up sts. from wrong side of back and K 3 ribs, adding 1 st. at corners each rib, and binding off on fourth rib. Pick up sts. at side of collar and cast on 16 sts. more for front opening. K 3 ribs adding 1 st. each rib at corner, and bind off on fourth rib. Sew up corner and across front. Finish with chain and ball for tie (the tie runs under the collar).

This is a pretty little slip-on which can be worn all summer, when sudden night breezes blow up at shore or mountains.

Yours for The Corner.

MARTHA.

POINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Dear Sisters: In selecting pork, the skin should be thin and pearly white, the fat white and the lean of a delicate red, juicy and finely grained. If the skin is thick, the pig is old; if clammy, the pork is stale; if the fat is yellow and soft, you can rest assured the pork is not what it should be.

Whatever cut one buys, however, when it is cooked it must be thoroughly done. Rare pork is not only unwholesome but is positively dangerous.

With cured ham the case is different. Fried or broiled hams should always first be boiled. It is not only more economical but it is more wholesome, and as for taste, well-broiled ham is one of the most popular dishes.

When a ham is boiled before it is cut every particle can be used.

For broiled hams, there is no comparison between the ham that has been boiled, then cut into daintily thin slices and broiled, and the ham that is cut raw. The same is the case with fried ham. If housekeepers would try boiling a ham before broiling or frying I am sure they would never go back to the old way.

All the little bits and shreds of ham left after slicing can be used for omelets and a dozen or more popular dishes. The fat, when there is too much, I place in the refrigerator and use it in stews and to season many meats and vegetables. It is always an improvement to poultry and when fried with liver gives it a relish that nothing else will.

ETHELYN.

REMEMBRANCES ASSIST IN RECOVERY.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: We all are glad to see spring. I hope those who have been ill are better, or soon will be. In January I was called upon to assist a neighbor whose baby was ill with pneumonia. I went four of the cold zero days. The day after our Feb. 14th meeting I was called to see a friend who was ill. She asked me to stay with her, which I did, day and night. The dear old lady passed away Feb. 21. I came home tired out. I laid down thinking I would rest and get up and get our supper. I was plain sick and did not get up for over two weeks, and have not been able to do much yet. My good sister Nema came three times and stayed several days each time. Only for her good care, assisted by my better half, and a good doctor, I would not be here to give them a reference.

I wish to thank those who sent pretty cards and good cheery letters and the ones who called and brought such delicious presents. Kind remembrances assist in recovery.

I thought of all of you on Anniversary day. How I would have enjoyed meeting so many I used to know.

Joan: I would have been pleased to have had a chat with you.

Rural Delivery: I would like to take such a nice trip as you expect to have. I hope you will write a description of it and your new home. We will miss you.

With best wishes to all.

MARY FRANCE (Nov. 11).

SMALL CHANGE FOR NEEDLEWORK AT CLUB MEETINGS.

Good Morning, Sisters: Easter is over now, and I suppose each and every one is beginning to think of spring renovation.

Someone said she was all through cleaning. Well, how nice; but it's too cold to begin out here in the country. But a few fine warm days will find me hard after the dust, etc.

Expect to meet you at Franklin hall the 11th.

Who said bring fancy work? Oh me! Oh my! I tried it a few times, but I've been too busy enjoying myself to keep the needle going, too.

As ever

NEIGHBOR EVERREADY.

OUR SUNSHINE BOXES

Dear Social Sisters: I sometimes think as I start to write, pshaw, "Why write the Corner, the club gatherings hear enough of me at every meeting, looking after hostesses and food for the next month. But then I think, well some don't hear me so I'll write and fill up the one vacant place due the writers in The Bulletin, for you know our page goes from coast to coast and I'm glad our daily paper is known so well. That helps put Norwich on the map.

I want to thank every hostess and worker at the monthly dinners. It does seem good to have you volunteer to work and I for one thank you for doing it. You always find that when the days comes there are plenty who are willing to take a hand and help you out.

Our sunshine boxes are received with tears of joy by those in sickness and shut-in condition, judging by the thanks that come to me over the phone at being remembered. Oh Social Corner Sisters, isn't it beautiful that we took up this work! To those who don't know, I wish to say here on the last day of the Salvation Army drive Club No. 2 sent $5 towards the Salvation Army Home, so if we sew rooms we will ramp rooms.

I am glad we have so many who heartily approve of the sunshine work.

Jeremy: I enjoyed your letter. No chance for Happiness. If it was so poorly printed I could dope it out and think you are right that people know you have forgotten who has a loaned article and then keep it or are ashamed to return it. If that is the case with my Social Corner Register the mail would deliver it and no questions could be asked. There are ways of returning it if the party cares to give it up.

I wonder if those who read the decease of Haggard Tucker know that he was Blueskull of Scotland. His wife L. T. H., and Violet, his daughter, have the Corner sympathy.

I heard some of the Social Corner sisters say at the Buckingham they didn't write for they couldn't write interesting letters. Well, I can't but I write something. One writer once said she didn't like those chatty letters, use the mail or phone. Well that's her privilege and if she don't like it she needn't read mine. Don't let anybody throw cold water over your desire to do or serve.

I was glad to greet so many new writers and to find that I know them.

I wish a speedy recovery to all sick ones and hope on May 2nd they will meet with us.

Best wishes,

CALLA LILY

FRIED SANDWICHES AND ONE-LET

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Will try a letter once more to the Corner. Did any of the sisters ever try fried sandwiches? I make them often. Make any kind of a sandwich, egg, meat, fish or the many combinations, press together well, dip in beaten egg and fry golden brown on both sides. Fry slowly and eat at once.

Do you like omelet? If so try this: Run three crackers through the meat chopper. Also a large piece of cheese, which will be one half as much as cracker crumbs. Add the cheese and crumbs to 1 cup of milk, put on the stove and beat until hot, (do not scald), season with butter, salt and pepper. While milk is heating beat in three eggs. One hundred turns of the egg beater, add to milk, stir, put into a hot buttred fry pan and bake till brown.

Theoda: How did you and Frances get home? Let's keep on, what do you say?

Grace: How are you? How did you like the winter?

Best wishes for all. Sincerely,

ANONA, (June M.)

THE ART OF SCOLDING

Dear Social Corner Editor: I was surprised to read a recipe from Uncle Sam's Daughter and a letter from Imogene Graef. It was very nice to hear from them again.

Please allow me to send my most thankful acknowledgement for the prize you conferred upon me.

To what extent and how accurately the face indexes the character and tendencies of an individual has always been a question, puzzling many and more or less interesting us all. Since Aristotle, the shrewd old Greek philosopher, first observed that each animal had a special, predominant instinct, as the fox cunning, the wolf ferocity, and so on, and that the face and the head of every human being were telltales, the art of interpreting the features have been popularly practised.

In a face you can see a scold or a person who nags. Now there is an art in scolding. Of course there is a right and wrong way to do nearly everything under the sun, even to scold. But to practice it effectually we must keep our temper well in hand, and wait until our anger has cooled, to administer that word of castigation which often cuts more deeply than the lash of a whip. Scoldings loose their efficacy by being constantly repeated, but a few sharp words in season often act like a tonic and clear the atmosphere of the home. With children, above all, if we wish to be respected, we should never show temper or raise our voice. Our children are often our judges. "I will speak to you in an hour," acts far more powerfully than the most violent display of passion.

Good breeding is shown by gentleness and perfect self-control under any stress of circumstances. When the child has been spoken to and knows his punishment, he must be told to leave the room instead of being allowed to storm around and treat himself to a feast of tears and sobs, which pave the way, if the mother is weak, to a reconciliation which plays havoc with her authority more than anything else can do. I have said and I maintain that scolding women or men will mark their face with unsightly lines which no beauty doctor can eradicate and that scolding which disturbs the current of life and mars its harmony is little short of a crime. Scolding is no good woman's province. It is an unpleasant medicine that should be administered in small doses in cases of dire necessity. The world delights in sunny people. The old are hungering for love more than for bread. The air of joy is very cheap; and if you can help the poor on with a garment of praise it will be better for them than blankets or scolds.

Sincerity is believing as we pretend towards our friends, acting as we profess, performing as we promise—and being as we appear to be. There are a few people in the world more depressing and disheartening than those who are always seeing some shadow of coming evil. The world is somber even at its best enough without scolds and it is hardly worth while to go out seeking for shadows or to conjure up purely imaginary ones.

Olga and Paula: My warmest thanks for your Easter cards.

I want to thank the readers of The Bulletin for their gift for their appreciation of my letters. Would that I knew your addresses. I would like to reciprocate, and trust that I shall be able to keep you as interested in my letters in the future as in I have in the past.

KITTY LOU.

SEVERAL GOOD SUGGESTIONS OFFERED.

Dear Editor and Cornerites: In some of the recent letters, there has been mentioned some old school houses which were very interesting, and it makes me want to ask if any of you know about the oldest school in the United States, located at Jamaica Plains, Mass., known as the Eliot School, erected by Mr. Eliot the "Apostle to the Indians," in 1676. It would be interesting indeed to hear about it, too.

Prairie Chicken: Your description reminds me of the first school I attended. Were they not swell as compared with the new buildings? How did we ever stand it?

It is said time again if you have mud stains on dark fabrics try rubbing them over with a piece of raw potato. Also add a small amount of salt to gasoline when cleaning other kinds of spots and there will be no ring left.

Before washing madras curtains, baste the ends together and they will hang like new.

To remove white or water spots on table or other furniture rub well with a cloth dampened with ammonia, then rub with a clean cloth and polish with oil.

Try running a coarse thread through the picots on edge of tatting before washing and pull out after ironing; it saves time.

Theodore: Here's an idea for you and me, also other flower lovers, who take care of their own gardens.

Have a small wooden box fitted with cover, and a look if you wish, painted the color of the house and fastened in an inconspicuous place in the porch. In it keep a clean dust cloth and small brush, a pair of scissors, a garden trowel and a small hand weeder also gloves if you use them. It will save lots of steps and time.

Here is a new style of raisin pie you may want to try before the nuts are all gone.

Raisin Pie: One and one-half cups of raisins, one cup of water, one-half cup of sugar, one tablespoon of vinegar, one egg yolk, one tablespoon of butter and pinch of salt. Cook the raisins in water till tender, add the butter and mix sugar, cornstarch, vinegar and egg yolk and add to raisins and put into a baked crust. Now boil a cup of sugar and a little water without stirring till it spins a thread from the spoon, then pour over the stiffly beaten egg white and beat till creamy. Add vanilla and spread over pie and cover with a cup of chopped nut meats. This just suits me and no doubt it will others.

U. C. E.: I would water the cyclamen sparingly and keep it cool. It will die down naturally. Leave it in the pot to rest. Toward fall repot and start for another season's bloom.

Jerushy Spice: I agree with you and I long for the good old summer time to return, when nature the whole earth's adorning; and the buds and the blooms bedecking the land with a wonderful garland each morning. Like a sweet lullaby to the old weary world

Are the shadows of twilight just falling,
And the sounds of day fast fading away
And the night birds so sweetly are calling.

Yours Cornerwise,

CANTERBURY BELL.

ENJOYED CLUB MEETING.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: What a nice day we had the fourth of April for our dinner and there were so many there. And what a nice time we had. I was more than pleased to see Stitches sitting at the table. The programme was very good with Aunty No. 1, True Blue, Celia Louise, Chocolate, Necia, Blue Bell, participating. Joan with her instrumental music completed a delightful programme Honey Bee was buzzing around Apple Blossom and Celia Louise was looking after Cypress. I did not know what she was going to build with that kind of wood. Did not see her at the meeting, so she must be building air castles.

I made a call on Monday and found she had the grip or it had her. Am in hopes to report her feeling better at our next meting. Your thoughtfulness in sending the sunshine box was appreciated by her.

Yours for the Social Corner.

BONIE.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Dear Friends, one and all. What an interesting and helpful Social Corner you are and such nice times as you seem to have at your gatherings.

I would just like to be one among you and lend a helping hand whenever I can. Although it is cold for this time of the year, we know that warmer days are coming and want to try and enjoy every day as it comes along.

With best wishes to you all and trust that I may meet you at some of the gatherings.

I will take for my pen name, if no one has it,

WISTERIA.

COLD WINTER IN NORTH DAKOTA

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: It is some time since I have written, but I have read and enjoyed every number of the paper. And from the letters they write, I think all of the members do. I do not think they care for the recipes, but they do like the newsy interesting letters of many many topics.

I have not thanked the friend who sent me the pretty calendar, but I was pleased with the gift and the remembrance.

No doubt you know that we have had a hard winter—not extremely cold but the cold has been continuous, with much snow. This began to melt a few days ago, and the roads are covered with water, and the culverts also. This will soon pass. In ten days—perhaps less—the roads will be bare and good.

We had two days of a bad blizzard. There was not much loss of life, for it began about one o'clock at night, so few people were out. The worst case, I know, was of a family, father, mother and three children who had been away on the train leaving their team with a friend at the station. They wanted to reach home that night and started soon after the blizzard began. They soon realized the situation, and the man tried to drive back to the house he had left, but the horses refused to face the storm. Soon they could not tell the direction, or keep the team going. When they were found after the wind died down the mother was lying in the bottom of the wagon with the two small children under her. The older one, lying against her was dead. The father stood upright by the dead horses, with arms raised. His arms and body were frozen stiff, but he was not dead. He lived several hours, but never spoke. The mother was badly frozen, and they were obliged to amputate both hands and one foot at once, and later, the toes from the other foot. They are trying to raise a fund for her. They were poor people, but all are so poor here now, I fear it will not be possible to raise a large sum.

The reason a blizzard is so dangerous is that the snow comes so fast and the wind sends it in a constant whirl, so thick you cannot see any object ten feet away, and you are confused and lose all sense of direction. A girl who was teaching school near here some two years ago dismissed her pupils when a blizzard was just beginning, and they got home safely, but she stayed to do some work. She boarded at a house very near, with a road fenced on both sides. But there was a small break in the fence and she passed through it to the prairie and her body was found four miles away after the storm.

But every state has its own troubles. I once once saw a two days' blizzard in Connecticut, so bad that no one could go out for two days. I stood at our door after the storm and watched a breaking team come from North Coventry. There were ten yoke of oxen and the road above South Coventry was so drifted only the horns of the oxen appeared above the flying snow as they plowed through with a heavy sleigh behind them.

Once the sound froze over so hard that people walked on the ice to Mason's Island and back. I did not see this, but Mrs. Mason of Mason's Island told me about it.

And this winter just before Christmas, the Southern California railroad sent to our Northern Pacific railroad to borrow a rotary snow plow. They could not clear the roads with a common snow plow.

I wonder if any sister makes her rugs as I do? I have some fifteen years old as pretty as ever, and they have never needed a bit of sewing over or repairing. I cut my rags about five inches wide, turn the edges in about an inch and baste them together, half an inch from the edge. Then I sew the ends together flat, and begin to braid—or rather plait them. When I wish to turn one, I turn the strand over, folding the under side over to the upper side, not drawing it up, but keeping it perfectly flat. This makes a braid or plait perfectly flat, about three inches wide when I saw them together. I lay them side by side on the table, sewed together at the end. I thread a darning needle with double wrapping twine, tie a knot at the end and pass under the folded edge, first on one braid, then the other, but not sewing into the cloth. When I have used my threaded twine, I cut it, tie a knot, and when the needle is threaded again, I tie two knots together and go on. The prettiest rug is made of straight plaits, stitched across at the ends and finished with the double-headed rug fringe. It is perfectly flat, alike on both sides, with no thread showing or being where it will wear out, and the braids close together.

I have the top of an album quilt which I took off and laid away when it began to wear. Most of the names on it are of those now passed on, and I prize it. I piece quilts—have one commenced now—but I usually take a twelve inch square of lining, cover with cotton, and begin in the center or at one to piece the block. I sew only through the outside for two or three stitches at the edge. Then I lay two block together, leave one edge to fell over, and sew the two blocks together. When my blocks are pieced, they are also lined and quilted.

I have had good letters from several of the sisters, and thank them all, and am answering them as fast as I can. I am sorry to hear that Samantha was not well. Balsam Fir sent me a nice snapshot of herself and her husband—I was glad to see her.

My house plants have blossomed some this winter—they do make the days brighter.

Where did the sister live, who wrote of living in N. D.?

With good wishes for all,

NORTH DAKOTA, July 24

PLEASED WITH REPORTS OF MEETINGS

To Editor and Social Corner Readers:

"I suppose if all the children
Who have lived through ages long,
Were collected and inspected
They would make a woadrous throng.
Oh the babble of the Bable!
Oh, the flutter of the fuss!
To begin with, Cain and Abel,
And to finish up with us."

Suppose all member of Social Corner wrote a letter to the editor the same day, wouldn't there be a flutter in the office? The Social Corner has brightened the hours for many during this tedious, long winter. Those who were unable to attend the meeetings could read and enjoy the reports so ably written by Withwyck, Neighbor Ever Ready and others. Thank you for your good letters. The reports make everyone wish they could have been there and enjoyed the meeting, too. They help to bring in new members and make the Social Corner page very interesting. It is certainly a wonderful club, where members have gone on guess Who is Who for thirteen years.

When my Bulletin does not arrive on time I read the old Social Corner pages over and wish I could meet the writers.

Helena: Was pleased to hear from you. Hope you will attend the meeting soon.

Balsam Fir: Your account of the heavy snow in former winters was very interesting.

Mary France: Hope you have recovered and can soon go out in the fresh air.

Every day in every way, the Social Corner is getting better and better.

Long may it flourish.

Best wishes to all.

NEMA.

OLD-FASHIONED REMEDIES AND STYLES.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I want to shake hands with Iola on the onion question. I imagine she is not far from my age, as she writes of the simple remedies doing such efficient work at times, when to wait for a physician it might mean death. I can speak from experience of the virtue there is in the use of onions. Many a night was I obliged to get up and use onions, putting them on feet and chest of my child who was subject to croup. But he is now at middle life. Herbs, too, were used. Pennyroyal, for instance, was a fine herb given warm (and years ago it was put in a ailing form) and you certainly would get into a good sweat. Fleerisy root was an herb used for an affliction of the lung. Life-everlasting was an herb used for fomenting the lungs. Many of these useful herbs, much used in my younger days, are seldom used at the present time, as physicians are more generally reached. In attending the sick as was my custom, a physician said to me, it "depends more on the nurse than the doctor, as the nurse thinks of many things to help and make the patient more comfortable."

To change the subject, Spry Bird wrote about hats and of hers taking a sail in the air one windy day. It reminded me of my young days when we wore hats with wide brims and we had what we called a bridle. The hat was trimmed with a band of wide ribbon, and on the front of the hat was a narrow ribbon some yard and a half long. This was the bridle which we hung on to. This kept the hat from blowing off. I laugh when I think of it now. Still some things they wear now are quite ridiculous, and so thinly clad do the young people go at the present time.

Mandy wrote sensibly about the dress of young people. I remember in summer we wore low neck and short sleeves, but our summer days and evenings were hot. But the seasons are soc hangeable late years one cannot dress that way now. Many have been sick, and I experienced some of it. I remember the saying: "When ground is covered with snow, the winter will be healthy," but it has not proved so.

Huldy: I trust you are yourself again, strong.

Olga and Lonesome Pine: Your dear mother passed on. I remember her so cheery. But the dear ones gone from the ranks of our Corner are at rest, and when the dear Lord calls may we be ready to enter into the rest of the people of the Lord.

With love and sympathy for the ones who have passed through bereavements, I am

TROTTIE.

HOUSECLEANING TIME.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Who says that they dread housecleaning time? Just don't think of it, but when the time comes go at it as best you can. Do not try to do too much in one day, and above all don't work till you get overtired, for when the breakdown takes hold of you, then you just have to stop. The world was not made in a day. The housecleaning time usually means some floors to do over. Many homes have linoleum on either kitchen or dining room. If there are rough floors with bumps or cracks to be covered, these should be attended to first. There is a preparation for filling cracks which can be purchased at most paint or hardware stores. The bumpy places should be planed off, then put down heavy building paper before the linoleum is laid. Inlaid linoleum is the best, when it is possible to afford it, for it will wear nearly as long as a wood floor. A good quality of varnish should be used at least once a year, and more often if it has hard usage. Oil is easier to apply than the varnish but does not last as long. If oil is used, and much dirt tracked in, an oiled mop will be the best and much less work than soap and water, which ought not to be used unless it gets very dirty; and then no

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The new "City Prison" was officially opened 50 years ago and many people were attracted to the new headquarters. Other items of local interest are taken from the files of the Bulletin as follows:

Monday, March 31, 1873—The court of common council in their assessment of benefits for the widening of North Thames, assessed $3,000 against the New London Northern railroad. From this assessment the company appealed to Judge Park, who appointed A. P. Willoughby, Z. C. Crowell and J. W. Hooker a committee to reassess the benefits. A hearing was had in the appeal on Saturday, and the committee assessed the benefits at $3,333.33. Halsey appeared for the railroad company and Pratt for the city.

The wind and high tide Saturday night caused the Steamer Ella to beat against the dock, and she would have been badly damaged had not Capt. Smith fortunately gone down to see if she was all right. He called several gentlemen to aid him and they succeeded in getting the boat out of danger.

The Hon. David A. Wells lectured Saturday evening to a large audience in the Union League theatre, New York, upon his proposed system of state taxation.

The Central Baptist Ecclesiastical society have the following officers for the year: President, L. W. Carroll; vice president, Edward Ray; clerk, C. F. Setchell; treasurer, J. C. Perkins; committee, A. T. Otis, James A. Brown and James H. Arnold.

Tuesday, April 1, 1873—Yesterday afternoon the old headquarters for the police department lost their familiar look in the general overhauling of furniture preparatory to removal to the new court house, in which the department will probably be seated today. The court room is bare of furniture with the exception of the judge's desk and chairs. The arrangements for prisoners and lodgers are complete and will insure a large patronage than is common. There are 20 cells occupying a rectangle in the large apartment on the ground floor in the northeast part of the building. The doors are of iron bars and securely bolted. The old court room on Main street where so many unfortunates have met their fate of "$7.00 and costs," will know the judicial ermine, the blue coats, brass buttons and billies no more. The dingy old cellar of a lockup will no longer be a terror to evil-doers.

An alarm of fire called out the department to a house opposite the New London Northern depot Monday. The fire which started around the chimney damaged the roof and wood of the second story to a considerable extent.

Wednesday, April 2, 1873—Rev. Berry Stetson and Dr. Thurber of Boston held their much heralded foot race yesterday at Norwich Town. The starting point was at Harland's corner and the route pursued was around the plains and back to the starting point. The contestants well nerved for the race started about 1 a. m. among the cheers and Dr. Thurber of Boston was the winner. Time 21 minutes. Rev. Stetson was not one minute behind. The victory was duely celebrated.

The city prison was opened for occupants Tuesday. The new prison, by far better than the old lockup, deserves the more distinguished title of "City Prison". Lockup was good enough for the damp old cellar in use so many years; and as that reminder the black hole of Calcutta is tenantless by the unfortunate forever, let its name die out. John ——— had the honor of being the first tenant of the new "City Prison". Since getting out of the county jail no doubt he has been laying for the chance to acquire this honor and laid his plans well. He knew where to get the wiskey to put him in condition and then for a fight. He also knew where to find a suitable opponent and knew that Officer Benson would come for him and that the honor as first occupant of the "prison" would be his. His calculations were not in vain.

During the afternoon and evening hundreds of visitors came to see how the first occupant looked behind the polished grates and he was evidently not a little proud of their notice. There could not have been a more worthy personage to dedicate the new prison than John. He is an old and experienced offender, well known to the judicial ermine and an admiring public. He is to be congratulated on the notoriety for which sole craved and was satisfied.

George Mills has succeeded W. W. Smith as keeper of the arms house.

Thursday, April 3, 1873—J. A. Snoics of Preston yesterday allowed an apparently guileless youth in his home to perform the job now in season of whitewashing. While Mr. Sholes was away the young man locked two children who were watching him in a room by themselves and then searched the house. He found some clothing, about $75 in money and a gold watch and then quit the job and departed. When last heard of he was heading in the direction of Westerly. Late in the night word was received from Providence of the arrest of the thief who is to be brought back to Preston. The stolen articles were recovered.

A boy about 12 years of age employed at the Ponemah mills was severely treated yesterday by a cruel overseer and today is in a critical condition at his home. The man kicked the boy many times before he could be stopped and a doctor was called to treat the wounds he had inflicted on the youth. The overseer was arrested and as was proper was removed from his position at the mill by the officials.

John ——— the popular offender who had the first honor of occupying the new "city prison" was before the police court yesterday morning and was handed a fine of $10 and costs. He is now working out the fine in jail. A bitter pill for John to take after his triumph of Tuesday.

The Steam Dredge Syracuse came up the river yesterday and will soon begin operations upon the "middle ground" opposite the Richmond Stove Works.

Friday, April 4, 1873—Eight marble-faced clocks of peculiar design have been placed in the new court house. The motive power for all is furnished by the clock in the belfry.

Joseph Plaut has received his credentials from the state department as honorary commissioner to the Vienna exposition. Mr. Plaut intends to leave for Vienna in May.

On Thursday morning Capt. Whaley of the city police went to Providence and returned to this city with the guileless (?) youth who robbed the home of Mr. Sholes in Preston Wednesday. NEW LONDON MERCHANTS MOVE TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC CONGESTION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6.—New London merchants want to have Bank street made a one-way street in order to relieve the congestion that now exists on that busy thoroughfare, for they believe that with traffic being directed in one direction an increase in business will result. This was revealed at a meeting of merchants and City Manager James E. Barlow in the municipal building for the purpose of discussing measures to adopt to relieve traffic conditions.

It was the sense of the meeting that the Connecticut company be requested to operate its cars in one direction and with the trolley company agreeing to do so the city would cause traffic to be but one way. The merchants are insistent upon the one-way traffic and stated that if the trolley company did not agree to comply with their wishes the public utilities commission would be petitioned to compel the operation of the cars one way.

This street has been particularly congested a long time and ultimately the city will have to take steps to relieve it.

There is no change in the situation of the striking weavers at the Bloom silk mill on Garfield avenue. The strikers declare that they will not return to work until their demand for an increase of from 7 to 10 cents per yard is granted them, while the owners assert that the compensation that has been paid the strikers is all that they can afford to pay. A conference, it is believed, will occur next week in an endeavor to effect a compromise.

Prof. Colin S. Buell, principal of the Williams Memorial institute, learned something this week that he did not know before. At a class recitation in economics Prof. Buell was surprised to learn that the students were very little versed on the contents of the Bible, and he did not hesitate to tell them so, at the same time informing the young ladies of particular books upon which they should read to be informed on matters pertaining to the Bible.

Alonzo C. Neff of Pinman street died at his home last night. Mr. Neff was 90 years of age.

Because of the conviction in Groton town court recently of Nathan Peck, charged with conducting gambling in his store just outside the naval reservation at the submarine base, sailors stationed there have been ordered to give the store a wide berth, having received orders to keep away from the place. Heretofore the uniformed forces have made a rendezvous of the place.

For some time there have been numerous complaints made at the police station of the theft of articles of various description at the submarine base, and while one or two captures of the thieves have been made, generally the crook manages to cover up his tracks and escape punishment. The latest theft to come to light was revealed this afternoon when Ensign Hume reported the loss of his Hamilton watch, the timepiece having been stolen from his locker some time last night or this forenoon. An investigation was made at the base without any clues being obtained and later the New London police were requested to use their endeavors in securing the apprehension of the thief or the recovery of the watch. As the watch was stolen on the reservation, there is no doubt but that the theft was committed by some one of the men stationed there.

An automobile owned by Louis Privona, proprietor of the Central garage at 400 Williams street, and a machine owned and operated by Sylvester S. F. Lawrence of Walker hill, Groton, were in collision this forenoon in the yard of the former's garage, and it was claimed by Privona that his car had been damaged to the extent of $50. In order to assure payment of his repair bill, Privona seized Lawrence's machine and refused to give it up until the services of the police were called. It is probable that Privona will institute legal steps to secure the payment of his bill of reapairs.

Frederick A. Smith, junior member of the firm of N. Clark & Smith, Bank street butchers, succumbed to an absence on his return to his home, No. 263 Montauk avenue, this morning. Mr. Smith was about 60 years of age and is survived by a wife and several children, among the latter being Mrs. David H. Clark, wife of Mr. Smith's business partner.

An automobile, owned by Frank Danesi of Norwich, became disabled on Main street Wednesday night and the owner caused the machine to be parked on the premises at No. 292, unknown to the owner of the property. Today when no one appeared to claim the car, while the owner of the property notified the police of the existence of the car there and it was then that the ownership of the abandoned auto was revealed. The auto was removed to storage in a nearby garage.

Mrs. James Doyle of Groton, under treatment at Lawrence Memorial associated hospitals in Norwich, was able to return to her home today.

Frank S. Gardner has sold to Henry H. and Lucy C. Smith a tract of land on Gardner avenue.

An unoccupied cottage owned by Senator Frank B. Brandegee was entered by thieves last night, but the crooks did not obtain any plunder as the valuable possessions of the occupants of the place last season had been removed. Entrance to the place was gained by smashing a rear window. Other windows in the house were demolished as was a rear door, causing damage of about $150. The police are investigating.

When the tramp steamer Texan, en route from Boston to New York with a general cargo which was intended eventually for the Australian market, went ashore on Block Island, a portion of her cargo was taken off to lighten the vessel to aid in floating her. It was brought to this port and placed on the state pier, where it has remained until now, when it is being laden on lighters and will go to New York. Much of the ship's cargo was thrown overboard and was picked up by fishermen. Much of that flotsam also got to this port and was sold for any price it would bring.

The Sons of Italy society will produce La Tosca for the benefit of the charitable fund of the society. The organization as its name implies is made up exclusively of Italians who distribute a considerable sum each year in charity and benevolences. There is an abundance of musical talent in the society. The society has a band and many of its members are artists with stringed instruments. Ladies connected with the families of members will assist in the production.

A few days of such weather as has favored this section today with bring us into spring. There is very little frost in the ground now for the rain and high temperature has disposed of that.

The Palmer Brothers' plant, manufacturers of bed quilts, has made a voluntary increase in wages to its factory help, numbering at present about 100 hands. The increase, which is not made public, was not sought by the employes, but, it is said, is a substantial one.

The plant is not being operated at present upon full time, but will be within a few weeks at which time the number of hands to benefit by the wage increase will be about 200.

The action of the Palmer Brothers' company in making the increase is the first New London concern to increase the wages of its employes since the world war.

The wrecking fleet of the Merritt, Chapman, Scott company continued its work of attempting to float the tug Elmer A. Keeler, ashore on the rocks of Bartlett's reef, where the craft stranded over a week ago in a heavy gale, but was unable to haul the tug into deep water because of the heavy gales. The wreckers now have given up hope of floating the tug until such time as the wind subsides and more favorable weather prevails.

The New London City National bank will cause an addition to be made to the institution, corner of Bank and Golden streets, within the near future. This was revealed today when the bank purchased of Antone Leverone, that part of the three story brick block on Golden street, known as No. 13, and directly adjoining the institution. The property acquired has a frontage of 20 feet and was purchased for $20,000.

The bank has recently made alterations to the institution and with the added property acquired today, it is believed that ample room will be provided, when the addition is completed, to take care of the needs of the bank for many years.

The property purchased is that which was damaged by fire about a week ago and has been occupied by a pool room on the ground floor, with apartments on the two upper floors.

The Catholic Woman's club realized about $600 by an entertainment given last week. Now the Crowley club is to put on a minstrel show and there is rivalry to determine whether the latter will realize more money than did the older and larger organization. The women gave but one entertainment whereas the girls are to give two. If the Catholic women can raise something more than $1,000 by their talents on the stage they are likely to spur women of the other churches to do something in the same direction.

Though the volume of imports reaching this country from Europe is reported to be very much larger than in recent years this port gets but little benefit in the way of customs fees by the business. Business is very slow at the custom house at present and has been in that condition a long time. The fees are but a few hundred dollars a year, not enough to pay the collectors aside from the inspectors. There was a time when the collectorship of this port was considered one of the best positions in the gift of the government, but that time long since passed on, and during the time when the custom house last had its own collector the fees were merely nominal.

strong powder should be used, for it will take the color off. Milk is good to wipe with after washing with water.

If one is bothered with a creaky stair or loose board, scrape out all dirt and fill in melted paraffine. Try it. Also oil all hinges that squeak. Don't forget to smile and rest a while this happy housecleaning time.

CLUB NO. 1 MEETS APRIL 11.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Club No. 1 meets in Franklin hall April 11, and hope all will come; bring plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon—also something good to eat. We will hope for a warm and pleasant day, and a jolly good time.

We'll bid the radiant dawn of hope appear,
Thro' its fair glass we'll view the opening year—
And while we hope, we're blest.
Best wishes to The Corner.

AUNT ALICA.

SPONGE CAKE RECIPE.

Dear Sisters of The Corner: I thought I would write a few lines this morning, as I didn't want to put it off to long. This is a nice morning after the cold wave. I hope we shall have some nice pleasant weather soon. I am very busy, although I haven't begun housecleaning yet. I like to have the ground all dry so I can get things out and air them. I usually have three or four different things to work on when I get my housework done and get a chance to sit down for a while. I have crocheting and knitting and rug making, so I can take my choice. I think that makes it more interesting.

When washing a kettle that is black on the bottom, put an old paper in the sink and see how much it saves washing the sink. When you want to put raisins in a cake, instead of flouring them put them right in the wetting and they will not settle at the bottom. When making pies with juicy fruit, put part of the sugar and flour at the bottom of the fruit and the rest on top and your pies will not run over.

Will send a good recipe for sponge cake, cheap and good.

Sponge Cake: Break three egg yolks into a mixing bowl and then add one large cup of sugar and a little salt and vanilla and stir well together; add one small cup of hot water, two and one-half cups of pastry flour with three rounding teaspoons of baking powder. Stir well and then add the whites of three eggs beaten stiffly. Beat well together. This will make two loaves of good sponge cake.

Good luck to The Corner, and long may it live.

RURAL AUNTY.

TEACH CHILDREN THE TRUTH

Dear Social Corner Sisters: In reply to a sister's inquiry for a recipe for Lady Fingers will send my recipe and wishing you good luck!

Lady Fingers: Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter, beaten to a cream, 4 tablespoons sweet milk and two tablespoons baking powder. Enough flour stiff with a spoon. Flavor with lemon or vanilla. Flour your moulding board, take a little piece of dough, roll with your hands as large as your finger, cut off in four inch lengths and put closely on lady finger tins. Bake in a quick oven.

I hope the house cleaning will not prevent us from having a full page this week and the weeks following. I do enjoy reading the different letters.

The subject bringing up children interests me very much. I think children from the beginning should be taught the truth. So many parents lie to their children when they are small it not to be wondered that when they grow older they have so little respect for the truth. Do not tell the child when it is small some horrible thing will get it, if it is not good. Teach a child to have respect for all that is good, honorable and to fear God.

Children are gifts of God. Therefore we should devote the best there is in our lives as an example for them.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Way

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and rundown and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it."—Mrs. M. OHLEN, 3640 S. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Ill.

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

MARKET WAS FIRM.

New York, April 6.—Week end profit taking in a number of recent speculative favorites, acute weakness of the [illegible] and heavy [illegible] domestic oils slowed down the operations for the rise in today's stock market but the undertone was firm. Public buying was still of a cautious character but professional speculators for the advance found plenty of ammunition for their campaign in the federal reserve board's optimistic summary of business and credit conditions and the decision of the railroad executives to spend more than one billion dollars for new equipment during the coming year.

Equipment shares forged ahead at the outset, Baldwin crossing 140 1-2, American Locomotive 136, Lima 73, and Pullman 129, but except in the case of the last named, which closed, 1 1-4 higher, the net gains were reduced to fractions before the close. Announcement of higher prices for refined sugar brought fresh buying power into that group. Early gains of one to three points, however, were not maintained, some of the active issues showing fractional losses of the day.

Virginia Carolina Chemical and American Agricultural Chemical issues dropped to new low records for the year despite official statements that, while present earnings were unsatisfactory, the financial position of the companies was good. The weakness of Pacific Oil which touched 38 1-2 and showed a net loss of more than two points on the day, was again associated with reports that the dividend was in danger. Associated Oil dropped seven points on a turnover of approximately 2,000 shares and Mariand forfeited 1 1-4 points of its recent gain.

Kresge was the outstanding specialty, jumping 23 1-2 points to 226 1-2. Woolworth advanced 5 points in sympathy. Some of the other individual strong spots were Beechnut Packing, Martin Parry, Worthington Pump and Atlas Powder, up 2 1-2 to 5 1-2 points. American Smelting closed 1 1-8 higher, buying being based on reports that the stock would soon be placed on a $4 dividend basis.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent. throughout the day. The time money market was slightly easier, some short term loans being arranged at 5 1-4 per cent. and the longer maturities at 5 1-2. Out of town banks continued ash the principal takers of commercial paper, prime names being about even, divided between 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Strength of French francs, which advanced eight points to 6.64 cents and then dropped back to 6.60, was the feature of the foreign exchange market, which was again irregular. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.66 1-2. Silver exchanges were weak in reflection of another decrease in the price of foreign silver.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 6.—The trend of bond prices continued upward in the trading today, but gains were for the most part confined to fractions. Most of the declines came in the late dealings and were largely in sympathy with the late afternoon heaviness developed in stocks.

U. S. government issues were firm. Some of the South American issues were in supply. Uruguay 8's dropping 1 1-8, and St. Paul 8's 1. Switzerland 8's advanced a point. Changes in the railroad group were small but mostly upward. Western Maryland 4's, up 1 1-8, was the strong spot in this division. Most of the sugar company lines continued in good demand. Manati 7 1-2's gaining 1, and Eastern Cuba 7 1-2's, fractionally. Chile Copper 7's were up 1, Virginia Carolina Chemical 7 1-2's, with warrants, followed the trend of the stocks downward, closing 3 points off, and the U. S. Rubber 7 1-2's were off 1 1-2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 6.—New high price records for the season were reached in the wheat market today by July and September deliveries. Unfavorably crop conditions southwest and delay to seeding northwest counted as bullish factors. The close was firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 2-4c high-, with May $1.21 5-8 to $1.21 3-4 and July $1.18 3-4 to $1.18 7-8. Corn gained 7-8 to 1 1-2; oats 1-8@1-4 to 12-c, and provisions 5 to 7@10c.

Persistent buying in small lots accompanied the ascent of wheat prices and appeared to indicate a broadening of a speculative interest. Freezing temperatures and lack of moisture was reported as hindering plant growth in parts of the winter crop territory. The unseasonable cold was also said to be responsible for crop damage by green bugs in Oklahoma, the low temperatures reventing development of parasite enemies of the bugs.

The fact that European purchasing of North American wheat during the last few days has been the largest in months an dthat domestic wheat shared to a considerable extent in the buying was given much emphasis on the bull side of the market. North American export sales for two days were estimated as totalling as high as 5,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, with the Liverpool market today closing at a decline, some disposition toward realizing sales was shown here, especially in the May delivery which finished at exactly the same figures as 24 hours before.

Corn as well as wheat advanced to new high price records for the season. Offerings were scarce and shipping sales here amounted to nearly 500,000 bushels chiefly to exporters. Oats although dull sympathized with the action of corn and wheat.

Downturns in the value of higs weakened the provision market.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

There was a good sized attendance at the regular meeting of Clover temple, No. 9, held in Buckingham Memorial Thursday evening. These meetings are held the first and third Thursdays of each month at 8 o'clock. The M. E. C., Alice Latimer, called the meeting to order. After the ritualistic work was over, with flag salute, several names were voted on and one new name handed in. In April the temple is to have a fancy work and food sale, followed in the evening by a whist, with refreshments. Grace Fowler is chairman of the sale and whist. On May 3d the grand chief and her staff will be present, also members of the Pythian Sisters of Willimantic, New London, Colchester and Mystic, by invitation from Clover temple. The regular get-together supper that the Pythian Sisters of Clover temple are noted for will be given to grand officers, visiting members and local members of the temple.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS.

Sebequonash council, No. 11, met at 58 Broadway on Wednesday evening with a large attendance. Deputy Sister Lovenia Clark of Hiawatha council, No. 45, of New London, made an official visit to raise the chiefs to their respective stumps. Before the close of the meeting Pocahontas Della Bailey called the keeper of records to the council brand and after a very neat speech right to the point presented the keeper of records with a very handsome white enamel chair. It was acknowledged with the right spirit and now occupies a very prominent place in the home of the keeper of records, where it can be seen by all who wish to gaze upon it. Gt. Pocahontas Sister Margaret Mankin was the lucky winner of the loving cup for being the most popular Pocahontas. It was given by the American Red Man, a paper published in Bridgeport. Sebequonash council will celebrate its 33d birthday in July. Brother Stephen Culver is gaining rapidly and is able to be out of doors when it is pleasant. His many friends will be very glad to hear of his improved condition.

LADIES AUXILIARY A. O. H.

The meeting of Ladies Auxiliary, No. 54, of the A. O. H., held Wednesday night was well attended. Mrs Julia Brock presided and considerable routine business was transacted.

Five candidates were initiated and the usual quarterly reports showing progress were approved as read. There was balloting on two applications, both being favorable.

The members voted to give a big whist party in A. O. H. hall later in the month the proceeds to be given to Rev. Charles W. Brennan, whose church, Sacred Heart of Norwich Town, was destroyed by fire on Easter Sunday. Miss Katherine Coughlin was appointed chairman of the whist committee with the following assistants, Miss Mary Casey and Mrs. Nellie Moore.

The members pledged themselves to work hard for the success of the whist in order to raise a sum that will be pleasing to Father Brennan and be of credit to the auxiliary which prides itself in doing generous acts when the time is right for them to do such acts.

PUBLIC AUCTIONEERS,
Office and Salesrooms, No. 42 Main Street, Danielson, Conn.

We are publishing the following list of important sales as scheduled for the second week of April:

No. 1
THURSDAY, April 10, 1923, at 10 o'clock a. m., we will sell for Mr. Peter Jackson at his place of residence in the so-called Chandler District, Pomfret, Conn., near the schoolhouse. People who are desirous of purchasing good Holstein cattle, good horses or good farming tools should attend this mammoth sale of personal property, as Mr. Jackson is positively retiring from the farming business.

No. 2
On THURSDAY, April 12, 1923, Almedose Riendeau of Putnam, Conn., will sell 35 head of horses, a large and useful variety of wagons, harnesses, blankets, etc., at his sales and livery stable on Providence St., starting at 10 o'clock a. m., rain or shine.

No. 3
On FRIDAY, April 13, 1923, at 9.30 o'clock a. m., we will sell for J. E. Norman, administrator of the estate of the late George W. Palmer, the entire farming equipment, consisting of livestock, horses, tools and crops which Mr. Palmer used in conducting his farming business at his farm in the Town of Ledyard, Conn., about one mile southeast from Stoddard's Wharf, so-called. This is an exceptionally large sale of valuable property, and should be well attended.

No. 4
SATURDAY, April 14, 1923, at 11 o'clock a. m., sharp, rain or shine, Mr. Henry Brisson of Plainfield, Conn., will close out his entire farm equipment, consisting of mostly new farm implements, livestock, crops, etc., at his farm, located about two miles east of Plainfield St. The farm of 35 acres will also be sold at 1 o'clock p. m., sharp. Quite often an auction adv. is not entirely clear to all readers, therefore we wish to impress upon the minds of the public that this sweet little farm, with all buildings thereon, will change hands for the highest available dollar on the above date at the appointed hour. A word to the wise is sufficient. Come prepared.

Kindly preserve the above copy for reference, as auction adv. is rather expensive. Posters of all sales furnished by applying to the Auctioneers.

METHODISTS ACCEPT INVITATION TO PROVIDENCE FOR CONFERENCE

JAMES C. MACPHERSON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 6—The New England Southern Conference of Methodists opened at 9 a. m. by singing the hymn "True Hearted Whole Hearted". The Bishop called on Rev. L. Harris to offer prayer after which he introduced the Rev. Dr. George Elliott Editor of the Methodist Review to lead in the devotional service.

Spoke for American University

Dr. F. W. Collier of the American University was allowed to address the Conference in the interest of this university. He said that this university has assets of $2,500,000 and the productive income of $600,000 amounting to about $50,000 per year. He dwelt upon the location of Washington, D. C., as a strategic point where Protestantism needs a great university and urged the support of the conference for this great institution.

Rev. I. W. LeBaron presented a petition from the Providence Epworth League Union asking that the conference place a paid field worker in the territory covered by their conference to work among young people. The petition was referred for consideration to the committee on Epworth League.

Rev. H. H. Critchlow and Rev. R. E. Bisbee were chosen directors of the New England Historical Society representing this conference on that board of directors.

Rev. G. G. Scrivener presented the report of the conference board of home missions and church extension.

Rev. T. J. Stewart reported for the committee on conference entertainment that the amount raised $600 is sufficient to cover the needs and moved that the same amount be asked for next year which motion was carried. The committee was continued with the same members as last year viz. T. J. Stewart, W. F. Davis, J. E. Duxbury.

Methodist Editor Speaks

Dr George Elliott, editor of the Methodist Review, was introduced as desiring to speak in behalf of his magazine. The Bishop used a little pleasantry as he presented Dr. Elliot as the editor of "that radical periodical which we all take, published in New York," provoking a ripple of laughter. Dr. Elliott in responding said he was receiving good words from everybody whose opinion was worth anything (laughter) that is, said he, the adverse criticism usually comes to our office in the form of letters from people whose spelling and phraseology reveal that they are not good judges of literature. (more laughter). The speaker referred to the late Chancellor Day of Syracuse who had been for years his personal friend yet with whom he almost always disagreed. Notwithstanding, Chancellor Day liked the Review not because he agreed with all that he read in it but because he found subjects treated in which he was interested. He said that when he read a book he would not care to find reproduced therein all his own ideas and prejudices. He owned that he did not himself agree fully with many of the articles which he is now publishing in the Review. He urged that he was publishing matter from different writers according to his best judgment and doing his best to produce a magazine in keeping with the best traditions of its history as the oldest publication of the denomination. He playfully referred to the Bishop saying that he need to know him as a young man when he was a pastor in Philadelphia and he suspected that this young man had sometimes been in to hear him preach and if so, he hoped he had gotten something which helped him. Dr. Elliot won the hearts of his hearers as he always does and closed his remarks amid great applause.

Accepts Providence Invitation

An invitation from the Matthewson St. Church, Providence to hold the Conference of 1924 with them was presented by Rev. L. C. Harris, Assistant Pastor of that church. Mr. Harris urged that Matthewson St. Church waived its preference last year giving way to New London and now renews its expression of good will and if the conference accepts it will find there a cordial reception. Rev. I. W. LeBaron urged the importance of the conference next year it being general conference year with the large attendance of laymen and observed that the conference could probably be cared for more easily in the city of Providence than anywhere else. The invitation was accepted by a unanimous vote.

Rev. A. B. McAllister presented the report of the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals which was adopted.

World Service Programme

At 10 a. m. the world service program was resumed as the order of the day. Dr. Morris W. Ehnes, treasurer of the centenary fund, was introduced. He distributed a four page leaflet covering an outline of the more important considerations in the program with several printed questions at the end. Dr. Ehnes invited the conference to indicate any of the questions they would like to have answered or to ask any others. Dr Ehnes spent his entire time with the several questions asked of him and a most interesting hour quickly slipped by listening to the speakers explanations showing the careful, painstaking, scientific methods which are being followed by the men with whom the church has entrusted important interests.

Strengthening the Local

At 1 a. m. Dr. W. S. Bovard of the board of Sunday schools spoke on the subject "Strengthening the Local Church". Dr. Bovard is a tall well proportioned man with a good voice and he made an excellent impression from the start. He compared the local church to a brick in a large structure. If, said he, this brick forms a part of a cheap building of little account we will not be very particular about what kind of a brick it is but if it is a unit in the building construction of a costly edifice, that would be different. A man who was criticising an orchard, that was not as productive as it ought to be, reflected that the apples don't grow on the orchard but on the trees and consequently to make the orchard do well you must treat the individual trees and get them each to bear its full possibility of fruit. Hence with the work of the great church as a whole, if the aggregate is not equal to what it should be, the remedy must deal with the local church and treat it as a unit in the building structure or as a unit in a great spiritual fruit bearing orchard and by bringing this unit up to its full limit of efficiency. Dr. Bovard emphasized the great importance of work among children and how it is often treated with negligence. He told of a church which had a vision concerning an old man who had some wealth and influence and by revival efforts they won him to Christ but a little boy went to the altar at the same time mostly unnoticed.

Both were converted but the old man soon died while the boy grew to be a stalwart Christian and for many years has been preaching the Gospel. Which was the more valuable? Better to save the boys and girls for what they may become and do but we must also continue to save the fathers and mothers for the sake of the boys and girls. He illustrated the relation of the great boards to the local church by a story of an Internationalist who was protesting to one who wanted no international interferences as he called them. Said he:

Suppose I was a plumber and you had a bath tub which was leaking—wouldn't you want me to come and mend it for you? Yes, was the reply—but I wouldn't want you hanging around when I was taking a bath. So said Dr. Bovard there is a limit to what these boards can do for the local church. We can give them expert assistance in many ways but the local church is the unit which must do its own work and it is the key to the solution of our world problem.

Training Christian Leaders

At 2 p. m. Bishop Burns named Dr. J. Francis Cooper as the presiding officer. Rev. Joseph Cooper offered prayer. Dr. A. W. Harris, corresponding secretary of the board of education was introduced to speak on Training Christian Leaders. He gave a very comprehensive address calculated to show the important work being done by the church schools. He said the Methodist Episcopal church has $91,000,000 invested in schools and colleges. On these schools we owe about $5,000,000 in debts. These schools involve an annual expenditure of $12,000,000. Dr. Harris urged that these are to furnish the recruits for our ministry. He urged that it is as legitimate an effort to lead bright young men to enter the Christian ministry as it is to lead them in the beginning into the Christian life. Concerning the course of study for ministers he thought the books included could be greatly improved from a pedagogical standpoint. As a layman he could not criticize the theology in these books and as they had been approved by the bishop who had theoretically read these books (laughter) it ill becomes us to attack their orthodoxy. He urged that we should make the best of what we have until something better is provided.

Home Missions for America

Dr. Melville P. Burns of the board of home missions and church extension spoke on Saving America Through Our New Home Missions. Dr. Burns in a panoramic picture carried his hearers rapidly through the varied problems all over the territory over which waves the Stars and Stripes. He took us through Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii, the American Indians, the Mormons in Utah, the poor whites in the South, the Negroes, the foreign populations in the great cities. He said, we have maintained churches where it was easiest in the past. We are now seeing that we must build and maintain churches and have the gospel preached in places where it is hard to get support. He cited examples showing that the board is placing churches in strategic points, where there are large 'unchurched populations and splendid results in every way are in evidence. This is a very important part of Methodism's world service program. He cited several concrete examples. One of these was the Cain Ave church in Camden, New Jersey, where some years ago the church was going to move out. There was a population of 75,000 people and this the only Protestant church in that section. The board of home missions urged and finally persuaded the church to stay and by putting in some money to support the work for a time, large accessions were finally won and that church is now doing a mighty work for Christ. Dr. Burns won the approval of his hearers by his eloquent portrayal of facts as they really exist.

The Laymen's Association held its annual meeting at the First Baptist church at 10 a. m. Following are the officers chosen for the ensuing year: President, James C. Macpherson, Norwich; first vice president, L. L. Mitchell, Taunton; second vice president, W. W. Gordon, Hazardville; third vice president, George W. Jeffrey, Providence; secretary, Mrs. John C. Gallup, Moosup; treasurer, Luther Pilling, Danielson.

The laymen also formed district organizations as follows:

Rev. H. H. Crawford of Arnold Mills and Rev. Ernest Barber of Scituate, gave short addresses to the laymen on rural work.

Women's Missionary Meetings

At the First Baptist church at 2 p. m. occurred the Women's Home Missionary society anniversary, Mrs. F. W. Coleman presiding. The speaker was Mrs. C. J. Davis of Silver Lake Center, Providence. The splendid work being done in that center among a thickly settled Italian population was beautifully set forth by the speaker.

A solo was sung by Miss Lenore Elwood, entitled Callest Thou Us O, Master.

The Women's Foreign Missionary anniversary was then held at the same place, Mrs. W. H. Thurber presiding. The speaker was Dr. Rachel Benn of medical mission work, Kai An Su, China. She told in a very simple but effective way something of the woman's life in China.

Notes

In one home where five ministers are entertained, five little kittens were born the first day. The kindly hostess has named the kittens in honor of her guests each of whom must have a short name of course. Possibly some good Methodist will know the conference well enough to guess the identity of these names. The kittens are to be called Mack, Tom, Jerry, Ken and Clint.

Rev. M. S. Kaufman, pastor of Trinity church, Norwich, 1906-10, is now a retired minister of the conference living in Sawtelle, California, where until recently he has been since 1918 chaplain of the National Soldiers' home. A letter from Dr. Kaufman was read to the conference at one of its sessions this week.

Mrs. Clinton E. Bromley, Little Crompton, R. I., and Mrs. W. J. Stephens of Vernon, Conn., were among the arrivals today.

SPEAKS ON METHODIST GREAT OVERSEAS WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 6.—At the Methodist conference a large audience gathered for the evening session. Dr. J. F. Bartholomew was the presiding officer. Rev. E. E. Wells offered prayer. A chorus choir of 14 voices rendered an anthem, Praise Him All Ye People. The first speaker was Rev. P. J. Maveety, corresponding secretary of the board of education for negroes. He spoke on the subject, A United Church. Referring to the centenary organization which merges all the benevolent agencies of the church in one united effort he said we need the solid backing of a united church. He carried his audience back into history when in ancient Egypt a heathen king began a movement to stop the worship of snakes, animals, cockroaches, etc., and to get every person to worship the one true God, when Israel was sojourning in the land to be followed by another king who reversed this policy and brought back the debasing worship which brings discord and strife. Later when Israel got out of Egypt, her most prosperous moments were when she worshipped the one God. In this work to bring the world to know and worship Him we will more and more realize the harmony which comes with that worship. The speaker said that a friend of his, who is a Paulist father of the Roman Catholic church, recently told him that if the Roman Catholic church had the organization that we have, they would capture the world. Dr. Maveety closed his forcible address by urging that we make good our splendid organization by realizing what we mean in a truly existent holy catholic church.

Dr. F. Mason North, corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions, and the author of the hymn that had preceded his address, spoke upon "Our Overseas Work." Dr. North referred to the fact that we have placed fourteen bishops in the eastern hemisphere since the last general conference. He said that the conferences there are organized just as well as our conferences are organized in America. He showed that the work over there has the rural problem and all that taxes the resources of the home mission board in America. He praised the work of the board of education in America but he said we are doing that same kind of work in foreign countries. The work among Negroes at home is also paralleled in the work among Negroes in foreign lands. Not one phase of work done by our benevolent boards at home exists that is not paralleled by great possibilities for achievement in these foreign fields. Our vision discloses great possibilities in Spain, in Italy and in Central Europe. Speaking of Russia, he said, "No one understands Russia." It is in the hands of a group of men some of them sincere and others of them bitter in their hate of what stands for Christianity and these holding power. The speaker carried his hearers into Africa, India, China, etc., and said there is now such an opportunity for a great evangelistic movement as has never been before. With all the disorder that exists in the countries of the earth he said that underlying it all we can detect everywhere the desire for democracy and the deeper cry of the heart for God. Recognizing all this with our splendid organization, with our men in the colleges ready to go to these fields, with fields ripe for the harvest, shall we retreat now? Shall we cease now to carry the gospel of these needs? God forbid, cried the speaker. He closed with a powerful appeal to the people to reconsecrate themselves with that noble self-denial which has characterized the church in all ages to that task which will carry relief to people everywhere who need God.

The hymn, The Kingdom is Coming, was sung and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Maveety.

POETRY

THE HOSTS OF APRIL.

Behold young April's banners
Upon the boughs of Spring;
In every glade and marsh and
Green flags are shimmering.
The great host armies of the Lord
Thunder, and stir and sing!

In yellow, bright battalions
The hosts of April come;
There is a sounding chorus,
The faint tap of a drum,
And in the wood's deep byrnms
A strange delirium.

Now every shy earth creature
Advances in the dawn,
For the black ranks of Winter
Have suddenly withdrawn;
A glory marches through the world
And camps upon my lawn.

I hear the pipers playing
Upon their golden flutes;
Hark to the martial music
Of all the forest lutes!
A myriad cymbals crash and beat,
And the glad world salutes.

Behind the flowery victors
Close to their royal train,
I see another army
Sweep over hill and plain—
It is a purple regiment
With slanting swords of rain.

O passionate invasion,
Desired, long-dreamed-of time!
Rush through our hearts with rapture
Erase Life's dust and grime;
For now the heavens have bent to earth
In the year's silver prime.

There never moved an army
With such a lordly swing;
The waiting earth is jubilant
At such sweet conquering.
Victoriously comes cancer more
The valiant hosts of Spring!
—Charles Hanson Towne.

"EXCUSE IT, PLEASE."

Why is it when I'm drifting deep
Into a sound, untroubled sleep,
An uncontrollable desire
Impels some lady on the wire
To call me from my bed of ease,
And coolly say, "Excuse it, please?"

How does she know this weary head
Is laid to rest in yonder bed;
How does she know this tired heart
Is pining from the world apart;
That sleep has loosed these gnarled knees,
Who tells this cruel "Excuse it, please?"

Ah! bitter grows the world of late,
Unkinder, too, a callous fate,
Conspiring as it does to wrest
Nepenthe from this troubled breast,
And then to mock with words, like these—
Ironic words, "Excuse it, please."

And yet, it's not a voice of guile,
The tone is as a spoken smile,
A girlish gladness seems to thrill
Her message with a great good will.
How fortunate she never sees
This broken man nor hears his wheeze:
"I certainly won't excuse it, please."
—J. P. McEvoy, in Chicago Tribune.

FRENCH SEIZED ADDITIONAL COAL MINES AND COKE OVENS

One of the Coke Ovens Seized Has Nearly 100,000 Tons of Coke on Hand—German Workmen Went Out on Strike When the French Took Possession—French Assert That Foreign Labor May be Imported for the Purpose of Loading Cars at the Pitheads of Mines and at the Coke Ovens.

Duesseldorf, April 8 (By the A. P.).—The French authorities announced today that seven additional coal mines and coke ovens had been seized by the commission of control representatives, who in each instance of seizure were accompanied by a military escort.

The foregoing seizures bring the total number of coal mines and coke ovens now in the hands of the French to eighteen. The only case of sabotage in the newly confiscated mines was at Boltrop, where some of the machinery was smashed and rendered useless. Three of the directors of the mine were arrested and put in jail.

One of the coke ovens seized, the Koenig Ludwig, in Recklinghausen, has nearly 100,000 tons of cooke on hand, stored or stocked in nearby fields. The French authorities estimate there are now seven hundred German and Polish workmen at present engaged in loading coal and coke at the various places. In addition there also are seven hundred French and Belgian workmen doing similar work.

Immediately the French took possession of the mines and coke ovens today, the German workmen went out on strike.

According to the French authorities the problem now confronting the armies of occupation is in making good their pledges by loading coal and coke into freight cars, which has been hindered by the German workmen refusing to do this work. The railroad situation in the Ruhr, the French say, daily is improving, and river transportation has been organied to such an extent that the French contend they can float up the Rhine all the fuel which can be brought to the banks of the waterway. They add that foreign labor may be imported for the purpose of loading the cars at the pitheads of mines and at the coke ovens.

FRENCH TO OCCUPY RUHR UNTIL GERMANY PAYS

Paris, April 8.—(By the A. P.)—Five ministers of the Poincare cabinet journeyed to distant parts of France today, and standing beneath monuments dedicated to the war dead and unveiled in their presence, solemnly informed the thousands of French citizens that "the Ruhr will be evacuated only when Germany has fulfilled her reparation obligations."

The War Cross was affixed to the coat of arms of various cities which gallantly withstood the German occupation for four years.

The statement respecting the Ruhr is interpreted generally, and in political circles is said to be intended, as the official reply to the successful made in certain quarters opposed to the present policy in the Ruhr that M. Loucheur's visit to England, where he met Premier Millerand and Premier Poincare was the beginning of a change in the French attitude and that the French government was wavering and was willing now to talk with Germany.

Since M. Loucheur's return from London many of the opposition newspapers have been attacking M. Poincare, charging that the premier had sent a former minister of the Briand cabinet as a special plenipotentiary to Great Britain and that Poincare was preparing to back water.

M. Loucheur himself is quoted in the Petit Journal, of which he is the owner, as saying immediately after he emerged from his conference with M. Poincare, yesterday: "I went to England without any official mission from the government, but I had informed the premier before my departure of my intention to meet certain members of the British government. I have seen them and am convinced that an accord, which will not sacrifice in the least the legitimate interests of France and her allies concerning reparation, or security, is possible.

"Such is the personal impression which I have just conveyed to M. Poincare. Everyone to whom I spoke in England appeared to understand that France and Belgium are resolved to carry on to the bitter end the undertaking which began January 11 and I hope I have succeeded in dissipating certain suspicions which existed in Great Britain concerning the aim of France and its government."

Despite denials by the government and M. Loucheur that he went to London in any other than a private capacity, a semi-official communique issued this evening concerning the visit of Premier Theunis of Belgium and M. Jaspar, the Belgian foreign minister, to Paris next Friday or Saturday for a conference with M. Poincare on the Ruhr situation, reads: "It is quite probable that M. Loucheur will be invited by M. Poincare to attend the conference and explain verbally to the Belgian ministers the impressions which he gathered in England in the course of his conversations with British statesmen—impressions of which the Belgian government is already cognizant in speeding essential parts through a French official communication."

FUNERAL OF WORKMEN KILLED BY THE FRENCH

Essen, April 8.—(By the A. P.)—The directors of the Krupp works announced that the funeral of the thirteen workmen killed by the French troops Saturday a week ago, would take place on the 11th. Memorial services for the victims will be conducted tomorrow at a commemoration meeting the Krupp directors and managers of the workers' councils of the works.

It has been said that the works will be closed throughout the entire day of the funeral. Only two thousand workmen will march in the procession. They will represent all grades of the trades and also the religious unions of the fifty-four thousand workmen employed by the Krupps. Provision has been made for other workmen, who will wear special brassards as an identifying mark, to act as police and keep order during the funeral.

End of [illegible]' Strike in Wales.

Cardiff, Wales, April 8 by the A. P.).—The striking miners in the Rhondda coal fields held a meeting late last night and settled their differences. Work therefore will be resumed in the mines, which employ about 56,000 men, tomorrow.

PRINCESS YOLANDA TO WED COUNT DI BERGOLO TODAY

Rome, April 8.—(By the A. P.)—Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, will be married tomorrow to Count Calvi Di Bergolo with civil and religious ceremonies impressive in their royal grandeur. The civil marriage will occur at 10.30 o'clock in the morning in the Grand Hall of the Quirinal palace, where the royal cortege will again assemble with the added pom pand dignity of a religious ceremonial in this richly decorated chapel. More than 700 persons representative of the Roman, royal, socitl and official world have been invited to the ceremonies.

Princess Yolanda is young, beautiful and popular and will be twenty-two years old on June 1 next. She was the first member of the house of Savoy born in Rome in the former apostolic palace of the Quirinal.

The young princess is very much like her mother in appearance and temperament. She is of remarkable intelligence and a passionate sportswoman, especially fond of riding. She is extremely daring and manages the most spirited horses with skill.

When last year some fishermen were in danger off the beach of San Rossore, the royal hunting lodge near Pisa, Princess Yolanda, wanted to leap into the sea and swim to the drowning men. The king had no little difficulty in preventing it and make her understand that she would go to certain death.

Mrs. Princess, however, was the first to enter the sea, dressed as she was, and with the water to her shoulders, running the risk of being swept away by the heavy waves, succeeded in throwing to the fishermen the rope which saved their lives.

Half dead, they set foot on shore again, at a loss how to express their gratitude. They did not know the princess and gave the "beautiful young girl," as they called her, everything they possessed—a basket of fish. She was delighted, saying it was the first thing she had really earned in her life and insisted upon cooking some of the fish herself.

Count Calvi Di Bergolo is fourteen years older than his royal bride. He was born March 15, 1887 at The Piraeus while his father was in Greece on diplomatic service.

PRISONER ESCAPED DURING A BATTLE

Dublin, April 8 (By the A. P.).—While a party of republicans in Glenoar, South Kerry, were about to execute a railroad workman named Cornelius Hannafin, who had been kidnapped, tried and condemned, they were surprised by Free State troops. A fight ensued, during which the condemned man was forgotten and escaped. The republicans barricaded themselves in two houses, which were stormed by the Free State forces and captured. The republicans last five men killed and two made prisoner.

A Free Scout doing duty in Fintown, West Donegal, was shot dead today by republicans. Carrick castle, in Donegal, owned by the late Henry Mussmare, has been burned by republicans.

The Free Staters at Dumboe castle hold a number of republicans under sentence of death and an General Sweeny recently announced that their safety was conditional upon the county remaining peaceful, further executions are expected to take place.

FREE STATERS ARE SUBDUING IRISH REBELS

Dublin, April 8.—By the A. P.)—The steady trend of the Free State towards conditions of comparative peace and order is the subject of general comment. Isolated outrages continue to be reported and there is still much to be accomplished before the normal economic life of the country is restored, but optimism has taken the place of despair and there are most encouraging signs that the end of the republican campaign against the government is in sight.

Courts have been established and are administering the law with little difficulty, while effective machinery to enforce their judgments is functioning in areas which quite recently were the scene of violence and disorder. Thus the government is receiving a much greater proportion of its dues in the shape of taxes than formerly.

With respect to railways there is today no main line, and hardly any branch line, which is not running its normal train service.

THREATENED TO GIVE JEWS A "BLOOD BATH"

Vienna, April 8 (By the A. P.).—The anti-Semitic Hakenkreuzler organization (Swastika) in a call for a military manouvre issued Saturday threatened the Jews that if there was any interference on the part of the socialists with their military exercises it would demand the expulsion of the entire Jewish population to Palestine.

If the organization was unable to obtain the expulsion of the Jews, it warned that it would make the Jews pass through "a blood bath." Copies of the warning were distributed under the caption "call to the colors."

The recent action of the allied embassies in demanding that the government dissolve the Hakenkreuzler apparently is occasioning no alarm in the organization.

CLAIMS OF AMERICANS AGAINST GERMANY

Washington, April 8.—Claims of American citizens against Germany and Germans totalling $1,187,736,867 will be presented to the mixed claims commission, Robertt C. Morris, the American agent, announced today. Notice that 12,319 claims had been filed with him was given the commission in conformity with the rules of that body which required the information, "within six months after October 9, 1922."

The total sum presented to the commission will not be considered as binding on either party, Mr. Morris said, as investigation of individual cases may result in a material increase or decrease of the relief sought.

Private Club in New York Raided

Names of Dozens of Men and Women in Evening Dress Were Taken by hte Officers.

New York, April 8.—Staid and respectable Fifth avenue was given a thrill when seven prohibition agents armed with search warrants raided a private club in the exclusive East Thirty-eighth street district today. Names of dozens of men and women in evening dress were taken by the officers, who arrested three club employes.

Twenty cases of liquor, said by the agents to have come from a warehouse raided yesterday, and $2,000,000 in liquors seized were taken to prohibition headquarters as evidence.

An iron door barred entrance to the club and admission was to members only. An enterprising dry agent obtained a membership card, and after inspecting the place ostensibly as a guest, left. He returned with a search warrant and his fellow officers.

The building, a five story affair, is at 9 East Thirty-eighth street, and until a few months ago was headquarters of the Aero club. Three floors had been converted into private dining rooms, it was said. Diners were said to have abandoned scores of flasks when the raiders arrived.

At the same time officers of the narcotic squad raided a fashionable apartment house two blocks away, where a quantity of opium and several complete smoking layouts were said to have been found. Miss Marion Campbell was arrested and held in $500 bail, charged with possession of opium, while names of two fashionably dressed women and three men were taken by the police.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY BACK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, April 8.—President and Mrs. Harding returned to Washington today after a two weeks' vacation. The presidential party arrived shortly after noon and went directly to the White House.

The trip from Augusta, Ga., where the presidential party spent last week, was made without incident. Mrs. Harding, it was said, was only slightly fatigued by the sixteen-hour train ride, indicating the gain in strength resulting from the five weeks spent in the south. The improvement in her health was further shown by the fact that she walked to the automobile at the station entrance, whereas on starting the trip the automobile was driven into the railroad yards directly to the steps of the president's private car.

Mr. Harding soon after luncheon visited his office and spent two hours there, looking over accumulated mail and arranging to resume work in earnest tomorrow morning.

A number of matters of importance will receive the attention of the chief executive during the coming weeks and the president is described as most anxious to get as many as possible if not all of them out of the way before the middle of June, the time tentatively selected for the beginning of the proposed western trip.

The president has not as yet finally decided on the western trip, having deferred his decision until after the vacation trip on account of Mrs. Harding's health. While Mrs. Harding stood the southern trip exceedingly well and was in fact greatly benefited by it, it is recognized that such a tour as that proposed to the Pacific coast, and possibly to Alaska, would be far more wearing.

Among the matters expected to receive Mr. Harding's attention within the next week or two are the sugar price situation, in which the tariff commission is expected to submit a preliminary report soon, and the merchant marine problem. With respect to the latter, it had been expected that the shipping board would be able to present to the executive by the middle of the month the alternative proposals for disposition of the government fleet. The preparation of some of the detailed information found desirable to place in the president's hands has, however, been found to require more time than had been expected, and so that problem will not receive immediate attention except in a preliminary way.

Several appointments are soon to be announced, including a member of each of the three groups composing the railroad labor board, several of the additional federal judges created by congress, and a member of the federal reserve board to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Milo D. Campbell.

Another matter that will engage the attention of the president, though to what extent is not as yet known, is the political situation, including various sidelights such as the proposal advanced by the executive that the United States accept conditional membership in the international court of justice.

CONVOCATION OF "RED" CHURCH TO MEET IN MOSCOW

London, April 8.—A Riga despatch to the Times says the convocation of the "Red" church will meet at Moscow April 15 for the purpose, among other things, of unfrocking the Most Rev. Dr. Tikhon, former patriarch of all Russia and metropolitan of Moscow, who is now in prison. The Riga newspapers announce that the soviet supreme church administration has invited the patriarchs of Constantinople, Alexandria, Jerusalem and Antioch and also the Serbian metropolitan, to send representatives. It is not known whether they have replied.

The convocation, the correspondent adds, will consist largely of ambitious priests who have joined in the soviet's attacks on their former bishops; many of these priests have been made bishops and archbishops. The supreme church administration consists of communists, who for party reasons have not yet openly disavowed religion and of sympathizers who have declared loyalty to the soviet government.

It is understood that after Dr. Tikhon is unfrocked he will be placed on trial as an ordinary layman under his lay name Basil Ivanovitch Baliavin.

$4,865,767 Deficit By New Haven Road

Better Showing Than Was Made the Previous Year, When the Deficit Was $14,121,623.

New York, April 8.—Confidence that the management of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company could produce better results with more freedom from legislative and regulatory restrains is expressed by E. J. Pearson, president, in the company's annual report for 1922. The company reports a deficit of $4,865,767 for the year, as compared with a deficit the previous year of $14,121,623.

The principal causes for the failure to show profit are cited by Mr. Pearson as: Ten per cent. decrease in freight rates ordered by Interstate commerce commission January 1, 1922 and July 1, 1922; increase in cost of fuel because of coal strike; increased operating expenses due to shopmen's strike, and congestion of traffic following settlement of the coal strike, aggravated by unusually severe weather.

"But for these causes," Mr. Pearson states to stockholders, "it seems certain that your company would have earned a small surplus above all charges."

Competition of motor trucks during favorable weather is blamed also by Mr. Pearson for a lessening of the company's revenues. He urges that motor trucks be compelled to operate on regular schedule in bad weather as well as in good weather and that they be forced to pay for the use of the highways.

MINERS' AND SHOPMEN'S STRIKES COSTLY TO D. & H.

New York, April 8.—Extraordinarily heavy expenses incidental to the miners and shopmen's strikes are blamed by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, for the relatively poor earnings last year, in the annual report of the road for 1922, which discloses a deficit of $476,000 as against a net profit of $4,937,452 the previous year.

Because of the mining strike, Mr. Loree points out, freight receipts from coal for the year were $9,589,437 less than in 1921.

Concluding the report Mr. Loree states: The unmistakable truth is that the system of political control of railway rates, services, and operations, as exemplified in the federal acts of 1887, 1906, 1910 and 1920 is on trial. Particularly the experimentation provided for in the transportation act of 1920, must be the subject of close scrutiny and those elements which are found not to be conducive to the general welfare must be promptly rejected other wise disaster far wider than the industry directly affected cannot be long delayed."

WEEKLY FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

New York, April 8.—Sharp reactions in the stock and cotton markets followed by brisk rallies, cessation of the recently reactionary trend in bond prices, easier money rates and further improvement in the business and industrial situation were the principal developments of this week's markets.

The stock market, having forfeited two-thirds of its year's gain since the middle of March, started upward again in response to the bullish statements on business and credit conditions made by Secretaries Mellon and Hoover and in the weekly summary of the federal reserve board. Professional operators sponsored the recovery in prices, public buying being of a cautionary and relatively light character.

Record-breaking production of automobiles and pig iron and unprecedented railroad traffic for this season of the year were reported during the week. Additional wage advances were announced in the textile industry but the rising tendency of prices in the commodity markets appears to have been momentarily checked except in the case of sugar, which was marked up on the announcement that total production from the first 16 Cuban centrals to be closed was well under previous estimates.

TURKISH GOV'T CONSENTS TO RENEW PEACE CONFERENCE

In Note That Accepts the Invitation With Reservations on Certain of the Allied Proposals the Turks Propose That the Lausanne Conference Reassemble April 23—Note is Couched in a Friendly Spirit.

Constantinople, April 8.—(By The A. P.)—The reply of the Turkish government to the invitation of the allies for Turkey to attend the sessions of the Near East peace conference to be resumed shortly at Lausanne reached Constantinople today from Angora and will be immediately conveyed to the representative of the allies here.

The note declared the Turkish counter-proposals contain no substantial modifications of the territorial and other clauses of the draft treaty which the powers cannot equitably accept. It suggests certain reservations on economic and financial questions and on the capitulations clauses of the treaty.

With regard to the economic clauses of the draft treaty the note expresses fear that the action of the allies in going back on their previous acceptance of a postponement of discussion of matters which are legitimate subjects for international discussion may make difficulty and delay the signing of a treaty.

Generally, however, the note is couched in a friendly spirit and reiterated the desire of the allied powers for the success of the Lausanne conference.

London, April 8.—A Reuter despatch from Constantinople says the Turkish reply to the allied note proposes that the Lausanne conference reassemble April 23.

TEN LIVES LOST WITH SHIP IN VINEYARD SOUND

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 8.—At least ten lives were lost when the steam lighter John Dwight mysteriously sank off Cuttyhunk, in Vineyard Sound last Friday, according to the belief of fishermen here today. Men who knew Captain John F. King, of New York, and Captain Malcolm Carmichael, of Jersey City, both of whom were believed to have been on board the John Dwight on her last trip, viewed the bodies of the eight men recovered from the waters of the sound yesterday and failed to recognize either man.

Captain King left his home in Brooklyn last Tuesday with his son, Harry, it became known here, but it could not be positively learned whether either or both were on board. Captain Carmichael, whose home is believed to be in Jersey City was said to have shipped aboard the John Dwight as a seaman, but it was thought that authority on board was shared between the two captains.

Captain Lewis N. Blix, owner of the John Dwight in a telephone conversation with authorities here from his home in Brooklyn, said that he had given up hope that any of the officers or the crew are alive but stated that he did not understand why nothing has been heard of "the large boat" carried by the Dwight. The Dwight carried two boats. The smaller one was found yesterday with the body of a drowned seaman lying face down. Captain Blix also stated that he did not know how many men the vessel carried, explaining that he left all details of shipping a crew to the captain.

A flurry of excitement resulted today when it was reported that three men had reached Edgartown from No Man's Land, a small island south of Martha's Vineyard. At first it was supposed that the men were survivors of the John Dwight's crew, but it was later learned that they had come from some other vessel anchored near No Man's Land with a piece of machinery to be repaired.

Rumors were still current that the Joh Dwight had been sunk in a rum-runner's battle, and the appearance of the three mysterious strangers who refused to talk of their business other than of their immediate mission added color to the tales. The statement of the medical examiner, however, that no traces of violence had been found on any of the bodies of the eight known victims was considered as rendering the tales of battle improbable.

The cause of the sinking of the vessel and the nature of her cargo was still a question of conjecture tonight but most of the fishermen of the island held to the theory that the John Dwight was rammed by a large steamer as she lay anchored without lights in Vineyard Sound. The fact that barrels of ale were floating in the water with the bodies of the seamen led to the belief that such was her cargo.

NEW LONDON MAN WAS COMMENDED FOR BRAVERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 8.—Emil Carlson this city, a member of the crew of the submarine S-11, was one of five members of the crew of the undersea craft to receive commendation for unusual bravery by the navy department at Washington Saturday afternoon. The other members of the submarine to be commended were Helo A. La Chappell of Newport, R. I., George A. Sullivan of Camden, N. J., Henry Osgood of Luce Lake, Me., and Donald McDonald of Chicago.

The S-11 was stationed at the New London submarine base until a few weeks ago.

The act which brought commendation to the crew of the S-11 occurred on the night of Feb. 16th off Provincetown. A member of the crew, George C. Winn, an engine room worker, was threatened with pneumonia and medical attention was mandatory to save his life. A very heavy sea was running and there was ice in large quantities in the water, making the passage from the undersea to the shore extremely dangerous. The five men made the trip in a dory, returning with a physician. Medical attention was given Winn and he recovered.

TO CUT THE SURTAX RATES ON INCOMES

Washington, April 8.—Possible efforts by the treasury to have congress cut the surtax rates on incomes further were forecast tonight in a formal statement by Secretary Mellon, who asserted that March collections of income and profits taxes, aggregating $463,000,000, had fully justified his prediction that downward revision would have the effect of actually increasing rather than decreasing the federal revenue.

Coupled with this statement was a declaration by Mr. Mellon that the March collections which were under the lower rates of the new law or "under such revision as has been accomplished," provided a practical answer to the tax problem and "shows clearly what course further revision should take." He mentioned that, although higher rates were in effect in March, 1923, the collections at that time were $70,000,000 less than in the same month this year, a circumstance which he regarded as proof that the downward revision had acted as a stimulant to business. In addition to the reduction in the surtax rates, Mr. Mellon recalled that there had been many other liberalizing provisions included in the present law as compared to the previous act. Yet, he said, in the face of allowances for increased exemptions for dependents, limitations of the tax on capital gains and other simplifying provisions, there has been an increase over the corresponding period a year ago. All of this, he added, makes a significant commentary on the revision urged by the treasury.

"There is no point in maintaining high rates of taxation which do not produce revenue," the secretary continued, "and there is no doubt that the high income tax rates which are still in effect are gradually defeating their own purpose. They create artificial conditions that tend to hamper business and industry and reduce the volume of income subject to taxation."

TRAIL EXPLORERS WERE N LOST IN THE EVERGLADES

Miami, Fla., April 8.—Twenty-four Tamiami trail explorers, reported lost in the Everglades in their attempt to push the first motor party across the state over the newly laid and still uncompleter highway, tonight were traveling a rocky road, perhaps 65 miles west of Miami, safe and sound despite numerous hardships.

Word came today that the party consisting of 19 men and five women, who had not been heard from for two days, left Seminole City last Saturday morning with the intention of reaching Miami some time Sunday afternoon or night. Traversing a much rougher route than they had anticipated and badly shaken up, the party halted Friday night at Seminole City and rested. In the meantime no word having been sent forth, friends became alarmed and expressed fears for the safety of the voyagers.

A telegram this afternoon to the Miami Herald said that the worst was thought to be over and the journey would be completed in due time. Late tonight, however, the party had failed to appear and Miami men waiting to send for the cars to meet them expressed the opinion that a stretch of rough road 40 or 50 miles out would force them to abandon their cars and walk a distance of six miles to a camp where a look out is being kept for them. Cars will leave here tomorrow morning to go to the camp, and if the party has not arrived then, the Miami men will walk over the six miles stretch where it is believed they will sight the west coasters.

FIRST ANNUAL CONGRESS OF CUBAN WOMEN

Havana, April 8.—The first annual congress of Cuban women ended last night. During its four day session the congress discussed several topics of vital interest to women and the nation. Chief of the subjects debated was the recommendation that the laws be revised so that the fathers of illegitimate children might be made to pay for their upkeep in proportion to their income, thus removing the entire burden from the shoulders of the unfortunate mothers.

The national federation of women's clubs has grown to large proportions, and as an outcome of its first congress it is expected to be put on a plane with the federations in the United States and other countries.

GREEKS EXPEL BULGARS FROM WESTERN THRACE

Paris, April 8.—(By The A. P.)—The Bulgarian legation today issued a note claiming that the Greek army is continuing at the point of the bayonet to expatriate the Bulgarian population from western Thrace.

Voluminous records are given tending to show that village after village has been looted, the thefts including even golden vessels from the altars of churches. It is asserted that the movement is part of a systematic campaign which has been in progress since February, following the departure from the Near East conference at Lausanne of the Bulgarian mission after its failure to get the allies to give Bulgaria a seaport on the Aegean Sea, together with a strip of territory to the Bulgarian frontier.

Mr. Kelly could not state whether the machine passed over the boy's body or not.

Lester Scott testified that the automobile stopped about one hundred feet from where the body of the child lay in the road.

Coroner Bill announced that he would hold the inquest open for a few more days in order to give Mr. Kelley time to secure more witnesses.

Lathrop a member of the town school committee, in which he stated that having read of the recent criticism of the present administration at Windham High school, he wishes to express his endorsement of the methods practiced there by Principal Case and by the teachers.

Mr. Gavigan is specializing in the study of educational problems and he praises the high marking standards at the school in that it impresses upon the mind the necessity for habits of exactness. He believes that the methods prevailing at the Windham high school are very satisfactory in a preparatory course. Although rather strenuous at times in the opinion of some students, yet, when one enters a college, he discovers that he has received a wonderful training in buffaloing the wear and tear of severe college examinations. Mr. Gavigan writes that it is incumbent upon him to speak for many fellow graduates who feel that they owe much of their success in college to Principal Case's watchful and efficient administration. The letter concludes as follows: "The people of Willimantic is indeed fortunate in having such a man at the head of their school system. The pupils and parents alike will realize this fact along with a sense of the righteousness of a strict marking standard (as criticised about Mr. Simpson, history teacher) when they enter colleges and have to compete with the highest ten per cent. of the best preparatory schools in New England."

Bear traders, sensing a weak technical position in the Barnsdall Oil issues, started an attack on these shares and succeeded in touching off a number of stop-loss orders with the result that the A stock dropped more than 6 points and the B, 2 buying support was forthcoming, however.

Approximately half of the extreme losses being recovered before the close. American Agricultural Chemical preferred and Iron Products were simply depressed but each shower fair recuperative powers.

Such recent favorites as Baldwin and American Locomotives, Studebaker, American Woolen, American Smelting and Mack Truck closed fractionally above last night's levels. Sinclair, the Pan-American issues, Producers & Refiners, Texas Company, Corn Products and Reynolds Tobacco yielded slightly.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

ACADEMY TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME TO M'KNIGHT'S ALL-COLLEGIANS

Practically every candidate for the Academy baseball team was tried out Saturday afternoon in the practice game against Bill McKnight's All-Collegians but no combination was strong enough to stop the Collegians who won, 15 to 5. Some of the candidates promised well while others will have to undergo a stiff season of training. The pitching material looks better than last year and will improve as the season progresses. The Collegians were a hard hitting crew and every pitcher sent in by Coach McKay suffered badly.

Fellows, a southpaw started the game, and performed fairly well being relieved in the third by Ellie Seigal. Ellie is small of stature but has exceptionally good form and wide breaking curves which were deceptive. Healy was the next man to go into the box for the Academy and last one inning. Healy was a little wild due largely to a sore arm from pitching hard on Friday. Steinman finished the game and showed well having good speed and a very good control.

The infield played good ball during the game and several were given a trial at the various positions. As first base Sullivan played well as did "Stretch" Young, who finished out the last half of the game. McGowan showed up well at second, accepted three hard chances without an error. Strouse and Tombari played the short field. Strouse having the edge due to his hitting. Phil McNamara and Haslam tried out at third both showing up very creditably. In the outfield Weis starred in left while Dinty Kilroy in center field had a rocky afternoon. Spaulding was given a try in the outfield but had little to do. Cohen, Hinricks and Steinman alternated in right but had no opportunity to display their ability.

Butch Mileski started the game behind the bat and for the first looked good both as a back stop and as a hitter but in the second inning he split his finger on a foul tip and retired from the game. Three stitches were taken in his hand and it will be several weeks before he will be able to play again. Hollander took up the catching duties and performed well. McGibney and Corcoran were given try outs behind the bat.

The stars for the Collegians were McKnight, Mullen and Ringland. McKnight played a fast game at second and then finished in the box. McKnight was the Ty Cobb of the game stealing bases at will being credited with four during the game. Mullen was the heavy hitter poling out a triple and hitting another to the center field fence that Dinty Kilroy got after a hard run. Ringland's fielding game was perfect. Bill accepted six chances without the assistance of an error. Bennett also featured with the stick collecting two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate. The Collegians played an errorless game with the exception of Murphy in right who dropped the only ball that came to him.

George Madden, manager of the Nuggets, umpired. George had a set of rules all his own which he insisted on enforcing. The score:

NATIONAL AMATEURS TO BOX AT BOSTON TODAY

Boston, April 8.—A new list of national amateur boxing champions will be compiled during the fifteen bouts of bouts scheduled for Monday and Tuesday here. Winners of titles in the 1922 events have failed to enter this year and but four men who advanced as far as the semi-finals will seek to better their standings.

A record entry of 180 has been received, representing twenty-five states and two Canadian provinces. The first team is expected to enter the ring at five o'clock tomorrow afternoon in order that repetition of fighting until 5 o'clock in the morning as last year may be avoided. Under the National A. A. U. rules the number of contestants in each class must be reduced to four on the opening night.

Amateur Baseball.

The St. Patrick's school baseball team defeated the Laurel Hill team Saturday by a score of 17 to 11. Shorty Hamal featured with a triple.

SITTON HAD BRILLIANT CAREER AFTER COLLEGE

The debut of college players in the fall ranks is usually attended by some interesting incident.

The immediate success of Frankie Frisch and George Sisler has offered many opportunities for the sport writers to grind out readable tales about these two stars.

It is doubtful, however, if any college player ever had as big a first year in professional circles as did Vedder Sitton, who years ago starred at Clemson College in good old South Carolina.

Graduating in June, he practically won two minor league pennants in his first year out and finished by joining the big show before the base ball curtain was rung down for the year.

In 1922 Vedder Sitton was the ace of the pitching staff of the Clemson baseball team.

The Clemson nine had a big season and Sitton's work stood out very prominently. He was a senior that year and immediately after commencement he joined the Jacksonville club, which was then a member of the South Atlantic league.

Jacksonville was in the midst of a hot race for the pennant. Vedder Sitton pitched them to the lead and they won the rag.

At the close of the Sally season, Sitton was sold to Nashville club of the Southern League. He reported at Nashville just in time to pitch the deciding game of the Southern pennant race.

He was facing the veteran, Theo Britzenstein of the New Orleans Pals, and upon the result of the game depended the leadership of the league. When the dust had cleared away the final score was: Nashville 1, New Orleans 0.

The Southern season was over then and Sitton went straight to the Cleveland Indians of the American league, where he broke in at once. He stayed in major league company for quite a while, doing some fine work for Cleveland.

From college to the major leagues in one summer, winning two minor league pennants in the interim, is sure traveling some.

AGE IS HANDICAP TO FIRPO'S DEVELOPMENT

If Luis Firpo had a left hand and were a few years younger he would be a fine heavyweight prospect. If he were younger the Argentine giant might acquire the left hand, but at 29 it is difficult to learn new tricks. Luis fights in the natural style of a wild man from the Pampas and it is not at all likely that he ever will learn anything about the science of the sport.

Firpo frequently has been called another Jim Jeffries. Strangely he is the first to be likened to Jeff. There have been scores of so-called "Fitzs, Corbetts" and other champions, but no one ever claimed to be a second Jeffries until Firpo made his appearance.

Firpo is likened to Jeffries because of his tremendous strength. He undoubtedly is the strongest boxer to appear since Jeffries was in his prime, not counting Jess Willard, who towers above both Jeff and Firpo. The latter's boosters point out that Luis is no more crude than Jeff was when the Californian made his first appearance in New York. They say that Firpo has just as good a chance to develop.

Firpo's admirers forget that Jeffries was not only a great deal younger than Firpo when he made his start, but he depended just as much on his left hand as Firpo does his right. Jeff learned the value of a good left hand when he was trained by Tommy Ryan for the fight with Fitzsimmons at Coney Island.

Jeffries won the title from Fitzsimmons by keeping his right hand chained to his side and depending altogether on his left. If the young Californian had opened up with his right hand the wily Fitz would have knocked him out in a hurry. Fitz could not trick the youngster into leaving an opening because no matter what happened Jeff would not lead with his right. Using a crouch to protect his body and his right to protect his chin, Jeff poked long left at Fitz until he had worn him down to a point where it was safe to unlimber the right for the finishing touches.

Firpo is exactly the opposite of Jeffries in fighting style. Luis depends altogether on his right. He not only counters with it but he leads with it, which all boxers know, is the worst possible tactical error that can be made.

In his affair with Brennan Firpo continually invited disaster by not only leading with his right but telegraphing the fact that he was going to lead with it. Everyone at the ringside could tell a full half second in advance when Luis was going to shoot his right, because he pulled it far back and tensed the muscles before letting it go.

EGG, VAN KEMPEN TEAM WINS ANNUAL PARIS SIX-DAY BICYCLE GRIND

Paris, April 8—Egg and Van Kempen, the Swiss-Dutch team, tonight were declared the winners in the annual six-day bicycle race which began last Monday night. They scored 1,131 points. Second place went to Chardon and Vandenhove and third to Perrin and Vandevelde.

Grenda and McNamara the "all-Australian" team, who were the favorites among the fifteen pairs at the start of the race, finished in seventh place, one lap behind the winners with 536 points. The victors in the race covered 2,826 kilometres (2,265.18 miles).

Wild riding marked the closing hours of the race in an attempt by the ultimate winners to regain a lap stolen by the Narcy brothers, forming a French team, who were considered extreme outsiders in the race, early Saturday morning. The Narcys, who had been reckoned a thousand to one shot to win, caught the field napping Saturday morning and secured their lap before the other riders awoke to their danger. Egg and Van Kempen finally managed tonight to catch up with the leaders and in their sprints brought three other teams along with them.

Two hours before the end of the race five teams were tied for first place in the number of laps ridden, but Egg and Van Kempen had a big lead on points.

Eddie Madden and Jake Magin, the "all-American" team were fined three hundred francs for pacing Egg and Van Kempen in the riding in which they won back the lost lap.

NO CHANGE IN BOWLING LEADERS

Milwaukee, Wis., April 8—(By the A. P.)—None of the leaders of the different events of the American bowling congress tournament was displaced during today's play.

E. Gustafson, of St. Paul, featured the singles when he totalled 696 on games of 212, 235 and 247. In his first game he had one split and the loss of two good hits prevented him from placing high in the individuals. J. Schmitz, a 16 year old Chicago boy, was the second high scorer of the day in the singles with a 685 total. The Windy City youngster rolled three splendid games of 224, 206 and 255.

Milwaukee bowlers again were high in the doubles when J. Unke and A. Kolb counted 1361. Kolb carried the team with 666, his partner shooting 695.

Fort Wayne and Minneapolis bowlers will wind up the play in the five man event tonight. Most of the interest will be centered on the Lincoln life insurance team of Fort Wayne, last year's winners in the team event.

SIKI IN TROUBLE WITH FRENCH COURTS AGAIN

Paris, April 8.—"Battling" Siki, the Senegalese pugilist, has been summoned to appear tomorrow morning before the investigating magistrate of the tribunal of the Seine to answer to a charge of aggravated assault with intent to cause bodily injury and also intoxication. The charge grows out of his fight several nights ago with a man in an all night Montmartre restaurant in which the man was knocked out by the negro.

Siki, who thought he had left all his troubles behind him in Ireland, where he lost his championship title on St. Patrick's day to Mike McTigue, now finds himself facing the most serious situation in his checkered career, as the man with whom he fought in the restaurant, a waiter, was severely beaten.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Jack Farry, veteran Pittsfield welterweight, has been dropped by Hugh Shannon from his stable of thumpers.

Ramon Gonzales, the Cuban shortstop whom Springfield sold to Toronto, wants to get a slice of the cash that figured in the deal.

Word comes from Springfield where Paddy O'Conner, the Hartford manager lives, that Paddy is still sweet on Joe Cosgrove.

Del Capes, Pittsfield outfielder, who was sold to Toronto, thinks he has a good chance of landing a regular berth on the team.

Eddie Taylor, whom Albany had at third base last year and expected to get back from the White Sox, has been shipped to Galveston.

Johnny Reisler, New York featherweight, who is now campaigning out on the far coast, is meeting with much success in his battles on the Golden Slopes.

Springfield has booked a half dozen exhibition games. Two are with Toronto, one with Newark, one with Jersey City and two with the Springfield college nine.

Down Bridgeport way they have it all figured out that the Brown Derbies will win the pennant this year. They have the Bramcos rated as a fourth place club.

"Red" Gillespie, the twirler obtained by Bridgeport from Cincinnati, is traveling a long way to report. "Red" lives in Oakland, Cal., and is on his way to Bridgeport as fast as a transcontinental flyer can speed.

Cowboy Padgett, the so-called thunderbolt from the prairie, makes his first appearance in an eastern ring April 23, when he meets Dave Shade at Boston. Shade has been ill for several weeks.

Tommy Noble, the English feather, has three quarrels on his hands during the month. Besides meeting Kid Kaplan at Meriden, April 16, he will box Jimmy Cooney tomorrow at Holyoke and some good boy at Providence Monday.

Panama Joe Gans has been matched to box Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, fifteen rounds tonight in the latter's home town. Panama shook off six streak of hard luck Saturday night by stopping Cowboy Williams in nine rounds.

Captain Charles Hollocher, shortstop of the Chicago Nationals, who is at his home suffering from after effects of an attack of influenza, stated it would be "a long time" before he felt strong enough to play ball.

As a warm-up preliminary to his hard training grind for his bout with Jess Willard on May 13 at the new Yankee stadium, Floyd Johnson will tackle Fred Fulton. The bout is scheduled for twelve rounds or less at the Arena of Boston on April 16.

Albert D. Powell, Hartford boy, who will endeavor to demonstrate to Manager Eddie Eayrs of the Worcester club that he has the stuff in his makeup to make good in the Eastern league, is one of the first to report for spring training.

Billy Gibson has arranged three matches in England for Gene Tunney and the same number for Frankie Jerome. The party was to sail at the end of the month but the death of Tunney's mother has delayed the trip.

"The Harvard system of football is simply teaching every individual all there is to know about playing his position," Percy Haughton, former Harvard coach and the founder of the system, told Columbia football candidates when he took charge of the team.

Walter Hoover of Duluth and Paul Costello of Philadelphia have been invited by the Worcester Chamber of Commerce to row their challenge race for the amateur championship of the United States at Lake Quinsigamond during the coming summer.

Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard is going to spend a week or two at Lakewood, N. J., before beginning training for a new campaign in the ring. Leonard says his stage work has not hurt him in the least and that he will be ready to begin action in about three weeks.

The advance guard of the Worcester club has arrived. Alex Lundstrom, the veteran twirler, is the only familiar face in the group so far. Among those who reported were Albert D. Powell, nephew of the Boosters' owner. Powell is an infielder and pitcher.

Harry Wills, the Black Panther, is ready to step against Floyd Johnson in case Jess Willard can't make the grade for the Milk Fund at the Yankee Stadium May 12. Wills' name which he injured ten days ago in the gym, has healed sufficiently to allow him to train.

The New York state solons have ordered Jess Willard to come east to train at least three weeks before the bout with Floyd Johnson and to pitch his camp in the big city. The New York body wants to see how Willard shapes up in the gym so as to make sure he will be fit for Johnson.

Johnny Kilbane, who is scheduled to box Eugene Criqui for the world's featherweight championship at the Polo Grounds in June, is planning to leave his home in Cleveland in the near future to come to New York to appear before the New York state athletic commission in applying for a license to box in New York state.

Roxbury, Mass., the boyhood home of John L. Sullivan, has produced another boxer who promises to become a headliner. Tom Kirby is the name of the new battler and he recently won both the 175-pound and heavyweight New England amateur championships on the same night, each by a knockout in one round.

Outfielder Elmer Miller won't play with the Boston Red Sox this season. He has signed with a club in the industrial league operated by manufacturing concerns of Racine, Kenosha and other cities of that section of Wisconsin. In other words Elmer Miller has become a baseball "outlaw."

Frankie Marlow, Johnny Wilson's new manager, says that he is swamped with offers. He has received a cablegram from London in which Major Wilson offers him $35,000 to take Wilson across the pounding main to box Roland Todd, recognized title holder of Great Britain. Todd recently defeated Ted (Kid) Lewis.

From New Orleans Marlow gets an offer from Dominick Tortorich, who wants Wilson to box Happy Littletown in the Crescent City. Jim Mullen has also wired an offer from Chicago whereby Wilson would battle Jock Malone, there the latter part of this month. Marlow says he expects to have Wilson's ban lifted by the New York commission by the end of the week.

When Davey Jones graduates from Brown university he will be a valuable addition to the Illinois A. C. swimming team. Just recently Jones set a new swimming collegiate record of 54.4-5 seconds for 100 yards, free style. Not so long ago this was very close to the world's record. At that, there aren't more than half a dozen swimmers in the world who can make the century in under 55 seconds.

Hawaii has developed another wonder swimmer in Miss Lily Bowmer, according to information from the islands. Miss Bowmer recently swam 100 yards in 1.03 3-5, which is within a fifth of a second of the world's record established by Miss Ethelde Bleibtrey two years ago. Aside from Miss Bleibtrey Miss Bowmer is the only woman swimmer to make the distance under 1.04.

Tom Bundy, former national doubles champion and husband of May Sutton Bundy, former woman's champion, evidently hasn't the comeback of his wife. After retiring from the courts for a number of years Mrs. Bundy came back and beat Molla Mallory when she first invaded this country, but Tom he took a severe trimming from young Howard Kinsey, out in California. The score was 6-2, 6-1. The veteran didn't have a chance.

THREE TRAINMEN HURT IN HARTFORD YARDS

Hartford, April 8.—Three trainmen were inured today when a locomotive blew up in the New Haven freight yards. L. L. Whitney, engineer, was scalded on the face; Walter McVety, fireman, was burned on the back, and Charles H. Burke, brakeman, was burne dabout the face.

If you would make a lasting impression on a woman try to suppress her.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Five Little Pigeons.

Well, it did rain that night and the pigeons were so that Old Man Weasel got home, although when I left off in the last story I thought he'd have to stay outdoors all night and maybe until the Fourth of July.

But Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit got home before Little Miss Mousie. Oh, my yes. They drove in the front gate just as the Old Grandfather clock in the hall struck thirteen o'clock.

"I'm glad we're home in time for supper," said the old gentleman rabbit, as he unlocked the kitchen door and hung up the key on a nail, "I'm as hungry as two bears and three wildcats."

Just then, Little Miss Mousie came through the front door, singing:

"Home again, home again,
Where it's nice and warm,
Home's the nicest place to be
When it's going to storm.

Let the lightning dash and dart,
Let the thunder roar:
What care we when safe at home,
And bolted is the door?"

"You are right, Little Miss Mousie," said dear Uncle Lucky, "but how do you know it's going to rain?"

"Because," answered the little mouse, "I heard Willie Wind say just now to the Weathercock: 'I'm going to bring up a big black rain cloud, so put on your mackintosh and rubbers.'"

"Ha, ha," laughed the old gentleman rabbit, "if the Weathercock puts on a mackintosh, I'll put on my year before bathing suit," and then funny old Uncle Lucky went into the sitting room to read the "Bunnyville Burgle" while Little Miss Mousie prepared supper. And I forgot to say that Little Jack Rabbit had gone upstairs to his bedroom to brush his hair, when, all of a sudden a tapping came on the window pane and who do you suppose was outside? Why, a little white pigeon—one of Uncle Lucky's pigeons you know.

"Let me in," she said, so the little rabbit opened the window.

"I've got something to tell you," she whispered as she perched herself on the foot of the little bunny's white bed.

"What is it?" asked the little rabbit, cocking up both of his long white ears and wiggling his little pink nose sideways.

"I have five little pigeons in the barn," she said and then flew out of the window, for she didn't want to leave them alone too long, you see.

"Oh, Uncle Lucky!" cried the little rabbit, hopping downstairs as fast as he could, "Mrs. Snow Pigeons has five little pigeons out in the barn."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, "we'll go out tomorrow morning and look at them," and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

LONG DELAYED ACTION.

Whatever may have been the attitude of the prohibition enforcement authorities regarding the fleet of rum vessels that has been bringing liquor to the three-mile limit for the purpose of selling it to smaller rum runners, recognition that it exists and that it must be dealt with more effectively is indicated by the reported move of Commissioner Haynes to have fast naval vessels, such as Eagle boats, transferred to the coast guard that they may be employed to prevent this smuggling.

With government vessels of various types tied up and rusting out from inactivity, while great quantities of liquor are being brought into the country because there is not an adequate number of fast vessels to interrupt the traffic, this move must be regarded as highly proper. It is far more sensible than to maintain that such a fleet of rum vessels doesn't exist, after captains of liners and others who have gone out to observe have made positive reports.

Vessels that are outside the three-mile limit cannot be molested by such craft any more than they can at the present time by such vessels as the enforcement officials have at their command. They will be required to deal with the speedy small craft that bring ashore the cargoes of the liquor carriers. A few coast guard vessels cannot do effective work in intercepting a large number of small craft, especially when they employ all kinds of decoy tactics to outwit the few policing vessels.

With a proper fleet of Eagle boats at its command the enforcement authorities can make the rum running business more hazardous and less profitable even though they may not be able to stop it all. At the present time it is little better than a joke.

FOOD AND DRUGS.

When the pure food and drug act was enacted it was needed to overcome the practice of adulteration and misbranding that worked a gross injustice upon the consumer. It was made necessary by some but not by all engaged in the package and canned good business, or by all handling drugs.

It has been two decades since the law went into effect but it is gratifying to note that the chemistry bureau of the department of agriculture finds, as the result of its enforcement of the provisions of the law, that that there is now very little evidence of intentional adulteration or misbranding.

That means that the purposes of the law are being accomplished, that the consumer has reason to believe that he is getting what he believes he is purchasing and that those engaged in the business have come to recognize the fact that the law must be respected or it will be necessary to meet the consequences.

It isn't to be supposed that the bureau finds none who are not trying to evade the law. Because the law exists reliance cannot be placed upon strict obedience. There are those who from time to time get the impression that their adulterated product is so excellent that it cannot be told from the real thing. The high degree of respect which the law gets, however, is due to the fact that attempts to violate it cannot be expected to succeed for any great length of time.

This works to the double advantage of the consumer. Not only is he assured that he is getting an article that is not injurious to the health but he also knows that he is not being robbed by having something palmed off onto him that isn't what is represented.

The excellent results being obtained are just what were desired. Enforcement of this law works out much better than it does regarding some others.

CAN THEY GET TOGETHER?

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." That golden advice is to all intents and purposes actuating the nations which are to resume deliberations at Lausanne for the purpose of accomplishing a treaty agreement with Turkey.

Even though it was impossible to come to a settlement on the previous conference, it doesn't necessarily mean that nothing could be gained by further discussion. There are points on which they can agree even though there are others which are not acceptable to the Turks, while certain alternatives for these provisions as set forth by the Turks do not meet with the views of the other nations.

The threats of trouble between the nations haven't made any progress, but there is a desire for a permanent understanding. The possibilities of a compromise are not to be overlooked. That Turkey will be any more disposed than on the previous occasion to listen to the allied demands is not assured, but with each side setting forth its views the way to an agreement through concessions by each side is not being disregarded when attempts are made to get around the table again.

Turkey realizes of course that it cannot expect to reach the place it aspires to without the cooperation of the other nations. The other countries realize that such a situation cannot be permitted to continue indefinitely. Delays have permitted some of them to develop as it is.

There are those who have the faculty of pulling away instead of getting together. Turkey has changed from a defeated to a victorious nation though the war with the Greeks did not retrieve, except in its own mind, the losses sustained in the World war. When, however, certain questions come up concerning capitulations, concessions, the rights of the subjects of other countries, Armenia and other matters closely connected therewith the endeavor must be to get together and it is to be hoped that the efforts in that direction may succeed.

BETTERING TRANSPORTATION.

When the American Railway association gives its approval to expenditures of over a billion and a half dollars for railway equipment and betterments it means new rolling stock, new motive power and new rails. It means a response by the roads to the demands for improved transportation even though the roads are still suffering from the handicaps under which they have been placed. An improved outlook, however, is the basis for their action. They are making additional provisions in anticipation of increased demands upon their facilities.

When in approving such an outlay the association asks shippers to cooperate with the roads by making full use of the space available and giving attention to speedy loading and unloading of cars, when it appeals for the shipping of ores and coal during the spring and summer months when such transportation is easier, when it seeks the assistance of the consumer by asking him to fill his coal bin during the warm months, it is an appeal that not only deserves to be heeded but which is based upon past experiences.

Giving whatever aid is possible to the railroads for the solution of their problems means an indirect contribution to self. Whatever is done to block the railroads simply means the greater transportation handicaps. Inasmuch as the roads are asking for the proper cooperation of shippers and individuals it is to be expected that they will be equally generous in their efforts to steadily improve the transportation situation. One of the big troubles experienced for several months, the weather, can be expected to be more considerate for the next six or seven months.

FLORIDA'S PEONAGE.

Some months ago there was much excitement over the peonage conditions that were revealed in Georgia. Apparently Florida didn't look into its own situation at the time for it is now declared by its governor that the system of peonage that prevails in his state must and shall be ended.

That is a commendable stand after the revelation that was made and it is to be sincerely hoped that he knows whereof he speaks and can accomplish what he sees to be necessary.

How long Florida would have continued unrebuked in its practice of peonage, even after the Georgia revelation, is uncertain but the indications are that it would have continued unrestrained but for the death of a well to do young man from North Dakota who was killed while serving as a sentence for a minor offense. The young man lacked money to pay his fare and jumped a train. He was convicted, fined $25 or in lieu thereof sentenced to 90 days in jail. Prisoners in Florida are farmed out and he was sent to a lumber camp to work out his 90 days and there he was beaten to death. Only through the forwarding of the money to pay his fine and getting the letter back unopened his family would never have known what happened to him.

It is an affair which reflects no credit upon Florida. It has served to bring to light a practice that is a gross injustice. Governor Hardee in insisting that such a system must end takes a commendable stand, whether he stands alone or can influence the accomplishment of the reform remains to be seen.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

How many trees are you planning to set out on Arbor day?

Not very many in this locality are likely to suffer from April sunburn.

It rests with the weatherman to get the right thought directed to the annual spring cleanup.

Every mild day arouses the ambitions of the home gardener to get busy with the rake and spade.

Even though 872 out of 1000 married women are happy that leaves a sufficient number to keep the divorce courts busy.

Sir Conan Doyle says mystic hand killed Lord Carnavon. Possibly the finger prints would provide sufficient proof for the skeptics.

Just when it was thought one pest had been eliminated there comes the announcement that the simplified spellers are going to break out again.

Efforts to have Eagle boats put into the service of blocking the rum runners only prompts the wonder that it wasn't undertaken a long time ago.

The man on the corner says: After all the trouble it is having getting settled spring ought to be impossible to make up for lost time when things are adjusted.

Probably the big police parade being planned for the New York anniversary celebration is for the purpose of acquainting the crooks with the entire force.

As long as this country has no use for the league of nations, and especially article ten, there can be little hope of favoring a league with an international navy.

"Now, perhaps, other communities will stop asking, 'What is the matter with Chicago?'" says the Chicago News. Not necessarily but there will be interest in seeing what Chicago's new administration does with its opportunity to prevent the asking of any such question.

THE STANDARD TIME LAW

How the Papers Regard It.

(New Haven Journal-Courier.)

If the state of Connecticut wants to declare for standard time, there can be no objection, leaving it to the citizens of the state to arrange their business in accordance with dominating factors in life, but to make a crime of the offence, or to place the departments, institutions and institutional beneficiaries of the state treasury, such as hospitals for example, under such preposterous restrictions is but another example of the mad practice which has overtaken modern life of the regulating every conceivable thing and every living person.

(Bridgeport Telegram.)

In the midst of the facetious discussion on the efforts of the "God's time" legislators, it was lightly suggested to them that they pass a law so that it would be a crime for a citizen's watch to be fast or slow. It proved to be a dangerous suggestion, even though sarcastically intended, for the "God's timers" have literally done that. They have approved a bill providing for a $100 fine for any persons, firm or institution changing the clocks, or for displaying them when they record anything but standard time, and not only that, but prevent courts and other institutions from rearranging their schedules so as to open or close earlier, if the arranging their schedules so as to open or close earlier, if the arrangement has anything to do with "daylight saving."

The house may be expected to thoroughly approve the "anti-daylight farce, which will come to its attention on Tuesday. There is hope, however, that the senate, with its more equitable representation, will check such foolish legislation and preserve for Connecticut the reputation for being 'the Land of Steady Habits."

(Hartford Times.)

The insistence of the rural sections and some legislators does not alter the fact that daylight saving is a fixture, dictated by forces outside the borders of the state as well as by the desire of a host of citizens within. In attempting to prevent clock changing, etc., the legislature does not prevent daylight saving. It merely increases the confusion. What the legislature ought to do is to recognize the inevitable and seek some way of securing harmony in time arrangements, or else keep itself severely out of the problem altogether and let people and communities settle it for themselves.

(Middletown Press.)

It is easily possible for the general assembly to do a very foolish thing in regard to daylight saving. As a matter of fact there is no call for action by the lawmakers, and if the proposed bill passes the house it is to be hoped the senate will kill it.

(New Britain Record.)

Never was a more foolish piece of legislation conceived. The public sentiment in the larger towns and cities of the state is overwhelmingly in favor of the observance of daylight saving during the summer months. * * * * This sort of action may be all right in soviet Russia, but not in Connecticut.

(Springfield Republican.)

The embattled agricultural representatives of Connecticut are not troubled by a little thing like the will of the majority. They know what they and their constituents want and mean to have it. A 19th century cynic said that the world was dominated by hard-headed men who knew exactly what they wanted and meant to get it. The aphorism has its measure of truth. But sometimes two men of equally strong will want the same thing or different groups of men pursue conflicting and mutually exclusive aims. An agricultural minority in Connecticut may be able to override the wishes of the majority. It may use its power. But by every consideration of courtesy and fair play the procedure of the Massachusetts remonstrants is to be preferred. One may humbly commend it to the Connecticut homes for imitation.

But will the bill, if enacted into law, prevent daylight saving? Not at all, if the people of any community desire to save daylight.

(Winsted Evening Citizen.)

The acme of absurdity and bigotry in the fight against daylight saving in Connecticut was attained when the house of representatives passed a bill providing severe penalties for the display of time-keeping devices not operating in conformity with the so-called standard time.

(Bridgeport Evening Post.)

Whether or not the legislature finally enacts the anti-wrist-watch bill which would penalize with a fine of $100 or ten days in jail anyone displaying "other than eastern standard time" or any kind of time keeping device in a public place—and it doesn't make a particle of difference whether or not the legislature does pass this unconstitutional measure—none the less daylight saving will go by default unless some definite action is taken to crystallize public sentiment.

There is where the civic clubs—the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Exchange organizations—may serve as a nucleus of public opinion. Let them test the sentiment of their own members and assume the initiative.

(Springfield Union.)

This proposition seems to be worthy of a place among legislative curios alongside the plan proposed in another New England legislature to require all residents of the state to devote at least eight hours a day to sleep. Summaries of the provisions of the Connecticut bill as given in press reports indicate that should the measure become law the arrest and imprisonment of an otherwise law-abiding citizen would be justified in the event that he owned a clock that failed "to keep good time" and consequently registered the hour in non-conformity to the statutory Eastern standard time.

(New Britain Herald.)

Were the New York Times to publish an editorial today under the heading "Backward Connecticut" there would be no irony in the title. It would mean that any state so blind as not to see the impairment of rights of the individual in a bill calling for a jail sentence in a case where a person publicly displayed a timepiece which did not register a certain time, is "backward" to such a degree that its ignorance partakes of that of the middle ages.

But let this be stated unequivocably: As long as the courts of this state render decisions in accordance with the spirit of the Constitution of this state and the Constitution of the United States, such a law will never be held constitutional.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Crowing of the Cocks.

Mr. Editor: Today a Sufferer has something to say about the Golden Rule and the crowing of the cocks. And advises us to drop the discussion of religion, and to taking up the barnyard question.

One point certainly ought to be decided is by which standard are the cocks to take their cue? Sandard or daylight saving? The cocks seem to proceed in utter disregard of legislative enactments, or even the suggestion of their neighbors—the people.

Is fact why do the cocks crow at all? This would be an interesting subject for Sufferer to investigate.

It is an old saying "When the old cock crows the young one learns, and the word is that this relates to men, for men sometimes crow. Perhaps men's crowing is quite as objectionable as that of the cocks and contributes as little information, and men—some men—might learn something from the cocks. We read of one man who was moved to repentance by hearing a cock crow. Isn't that suggestion that after all there may be a connection with religion here, through which a Sufferer might gain reflection and perhaps benefit.

The Psalmist used to meditate during the night season, and with profit to himself. Can't some one suggest a substitute for the cock?

Let us hear agan from Sufferer on these points.

AN OLD ROOSTER.

Norwich, April 6, 1923.

Suggests Instructions in First Aid.

Mr. Editor: As I was working all day I did not find time to read The Bulletin until this evening. I had just finished reading "A Sufferer's" letter to the editor when I was informed of the sad results of another live wire accident in the neighborhood. For a long time many of your readers have been amused or disgusted with letters to the editor in this hame tone on diffrent subjects.

I would like to see a few letters of instruction in first aid, how to rescue a person who has come in contact with a live wire, also on other practical and plausible subjects in regard to problems of everyday life. Can not the general manager or the line foreman of the gas and electric department write us on the above subject? Who is the proper person or persons to send for, and what should one do to remove the person from the live wire contact without injury to self?

In "The Sufferer's" letter she also suggests that Bulletin readers write on the Golden Rule and to love thy neighbor as thyself, thus putting into practice more of the religion and Christianity that some of us know so little about. Let her set the good example by loving her neighbor as herself. "The foreigners" as she calls them whose roosters annoy her with their crowing. Let us hope she will never have any greater cross to bear than hearing a few Rhode Island roosters greeting the dawn of day again. Let us have a few letters on subjects that can be applied helpfully to our daily needs. Give us more charity, less gossip about our neighbors and a little more of the milk of human kindness and said religion and Christianity will take care of itself.

I thank you.

IM PRI MA TUR.

Norwich, April 6, 1923.

Looking Through Dark Glasses.

Mr. Editor: It is the request of the Standard Time League that you print this editorial clipped from the Hartford Courant of last Friday, April 6th.

"The absurd proposition of the daylight savers that in order to be right they must be wrong leads to other absurdities and to confusion all along the line. Down in Delaware there is a law against purposely setting clocks wrong, and the banking interests have decided to 'conform to eastern standard time.' The extravagant diatribes of the illogical savers against those who realize that changing clocks cannot change time have brought a certain amount of illogical extravagance in retaliation. That is natural."

Secretary.

Wives of Famous Men

Ida Saxton, Wife of William McKinley

The widowhood of Mrs. William McKinley was hallowed by the memory of a husband's devotion that has few equals in history. She was an invalid for years; as such, she could never fully discharge the duties that devolve upon the First Lady of the Land. But this handicap to his own affairs never gave McKinley the slightest concern. All his thoughts and considerations were centered upon the comfort and well-being of his wife.

Ida Saxton was the daughter of James Saxton, a banker, who, despite his wealth, believed that every young man and woman should be instructed in useful pursuits so that, should the occasion arise, they would be able to support themselves. Ida was his eldest daughter and her father gave her every educational advantage available, as well as allowing her to travel extensively. When he thought it time, he installed her as cashier in his bank, to give her the practical training he thought so essential. This early discipline did much toward making Mrs. McKinley what she was.

When Ida met Mr. McKinley he was a major in the army. They were married in 1871 and for the 10 years that they lived together, until McKinley was shot, they were very happy. The only cloud to mar their peace of mind was the death of both their daughters when they were quite young.

Had Mrs. McKinley been in good health, she would have made an ideal wife of a man of affairs. Her good wedding and education made her all that could be desired of a hostess. She was a charming woman and as the First Lady of the Land won the admiration of all who came in contact with her. But her health was never very robust, and the death of her two children undermined her system to such an extent that she had to withdraw from many important social activities. The shock of her husband's assassination and his suffering through the long summer, when she was with him constantly, was more than her delicate health could stand. Though she survived her husband seven years she led a melancholy existence, broken in body by physical suffering and anguished in mind by the recollection of the great national tragedy at Buffalo N. Y.

Stories That Recall Others

Should Have Done His Own Thinking.

A youth held for burglary, retained his sense of humor and apparently saw the error of his way after he was locked up.

He was charged with entering a drug store and carrying away merchandise.

"I passed the drug store and saw a rubber doormat, in front or the door," he said. "On the mat was the word, 'Welcome' in big letters. I thought that was nice so I stopped. I looked up and near the handle was the word 'Push.' I pushed but the door didn't budge, so I went around in back and pushed on a window. That budged, and I went in. I helped myself. Everything was loose. Just as I started to leave I saw another sign. It said, 'We aim to please.' Well, they pleased me all right. But, gosh, what good did it do? Look where I am now?"

Daughter Of Noted Author Will Become Actress

Americans will have more than passing interest in the news from London that Miss Millicent Hope Hawkins, daughter of Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins ("Anthony Hope"), the author of "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other romantic thrillers, has decided to go on the stage—for the reason that this young woman's mother is an American, the daughter of Charles H. Sheldon, of New York. Miss Hawkins is preparing for her stage career at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

CONFIRMATION CLASSES AT THREE EPISCOPAL CHURCHES

Bishop E. Campion Acheson of Middletown visited this city Sunday and held confirmation at the three local churches. He was at Christ Episcopal church in the morning and confirmed a class of four, at St. Andrew's church in the afternoon to confirm a class of six and in the evening was at Trinity Episcopal church to confirm a class of six.

In speaking to the young people Bishop Acheson stated that he believed that they were being confirmed because, like St. Paul, they had received a vision of God. In receiving his vision he said, you, my sons and daughters, have indeed been blessed. We older people cannot see things as you can see them but God has a vision for everyone, and to each one of us individually he has spoken. Always keep your eyes and ears open to visions and messages from God. God has given a vision to you that you can understand. He gives to us older people another vision, one that we can understand. As you grow older your vision will change but always keep God in your heart, receive His visions and you can truthfully say "Yes, I am a Christian, I know, trust and love my Savior."

Fire of unknown origin broke out in the grass at the side of the road at Pine Grove, Niantic, at 2.30 Saturday afternoon. Flames driven by a southwest wind soon spread over a large area. The blaze was discovered by Monroe Blake, who enlisting assistance of other residents of the village put the fire out after a hard battle, before it spread to the cottages of the Spiritualist Camping ground. No water supply was available and the fire fighters used their hands and feet to beat out the flames.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Tyler J. Howard.

After a short illness, Mabel E. Frost, wife of Tyler J. Howard of 318 Wilbraham road, Springfield, Mass., died Thursday, April 5th, in Perkinsville, Vt., where she was visiting with friends.

Mrs. Howard was well known in this city, having lived here a number of years. She was born in Auburn, Me., in 1872, and when about 5 years of age came here with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Frost. Rev. Mr. Frost took up the pastorate of the First Baptist church and it was through his efforts to a large extent that the First Baptist church was erected on West Main street, the present site. Rev. Mr. Frost urged them to purchase the lot in 1879 and the church was built a few years later.

While in this city Miss Mabel Frost was united in marriage to Tyler J. Howard and about 18 years ago they left for Springfield, Mass., where they have since resided. Besides her husband she leaves two children, Clarence O., and Marion Howard of Springfield, and one brother, Hollis Frost of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The news of the death of Mrs. Howard came as a shock to her many friends here.

Funeral services were held from the late home in Springfield Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock with burial in that city.

COLORED CHAUFFUR SAYS HE ALSO TOUCHED FATAL CABLE ON POLE

One other person besides the two who lost their lives Friday night by touching a cable on an electric light pole in front of the home of Weston C. Pullen on Crescent street touched the same cable but received no shock. This was brought out in testimony by Charles Townsel, colored chauffeur, before Coroner J. J. Desmond Saturday when the coroner began his investigation into the deaths of Sergeant John H. Kane of the Norwich police force and Herbert T. Spears of 55 Union street.

Townsel told the coroner that he had touched the cable to show Sergeant Kane what the Spears boy had been doing. Townsel added also that Sergeant Kane had twice touched the cable without receiving a shock and had remarked before doing so: "Maybe the boy was electrocuted."

Coroner Desmond took testimony from three trolley men who were on cars that passed the pole at the time of the fatalities, Daniel A. Grieco of 190 Laurel Hill avenue and Thomas F. Winters of 59 Union street, who were the boys playign with Spears, Weston C. Pullen and Charles Townsel, chauffeur for Charles R. Butts.

The trolley men examined were the motorman and conductor on a southbound car and the motorman on a northbound special. None of these men saw either the Spears boy or Sergeant Kane fall when they received the fatal shock.

Thought Spears Boy Fooling

Grieco said that he and Winters, who lives next door to the Spears family on Union street, left the Academy together. They were skylarking as they came along Crescent street, the Grieco boy in advance of the other two as he knew the trolley car on which he was going to Laurel Hill was about due. He said that Spears had a habit of jumping and swinging on poles. This time he jumped and caught the cable on the electric light pole. Grieco said that just then he saw the trolley car coming and as the car came up opposite the pole, the Spears boy fell to the ground. Grieco called out: "Aw, come on," and touched Spears' shoulder with his foot. The eyes of young Spears were open, he said, and they blinked, making him think that Spears was playing possum to fool the other boy, Winters. By this time the car had stopped and Grieco got aboard answering the conductor's question as to what was the matter by saying that the boy was fooling.

From the Winters boy the Coroner learned that he had gone farthar along Crescent street after the Spears boy fell from the pole and that he returned to where the Spears boy was on the ground, telling him to come along and pulling his cap down over his eyes in a joking spirit.

Felt For Pulse

Townsel, who was standing at the corner of Joseph Perkins road and Crescent street, had a clear view of the three boys and saw Spears jump for the cable. He also thought it was a joke as he saw the boy on the ground but when he had passed along the street and saw the boy still down where he had fallen he came back. Townsel felt the Spears boy's wrist for a pulse, but couldn't find any. Then he opened the boy's shirt and listened for his heart, but that was not beating although he was breathing convulsively.

Townsel told the coroner what he did about going to the nearest house to telephone for an ambulance.

Townsel Touched Cable

Coming down to what he saw Sergeant Kane do, Townsel said that he waited until the police patrol arrived and when Sergeant Kane got out Townsel showed him what he had seen the Spears boy do. In describing this to Sergeant Kane, Townsel said he grasped the cable just as the Spears boy had.

"Too bad for the little fellow," exclaimed the police sergeant, according to Townsel. "Maybe he was electrocuted."

Immediately after this Sergt. Kane reached up and touched the cable and then let go. There was some more talk and again the police sergeant touched the cable in safety.

Townsel asked Sergt. Kane if he should stay any longer and the officer said it wasn't necessary. Townsel then went home and to bed and knew nothing about the tragic death of the police officer until he read it in the newspaper the next morning.

Having touched the cable himself and having seen Sergt. Kane touch it twice, he had no idea that the death of the boy had been caused by an electric shock.

Will Continue Investigation

Coroner Desmond is to continue his investigation today (Tuesday.) He is paying particular attention to the theory that in some way or other the fact that trolley cars were passing just as each of the victims received their fatal shocks may have some connection with the condition shown that the cable could be touched at time with impunity, while at other times it was charged with a fatal electric current.

Other witnesses to be examined are Officer P. Murphy, General Manager C. B. Taggart and Line Superintendent N. C. Pierce of city electric light plant. Mrs. Phoebe J. Pendleton of Crescent street who saw the boy fall as she was looking out of the window of her home, and Principal H. A. Tirrell of the Academy.

Principal Tirrell had been called to identify the Spears boy when an Academy study schedule was found in his pocket. The Academy principal said Sunday night that he was standing talking with Sergt. Kane by the pole and the sergeant turned to illustrate what the Spears boy had been doing. The policeman reached up and touched the cable and received the fatal shock.

Mr. Tirrell also mentioned the trolley car in this connection, saying that the car had come to a stop as he was standing there talking to the policeman and that the sergeant put his hand on the cable just as the car started up again.

Normal Conditions on Pole.

General Manager C. B. Taggart of the city electric light plant said Sunday night that the apparatus in use on this pole was all standard type of electric light fixtures, and that the department was at a loss yet to determine what had caused the dangerous condition. It was evident, he said, that the electric current at times coursed through the cable and at times it was perfectly safe. The whole installation is to be taken for laboratory tests by the United States Casualty company, which carried the city's liability policy.

Superintendent Pierce of the city electric department made a thorough examination of the fixtures on the pole Saturday and reported that all the insulations were in perfect condition.

The staple where the cable fastens to the pole is within easy reach of any person of ordinary height, being not more than six feet from the ground.

The gas and electric commissioners held a meeting Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, receiving a report from Mr. Taggart and Mr. Pierce.

President D. T. Shea was delegated to convey the condolences of the board to the two bereaved families, which he did on a call at their homes on Sunday.

R. L. Hanican, claim auditor of the United States Casualty company, who was here Saturday, made arrangements to have the company make a laboratory test of the electric installation on this polee

METHODIST LOVE FEAST AND ORDINATION SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 8.—At the New England Southern conference the Love Feast at 9 this morning was in charge of Prof. Marcus D. Buell, D. D., of Boston. It was a very profitable and inspiring service.

The preacher was Bishop Burns and his message was based upon the words, "It might have been sold" as found in Mark 14:5. The sermon was a plea against the mercenary spirit which sees no value in any altruistic, benevolent, or religious effort.

"The fight today, he said, is between two conflicting philosophies of life: on one hand that philosophy which seeks material gain always in everything and on the other hand that which seeks righteousness and the welfare of others to the sacrifice of material gain. The critic who uttered the words of our text was the only one of Jesus twelve disciples who was capable of such a base utterance. Yet it is in the spirit of this age, said the bishop. He said that even the minister too often inquires about salaries and material possibilities instead of how many children are in the Sunday school or what are the possibilities for winning lives to God. He said that he was once told by a commercial agency that they would give him a reward likely to reach $10,000 if he would put in a word in his lectures and sermons continually recommending a certain commodity they were selling. But, brethren, thank God there are some things that are not for sale. The fragrance of that loving act criticised in our text filled that room where Jesus was and its spirit fills the ages. While the world may see no value in that loving deed and men may often speculate how much wealth a man might secure if he did certain things which ignore all moral and spiritual qualities, as Christians we must stand firmly against that spirit and see in the redemption of humanity a priceless value which must not be sold.

Ordination Service.

The ordination service was held at 3 p. m. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. F. Cooper. A men's chorus of 12 voices sang a selection entitled Rejoice Jerusalem and Sing. Prof. M. D. Buell delivered a very fitting address to the candidates. The following were then ordained deacons by the bishop: Arnold O. Kenyon and George H. Young. The following were ordained by the bishop, assisted by several elders present, as elders: M. Wayne Pickerell, Truman H. Woodward, Philip A. Ahern, Marion J. Greeger, C. M. Keefer, O. G. Terry.

Miss B. Marion Hope, superintendent of the Deaconess Home, made a very fitting address leading up to the service in which Miss Florence S. Stevens was consecrated as a deaconess by Bishop Burns.

The ritual was used by Bishop Burns in each of these services very impressively.

FIRST SCOUT OUTDOOR MEET OF THE SEASON

Representatives of Troops No. 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, 12 and 20 met at Mohegan park and held the first outdoor meeting of the season Sunday afternoon.

President A. L. Peale, Scout Executive F. A. Benton and several scoutmasters joined the gropp and instructed the scouts in fire making, cooking and use of the knife and axe. Twist on a stick, kabobs, meat, bacon and eggs and other good things were cooked, including a large pot of excellent cocoa. After the tests passed by a number of scouts, all joined in an interesting game of capture the flag.

The next activity will be the court of honor meeting in city hall Friday night, April 13th, at 7.30. All troops meeting that night will be expected to attend in a body, as well as all scouts receiving merit badges.

During the recent fatal electrical accident on Crescent street, Troop No. 12 of Park Congregational church did a good turn in diverting pedestrians through Broad street so as to avoid further fatalities while dangerous conditions existed. Assistant Scoutmaster Frederick A. Benton, Jr., kept details of scouts busy at this service for an hour or more.

Troop No. 1 will hike to Cochegan Rock Saturday, April 14th, under the leadership of President Peale. This rock is said to be the largest rock in Connecticut. Particulars may be obtained from members of Troop No. 1.

Death of Catherine Meehan.

The death of Catherine Meehan of Stamford occurred Saturday in Preston at the age of 70 years. The body was taken in charge by Shea & Burke and Saturday night at 8.45 o'clock they sent it by train to Darien where burial will take place.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL FOR N. W. RYLEY

Norris W. Ryley of West Haven connected with the Harbor Coal company, has received notice from Washington that the formal presentation of the Distinguished Service Medal for which he was recommended by his captain, following his bravery in action at the battle of Seicheprey, will be made in Boston, Mass. April 17th.

Private Ryley, formerly of this city, who lives at 15 East Brown street, West Haven, enlisted in Battery B, 103d Field Artillery in May, 1917, and was among the first hundred thousand boys sent overseas after America entered the war. He participated in every major battle in which American troops were engaged.

He received his personal citation from General Edwards, and was instrumental in winning the battery citation. The specific action for which the cross was awarded was for bravery in action at the battle of Seicheprey when he opened up connection between his battery and headquarters after telephone wires had been cut and several men had lost their lives in trying to cross an unprotected space at "Dead Man's Bend."

In response to a call for volunteers from the commanding officer, Captain Davis, Ryley was the first to answer, and succeeded in getting through to headquarters where he secured reinforcements, guns and ammunition. He afterwards assisted in the care of the dead and wounded, escaping with a slight wound, which did not prevent him from carrying out the task for which he volunteered.

In speaking of his action, Colonel Chaffee said: Ryley maintained communication through heavy shelling during the day, the care of the dead and wounded, the resupply of ammunition, and the keeping of the battery in action through a most critical day were the results of his outstanding courage, and devotion to his battery and its mission."

News that Private Ryley has received the Distinguished Service Medal for bravery in action was received with pleasure by his many friends in Norwich. At the time the United States entered the World war Mr. Ryley was employed at the U. S. Finishing company in this city as assistant dyer and he left Norwich for Providence in May 1917 and enlisted in Battery B, and was among the first to be called. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryley, now of West Haven and formerly resided in Mystic.

SCORED INSTANT SUCCESS IN DUBLIN CONCERT

Of the appearance of Miss Loretta P. Higgins of this city in a concert with "Ireland's Own" band in the Royal Dublin theatre on Sunday, March 18, before an audience of 3,000, the Dublin Freeman's Journal says:

"The vocal side of the programme was supported by a few artists of sterling quality, notably a surprise arrival in the person of Miss Loretta Higgins, an Irish-American singer from the Opera Comique, who entranced the audience with a voice remarkable for its rich dramatic expressiveness and purity of timbre shown in the selection she gave from Puccini's "Tosca," and a couple of encore responses sung with charming fluency and clarity of tone. She made an instantaneous success, Miss Higgins, who is the daughter of Mr. Michael Higgins, Norwich, Connecticut, U. S. A., in the course of an interview after the concert said her father and mother at home would be charmed to hear that she had sung in Ireland at a St. Patrick's day concert. She herself was delighted with her reception."

The rotogravure section of a New York newspaper on Sunday carried a picture of Miss Higgins which showed her just landing at London from an airplane trip from Cologne, having come to fulfil a concert engagement in the north of England.

NORTH STREET SHANTY DESTROYED BY FIRE

The local fire department had two calls over the week-end. The first came in at 5.50 o'clock Saturday afternoon to Engine company No. 2, for what was supposed to be a fire at the home of Joseph Swuecz at 487 North Main street. When the firemen arrived it was found that Mr. Swuecz had lighted an oil stove in kitchen and then lay down to rest, and according to the firemen because of his condition failed to notice that the house was filling with black smoke. Other people in the house noticed it and the call followed. The house was black with smoke and windows were thrown open to allow it to escape. The house is owned by Martin Rozycki.

The second call came in to headquarters at 12.15 o'clock Sunday morning for a fire next to 81 North street in a shanty owned and occupied by Carmino Vechiarino. The fire was discovered by Mr. Burdick who drives one of Dexter's trucks and he called the department. The shanty was burning fiercely when the firemen arrived and was too far gone to be saved. Attention was given to nearby garages, one of which was damaged slightly by exposure to the flames.

Mr. Vechiarino, owner of the shanty, said that he went away Saturday afternoon and supposed everything was all right when he left. He learned of the destruction of the place after his return from visiting relatives in New Britain.

For a time the fire threatened to spread to the three garages close by but chemical was used to check the blaze until water was turned on.

POLICE ESCORT FOR SERGT. KANE'S FUNERAL

Members of the Norwich police department will pay the final tribute to their brother officer, the late Sergeant John H. Kane, by acting as bearers and furnishing an escort at his funeral this (Monday) morning, when it is held at 9 o'clock from his late home at 2 Elmwood avenue.

Officers who have been under Sergeant Kane in Greeneville have been selected for bearers. These are John T. Casey, Matthew Delaney, John Carroll, Michael Carroll, Peter Driscoll and Elmer Allen. All the policemen in the department will form an escort, marching in the funeral procession. At the conclusion of the services at the house they will march either to Franklin square or Washington square to board a special trolley car on which they will ride to the end of the West Side line and from there join the funeral procession to Maplewood cemetery.

Washington Street Grass Fire.

Shortly before noon on Saturday a serious grass fire on the premises of Miss Elizabeth B. Huntington of 344 Washington street, brought a call for help from the Norwich fire department. It was reported that a boy had been engaged in burning brush, which spread to the grass plot covering a large area and extending to the adjoining property which for a time was in great danger. A passerby who stopped to help soon concluded the situation was of an alarming nature and immediately sent in the call for help. Deputy Chief Taft and assistants were soon on the scene and quickly extinguished the fire by the use of chemicals.

Milford — Charles Buck of 249 Wakelee avenue, Ansonia, driving a machine east in River street bridge was crowded off the road to the right side of the bridge by a machine operated by G. E. Ingham of 25 Little street, Bridgeport, who was traveling west. Buck's car was damaged.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This (Monday) afternoon the voters of the borough will have their annual opportunity to vote for borough officers and to attend the annual business meeting. In recent years the voters have shown little interest in the annual election and it has not been an infrequent occurrence to find the total vote cast less than 100, though there may be as many as 1500 voters in the limits of the borough. Effort to impress the public with what really is its obligation to vote has not been at all fruitful insofar as the borough elections are concerned, and the danger that something may be slipped over on regularly nominated candidates is accepted apparently without any worry at all.

For the business meeting the warning sets forth that reports of borough officials will be heard and acted upon. The borough will lay the annual tax and fix the date for collecting it. It will pass the usual resolution authorizing the borough to borrow such money as may be needed to meet the running expenses of the borough and will pass upon petitions for extensions of the sewer system, consider the matter of removing the water font in Reynolds street and to pass upon a request for funds to make urgently needed repairs at the public library.

The polls for balloting will be open at 4 p. m.

Saturday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Blackburn, in Attawaugan, funeral services were held for Mrs. Mary Jane Thompson, who was in her 98th year when death claimed her. Rev. Albert Jepson, pastor of St. Alban's church, of which Mrs. Thompson was the oldest member conducted the services. Mrs. W. C. Bacon sang Abide With Me, and Asleep in Jesus. Mrs. F. O. Armington was the accompanist. The bearers were A. H. Armington, William J. Craig, George S. Brown, Fred Miller, John Goodhill and W. Dyke Cogswell.

Burial was in Westfield cemetery, where a double grave had been opened. The body of Mr. Thompson, who died on December 30, was interred beside that of his wife. His body has been entombed at Westfield since his funeral. Mr. Thompson was 104 years of age.

State officers raided the store and market of Fred Espinosia on Elm street, West Side, early Saturday evening and seized a quantity of moonshine and hard cider. Espinosia was released under bonds of $300, and will be arraigned this (Monday) evening at 7 o'clock before Justice Frank M. Bedard of the West Side. The raid was the first that has been held on the West Side for a long time.

This (Monday) morning St. James' parochial school will reopen after the Easter vacation. The school has been closed since the latter part of Holy week. The present term of school will extend through to graduation time in June.

Motorists traveling between Danielson and Willimantic at the week-end have been encountering some bad sections of state highway, broken down under the strain of heavy traffic and the bad weather conditions. Numbers of cars have been stalled. Much of the traffic that ordinarily travels over this route has been diverted to the Putnam-Phoenixville route.

There were calls for the street sweeping department Sunday morning when a southerly gale was whipping dirt, papers and other refuse about. Eating one's peck of dirt could have been accomplished very promptly. New Easter gowns and garments and spring hats fared badly from the dirt bath and rather spoiled the parade that was post-

PUTNAM

The Moose carnival held all the week in Union hall came to an end Saturday night. The hall was attractively decorated and about the sides were many decorated booths from which a variety of articles were sold. Nurses from the Day Kimball hospital had one booth and this money was for the hospital. The booth was in charge of Mrs. L. L. Lorillard of Pomfret. While there were not large crowds on any evening the order realized a substantial amount from its venture.

A number of mill men from Putnam were in Worcester Saturday where they attended a dinner of a manufacturers' association at the Bancroft hotel.

A family of children in need of clothing has been discovered in the city by the Red Cross. The children are from two to six years of age. People having clothing, underwear, shoes or wraps suitable for these little ones are requested to leave them at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Union block.

Saturday evening the first of the after Lenten dances was held at the state armory under the auspices of the Service battery and attracted a large attendance, most of the towns hereabouts being represented. Music was by Goman and Ready novelty orchestra of Framingham.

Reports of entertainment, trophy, game and grounds committees will be taken up. Included with notices sent out to members copies of the by-laws and constitution of the club were enclosed.

Of interest is the fact that Henry Lewis, resident in the South Killingly section was an acquaintance of Lord Carnavon, who died the past week in Egypt after having been a figure in world news for several weeks. Mr. Lewis knew Lord Carnavon in England and had a number of business transactions with him.

Byron and Cromwell Larkin remained very dangerously ill at their home in East Killingly Sunday afternoon, when a consultation of physicians was held. Byron was running a temperature of 104 degrees and Cromwell remained in the very same serious condition that has marked his illness for the past week.

Rivers and brooks were running very high during Sunday. The Quinebaug was booming over the dam at Main street and tearing down through its rocky bed below that point. Although this stream, with its source in Massachusetts, was very high it was not doing any damage. The rains of the past few days have caused the brooks to rise and in many cases overflow their banks, spoiling the fishing for those who had planned a week end on the brooks.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Alban's church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Ada King on Broad street. Miss King will be the leader. The first chapter on The Program Presented will be the subject of discussion and all of the members have been requested to be present and to get in touch with the work.

A pruning demonstration arranged by the Farmers' association co-operating with the Connecticut Agricultural college is to be held Wednesday afternoon at the farm of Ernest Buell in Plainfield. Mr. Darrow, extension fruit specialist and County Agent F. L. Davis will be present for the purpose of giving the demonstration and answering questions in regard to varieties, spraying and fertilization.

There are a large number of orchards in Plainfield, the county agent's announcement states, that could be made more profitable at little expense. This is probably true, too, of all other towns in the county. It is promised that this meeting will be made well worth while for all who attend.

Donald Stone of Providence has been visiting with his mother, Mrs. George Stone, of Academy street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Owens, who have been spending the winter in Florida, leave today on their way home. They will visit in New Haven for a few days before returning here.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer, who has been spending her Easter vacation in town, will return to her studies at Mt. Joseph seminary in Hartford today.

Maurice Gareau, who recently underwent a surgical operation at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, is reported as improving.

Miss Marie Jasmin of Putnam visited with friends in Danielson on Sunday.

Mrs. Benoit Tetreault, who has been visiting in Washington, D. C., has returned to her home here.

The March issue of the Journal of Social Forces contains an article written by Malcolm M. Willey and his roommate, Melville J. Herskevits, Mr. Willey, whose home is in Putnam, and Mr. Herkskovits, are both graduate students at Columbia university, New York, Mr. Willey in sociology and Mr. Herskovitz in anthropology. Their article is called Servitude and Progress, and is a psychological treatment of certain phrases of the labor problem. The journal is published at the University of North Carolina and is devoted exclusively to discussions of theorectical and applied social problems.

Dr. W. H. Holmes, superintendent of schools in Mount Vernon, N. Y., returned home Saturday after spending a few days with his family who have been at the home of Mrs. Holmes' mother, Mrs. A. W. Macdonald, Oak Hill. Dr. Holmes came on because of the illness of his son, Richard Holmes, a student at Clark university, who has been suffering from a sprained hip and has to be removed to the Day Kimball hospital for treatment. Mrs. Holmes remains in Putnam to be with her son.

Dominito Sylvis of Fall River, a truck driver for the Interstate Trucking company of New Bedford, who was injured by being crushed by his truck at the hill of the Manhasset company, last Tuesday, taken to the Day Kimball hospital where he was placed on the dangerous list, will probably recover as his condition is improving. He has a broken leg, several broken ribs, a dislocated shoulder and many bruises. It was at first feared that he had internal injuries.

The No. 1 motor truck was out for a few minutes Saturday afternoon to extinguish a chimney fire.

A thousand feet of new hose has been purchased for the fire department since the Donohue block fire disclosed that much of the hose was practically worthless.

Married after a three-day courtship, living together for three weeks, now separated, is the romance of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Tetreault of Putnam. According to Mr. Tetreault his wife has left the city in company with a girl friend and he does not know where she has gone. Mr. Tetreault works in a Front street restaurant. While serving coffee he met Miss Ethelyn Lenore Bogardus, 19, of West Thompson. Three evenings later the couple were married and had a wedding supper at the restaurant where the bridegroom works.

to have a home of its own if plans now under consideration are carried to conclusion. A building committee of eight members has been appointed. The town hall with its small stage has become inadequate for the growing grange membership.

The first annual Charity dance given by the Elks of North Grosvenordale, was held Saturday night in the Grosvenordale Company's hall. North Grosvenordale Elks are members of Putnam lodge and members from this city were in attendance. The money raised will be used for welfare work in the villages of North Grosvenordale and Grosvenordale. The committee in charge of the successful affair was: Chairman, E. H. Kristek; publicity, Frank A. Pellitier, Joseph Laroche, Adonat E. Morin; decorations, Joseph Crandall, Arsene Frappier, Andrew Lamoureaux; music, Edward McKeon, William W. Allen; refreshments George Carlson, John F. Reardon, Jr. A. J. Dery, Bray & Savino's orchestra of Milford, Mass., furnished music.

Benjamin Grosvenor, proprietor of the Ben Grosvenor inn, Pomfret, died Saturday afternoon at the age of 81 years. Mr. Grosvenor had been an invalid and practically helpless for the past three or four years.

Benjamin Grosvenor was born in Pomfret, September 21, 1841, son of John William and Esther Grosvenor and with the exception of five years while he was in the government employ on an Indian reservation in Nebraska, has lived in the town of his birth.

In 1871 Mr. Grosvenor purchased his present home in Pomfret. December 23, 1867, he married Miss Anna, daughter of George B. Mathewson of the same town. The wife and two children, John J. Grosvenor and Mrs. Charlotte M. Grosvenor Campbell, all of Putnam, survive.

The Grosvenor family were the pioneer settlers of the historic town and became large land owners and are still the most influential citizens of the town.

For years the Ben Grosvenor inn has been one of the best known hostelries between Boston and New York. On account of the Pomfret school being located in the town many well known people of New York, Boston and other large cities have from time to time stopped at the inn while affairs were being held at the school.

Mr. Grosvenor was the typical landlord. He had a hearty hand clasp and a ready smile for all. His inn was noted for its refined atmosphere and especially during the summer months held a large gathering of prominent people.

A large landowner and an influential citizen Mr. Grosvenor had been a power in the community. While he never sought or held public office his council was always sought when questions of moment were under consideration.

Three or four years ago Mr. Grosvenor suffered an attack of illness which left his a helpless invalid. The inn has been under the personal management of his son, John P. Grosvenor.

The second in Sunday's series of fires in and near this city destroyed the dwelling of Wilson Towgood, out on lower Killingly avenue, about two miles from the center of the city. It is believed that a high wind swept sparks from the chimney into brush, setting it afire, and the brush fire, which could not be promptly controlled in turn set the house afire. A telephone alarm from the neighborhood sent the No. 1 truck to this fire. As is usual in such cases lack of an ample water supply prevented the firemen from work effectively. Much of the furniture in the house was saved.

THINKS PUTNAM FIRE APPARATUS TAMPERED WITH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 8.—Chief Ralph E. Thurston, of the Putnam fire department recommends placing plate glass windows in the doors at fire headquarters on Union square. From time to time there have been mysterious happenings behind the solid wooden doors that now enclose the apparatus from the Union square side and the chief thinks that if people passing can get a view within some of the mysterious goings-on of the past, which has boded no good to the department, may cease. The matter is now under consideration by the fire committee of the common council.

It is well remembered that some months ago a fire was found within the building with all the earmarks of an attempt at incendiarism. No many weeks ago a quantity of excelsior mysteriously appeared in a spot in the building that looked significantly alarming.

More recently investigation made relative to so much hose bursting at the Donahue block fire, February 22nd, has disclosed that acid of some kind had unquestionably been applied to the hose, the outer housing of the hose had been eaten away and rendered practically useless. This was not discovered until the investigation was made after the hose burst in many places during the fire. How the acid came in contact with the hose is the latest mystery at fire headquarte

While it is possible that the chemi took may have leaked and the liq found its way to the hose there those who do not believe in this ory but think that there is some destroys of injuring the departmen possible and causing all the troub they can. The chief believes that view of the interior of the buildi may at least help to put a stop anyone's interfering with the appa atus for it will be continually expos to view.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Sheating Stars.

An Early Lesson.

My dad, he says, he says to me,
"I've got to realize"
That work must never disagree
With folks that want a prize
In this here life. But, goodness land,
It strikes me as a rule
There ain't enough o' circus and
There's too blame much o' school.

It's mighty tryin' in the spring
To have to settle down—
I'm thinkin' 'bout the sawdust ring
An' wishin' fur the crown.
I long to hear the big brass band
An' see the tricky mule.
There ain't enough o' circus and
There's too blame much o' school.

But dad, he says I might as well
Git used to feelin' so.
He says, the honest truth to tell,
He'd shorely like to go
A-fishin', or with gun in hand,
Or loafin' where it's cool.
He says 'twould be a circus, and
Plain duty's wuss than school.

An' so I'll strive and stand the stress
An' cheerful seek to be.
What's good enough for dad, I guess,
Is good enough fur me.
But when I think how things are planned,
It does seem downright crool.
There ain't enough o' circus and
There's to blame much o' school.

Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Tripping always on the rug,
Tumbling down the longest stair,
Tumbling, stumbling everywhere;
Can't you see you scare me so,
Seems my heart has skipped a beat,
Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Wish you'd stay upon your feet!

Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Tell me why you always lug
Heavy things from door to door?
Just to make you tumble more?
Every day it seems to me
Your ambition can't be beat!
Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Wish you'd stay upon your feet!

Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Stop your tumbling, for a hug—
Lay your head upon my breast,
Give your little self a rest!
Let me breathe a silent prayer
Down the years that are so fleet,
Little Mister Tumble Bug,
Hope you stay upon your feet!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

A few days ago a little 3-year old boy was killed by an automobile in a nearby town. He did not see the machine coming and ran in front of it. Last week in a Massachusetts city a little boy, playing in a street near his home, ran from in back of an automobile and was run over by a truck going the opposite way. He did not see the oncoming truck and the driver did not see him until he had dashed in front of the machine, and then it was too late.

Recently two boys were playing on a city street hill. An automobile turned a corner and started up the hill. The driver saw the boys and blew his horn, but the boys, instead of getting out of the way, kept on playing. As a result, one of them narrowly missed being run over and badly injured, if not killed outright. It was only because of the fact that the driver was on to his job and stopped short just in time that the boy was not hit.

There are hundreds of stories like these that might be told here. In hospitals all over the country there are child patients suffering from broken arms, broken legs, crushed heads, cuts and bruises, and in many a home a little boy or girl victim of an automobile accident is missing—gone, forever.

Most of these sad happenings could have been prevented if boys and girls would only stop and think what they are doing. Of course, sometimes it is the driver's fault, but in most cases it is the children's own fault. They dash off sidewalks without giving a look to see what is coming. They take it for granted that they are going to get across the street safely. Too late they see a big truck or a touring car bearing down on them. Then they get confused, dash madly back and forth—the driver tries his best to stop, but the little victim goes under the wheels.

Then there is a hurried call for the doctor and an ambulance, a rush for the hospital, an emergency operation and sometimes the child lives and sometimes it doesn't. Boys and girls, remember the criss-cross sign you have all seen at railroad crossings. The sign reads: Stop! Look! Listen! It applies to busy city streets, country roads and state highways just as it does to the railroad crossing.

Stop running before you start to cross the street; look both ways for automobiles; listen for the horn that tells you whether an automobile is coming along the street or around a corner. Remember the three words—Stop! Look! Listen!

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

Talking Over the Telephone.

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell some of the Wide-Awakes how to talk over a telephone. You take the receiver from the hook and instantly a light flashes out under your number on the switchboard at Central. A person called the operator pushes a plug attached to an electric wire into the hole on the switchboard that bears your number. Then "Number, please?" calls the operator at Central; and "Give me Walnut 31" you say. Quick as a flash she connects you with Walnut 31 by pushing another plug into the hole on the switchboard above the number you wish.

That rings the telephone in your friend's house. He takes down his receiver and says "Hello!" "Hello!" you say. "This is Ted Smith talking." Then you and your friend have a conversation and when you are through you put the receiver back on the hook and you are immediately disconnected.

You have talked by means of sound waves set in motion by your voice and carried or transmitted by an electric wire to your friend at the other end.

I hope that some of the Wide-Awakes who have no telephone will read this letter to see how handy and useful a telephone is.

IDA M. ROODE, Age 13.
Voluntown.

Our Pet Lamb.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide-Awakes and I want to tell them about my pet lamb. The mother wouldnt own it so mamma took the little lamb in the house and put it in a box near the stove and I feed it on a bottle. Now he is out in the barn with a calf. We have in all fourteen lambs and eight sheep. We think a good deal of our little flock. I will try and write again some time to the Wide-Awake Circle.

JERRED D. BENJAMIN, Age 9.

Happy Times at Goshen School.

Dear Uncle Jed: Goshen school is a very little school that stands on a little hill as most schoolhouses do. There are only seventeen scholars but just enough to have a jolly time.

We have a nice teacher that most always joins in our fun. We have a good time in school time also. When I say that we have happy times I don't want you to think that we don't work, because we do. When we work we work very hard and then we have good times we have extra good times.

The school room is always merry and bright. And I am sure that that is why we have so many visitors.

The boys are always glad to let us girls play baseball with them. We are always glad when Easter vacation is over so that we can get back to the dear little school.

FAUN JEWETT.
Clarks Corners.

Signs of Spring.

Dear Uncle Jed: As I have a long way to go to school, I see a number of things that make me think of spring. I saw pussy willows, water cress, a large flock of red-breast robins in a juniper tree, a chipmunk squirrel on the wall eating a nut, hazelnut blossoms, and a running stream of water with grass two and three inches high along the sides. I saw a Phoebe bird, red tail hawk and a flock of bluebirds.

EARL M. KINSMOUTH, Age 9.
Norwich R. F. D.

The Boy Scouts.

Dear Uncle Jed: To become a Boy Scout a boy must be at least twelve years of age. There are three classes of scouts—the tenderfoot, second class and first class scouts. To pass the tenderfoot tests a scout must know a certain number of knots, the scout law and oath, the history of the flag and the significance of the badge. He is then entitled to wear the official scout uniform and the tenderfoot badge.

After being a tenderfoot for thirty days, and if he can pass the second class tests he is given the second class badge. After sixty days he can pass his first class tests.

The scout organization is headed by the national headquarters at New York. Then there is a scoutmaster for every troop consisting of about thirty boys or four patrols of eight boys each. In every patrol there is a patrol leader and an assistant patrol leader. The boys are taught woodcraft, lifesaving, swimming, first aid and bandaging and many other things.

HANS STEINMEYER, Age 14.
Storrs.

Nathan Hale.

Dear Uncle Jed: Nathan Hale was born in Coventry, Conn. He lived in New London. He was a school teacher. When the war broke out between America and England he offered himself as a spy to George Washington. He went into the British camps near New York and found out many things that Washington needed to know. He was discovered by the British. His last words were, "I regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." Connecticut is proud to honor Nathan Hale.

Has Big Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl and my name is Alice. I have a big cat and his name is Nigger.

ALICE SIDEBOTTOM, Age 7.

Rooster Walks Sideways.

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about a rooster I have had a year. There was in a store window some cute little baby chicks. They were all colors, so my daddy bought one for me and now he is a big white leghorn. He never did like women. He used to chase them and try to spur them and now his neck is all twisted like some one tried to ring his head off, and he goes sideways.

JANET WILCOX, Age 7.
Jewett City.

The Fringed Gentain.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time the fairies went on a picnic in the great green woods. Oh, they were lovely woods with great trees reaching far, far up. The branches were long and they interlocked with each other. The grass underneath these was as soft as velvet. This is where the fairies came that day. They played games for quite a while, then the fairy queen said that they could do whatever they chose to do.

They all went for a walk. There was one little fairy who went all alone. She was a very little thing, so small, in fact, that you could hardly see her. She wondered on and on through places where the scenery was beautiful. A little brook trickled merrily over the rocks and stones and the fairy wondered by this. At last she thought she had better start back so she turned around. She did not think she had came far but she walked and walked. Still she didn't come to the place where the others were.

At last the daylight grew into twilight. The fairy became afraid but she kept walking on. At last it grew so dark that she thought she had better find some place to sleep. She came to a very beautiful rose but when she asked if she could sleep in the petals, the rose shut up its petals, and turned away. Then the little fairy didn't know what to do. She walked on and at last she came to a lonely gentain which was very homely. The fairy asked if she could sleep in its petals and it let her. She slept there safe and sound until morning.

When she awoke the next morning she didn't know where she was. After she had looked out she remembered. Just then along a path came a fairy policeman who was one who had been out hunting for her. The little fairy jumped out and ran up to him. They came back to the gentain where the little fairy asked what she could do for it, and it asked her if she would make it prettier. To do this, the fairy put on a lovely fringe.

This is how the gentains got their fringes.

Is Six Years Old.

Dear Uncle Jed: How are you? I am going to tell you about my school we have a store in our school. We are going to have a flag drill in our school. I am in the first grade. There are fourteen children in this school. I have three cats. I have three little brothers and I have two sisters. I have three big brothers. I am six years old.

The Cruel Boy.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day a boy was eating a piece of cake. Walking along the road was a forlorn dog. The dog looked up at him with hungry eyes. The boy called to him saying "Come here, poor dog, I will give you this cake." The dog walked up to him wagging his tail. When he was near enough the boy struck him on the head. The dog ran away howling. On the other side was a man watching the performance.

After that he called the boy to him to give him a five cent piece. When the boy arrived near him he hit the boy with his cane. The boy said, "Why did you strike me?" The man answered, "You cruel boy, you received just what you did to the dog." This man taught the boy a very good lesson about hurting dumb animals.

EDITH HEAP, Age 10.
Taftville.

The Sleighing Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: The teacher of our beginners' class in Sunday school invited the primary and junior classes to go for a sleigh ride. About twenty of us started from Pitchville ope pleasant Saturday afternoon in John Foley's big sleigh with two fine horses. Our first stop was to take on more children. We went to the Franklin Farm Dairy in Franklin and spent about one-half hour in looking at the great big machines. They made us all wish that we could drink a quart of milk a piece. We had pop corn and candy for our treat. We returned after a two hour ride, wishing we could have been out longer.

EVELYN A STARK, Age 9.
Fitchville.

Friendship and Self-Praise.

Dear Uncle Jed: Friendship is something all the Wide-Awakes (and other people also) should have. If you have some friends and after a while you get acquainted with a new friend, do not give up your old friends. You should like them just as well as the new one. If you don't like your old friend as well, try not to show it. Keep all your friends; never give them up. I know every one likes to have a great many friends because the more the merrier. Be kind to all your friends.

There is something more I wish to mention and that is self-praise. Probably some of the smaller children do not know the meaning of self-praise, so I will tell you. It means, praising yourself or saying nice things about yourself, such as "I think I'm pretty smart, or I have a nice figure." Always remember that self-praise, goes but little ways, and do not forget about your friendship.

ALICE NYGREN, Age 13.
Lisbon.

Two Little Boys

Dear Uncle Jed: There were two little boys named James and William. One day their father gave them each five cents to spend as they pleased. The boys said, "Thank you father." One said, "What are you going to buy with yours?" William said, "I'm going to buy some candy."

James said, I'm going to buy mama an orange. She is sick and it will taste good to her. So James bought an orange and took it to his mother. She was glad and kissed him. He went off happy. Christmas came and he had many presents.

William was sorry he had not spent his money for a good action.

BERNADETTE RAYMOND, Age 9.

Has Tiger Kitten

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you and I want to tell you about my kitty. She is a tiger color. Her name is Nig. I have a lot of fun playing with her and my little white ball. She loves warm milk every morning and night.

This is my first letter to you and hope to write to you again.

RUSSELL BENJAMIN, Age 6.
Preston City.

A Queer C. O. D. Package

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you what happened to Hans. Hans is a little German boy. His mother is dead and his father came over to America, to work on a farm.

Later he sent over some money to Germany for he wanted his little boy to come and live with him.

And so Hans has come. But how do you think he came. There was money enough to pay for him on board the ship, but not enough to take him from New York to Illinois.

So the railroad company put him into a box with part of the top cut and marked it C. O. D. That meant that his father would pay for this queer freight when it reached Illinois.

The trainmen were kind to him, and shared their meals with him.

MILDRED P. VEGIARD, Age 8.
Jewett City.

Glad to Hear Bluebird Sing

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about a bluebird. One day in the beginning of spring, I heard a bird singing. I listened, but couldn't tell what kind of bird it was. I told my teacher about it. She listened and said it must be a bluebird. I was glad to hear a bird sing again.

MARY IDZKOWSKI, Age 10.

A Storm at Sea

Dear Uncle Jed: When my father came to America the boat he was on was lost during a terrible storm. My father has told us about this story.

It was a cold day in January. All passengers were in their staterooms trying to keep warm and dry, for outdoor was raging. One of the worst storms ever encountered at sea. So said the captain. The ship was rocking back and forth, and every time the ship rolled over my father thought it would go completely under.

All hands had to stay down stairs except the sailors who were trying to save the ship. My father lay in his clothes on his bunk in a very uncomfortable position. He wanted to go on deck, but orders were strict. Soon my father [illegible] this and the authorities of Groton are conducting an investigation.

Ramistella appeared at the New London police station at 2.30 o'clock Sunday morning and reported that he had found a man lying beside the road just north of the Groton highway bridge and that the man appeared to be badly injured. He stated that he went to the toll bridge to summon an ambulance, but when he returned to the point where he had found the sailor, the victim had disappeared. Ramistella also stated that there was a Cadillac car motionless a short distance from where the victim had been found and that its occupants, two chief petty officers, could not but have known of the existence of Royer beside the highway.

A short time after Ramistella made his report, another public service operator, Tony Di Laura, on his way to the base, found the sailor lying near the edge of the highway and Di Laura stopped and placing the injured man in his machine, conveyed him to the hospital.

The New London police notified the Groton authorities of the accident and Capt. McCarthy is conducting an investigation.

It is the theory of the Groton authorities that Ramistella's car struck Boyer and that while Ramistella was making the trip to the toll bridge to summon medical aid that Di Laura came along and conveyed Royer to the hospital, the act of Di Laura accounting for the failure of Ramistella to find the victim when the driver returned from the toll bridge.

The Cadillac car that was standing alongside the highway had been identified as being owned by a chief petty officer named Lucas.

PRISONER SET BEDDING IN HIS CELL ON FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 8.—In Again, Out Again, Finnigan, would have little to boast about if he compares his famous episode with a new chapter that James Friery wrote in his history of life Sunday morning when he set bedding afire in a cell in which he was confined at the police station. Friery is well known in the city and police courts of Windham county, having been before them time and again for years, but he came close to signing off Sunday morning as he faced a fire in quarters from which he could not escape.

The fact that Officer Chandler smelled smoke when entering the police office saved Friery from being roasted alive. The officer unlocked the cell door and let Friery out, then ran fo a box near the Baptist church to pull in an alarm. Friery improved his opportunity to get away very promptly and made off without his hat or coat. After the fire, which did little damage, Officers Chandler and Alphonse went hunting in an automobile for Friery and finally came upon him on the state highway between the Wheaton farm and the Putnam Country club, going strong in the direction of Danielson. He was taken into the machine and returned to the police station and will have an opportunity to tell the court all about it this morning.

ROOFS OF FIVE HOUSES ABLAZE AT SAME TIME

(Special to The Bulletin.))

Putnam, April 8.—An entire group of frame buildings in Lee street were threatened with destruction by fire at 11.45 Sunday morning when an alarm from Box 41 called the department out. At one time the roofs of five dwellings were ablaze. All of these incipient fires were promptly controlled and such damage as was sustained is chiefly from water.

The fire started from sparks out of a chimney on the roof of one of a pair of four tenement houses owned by Napoleon Miour. As the shingles blazed the gale prevailing swept the sparks on the adjoining Miour house and set that afire and within a few minutes the roof of three other dwellings nearby were blazing. The Miour houses were badly damaged by fire and water and the losses to the tenants is material.

At this fire William Murray of the ladder company was quite severely cut on the head by falling glass.

Eight families living in the Miour tenements were made homeless by the fire.

PUTNAM POLICE WATCHED FOR AUTO BANDITS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 8.—At the request of the Massachusetts State Constabulary, Oxford barracks, Putnam police were out the greater part of Friday night in a search for two bandits in a Willis-St. Clair automobile, whom it was stated, had passed through Oxford and were headed south toward Putnam.

The men during the afternoon had held up the paymaster of the American Optical company in Cambridge and made their getaway. As soon as Captain Delage got word from Oxford he placed his officers at all the main throughfares entering Putnam from the north and scoured the surrounding country, going as far "as Southbridge, Mass. The call came at nine o'clock and within a short time the captain had his men stationed. Officers John Ryan and Eugene Gibney were stationed near the Windham County Temporary Home; Officer Ernest Chandler at the corner of South Main and Front street; Sergeant George Leard divided the time between the corner of School and Providence streets and at Anderson's corner.

In an automobile owned and driven by Frank Whitman the captain scoured the surrounding highways going over into Massachusetts. It was after midnight before the men were called the captain staying out in the early morning hours. No result was obtained and when the hours passed it was assumed that the bandits had taken some other route.

According to officers in Oxford, half way between Worcester and Webster, when the car containing two men passed through the Massachusetts village, headed south, chase was given and continued to Webster where the trail was lost. At this point the bandits had several routes to choose from, south through this city, east to Rhode Island or west through Southbridge. Officers from all sections were on the highways but no report of a capture was made Saturday morning.

WESTMINSTER

Easter with its winter temperature and sunshine found Westminster no exception to the congregations of good size in other churches. Children and young folks were especially noticeable. Many vases of pussy willows, ferns and daffodils adorned the front of the platform and the organ. A large jardiniere of the Westminster perennial Easter lilies of large size stood at the rear on each side. Also two handsome pots of other lilies loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. Two full-blossomed pots of hyacinths loaned by Mrs. Frank S. Linnell were on the pulpit. The combined effect of all these was very pleasing and much admired. Much credit for this is due Elwood Hubbard, who provided the ferns and was largely responsible for the arrangement of the flowers. The Christian Conquest flag was in its usual place at the left of the platform and the handsome church school banner at the right. The children of the school had a few moments at the first of the morn worship. Their parts of the service consisted of the 121st Psalm in unison, a short talk by the superintendent, song by school, salutes to the Christian and to the U. S. flags, and an offering for the Near East, during which a solo was rendered by Elwood Hubbard.

Then the pastor took charge of the service, with scripture reading and the reception into church fellowship of Mrs. Byron Bingham and Miss Bonita Dusenberree. This was followed by the baptism of the four young children of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bingham, Mrs. Walter Marcotte as godmother. A pastoral prayer for the parents and children concluded this portion of the worship, which concluded with the administration of the Lord's supper, in connection with which the girl choir from the church school sang the old and much loved hymn, There is a Green Hill Far Away. At the conclusion of the service a daffodil was given each child.

The topic of last week for the home prayer hour, "The Forty Days of Christ on Earth, from His Resurrection to His Ascension," is continued, the readings being for the date April 11 as follows: St. John 21: 1-24; St. Luke 24: 44-53; I Corinthians 15: 1-58.
